BUYING IN CANADA.

The buy-in-Canada campaign is a logical result of the exchange situation and should be supported by every Canadian citizen, if not from patriotic, then from selfish reasons. But the manufacturers must do their part by seeing to it that the articles they produce are equal in value to the imported goods and that their merits are sufficiently advertised. The names of many American brands are household names because the United States' manufacturers have, by a liberal and judicious use of printer's ink, made their products famous everywhere. Canadian-made goods of the same kind should be, and doubtless are, equal in point of merit, but the better-advertised American products crowd the home article from the public memory. The Canadian manufacturer should take a leaf from the book of his American competitor. Let him make the name of his product stand for quality and value and the exchange situation will to a considerable extent at least, be adjusted. The Canadian people who buy imported goods do so because the brands are familiar to them; if the Canadian-made article is not so well know the manufacturers of this country have no one to blame but themselves.

THE GROUP SYSTEM.

As the date of the local by-election draws near the less the majority of the electors are enamored of the demonstration of the group system in politics favoured by J. J. Morrison, that is being offered by this peculiar contest. Whatever may be the result of the campaign, it has served to show that from a barometrical viewpoint an election in which the sentiment of the constituency is divided into so many different chanels is valueless. How can public opinion be effectively tested in a contest of this kind, where five different political camps are introducing so many varied views and policies and issues that the average elector is dazed and bewildered. The secretary of the U.F.O. will be in the riding himself this week. He should not lose the chance of studying his favourite theory as it works out in practical politics; he may find reasons for changing his opinion of the old two-party system which, with all its faults, did not afford an opportunity to test public sentiment on important issues—an oportunity that certainly is not being provided by the five-cornered campaign in which West Peterborough is involved, in which the issues that are vital and liable to be beclouded by appeal to this class or that class to this section or that section, and everything from prohibition to religion, is introduced.

SIR HENRY DRAYTON.

The electors of West Peterborough have had, during the present campaign, as pointed out in these columns before, a splendid opportunity to become acquainted with the great and the near great of the various political groups. On Saturday night those who were at the Grand Opera House had the unsual experience of hearing a cabinet minister make his first campaign speech. It was the initial experience of the Finance Minister on the hustings and he has not acquired the mannerisms of the platform orator, his style being reminiscent of the old days when as County Crown Attorney he used to address juries. One almost expected to see him shift the gown around his shoulders as most lawyers do on such occasions. Sir Henry does not lack eloquence or force, and undoubtedly when he is more familiar with his new role will add debating strength to the cabinet.

Incidentally, Peterborough people, thanks to the election, are having frequent opportunties to hear men men who are or have been prominent in looking after Canada's finance, for in addition to Sir Henry, the present Finance Minister, we have had Sir George Foster, and this week will have Hon. W. S. Fielding, former minister of that important department. The electors of Peterborough should know a great deal more about politics, and the chief spirits of the various parties when this campaign is over than they ever did before.

OLD HOME WEEK.

Peterborough's old boys and girls have done pretty well in the great world. Some of them are high up the ladder of success in politics, like H. H. Stevens, M.P. of Vancouver, who spoke here on Saturday night, or Hon. W. A. Buchanan, M.P., or in finance, like E. R. Wood or in business like Walter Cottingham, but wherever they are or however high they have climbed, they have never forgotten the city by the Otonabee, that is still home to them. The planning of an Old Boys' Re-union for the coming summer is something, therefore, that should be of widespread interest, not only to the citizens of Peterborough, but to the hundreds of former citizens who are scattered all over the continent. The event can be made a memorable one in the history of Peterborough if the efforts of the committee receive the whole-hearted co-operation of the people generally. Those of us who have stayed at home are proud of the city and we want to show it to the old boys and girls, show them how it has grown and prospered and flourished while they have been seeking fame and fortune and success elsewhere. We want as many as possible of them to come home together and let us have a real celebration, a genuine re-union that will show them that the old town is glad to have them and is alive encugh to indicate its gladness in an unmistakable manner. It is to be hoped that the plans for the Old Boys' Re-union will be energetically pushed—it should be a notable event.

BOYS OFF TO THE PENITENTIARY.

Nearly every day some boy in his teens, or scarcely out of them, is convicted of burglary or highway robbery in this city and bundled off to the penitentiary for three, five or ten years.

Most of these young fellows were born in the city or the Province, and are of our own stock, and it would be very much worth while if some clue could be found to the causes of their plunge into crime. The notion that there are no ascertainable causes for a thing of this kind is no longer satisfying.

Are these young fellows mentally deficient that they blunder away their lives and liberties in this stupid manner? Is it to the doctors that we must turn to have matters mended?

How many of these boy convicts had records in the children's courts? Is there anything in the view, maintained by some, that a children's court steadily enlarges the numbers with which it deals, that it becomes popular, that young culprits exult with a prjde of performance in the court records they build up—finding here a field in which they can excel?

Are the six years of war to blame, with their tales of violence overheard by the young? Are the boys who, because of their youth, "missed" the war, seeking excitement in unlawful adventure so that they shall not be denied the thrills of which their elders talk so entertainingly?

Are the movies to blame, with their rough and tumble horse-play and their dashing deeds of violence, which are like nothing that ever happens in real life? An imaginative boy induced to believe that if they want to be smart they have got to act as film persons do—tear off in the first motor car they can get their hands on ,enter any door or window they come to, pick up anything they can lift—be actors in that mad movie world which they and all others laugh at? They should not be influenced by the movie stuff they see It is only put on to make fun. But are they influenced by it?

Some say, too, that while the homes are not specially to blame—that quite honest people have sons that go to the bad—and while the schools are doing the best they can, and the movies are seen by tens of thousands of young people who suffer no injury thereby, theer is another explanation for that which is happening. They say that these youthful criminals are produced by the growth of the city and the same thing has occurred in other large cities. The theory is that, as a city grows over-large and too crowded, a percentage of boys escape the good influences which reach everyone in smaller communities—they are not living in the presence of a local public opinion. They disappear around a corner, lose their identity, join up with others like them, and profess to be terrible fellows, and to square their vanity sooner or later undertake to prove it. They get out of sight of parents, teachers, and preachers, and beyond the range of these influences. They disappear around the corner, enter a different world, where they care for nobody and nobody cares for them, and they proceed to be—the actor's instinct is strong in them—as unlike themselves as they know how.

Too many mere boys are going to the penitentiary as criminals. There are causes at work to be sought out and remedied, for it is the counsel of despair to assume that nothing can be done in such a matter.—Toronto tSar Weekly.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

And now for the "last awful week."

The loud rumble you hear is J. J. Morrison telling the farmers to "get into politics or go out of farming."

Next week it will be a case of "The shouting and the tumult cease The captains and the wings depart."

This is a queer election. When a man admits he is against the government, you have a one-in-four chance of guessing for whom he is going to vote.

If Hon. Chas. Murphy who is here on Wednesday night, happened by mistake to get into the Burnham meeting there would be a new thrill in the election excitement.

The voter's soliloquy, "Tariff or not the tariff—that is the question."

The only market quotation that G. Howard Ferguson is interested in, is the price of hides.

The members of the Ontario Legislature are to receive an increase in their sessional indemnities, so it is reported. Why? Because they want it—that seems to be the only reason.

Historic Mystery.

"This old chronicle says that the queen was attended by her mistress of the robes, her handmaiden, and her tire woman?"

"Well?"

"I comprehend the mistress of the robes, of course. The handmaiden was her manicure, but I didn't understand about the tire woman. They had no motor-cars in those days."

ANNUAL REPORT LADIES' AUXILIARY

One year ago representatives of the various churches met together, at the invitation of of Mr. G. A. Roper, general secretary of the Y.M.C.A., to reorganize the Ladies' Auxiliary in connection with the Y.M.C.A., this having been abandoned during the war years on account of the stress of war work. Mr. Roper, in addressing the meeting, pointed out that there were needs around the building which could best be attended to by the ladies.

At this opening meeting officers for the year were elected. Mrs. W. R. Breyfogle was unanimously chosen as president.

During the pear nine regular and one special meeting have been held. The work accomplished has consisted of furnishing new curtains throughout the entire building, which added much to the appearance of the place, replenishing of dormitory supplies in the way of towels, sheets, pillow cases and blankets.

On March 13th a sale of home-made cooking and an afternoon tea were held in the Y.M.C.A., from which a favorable sum was realized.

On Saturday, April 17th another sale of home-made cooking was held on the market, and this also was most successful.

On July 12th the ladies had a booth on the grounds at the north side of the Y.M.C.A. building and served weiners and buns, sandwiches, ice cream and cold drinks. The financial, results of this was most gratifying.

A special meeting was held on Oct. 7th, at which eleven ladies met together to make up the bedding supplies which had been purchased by the House committee.

The October regular meeting was an open one, notices having been put in all the churches the previous Sunday, but unfortunately not many took advantage of the invitation. We had a splendid meeting, however, an interesting programme was presented. Mrs. W. R. Morris giving us an inspiring address. Five new members were added to the roll. Refreshments were served and a social hour spent.

In reviewing the work done during this first year of re-organization, I feel that our society has been of some material, benefit to the Association. Our work may not seem large, but viewing it from some standpoints, it is of great importance. Our city has no more valuable assets than its young men, and to be of some aid in helping along a work that has for its object character building, is a work worthy of our best efforts. Our membership is not as large as we would like it to be, but hope that early in this new year many may be added to our ranks.

Respectfuly submitted.

Secretary.

Embroidery.

The art of embroidery has been practiced from time immemorial—it is said to be as old as the art of dressing. The mummy clothes of ancient Egypt show the earliest extant embroidery, and the "pomegranates of blue and purple and scarlet" of the book of Exodus [illegible] of embroidery. The art reached its height in the early Middle Ages. In Greece and Rome, laws were made to moderate its use, but without success. The most distinguished artists did not count it condescension to make the designs from which the highest ladies in the land executed their embroideries. No workers were more skilled in the art than the English.

PETERBOROUGH POLITICS

MR. CAMPBELL'S STRANGE REMEDY

Mr. J. C. Campbell, the so-called National Progressive party's candidate, in his address to the electors at the Opera House, is reported in The Examiner as bemoaning the fact that there are 200,000 acres of abandoned farms in Ontario which condition he says was caused by the high cost of living. As Mr. Campbell presumably does not mean to convey that the farmers have abandoned the farms because of the too high price they receive for their produce, he evidently means that the market value of the farm produce was not sufficiently high to enable the farmer to meet the ordinary expenses of living.

How does Mr. Campbell propose to correct this admittedly serious condition? The remedy is very simple, according to the National Progressive party's candidate's reasoning. It lies according to him, in the very simple expedient of doing away with the protection the farmer now has and allowing him to meet the unchecked importation of American farm produce.

This, too, at the time when the American farmer is demanding and is about to receive additional protection against Canadian farm products.

We all know that investigations carried out by American public bodies have disclosed the fact that very frequently United States' produce merchants have allowed whole cargoes of fruit, eggs, potatoes, meats and other perishable produce to rot or to be otherwise destroyed, rather than allow them to glut the home market and slump the home price.

Mr. Campbell's methods of assisting the farmers in West Peterborough would be to provide the dumping ground for these goods at the Canadian farmer's door.

In order to show how great a benefactor he would be to the farmer, Mr. Campbell is prepared to go still further in his generous assistance to the rural population. He would strike at once at the thriving industrial towns of this country which provide the farmer with his chief and best market, both for price and convenience. He would do this by immediately removing the measure of Protection our Canadian industries now enjoy. Thus, instead of these thriving centres of population, Mr. Campbell, the candidate of the National Progressive party, proposes to substitute for them smokeless chimneys, empty houses, crowds of unemployed workmen and large numbers of families without the means of subsistence.

And this, mark you, in the guise of assistance to the farmer!

MR. KING AND THE PEOPLE.

Mr. King, who likes to pose as a constitutional, pretends to great confidence in the people. Judging from the by-elections that have taken place within the past two years, however, the people do not reciprocate with confidence in Mr. King. Here is the record:

Stormont-Glengarry—No King candidate.

North Ontario —No King candidate.

Assinaboia—King candidate overwhelmed.

Colchester—No King candidate.

St. John—King candidate lost deposit.

Yale—King candidate badly defeated.

East Elgin—King candidate lost in 3-cornered fight.

Thus out of eight by-elections Mr. King, who professes so much anxiety for a fight, had five of his candidates snowed under and struck his flag altogether in the other three.

All of which does not support the claim that the people are just dying to put Mr. Meighen out and Mr. King in.

IMPOSSIBILITY OF MR. BURNHAM'S STAND

In a recent letter to The Examiner Mr. J. H. Burnham repeats the fable of the alleged pledge to resign his seat on the conclusion of the war, but he still does not say to whom he made that pledge or when it was given. Mr. Burnham says that if elected he will sit on the cross benches "with other independents." He will sit very much alone, for there are no "other independents" in the House. There are three parties in the House of Commons: The Government, the Liberals (the official Opposition party) and the Farmers' party, consisting of about a dozen. It may very properly be asked what good Peterborough will derive by being represented by a man who owes allegiance to no leader and who has no party. The situation would be about as sensible as if the eight millions of people in Canada were all returned to parliament. Conservatives who may be thinking of supuporting Mr. Burnham should well consider this angle of the case. A vote given to him may prove a two-edged sword.

At last Peterborough election 6,382 people voted for Mr. J. H. Burnham, Is there the slightest reason why any one of these should not in the present election support Mr. Roland Denne, the Meighen government candidate? By his present course, the former member clearly shows that he is opposed to the present government, and in fact announces his intention of sitting in solitary grandeur on the cross benches, in other words in no man's land. Mr. Denne on the other hand would sit on the government benches and would assist in the initiating and carrying out of such leigslation as will be of benefit to the farmer, the workingman, the retail merchant, the wholesaler and the manufacturer.

The National Liberal and Conservative Publicity Committee.

VICAR: (visiting fussy old parishioner after returning from his holiday.) "And has your daughters' child been baptized, Mr. Dudman?" "Well — ah —I won't say as 'e's baptized, but your young man come an' did what 'e could while you was away, sir."—London Mail.

MACKENZIE KING'S RETREAT FROM THE ISSUE

In his addhess to Peterborough electors, Mackenzie King literally ran away from the vital issue. In a carefully prepared speech, he ingeniously, but dishonestly in the political sense, evaded all pronouncements of an important nature. He hid behind the one plea that Mr. Burnham had created the only issue before the electors in this campaign by resigning as a protest against what was called an usurpation of power by the Governmnet, and he refused to discuss any other.

Mr. King read extracts from speeches made by Messrs. Meighen, Calder and Crerar in 1917, when they refused to discuss the tariff or any other issue but the war, and he naively infers from that, that the Union Government was precluded from dealing with anything else; a contention so far-fetched and childish as really not serious enough to be considered. Besides, it is a little late to enter such an objection now, even if it were a feasible one. The war has been over for two years and more. Important amendments were made to the tariff in 1919 and 1920 and no one in the House raised the contention that Parliament had neither mandate nor authority to deal with the fiscal policy. Legislation of a far-reaching and almost momentous character during these two years dealt with the question of railways in a national way. No one got up to raise the point of order that this Parliament was not competent to pass such legislation. In fact, the disagreeable necessity of discussing the tariff in a protectionist constituency suggested the necesisty of Mackenzie King and his friends getting together, since the East Elgin Elgin Liberal debacle, and thinking a way out of the difficulty and the leader's speech on Saturday was the fruition of their joint efforts.

Mr. King has classified by-elections under various heads, but he differentiates the one in West Peterborough from all others that have ever been held in the British Empire, presumably on the ground that Mr. Burnham resigned out of protest because the Union Government under its new title chose to remain in power. A by-election, no matter under what circumstances brought about, is, and has always been under British constitutional government, a proper occasion to re-government, a proper occasion to discuss the pledges, policies and platforms of the opposing parties which seek the support of the electorate. In this by-election, while the opposing platforms of the various parties are almost identical in many more or less important issues, they are absolutely opposed to each other on the one vital issue which concerns the national life, i.e., the Tariff. Hence the necessity of the electorate concentrating attention on The issue of this campaign.

WHO GAVE WOMEN OF CANADA THE FRANCHISE?

At many of the meetings of the women electors of West Peterborough, the speakers, especially when the speaker has been a lady, have spoken generally in terms of enthusiasm on the subject of women now having the vote. At a recent rally of the Liberal women of the constituency, one of the principal speakers was Mrs. Mary Carpenter of Hamilton, president of the Ontario Women's Liberal Association.

In the course of her speech she made the following important utterance:

"Woman suffrage is the most "important constitutional reform "since Confederation, but this "sceptre in our hands may be "used for good or ill. You can- "not get far in politics if you only "think, and do nothing, or are "mere echoes of men. Women "should study the principles of "each party, and then align them- "selves with that party which "stands for the principles they "would like to see in force. We "are either going to justify or "jeopardize our vote according to "the intelligence we display in us- "ing it."

And who gave the women of Canada the franchise? Who is responsible for the bringing about of this "most important constitutional reform since Confederation?

The credit belongs to the present Government; to the so-called reactionary party of Premier Meighen.

Let the women of Peterborough remember that fact. Let them cast their first vote for the candidate of the party that made it possible for them to vote at all.

THE ILLOGICAL POSITION OF MACKENZIE KING

In inferring "either lack of honesty on the part of the Liberals or subordination of principle to partisan politics," an Ottawa paper shows up Mr. King's illogical position in two sentences. Here they are. In the first place, says the paper, Mr. Burnham comes along and says in effect: "I think the present Government of Canada is being carried on by men who should hold a general election without further delay. I used to support these men, but my feeling that an election should take place is so strong that I have left them. This is my chief count against them. I offer myself to the constituency on this platform, in order to test the feeling of the public, and by my success to force a general election."

Then Mr. MacKenzie King backs up Mr. Burnham by saying in effect: "I think the Government of Canada is being carried on by men who should hold a general election without further delay. My feeling that a general election should take place is so strong that I make it my chief count against the Government, just like Mr. Burnham."

And then, of course, Mr. King seconds Mr. Burnham's nomination? Not a bit of it; he promptly puts a candidate in the field who is doing his best to defeat Mr. Burnham.

Business men and bankers all over the country are worrying themselves sick over the question of exchange between Canada and the United States, and wondering how it can be best and most quickly overcome.

And along comes Mackenzie King with his arguments about constitutional government, usurpation of authority, and so on, ad nauseam.

Is it any wonder that old-time Liberals, men who supported Sir Wilfrid Laurier through thick and thin, grind their teeth and yearn for the days of yore, when they had giants, not pigmies, as their leaders?

Again we ask how can we expect to develop alongside that great nation to the south of us, with its industrial institutions developed to the highest point and with its tremendous population providing a home market thirteen or fourteen times greater than ours, unless we take care of ourselves and protect our industries against the quantity of production and specialized industries of that country?

With free trade, as preached by Mr. Crerar, and low tariff, with free trade as the goal, as preached by Mr. King, the industries of Peterborough and of Canada would shrivel up in a night.

THESE FEATS EARN FOR SNOOKY NICKNAME OF "THE HUMANZEE"

Snooky, the Humanzee, is said to have proven a perfect right to the nickname accepted by motion picture goers everywhere by the feats he accomplishes in "An Overall Hero", a two-reel Chester Comedy which comes to the Allen Theatre to-day, and to-morrow. At the start he strings up the negro jockey, who is overheard dealing with a group of crooks, and rides the horse to victory in a thrilling race. Then he follows the villains after they have stolen the prize money, recovers the cash and holds them up at pistol point. After training a couple of younger chimpanzees in manners at a picnic and supplying a roar of laughter by undressing litle Arthur Nowell and putting the clothes on one of the monks, he rescues Arthur from a safe and in th final fade-out, he is seen driving the happy family home. Snooky is said to supply a considerable portion of the laughs of the comedy which is described as two roaring reels, accented with thrills.

"I think it is perfectly marvellous the way Tanlac has built me up. Before I began taking it I was in wretched health and only weighed 117 lbs. I now weigh 144 lbs., and my health is splendid.

I never dreamed that there was a medicine on earth that would cause me to regain my former weight and health in so short a time, but Tanlac did it and I simply can not tell you how grateful I am to this wonderful medicine.

I suffered for two years from indigestion and was in a very badly rundown condition. I had a tired, worn-out feeling nearly all of the time and rarely had any appetite.

At times I would have indigestion so badly that I could hardly breathe. I also suffered from palpitation of the heart, severe headaches and pains in my back, but thanks to Tanlac all of these terrible symptoms have left me and I now feel as well as I ever felt in my life.

Another thing, I sleep just splendid at night now and never suffer from nerovusness like I used to do. Tanlac is certainly a wonderful medicine, and I am only too delighted to recommend it to my friends." The above statement was made recently by Mrs. Ida Hamburgh, of 316 S. MEMORIAL TO FAMOUS UNIT counter attacks delivered with unprecedented violence. On the 6th November, the 2nd Battalion was engaged in the successful assault and capture of Passchendaele.

The winter of 1917-1918 found the Battalion in the vicinity of Lens, but on the first morning of the German spring drive of 1918, the 21st of March, the unit was again embroiled. A determined attack directed against the Battalion at Hill 70 was completely repulsed with heavy loss after several hours of severe fighting. Seven days later the 2nd Battalion was hurried from its rest billets southward to fill the breach created by the enemy in their attack on Arras, which had resulted in the British withdrawal from Monch Le Proux. On that day the 2nd Battalion was the only Canadian unit engaged. A period of rest and training was followed by the triumph of Amiens, in which the 2nd Battalion played a notable role, capturing in the fighting of the 8th and 9th of August, 1918, four villages and penetrating at the end of the second day further than any other Canadian infantry.

Less than three weeks later the Canadian offensive at Arras was begun and on the 30th August the 2nd Battalion marched into attack at Upton Wood, east of Cherisy. Within 48 hours of its relief the Battalion was once more thrown into the conflict at the breach of the Drocourt-Queant Line and on the 3rd September was successful in pressing the enemy across the Canal du Nord.

Resting several days the Battalion was sent forward to take part in the general engagement of the crossing of the Canal du Nord on the 27th of September and the capture of Bourlon Wood. In that battle this unit captured 13 guns. Withdrawn from the sector on the 4th October the Battalion proceeded to the Canal de La Sensee, two miles south-west of Douai. On the 17th October a successful crossing was made of this canal and, the enemy retiring, the 2nd Battalion initiated the pursuit which became general along the whole Canadian front.

Before the Battalion was relieved seven days later on the line of the Valenciennes-St. Amant railway it had pursued the enemy over 50 miles, had retaken many villages and had liberated thousands of civilians who for years had been virtual prisoners in the hands of the enemy.

The March into Germany.

The armistice found the 2nd Battalion in rest at Rieulay several miles west of Valenciennes. A few days later the 1st Canadian Division having been selected to form the Army of Occupation, the Battalion set out on a march of 130 miles to the city of Cologne. The outpost line east of Mons was crossed on the 17th of November and on the 4th December the 2nd Battalion crossed the German frontier at Poteau, a few miles south of Malmedy. This unit was the first organized body of infantry to invade Germany.

On the 13th December, 1918 the Battalion marched through the city of Cologne and crossed the Rhine. Marching southward along the eastern bank of the Rhine, the 2nd Battalion went into support to the outpost line at Lohmar, about 12 miles east of Cologne on the 17th December. Nine days later the Battalion took up the position on the Cologne Bridgehead on the high ground fronting the forests of Westphalia.

Relieved on the 10th January, 1919 the Battalion entrained the same day as Siegburg for Huy, about 20 miles west of Liege and for seevral weeks lay at Hannut.

On the 15th of March the unit left Belgium and travelled by train to Le Havre. The 2nd Battalion left France on the 21st day of March, 1919, completing its foreign service after four years and forty one days in France, Belgium and Germany.

Colors Presented.

On the 12th April at Bramshott Camp, the colors we are now depositing here were presented to the Battalion, the gift as has been said of Mr. Charles Walter Band, of New York City. Sir Edward Kempt, overseas minister of militia, presided over the ceremony, the colors being dedicated by Hon. Colonel, the Rev. Canon Scott, of Montreal.

On the 15th of April the 2nd Battalion set sail for Canada on board the Olympic and on the 21st of the month arrived in Halifax, reaching its demobilization centre at Kingston on the 23rd day of April, the fourth anniversary of its entry into the Second Battle of Ypres. Demobilization was completed seven days later. The 2nd Battalion had been in existence four years, eight months and eighteen days, of which four years, six months and twenty seven days were spent away from Canada.

Glorious Record.

The foregoing may assist you, in forming a slight impression of the career of the 2nd Battalion. In the course of its existence it has been awarded many honors, to enumerate which would be almost an impossibility. It is sufficient to say that two of Canada's Victoria Cross heroes, Major Oklii Massey Learmonth and Sergeant Leo Clark, were members of this unit.

Colors are an ever present reminder of the sworn fidelity of a soldier. It is recalled, Sir, that in the grey dawn of our modern civilization the armed legions of Rome marched to battle with the emblems of their gods carried aloft in the van. They typified the presence of the deities and steeled the Roman soldier to endure to the utmost so long as they abode with him.

Monument to Their Memories.

The Cross was the device borne by the Crusaders reminding them of the sacrinces of Calvary. It recalled their duty to Christ for the perpetuation of whose faith they had dedicated their lives. In the colors of the 2nd Battalion the faith of the Crusaders is preserved. The emblem is that of the Cross, the remembrance that as Jesus Christ travelled the Via Dolorosa to the place of sacrifice, so do the soldiers above whom the colors are unfurled devote themselves to sacrifice for God ,their King and their Country. The 2nd Battalion fought its battles in the shadow of the Cross. Throughout the years of suffering and grief the path was travelled to the utmost. We of the 2nd Battalion behold in these silken folds the incorporation of precious memories of comradeship, sanctified by sacrifice. We see a proud and glorious monument to those devoted men who, from the barren and fire-blasted hills that stand custodian over the invincible city of Ypres to the fertile, smiling plains of Santerre have consecrated the land with their blood. They are dead, yet they are not dead. The memory of their lives will never fade; the glory of their deeds will live forever. They march an eternal host, their deathless tread resounding down the ages of time, their echoes rolling through the centuries, unconfined by time or place, and so they will continue to march so long as heaven and earth endure.

BOY STILL MISSING.

Children's Aid Society Seeking News of 14-Year Old Ward.

No word of Gordon Lonsberry, the fourteen year old ward of the Children's Aid Society who disappeared from the home of George Deannard, east of Bethany, several weeks ago, has been received by Mr. G. W. Powell, agent of the Children's Aid Society, and Mr. Powell believes that some farmer must be harboring the lad. If such is the case the farmer is leaving himself open to a heavy fine. Mr. Powell will be glad to receive any information as to the boy's whereabouts.

UNDER-NOURISHED CHILDREN NUMBER 19,000, TORONTO

SCHOOLS IN WEALTHY DISTRICTS SHOW GREATEST PERCENTAGE.

(Canadian Press).

TORONTO, Jan. 31.—The report just issued by the Board of Education contains a statement by Chief Inspector Cowley to the effect that there are nineteen thousand under-nourished children attending the public schools in this city. This is based on a survey of certain schools, and developes the remarkable fact that one school, situated in one of the wealthiest districts in the city, had fifteen per cent. of its pupils in the ill-nourished class, as compared with fourteen per cent. in a downtown school, the best record of any of the schools included in the survey made by the Director of Medical Services. "This goes to show that it is not altogether the quantity of food but the quality of it that counts," said the Chief Inspector.

WEST GOES BONE DRY AT MIDNIGHT

ALL LIQUOR SHIPMENTS TO MANITOBA, SASKATCHEWAN AND ALBERTA CEASE.

(Canadian Press).

WINNIPEG, Jan. 31.—Interprovincial trading in intoxicating liquors ceases at midnight in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, and shipments which have not crossed the Provincial borders by that hour will not be delivered to the consignees. Trading in liquor has been heavy during the past few weeks. In Manitoba the forty-ounce prescription bottle passes into history to-day. Henceforth doctors are limited in their prescriptions to one hundred and twelve-ounce bottles monthly.

FRAME QUEBEC LIQUOR LAWS

GOVERNMENT CONTROL WILL BE ENFORCED BY VERY SEVERE PENALTIES.

(Canadian Press).

QUEBEC, Jan. 31.—The Provincial Cabinet has agreed on the main feature of the Liquor Control Bill which will be submitted to the Legislature this week, it is understood. In regard to the sale of liquor at retail Government shops to the consumer, there will not be a permit system such as is suggested in British Columbia, but there will be an effective black listing system in every shop. The Commission will devise such a system of checking up that it will be difficult to beat such a list. The penalties provided in the new law are so severe that only the most foolhardly will undertake to defeat some clauses. Jail sentences without option are provided for some violations, even for first offences.

It is understood that the new bill will provide a measure of protection for brewers in this province by the imposition of a tax of a thousand dollars on breweries outside of the Province which ship beer into Quebec. This would affect British brewers chiefly.

PETER WHITE HAS RESIGNED TIMBER PROBE POSITION

(Canadian Press).

TORONTO, Jan. 31. — On the ground that he could not take instructions from the Ontario Government while pretending to act for the opposition, Peter White, K.C., has ceased to act as counsel for the Liberal Conservative opposition in the timber investigation. He announced his resignation at a meeting of the Timber Probe Commission this morning, filing lengthy correspondence with Attorney-General Raney on the subject.

JANUARY CUSTOMS SHOW A DECLINE

BUT TEN MONTHS OF FISCAL YEAR HAVE AN INCREASE.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Jan. 31.—Ten months of fiscal year ending to-day show an increase of $7,381,047 in total value of customs receipts, as compared with same period a year ago. Receipts for ten months period just closed totalled -155,845,693, while last year this total was -148,464,646. For month of January alone, however, customs receipts showed a decrease of $8,087,754, as compared with January 1920. Receipts for January, 1920, totalled $18,176,426, while for the month just closed they amounted to $10,088,672.

ABUNDANT ICE CROP PLEASES THE DEALERS

This year's ice, which is at present being harvested, is the best the ice dealers have seen in years. While it was expected in the beginning of the season that the ice crop would be short, the sharp weather has created ideal conditions in the lake, and 18 inches of perfect blue ice is being taken out as fast as the dealers can haul it. The lack of snow contrary to hindering handling operations, is proving a big help and the work of stocking up the huge ice houses with the season's supply, is going ahead with unusual rapidity.

By this time last year all ice handling had been completed and the lake was frozen over with 29 1-2 inches of ice.

OBJECT TO PAYING FOR PROVINCIAL ROADS

On the motion of Reeve D. Holland, of Ennismore, the County Council passed, after considerable discussion, a resolution memorializing the Provincial Government to relieve municipalities from any assistance towards the construction of Provincial highways, believing the Province should assume 60 per cent. of the cost when the Federal Government assumes 40 per cent. By this stand, in opposition to the Provincial highway scheme, Peterborough County is linking up with other municipalitfies, one of which is Northumberland, whose council passed a similar resolution at Cobourg on Jan. 27. There were few kind words said about the Provincial road scheme at the Peterborough Council meeting. The unanimous opinion of the Reeves was that the Provincial highways were of little direct value to the farmers as a class, that they represented over 40 per cent. of the population of the Province, and were paying enough to maintain these pleasure driveways for city motorists.

MOTORS BOOM ON NEW YORK MARKET

RESUMPTION OF ACTIVITY IN DETROIT GALVANIZES STOCKS INTO ACTIVITY.

(United Press).

NEW YORK, Jan. 31. — The resumption of activity in Detroit motor factories galvanized automobile stocks into activity to-day.

These issues were the feature of early trade in the New York Stock Exchange, practically the entire department responding to the reports of the business revival. The general list was affected.

A block of Chandler was taken at 73½, up a point from Saturday's close. Studebaker opened ¼ up at 59, and almost immediately went to 59 3-8. Studebaker directors were to meet today for dividend action. This was a further urge to traders in these shares.

U.S. Steel was off 1-8 at 83 on opening sales. Baldwin Loco. opened at 90 3-8, up ½, but lost the gain within a few minutes. Mexican Pet. was off ¼ at 156. International Paper was ½ up at 61 3-4. Rails were inactive.

The opening quotations included: U.S. Steel 83, off 1-8; Sinclair 24½, unchanged; Baldwin 90 3-8, up ½; American Sugar 93½, off ¼; Studebaker 59, up ¼; Northern Pacific 87, up ½; American Can. 32 5-8, unchanged; General Motors 14 7-8, off 1-8; Reading 84, unchanged; Southern Pacific 98 7-8, up 3-8; International Paper 61 3-4, up ¼; Pan American Pet. 75, 3-8, up ¼; Mexican Pet 157 1-2, off 3-4; American Car and Foundry 123¼, off 7-8.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Foreign exchange opened to-day, with demand sterling 3.85 3-4; francs 0714; lire 0369; marks .0162; Canadian dollars .8950.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Maud E., beloved wife of the late W. F. Godfrey (93rd Battalion), died January 31, 1918. Lovingly remembered by her girlies, Winnie and Any; also sister and brothers, Alice C. S. Godfrey.

This day brings back to memory,
Of a loved one gone to rest,
And those who think of her to-day
Are those who loved her best.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Denelda I. Robinson, beloved daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Robinson, who departed this life Jan. 31, 1920:

Just a year has passed to-day
Since our darling passed away,
Yet in our memory it seems as yesterday.

Now the home seems strangely silent,
No music there to greet,
For the light that cheered all within it
Has gone out. On earth no more we shall meet.

She was a lily from heaven I'm thinking.
Each petal was love and good cheer.
I believe naught can sever two hearts that forever
Are one in God's presence right here.

LABOR IN PETERBORO BYE-ELECTION

The Labor candidate in Peterboro bye-election, Mr. Thomas McMurray, started to campaign under rather discouraging auspices. An opinion seemed to get abroad that the National Liberal and Conservative organizers required the presence of a Labor candidate to take the wage-eaners' votes away fom a stonger opposition candidate. Experience has taught the government's electioneering organization in such constituencies as Temiskaming and East Elgin, for instance, that when organized workers—Labor and United Farmers—vote together they can win over both old parties. So the National Liberal and Conservative headquarters staff in Peterboro West needed the separate movement of a Labor candidate, to keep the workers divided on polling day.

Still, there seemed to be just the possibility that an alert Labor candidate might win the confidence of a majority in the federal constituency, as Mr. Thomas Tooms, M.L.A., had done in the provincial elections of 1919. But this possibility is being effectively nullified by the appearance of Mr. W. F. O'Connor, K.C., former Commissioner on the Board of Commerce, in the election. After leaving the Board of Commerce, without having accomplished anything in the public interest, Mr. O'Connor engaged in the service of the sugar refining interests. The attempt to compel the consumers to pay above the market price for sugar is recent history.

Mr. O'Connor's relationship with the present government is generally understood. When he proceeded to Peterboro, with the possibility of getting an organization to nominate him for the bye-election, no one had any doubt about the interest of the National Liberal and Conservative party organizers in Mr. O'Connor's activities. The decision of the former commissioner and sugar refiners' counsel to support the Labor candidate is no surprise. But it is calculated finally to eclipse the prospects of Labor in the bye-election. According to the report of the first Labor meeting after nomination of the candidates, last Monday, a prominent Labor man interrupted Mr. O'Connor's speech by inviting him to "speak the truth." Mr. O'Connor proceeded "despite numerous interruptions." It is quite possible that the government began to be afraid of the Labor candidate in Peterboro. But Mr. O'Connor's appearance on the Labor platform should save the situation—for the reactionaries.

REPLY FROM W. F. O'CONNOR IN ANSWER TO OTTAWA CITIZEN

OTTAWA, Jan. 26th, 1921.

The Editor, Citizen—

If you editorial of to-day re Peterboro election affected merely myself, and were not calculated to injure the chances of election of the labour candidate, I would as usual, ignore it. I never defend myself against statements which merely affect myself. But in the interest of the candidate mentioned I have to protest that I am not now, nor have I ever been, in the service of the sugar refineries or any of them, whether as counsel or otherwise, and further that I am not now a supporter of the present government. May I insist, however, that if I were the counsel of the sugar refiners I would bear to them as honest a relation as that of the salesman who sells or the teamster who delivers their sugar, and although not in any manner connected with them I would as of right, if asked, render to them the best service of which I am capable. I say the same to all possible clients Further, as to the sugar order to which you refer, it was applied for and made some months after my resignation from the Board of Commerce, and even during my absence out of Canada. I had no knowledge of it before, nor any connection with it before or after the event. On my return to Canada on the night of the day of its issue, I was asked by one of the refiners whether I could act for them in support of the order, but I declined to act becuse my notions of propriety would not permit me to deal with a matter which so closely touched my previous action in a judicial capacity. The refiners promptly concurred in my point of view, and I have had nothing to do with any of them since. The things stated by you have been said before, and I would not bother even now to correct them on my own account. In fact I wish that they were true. Why should I bother to correct statements which, if true, would cause me to be envied? But if the counsel of the sugar interests of Canada appears upon the platform of the Labour candidate without disclosing, indeed concealing, his connection with the sugar interests, that is quite a different matter, and I submit that what you have said is calculated to do the Labour candidate serious injury, in that it detracts from the value of such arguments as I have advanced and intend to advance in support of his election.

Now, as to my politics, I am an ardent admirer and personal friend of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, but I am far from being a supporter of his Government. I would like to be able to support his government, and proper reformation of it and certain of its policies would go far towards making me a supporter The fact is that you and I alike are seeking its "reformation from without." I have some hope yet of its "reformation from within." The political history of the Citizen is the same as mine. We are both of the stuff that makes apostles—we change, and then, if we can, cause others to change, as we hope, for the better. I have been a Liberal-Conservative voter. The Citizen has been a Liberal-Conservative newspaper. Neither of us is what we once were. "What one has been he therefore, now is" is bad enough logic under any circumstances, but ludicrous when proceeding from the Citizen. It is easy to ascribe sinister motives for the change of one's politics. The Citizen has had to defend itself from like imputations. But I submit that the task of a Labour candidate, whose appeal for assistance must necessarily be limited, almost always to his brother workmen, is hard enough without being made harder by the attacks upon the character and motives of those who may feel free to go to his assistance. I am doing my best to elect Mr. McMurray in Peterboro. In my judgment he has the best opportunity of all those in the field for election, and I am sure that I express his sentiments and those of his committee, as well as my own, when I suggest that as the Citzen cannot be well advised as to the political situation in West Peterboro, it would be the wisest course, unless it desires to defeat the Labour candidate, to refrain from attacking those who may see fit to support him.

THE WEATHER

The thermometer was down to four degrees above zero last night. Considerably colder weather is due very shortly.—W.P.

WHY NO GENERAL ELECTION

Why this Government with a mandate from nobody refuses to go to the country, and what part I took in the G. T. R. deal when the proper time came, will be apparent from the following. As recorded on page 1728 Hansard, Vol. 2, 1919, Second Session, (to be seen at the Peterborough Public Library), Mr. Campbell, M.P., moved:

"12. Notwithstanding anything contained in this Bill the value of the four per cent. stock of the Grand Trunk amounting to twelve milion five hundred thousand pounds ($62,000,000) shall be submitted to arbitration."

On p. 1739 appears my vote supporting this resolution which was voted down by the Government. The arbitrators' hands were tied. It was the whole G.T.R. deal in a nutshell.

Sec. 5 of the Bill as amended, read:

"The present guaranteed stock and the new guaranteed stock, or any part theerof, may be called in or redeemed by the Government at par . . . ." Why at par?

Extract from Mr. Cahill's speech: "In the book furnished us by the Government, it is shown that for 1918 no dividends were paid on the guaranteed stock, none on the first preference, none on the second preference, none on the common stock." And yet Sec. 5 says, "at par"!

As I have repeatedly said, I notified Mr. Meighen that I would even be a candidate in support of the government if he would recognize my right to demand an appeal to the People. But that would have settled too many things. At no time have I in any way compromised my right to demand that the people be given a chance to say what they want.

There is now no Conservative party in Parliament, hence if elected I will sit on the cross-benches as an independent. This Government declines to be responsible to any party or any People. It is just a little tea-party of its own. The People just pay the taxes. That is to be their sole privilege apparently.

There are two planks in the Farmers' platform which beyond all doubt would ruin the Ontario farmer. One is the removal of the Canadian duty on foodstuffs. Foodstuffs as demanded by the American farmer are to bear a high duty going into the United States, but this platform plank would allow United States' foodstuffs to come into Canada free. This would result in the flooding of Canada with the American farmers' products, and in the further decrease of the Canadian dollar's value. This plank might have had some reason in it before the present American farmers' demand for a high tariff against the Canadian farmers' products, but to adopt it now is for Canadian agriculture to commit deliberate suicide. The other plank is that of the land tax, which may suit an almost purely agricultural country like the Middle West, but in Ontario it would at once throw all unused lands on the market and reduce the value of all used or cultivated farm lands accordingly. These two planks, with direct taxation into the bargain, will, in my opinion, utterly and immediately ruin the Ontario farmer. Come to my meeting in Victoria Hall, Wednesday evening next.

WINNERS IN THE $ DAY CONTEST

THE CORRECT NUMBER WAS 21,574.

The counting and sorting of the estimating blanks for Dollar Day has become such a mountainous undertaking that results canot be announced until two days' of hard work have finally located the prize winners. This Dollar Day was a remarkable one, inasmuch as the crowds filled the street and stores from opening till closing hours, in spite of a severely cold day, and the merchants' offerings were so attractive that the shopping passed all previous winter Dollar Day records. This was shown by the increase in the number of estimating blanks which were put in the box at the Examiner Office, which disclosed the surprising total of 21,574 when the count was completed.

In spite of the big jump in number, of over 6,000 above any previous January Dollar Days, the estimates were very close, and all the winners were within 9 of the correct figure.

Following are the names of the successful estimaters. The prizes will be paid out on and after Monday:

Lift The Burden Off the Common People

A Few Reasons Why Electors should Vote for J. C. Campbell, the Candidate of the National Progressive Party.

J. C. CAMPBELL,
Candidate of the National Progressive Party.

THE NATIONAL - PROGRESSIVE PARTY believes that the average man and woman in Canada has been carrying too big a burden in the form of concealed taxation which has been imposed upon them in many secret ways by combines and trusts which have been growing fat behind our tariff walls. It believes, also, that the time has come, when, in the interests of the common people the tariff burden should be lifted to some extent and the high cost of living reduced. In this election, all manner of efforts are being made to mislead the people so that they will be deceived on these very real issues.

Tariff Taxes Very High

Prominent men have been telling the people of West Peterborough that the average tariff in Canada is about 23%. This is a half truth that is very misleading. The fact is that the tariff is very high, as high as 35 and 40% on many of the most essential things that the people have to buy. It has been 42½% on flannels, 37½% on boots and shoes, 42 1-2% on under clothes, 42 1-2 % on mitts, hats and caps, 32 1-2 per cent. on cotton, 42 1-2 per cent on combs and brushes, pillow cases, blankets, counterpanes, and dozens of other absolutely essential articles. This is one explanation of why these articles have been costing so much.

The Reason For High Rentals

One reason why rents are so high in Peterborough is because the duty is so high on the things which are required in the building of homes. Lumber has had a duty of 32 1-2 per cent., window glass of 42 1-2 per cent., sash and doors of 32 1-2 per cent., locks, hinges, etc., of 42 1-2 per cent., brick 30 per cent., paints 37 1-2 per cent. The duty is the same on other articles too numerous to mention. In some cases these taxes have been slightly reduced by the removal of the special war tax, but they are still practically prohibitive. Do you not see, therefore, how misleading is the assertion that the averaeg tariff tax is about 22 1-2 per cent.? The average is 22 1-2 per cent simply because there are many items of which you do not buy much on which the tariff is very small. A low tariff on these items does not help you.

How The Public Is Defrauded

Not only is the tariff high, but the protected interests have found means in the past of manipulating the tariff regulations in ways which have still further protected their interests. In some cases, they have succeeded in having imported goods valued at higher than their real values. In other cases, they have changed their classifications. The common people have not known about these things but have had to pay the price through the increased costs of the goods they purchased. This is one of the main reasons of the high cost of living.

The National-Progressive Party will not needlessly injure any of our great manufacturing industries. It is determined, however, to see that there is a substantial, arr-round reduction in the tariff in the interests of the common people. In this connection it intends to see, for example, that such an important article as coal, which all the people use, and of which but comparatively little is produced in Eastern Canada, is admitted free of duty. That lumber and cement, which are so needed for the building of homes, are admitted free, and that there shall not be any tax on food stuffs. If our common people are prosperous our manufacturing interests cannot help but prosper.

The Prohibition Issue

The Liquor interests hate the National-Progressive Party because it is the only Party that has taken a clear, unequivocal, outspoken stand for temperance reform. The Farmers' Party, out of which the National-Progressive Party has grown, has always fought the liquor interests. It was the Prairie Provinces which first carried Prohibition. They carried it because the Famers' Party led the fight. Eastern Canada has followed their example. The Farmers' Party is against the inter-provincial liquor trade in Canada. In this connection the National-Progressive Party has adopted the Prohibition plank of the Farmers' platform. This plank reads as follows:

"We recommend the prohibition of the manufacture, importation and sale of intoxicating liquors in Canada."

Mr. Campbell, the candidate of the National-Progressive Party in this by-election, has pledged himself to stand on this platform. He is going to fight against the inter-provincial trade in liquor, which is now doing so much to prevent the proper enforcement of the Prohibition Act in Ontario. His is the only party which has taken a clear cut stand on this issue. The liquor interests, there is reason to believe, are hoping that the temperanec vote will be split in this election over several candidates, and that by getting behind one man they may be able to secure his election. We want the Temperance people of West Peterboro to realize the situation, and to act accordingly.

If you want to reduce the high cost of living, if you want to really weaken the strength of the combines and trusts in Canada, if you want to support the great moral issues of the day, then

VOTE FOR—

J. C. CAMPBELL

CANDIDATE FOR THE NATIONAL PROGRESSIVE PARTY.

(We invite you to attend our big Mass Meeting next Friday evening in Victoria Hall.)

CITY LEAGUE HOCKEY FOR WEDNESDAY NIGHT

TWO GOOD GAMES ON THIS WEEK'S BILL.

Play in the City Hockey League will be resumed on Wednesday night, with two important games on the bill Bankers and Hamilton's play the first game with De Laval and C. G. E. following in the second contest. The surprisingly good form shown by De Laval against the fast-going Hamilton's team gives them an even chance against the Generals and the fans are looking forward to a hard battle. A win for C.G.E. will make them winners of the first half of the schedule.

Bankers will send a strong team against Hamilton's and the Westerners annot afford to take any chances. A win over the financiers and a De Laval victory will tie Hamilton's and C. G. E.

Practically all the Intermediate and Junior O.H. A players, who have been seen in the O.H.A. games this season will be playing with the City League teams on Wednesday night.

HOCKEY GOSSIP

The Duffus Devils started fine when they won their 1st 3 games of the season. The South Central defaulted the first game and the score of the second was 9-0. The Iroquois put up a snappy game, but their efforts were no good as the Devils beat them 6-5.

WON VICE-SKIKPS' BONSPIEL.

Skipping the rink with which C. S. Browne started out, F. C. Webber won the vice-skips' bonspiel by defeating John Brightman 22 to 14 in the final game. Webber handled three of the games played by the winning rink, and is entered in the honour roll of the vice-skips for 1921.

The rinks in the final game were:

J. E. Lillico	N. R. McIlmoyle
M. Comstock	Rev. R. Pogue
T. Brightman	R. P. Best
J. Brightman, Skip—14	F. C. Webber, Skip—22

The Tankard Finals.

The Ontario Tankard Finals have been transferred from this week until net, the games being played in Toronto as usual. This postponement conflicts with the Peterborough and Owen Sound Bonspiel, and has brought protests from the Lindsay and Oshawa clubs, each of which intended to send five rinks to the Peterborough Bonspiel which opens here next week.

Peterborough has also protested to the Ontario Curling Association, but it was understood this morning that the Tankard Finals would go through as changed. The bonspiel dates were fixed early in the season so as to avoid the Tankard Finals, but the executive of the O. C. A. move their dates forward without consideration of the district bonspiels.

The Lakefield curlers have sent out invitations to their annual "At Home," which will be held on Thursday of this week.

A "DANDY" SHOW IS "RUDDIGORE"

SINGING IS OF QUITE EXCEPTIONAL MERIT—PERFORMANCE HAS A FLAVOUR ALL ITS OWN.

Speaking of "Ruddigore," which appears at the Grand to-night, Belford Forrest, dramatic critic of the Ogdensburg News, says:

The score of Ruddigore has long been recognized as one of the most delinate and charming composed by Sir Arthur Sullivan. But even so its interpretation does not call for grand opera voices. The singing of the principals in last night's cast seemed to us above the average heard in comic opera, and in some instances it was of quite exceptional merit, Alice May Carley who gave an admirable performance as "Mad Margaret," Eva Quintard who was so entertaining as "Dame Hannah" and Joseph Florian, the most imposing "Sir Roderick," all possess particularly excellent voices and know how to use them.

We were reminded again and again as we listened to the music of "Ruddigore' that Sir Arthur Sullivan began his career as a church organist. In no other opera that he composed is the effect of his early training quite so obvious and indeed the score from beginning to end gives evidence of the special care and high inspirtion with which it was composed. Gilbert's book is studded with gems. That it lacks the direct popular appeal of such librettos as "The Mikado" and "Patience" is obvious, but it has a flavor all its own that has endeared it to many Gilbert and Sullivan enthusiasts.

We had good things up our sleeve to say of the chorus and the orchestra—but it is long after midnight and since everyone in town tomorrow will know that "Ruddigore' was a dandy show—"it really doesn't matter, doesn't matter, matter, MATTER!"

"THE BOY"

The local engagement of London's merry musical comedy success, "The Boy," which opens at the Grand, on Saturday next, will be one of the first "road" engagements played by that attraction in Canada, although it has been playing London at the Adelphi Theatre, for more than two years. "The Boy," is based on Sir Arthur Wing Pinero's "The Magistrate," and follows the famous old farce with marked fidelity. The "book" is by Frederick Thompson, Lionel Monckton and Howard Talbot supplied the music.

"RUDDIGORE"

No merrier medium for laughter has ever been created than the famous comic opera, "Ruddigore." Its wit comes across the footlights in never-ending flashes, its tunes sparkle merrily in solos and choruses ,and its satire is keen and sustained throughout the merry length of its two long acts. It expresses the genius of Gilbert and Sulivan at the top-notch of their art and it is the Boston English Opera Company's greatest triumph with a record New York run behind it.

In "Ruddigore" the famous Gilbert has written a libretto and lyrics which are a continuous burlesque of melodrama. It shows up the foibles and the absurdities of that popular form of play, and its characters are exact reproductions of many personages seen in many a melodrama throughout a period of many years of stage history. Mortals and ghosts abound in its dramatis personae. The airs are seductive, making the entire opera world of enchantment. Melody, dialogue, songs, orchestral music — all these combine in "Ruddigore' to account for its great success in New York last season. It comes to the Grand Theatre to-night.

AT THE ALLEN

In "The North Wind's Malice," which comes to the Allen theatre for two days, commencing to-day, Rex Beach has written a stirring drama of the frozen north around a novel set of characters, that afford unusual acting opportunities. He also employs an allegorical figure called "The Spirit of Malice," which is very effective.

The two outstanding figures among the men are played by Joe King and Tom Santschi. Both are in love with Lois Folsom, played by Jane Thomas. When the story opens, Lois is the wife of Roger Folsom (Tom Santschi). A series of incidents create bitterness and misunderstanding and makes Roger madly jealous of Henry Carter (Joe King.) In the progress of the story, through a terrific Alaskan blizzard, Lois and her husband become separated.

The minor love interest of the story is sympathetically portrayed by Edna Murphy as Dorothy Guth, and Walter Abell as Tom Folsom ,the young brother of Roger, and a gambling ne'er-do-well. The Guth family plays an important part. There is Abe Guth, played by William H. Strauss, and Rachel, played by Vera Gordon, a Russian actress, who has done some remarkable work for the screen and on the legitimate stage. The part of the villain in "The North Wind's Malice,' is taken by Henry West. He has sold a fake mine to the Guth family and manages to get young Folsom in his power. The "Spirit of Malice" is portrayed by Dorothy Wheeler.

It is a stirring photoplay from first to last.

The "Toronto Globe" Picks Gordon as the Best Candidate

"Divide and rule."

This has ever been the system of usurpers and tyrants.

It is the method and the purpose of the Honourable Arthur Meighen and the reactionary gang behind him in their efforts to snatch a victory in this bye-election for the so-called National Liberal and Conservative Government.

It is the Meighen Machine's only hope of success.

Are you going to line up with the Meighen forces of disunion and discord?

Or are you going to line up against them?

Look at what they have already done.

In 1911 the Liberal Government left Canada contented, united, and prosperous.

Meighenism Has Been a Blight

To-day — ten years later — observe the change. Social, political, and industrial unrest, widespread discontent, class antagonism, and a condition of turmoil which every thoughtful Canadian deplores.

On the one hand—FIFTEEN YEARS OF CONSTRUCTIVE, PROGRESSIVE GOVERNMENT UNDER THE LIBERAL ADMINISTRATION THAT MADE CANADA A FLOURISHING NATION.

On the other—ten years of disruption, culminating in the chaotic situation typified by the West Peterborough bye-election.

And the PLUTOCRATS AND PROFITEERS say "Let Meighen finish his work."

W. F. O'Connor, K.C., the personal friend of the Honourable Arthur Meighen, finds the Peterborough situation "screamingly funny."

Are you going to vote for or AGAINST THE FORCES OF DISUNION AND DISCORD, the autocrats at Ottawa whose slogan here and elsewhere is "Divide and Rule"?

Remember well, that next Monday you will mark your ballot for either the Meighen autocracy or for CANADIAN DEMOCRACY IN ITS DEMAND FOR THE RETURN OF RESPONSIBLE GOVERNMENT.

When the votes are counted, will the result bring gratification to the Meighen crowd or ENCOURAGEMENT AND CHEER TO THE VAST DEMOCRATIC MAJORITY OF THIS DOMINION?

There is no doubt whatever of the overwhelming opposition throughout this Riding to the so-called National Liberal and Conservative Government.

But there is still a danger that the desire of the progressive Electors may be nullified by the divisions caused by Meighenism.

G.N.Gordon, the Dominant Figure

Hon. T. A. Crerar, in his address at Edmonton, pointed out that the FORCES OF REACTION ALWAYS STOOD TOGETHER, while the forces of progress have broken their effectiveness by differences among themselves.

"If we are to achieve," he said, "we must not work like a four-horse team, with no two pulling together."

"Had Mr. Crerar an eye on West Peterborough when he used this illustration of how not to achieve?" the TORONTO GLOBE asks.

"He describes the situation there exactly as it is. The forces of reaction stand together behind the candidate of the Meighen Government. Arrayed against the Government are four candidates, ALL OF WHOM ARE OPPOSED TO THE USURPATION OF POWER BY THE PRESENT MINISTRY, and are desirous of a reference to the Electorate of the Dominion as to whether or not the Government has the confidence of the people."

The Globe advises the opponents of the Meighen Government TO CONCENTRATE THEIR VOTES ON THE CANDIDATE MOST LIKELY TO DEFEAT the Representative of the Government.

"There seems to be no doubt," to quote the Toronto Globe, "that G. N. Gordon, the Liberal Nominee, has developed much strength in Peterborough, where he has long been held in high esteem. . . . MR. GORDON IS THE ONLY OPPOSITION CANDIDATE WHO CAN HAVE ANY HOPE TO OBTAIN ALL-ROUND SUPPORT IN TOWN AND COUNTRY. HE IS THE ONE POSSIBLE WINNER IN THE FOUR-HORSE OPPOSITION TEAM."

The Electors of West Peterborough know that G. N. GORDON is the Dominant Figure among the Five Candidates.

Every Meighen Meeting proves that the Meighen crowd fear G. N. GORDON.

Meighen, Foster, Guthrie, Drayton, Stevens, Mowat—every plugger for the so-called National Liberal and Conservative Government, down to the obscure street-corner scouts—know that

G. N. GORDON IS THE MAN.

But you always find the most sticks under the best apple tree in the orchard.

VOTE FOR G. N. GORDON AND THE DEMOCRATIC AND LIBERAL PRINCIPLE OF RESPONSIBLE GOVERNMENT.

And the democracy of Canada will answer "Well Done!" to West Peterborough next Monday night.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT BY THE FIRE SIDE

Why has Ham Burnham no committee room?

No one to rush the ladies up to vote?

What is he doing?

Who is working for him?

These and other questions were brought up when one of the party suggested that Ham Burnham should be Premier.

Would it not be a Big Thing for Greater Peterborough to have Premier from our home centre?

Mr. Burnham is a big man and has qualifications wor th considering.

As such I pass it on to the Public and Critics of those in the field for the present bye-election.

OBITUARY

BABY DRYLAND.

The death occurred this morning, at Nicholls Hospital, of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Dryland.

REV. E. SOWARD.

Rev. Edward Soward, 521 Albert street, died at his home on Sunday morning. He has not been in good health for two years, but his condition had not become serious until two days before his death. Deceased was born in London, England, 84 years ago and came to Canada in 1874, since when he had been in several missions, his last being Kinmount, where he was stationed for twenty-three years, during which time he was Rural Dean of Haliburton district.

Since coming to Peterborough he has become identified with the congregations at both St. John's and All Saints' Church, taking charge of the services several times.

He leaves of the immediate family his wife and five children: Mrs. Train, of Orillia; Mrs. Hopkins, of Kinmount; Mrs. Lancaster, of Bobcaygeon; Mr. H. Soward, of Toronto, and Mr. V. E. Soward, of Winnipeg.

The funeral, under Masonic auspices, will take place on Tuesday at 2.30 from Mr. Soward's late residence to All Saints' Church, where service will be conducted by Rev. R. B. Grobb. Interment at Little Lake Cemetery.

MRS. JOHN S. JACKSON.

The funeral of the late Mrs. John S. Jackson took place at 2 p.m. to-day from the residence of her son, Mr. James Jackson, 308 Maitland Avenue. Rev. F. E. Malott, pastor of Trinity Church, conducted the service.

Mrs. Jackson was one of the oldest members of Trinity Church. Her maiden name was Hester Brundage. Her grandparents were U. E. Loyalists, coming from New York State into Upper Canada early in the nineteenth century. They were among the sturdy settlers who laid the foundations of this fair Province. The deceased, who was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Brundage, was born in Murray Township in 1836. A few years after her marriage to Mr. John S. Jackson, she came with her husband to Peterborough. One year later Mr. Jackson died. During the twenty-seven years of her widowhood Mrs. Jackson has been a true and loving mother to her only son. For generations the family have belonged to the Methodist Church and have taken an active part in the work of the church. From the beginning of her residence in Peterborough, Mrs. Jackson was connected with the Charlotte Street Church and its successor, Trinity Church. For a number of years she was active in the different organisations of the church, giving special attention to the work of the Sunday School. She lived a thoroughly consistent Christian life, and was highly respected by all who knew her. During the past three years she had been in failing health, but the end came suddenly on Saturday morning, when she peacefully slept away. She leaves to mourn her loss one son James, one sister Mrs. Long of Murray Township, and one brother, Mrs. I. Brundage of Etna Mills, California. The remains of the deceased were interred in Little Lake Cemetery.

HERBERT J. E. BATTEN.

There passed away on Wednesday evening, Jan. 26, at 502 George street, Herbert J. E. Batten, youngest son of the late Richard and Emma Batten, of Dummer township. Deceased was born in Dummer Sept. 24, 1876, where he resided all his life utnil about eight years ago, when he moved to Peterborough. In 1908 he was married to Hattie Mae Bertrand, of Douro. He was a member of L.O.L. No. 80.

Deceased leaves to mourn his loss his widow and one daughter, Helen, aged 5 years. Also three sisters, namely: Mrs. Andrew Carveth, Warsaw, Mrs. James Tucker, Mrs. C. J. Darling of Dummer. The brothers are William, Albert, Richard and Jacob, all of Dummer. The remains were laid to rest in Rae's cemetery, Smith township, on Friday, Jan. 28th, and was largely attended.

The service at the house was conducted by Rev. Harold Young of George street Methodist church, and Adjutant Buntin, of the Salvation Army, the latter of which Mr. Batten was a member. He was buried under the Orange Order and the brethren turned out in a goodly number and proceeded from thence to the cemetery, where an Orange burial was conducted, with the aid of Rev. Harold Young.

The flower tributes were grand there being a lovely star from L.O.L. No. 80 and from friends and relatives lovely sprays, anchors and wreaths. The pallbearers were his four brothers, William, Albert, Richard and Jacob Batten, and two of his brother-in-laws, Mr. Andrew Carveth and Mr. Wilbert Bertrand.

Home at last, thy labour's done
Safe and blest the victory's won.
Jordan's banks from pain set free,
Angels now have welcomed thee.
When earth's songs have all been sung
Labour ended, trials done,
We'll meet again, oh happy word,
And be forever with the Lord.
Depth of mercy, oh how sweet
Thus to rest at Jesus feet,
In yon world of light afar,
Safe within the gates ajar.

IMPOSSIBLE TO EXECUTE REPARATION

LEADERS OF REICHSTAG CHARACTERIZE ALLIED INDEMNITY TERMS AS "MADNESS" AND DECLARE CHAOS WOULD BE PRODUCED.

MAY SPLIT CABINET

(Canadian Associated Press.)

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—The Germans regard the reparation terms decided upon by the Supreme Allied Council in Paris last week as fantastic and impossible of execution and it is generally believed the Government cannot agree to them. The Cabinet, which received the text of the Allied note yesterday, was in session until late last night and the note was not released for publication until too late for editorial comment. —"Madness," is the term leaders of the Reichstag used in discussing the reparations conditions.

Foreign Minister Simons declared the execution of the terms would produce chaos not only in Germany, but throughout Central Europe, as bankruptcy of German would also bankrupt part of Germany's war creditors, among whom is France. Herr Guttman, of the Dresdener Bank, said, "Reparations figures are absurd and the tax levy on exports is absolutely beyond understanding. The latter will kill Germany's export business, and how does the Entente expect Germany to pay if she cannot export her products."

HAMBURG, Feb. 1.—It is not improbable that Foreign Minister Simons will reply to the reparation demands by resigning from the German Government, says the Berlin correspondent of the Fremdenblat, of this city.

PARIS, Feb. 1.—The fact that the German delegates to the Brussels conference of financial and economic experts are remaining in Paris and continuing their consultations, is taken in political quarters here to mean that Germany is willing to accept the decisions of the Allies regarding reparations as a basis for discussion, notwithstanding the comment which is coming from Berlin, giving the idea that the disposition there is to reject the plan. It is pointed out in official circles that the conference of experts will be able to accomplish a great deal in paving the way to the establishment of economic relations beneficial both to the Allies and their former enemies, although it is considered that the reparations plan for the study of which the expert conferees were originally called together, has been definitely decided upon by the Paris conference.

POWER CRISIS ARISING FROM BACKUS GRANT IS BELIEVED TO BE AVERTED

(Canadian Press).

OTTAWA, Feb. 1.—At a conference yesterday afternoon between members of the Federal, Ontario, and Manitoba Governments and officials of the Water-powers Branch of the Department of the Interior, an arrangement was agreed upon by which it is hoped all interests may be protected in the matter of the water-powers of the Winnipeg and English Rovers.

Under the arrangement a joint Board of Control, consisting of two Federal and two Ontario representatives will be created. This Board will have the power:

(1) To control the level of the Lake of the Woods between certain levels fixed by the International Joint Waterways Commission.

(2) To control the levels of Lac Seul between certain elevations fixed by the two Governments.

(3) To control the flow of the Winnipeg River between the Lake of the Woods and its junction with the English River.

(4) To control the flow of the English River between the junction with the Winnipeg River and Lac Seul.

POLICE FORM SMALL POSSE

EXPEDITIONARY FORCE ENTERS SOUTH END IN UTILITIES TRUCK—OBJECTIVE, ONE SUPPOSEDLY DEMENTED MAN.

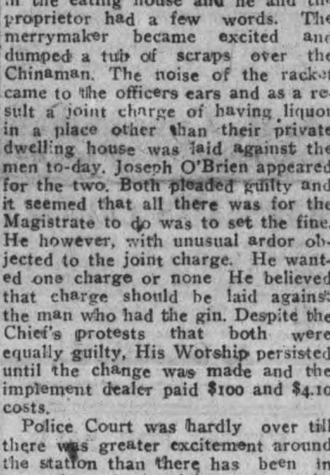
POLICE COURT NEWS

"Whatever you like. Suit yourselves." In this complacent way Richard Ball, an old Irishman 68 years of age took his sentence to two months in the County Gaol to-day. He was charged with vagrancy and the hospitable atmosphere of Castle Neshitt looked good to the white haired Irish man. He was out of work and the two months would help him over the hard period till spring he believed.

Last night a local implement dealer and several friends one of whom is a barber had a jollification in a liquid way. The party early this morning ended up in a George street Chinese restaurant. The bottle of gin the dealer had belonged to the barber. Unfortunatly for him when Sergt. Wigg, attracted by the sound of a melee, entered he found the bottle on the man. The dealer was playful in the eating house and he and the proprietor had a few words. The merrymaker became excited and dumped a tub of scraps over the Chinaman. The noise of the racket came to the officers ears and as a result a joint charge of having liquor in a place other than their private dwelling house was laid against the men to-day. Joseph O'Brien appeared for the two. Both pleaded guilty and it seemed that all there was for the Magistrate to do was to set the fine. He however, with unusual ardor objected to the joint charge. He wanted one charge or none He believed that charge should be laid against the man who had the gin. Despite the Chief's protests that both were equally guilty, His Worship persisted until the change was made and the implement dealer paid $100 and $4.10 costs.

Police Court was hardly over till there was greater excitement around the station than there has been in some days. A complaint came to the police that a crazy man was on south Stewart street entering the houses and frightening folks in that part of the city. It was an urgent call and the big truck of the Utilities Commission was commandeered by Sergt. Deannard and with several volunteers from the Utilities the man was secured and brought to the station with little difficulty.

He claimed to be a returned man and he went through sword drills bayonet drills and the whole military training in the guard room. The man was unrecognized by any of the force but his discharge papers showed that he was Private John Young of the Princes Pats' First Canadian Contingent. He was discharged on Aug. 1916 after serving in France. His home was given as 470 Weller street. The unfortunate man is completely demented and he finally after attempting to drown himself at the faucet in his cell was confined in one of th e"bird cages". The police had no trouble in "locking him up He was ordered to "fall in" and "quick march" and he in step followed Detective Cookman to the cell.



D. B. HANNA,
Chairman of the Board of Management of the Canadian National Railways, who, it was rumoured in Ottawa this afternoon, may resign as a result of the majority report of the Board of Conciliation on his famous "no politics" order.

NO ELECTION IN BRITAIN

BELIEVED LLOYD GEORGE'S WORK IN PARIS HAS PUT QUIETUS ON ANTI-COALITION TALK—OPPOSITION GAIN.

CECILS CROSS FLOOR

(By W. Orton Tewson, Staff Correspondent of the Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service).

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Premier Lloyd George's work in Paris has put the quietus on talk of an impending general election. He did there what many people believe no one else could have done. Perhaps the most significant compliment was that paid him by Lord Robert Cecil, who, asked for his opinion about the Paris settlement, replied, "Any settlement is better than none." Lord Robert Cecil and his brother Hugh will cross the House when Parliament is reconvened and will form the nucleus of a coalition opposition which, it is held, will be the beginning of the end of the coalition. But the sigh of relief which has gone up over the unanimous reparation agreement and the part played in it by Lloyd George, which was unlooked for, will spike the Cecil brother's political guns effectively for the present.

SEEMS JOHN BARLEYCORN "DIES HARD"

THREE PRAIRIE PROVINCES ARE BONE DRY TO-DAY, BUT ALREADY PETITIONS OF PROTEST AND MODERATION LEAGUES HAVE SPRUNG UP.

CELLARS ARE FULL

(Canadian Press).

WINNIPEG, Feb. 1.—Three prairie provinces are "bone dry" to-day, with interprovincial trading in liquor made illegal and with liquor procurable by the general public only in limited quantities on a doctor's prescription. No estimate is available of the value of the liquor now legally in the possession of individuals in the West, but it will total a very large amount.

Manitoba has a newly organized Moderation League, which announces a mass meeting early this month to protest against the present liquor legislation. In Alberta cities' petitions are reported in circulation, urging the Government to take steps towards the legal sale of liquor under Government control.

WHOLESALE SUGAR IN NEW YORK IS LOWEST IN ABOUT TWO YEARS

FINE GRANULATED QUOTED BY SEVERAL REFINERS AT 7 1-4 CTS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Fine granulated sugar was quoted at 7 1-4 cents a pound by several large refiners in the local market to-day. This is the lowest the wholesale price for fine granulated quoted for two years.

Borrowed $3,000,000 On Promise of Grant By Ferguson, Alleged

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Feb. 1.—It developed at the timber inquiry before Juistces Riddell and Latchford at Osgoode Hall yesterday that when Carl Hele, former private secretary to Hon. Howard Ferguson, severed his connection with the crown lands department in November, 1919, he took about 25 files, supposedly personal files of the late minister, and with them, inadvertently, as he now claims, two very important official communications

The official letters consisted of a letter from Alexander Smith, Chicago banker, to George H. Meade, president of the Spanish River Pulp and Paper Company, dated October 9, 1919, in which the writer took Hon. Mr. Ferguson's promise of additional timber limits for the Spanish River Pulp and Paper Company as an act binding an honorable government, and in which the writer agreed to assume notes to the value of $3,500,000, to be used in the construction of a mill.

The other letter was from Mr. Meade of the Spanish River Pulp and Paper Company to Hon. Mr. Ferguson, enclosing the letter from Mr. Smith and referring to an additional limit of some 5,500 square miles which they had apparently been promised.

Returned Last August.

These letters had been returned to the department in August, 1920, by Mr. Hele, who gave them to Frederick Samuels, one of the clerks, who handed them to Alan Ferguson, file clerk, but they were not placed on the files and did not come to light until discovered on January 15 last.

Asked by J. Shirley Denison, K.C., to produce all the letters still in his possession, Mr. Hele refused on the ground that they were private correspondence of Hon. Mr. Ferguson which he had taken home to destroy. Mr. Denison then read from the criminal code to the effect that any employe of his majesty's government withholding correspondence was liable to fourteen years' penal servitude. Mr. Hele said he would not produce the correspondence without first consulting Hon. Mr. Ferguson. Justice Riddell then ruled that all the letters now held must be produced at this morning's sitting of the enquiry.

Company's Contention.

H. Gibson, counsel for the pulp and paper corporation, contended that the missing letters had been covered by two other letters which he produced. One was from the Hon. Mr. Ferguson, acknowledging receipt of the letter from Meade (and Mr. Smith's letter), and stating that, as he was no longer minister of crown lands, he was not in a position to fulfil former promises, but expressing the opinion that his successors in office would do what they could to build up the industry. The other letter was from Mr. Meade acknowledging receipt of Hon. Mr. Ferguson's letter.

Albert Grigg, deputy minister of crown lands, staed he had not knowledge of the additional timber grant to be made to this corporation until the investigation disclosed it. The matter had been dealt with entirely by Mr. Ferguson.

Shevlin-Clarke Inquiry Over.

It now appears that the Shevlin-Clarke Company inquiry is closed so far as Justice Riddell and Latchford are concerned. Mr. Justice Riddell made a statement, in reply to Mr. Denison's request that the case be re-opened, in which he pointed out they had already advised criminal prosecueiton of those who seemed to have been guilty of crime, and it was for the crown and its legal advisors to determine who should be prosecuted, and for what offences.

PROBE CONTINUED TO-DAY.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Feb. 1.—The negotiations between the Ontario government and Spanish River Pulp and Paper Company, under which the Company sought to secure an assurerd supply of pulp wood, were again before the Riddell-Latchford Commission to-day. At the initial hearing of the Company's case yesterday Mr. Hele, former secretary to Hon. G. H. Ferguson, was given until to-day to produce certain papers.

Alan Ferguson was recalled and questioned why the three letters which were returned in August last to the Record Office by Mr. Hele had not been put on the official files earlier, and why he had not informed the heads of the Department of these letters.

Ferguson said he got the letters

IS SURE HE IS SITTING ATOP WORLD

HENRY FORD, IN SECLUSION, IS LAYING PLANS FOR MOST STARTLING INNOVATIONS YET —COMPANY SOUND AND PREPARED TO FIGHT.

DOES WANT CAPITAL

(By Karl A. Bickel, General News Manager of the United Press. Copyright 1921 by the United Press.)

DETROIT, Feb. 1.—Henry Ford to-day believes "he is sitting on the top of the world."

In the seclusion of his country home at Dearborn, Ford is laying plans to meet the changes in the industrial world which he believes are coming, with innovations as surprising as those by which he startled the business world eight years ago.

Henry Ford is far from bankrupt. The gigantic $200,000,000 Ford Motor Company is not in danger of being absorbed by the General Motors.

There will be more changes in the personnel of the higher executive staff of the Ford Company shortly. There will not be any representative of "Wall Street Bankers" sitting on the directorate with a veto to power over Ford's expenditures.

Ford is in the market for money, but at Henry Ford's own terms only. Six propositions have been made to him by New York and Boston financial groups. Another was made yesterday by a well known New York Bond and Investment House. Others, including a proposition from a Michigan syndicate ,are expected to made in the next few days.

One restrictive proposition, made by a famous New York house, resulted in its representative being curtly offered his hat and shown the door. Another, which provided for an issue of $100,000,000 fifteen year eight per cent. bonds, to be sold at par and to net Ford 98 3-4 was likewise rejected.

Ford is in no hurry to close a loan.

If any financiers who do not like Ford for either business reasons or for racial reasons, should attempt a "squeeze play," Ford knows he could, if necessary, stop all production at his plants and simply wait until conditions adjusted themselves to suit him.

There is no doubt that Ford's attacks upon the Jewish International Bankers have aroused intense antagonism in Jewish quarters, and have had a tendency to aggravate the situation.

But Ford is ready to meet this antagonism. He expected it.

These are the true facts in the greatest industrial financial situation ever developed in a single manufacturing enterprise. A thorough, direct investigation covering the last few weeks, reveals that other people do most of the worrying for Henry Ford.

The whirlwind of wild rumors and excited stories prevalent throughout the country have entirely passed over Henry Ford's head. He does not even know of the existence of a greater part of them. He is the most secluded man in America. The Pope in the Vatican, or Woodrow Wilson in the White House, never succeeded in surrounding himself with a more impregnable wall against all comers.

In his library at his home at Dearborne, near here, where he is seen by only a few of his most trusted advisors, he is working out the problems that he finds facing his properties.

There is but one way to reach him and that is through the office of his general sec retary, E. G. Liebold, and against this serene but unimpressionable barrier countless men who believe they have business with Ford have been struggling in vain for weeks.

Occasionally, since F. J. Klingensmith, formerly general manager of the Ford organization, left the company, Ford drops in at the Highland Park plant for a few moments. His comings are unheralded. The highest executives at the Highland Park plant do not know when to expect him or at whose offices he will appear.

Ford believes that he has ample resources to clear up all outstanding conditions without operating his plant if it is necessary. As a final expedient, if he desired, he could place a mortgage on his property.

(Canadian Press.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—The Wall Street Journal is out to-day with a sensational despatch from Detroit, declaring that Henry Ford has reached his limit. The article deals with recent announcements for new financing by Ford and the fact that there have been many resignations among the chief executives of the Ford enterprises. "The truth is,' says the Journal, "although it has never before been told, "that Henry Ford has fired them one after another." The article includes among these the $75,000 a year general manager, his chief auditor and other big officials. It is stated in the despatch that it is beyond the powers of any man to raise money and carry forward single-handed the manifold enterprises in which Ford has started.

BRITISH FILMS TO BE RELEASED HERE

(Special to The Examiner by Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service.

LONDON, Feb. 1. —Arrangements have been completed for a regular supply of British films for the Canadian market, according to Dr. John McCombe, president of the Anglo-Canadian Picture Plays, of Montreal. Dr. McCombe for the past fortnight has been negotiating with British producers, with the result that at least one good British film will be released in Canada weekly, whereby it is hoped to meet American competition.

WOULD AVERT BY-ELECTION

UNDERSTOOD SPECIAL LEGISLATION TO BE INTRODUCED TO PERMIT SIR THOMAS WHITE TO OCCUPY HIS SEAT.

OBVIATE ELECTION

(Canadian Press).

BROCKVILLE, Feb. 1. — The Recorder and Times says to-day that it understands from a reliable source that special legislation will be introduced in the House of Commons to enable Right Hon. Sir Thomas White to occupy his seat for Leeds and Brockville during the coming session, in view of his appointment to the G. T. R. Board of Arbitration, thus obviating the necessity for a by-election in that riding.

BALLOTS ARE READY FOR THE ELECTION

One of the busiest places in town these days is the Sheriff's office in the court house. Sheriff J. A. Hall is the chief returning officer and is assisted by Deputy Sheriff Fred Hall. The ballots are being prepared and are all counted and stamped. The table in the office is piled high with papers and printed matter that must be given to each returning officer. Around the room are piled the tin ballot boxes, which are being sent out to the polling stations as fast as possible. Each ballot box before it leaves on its journey is filled full of ballots, printed advice to electors, copies of the Dominion Elections Act, blank books for the voters' names, pencils, pens, pen nibs and other paraphernalia, all of which is carefully listed on a printed tag on the outside of the box, which is carefully locked. Everything must be done exactly according to the act. Many boxes have been sent out and certain polling stations are ready to take the vote now. The far-away stations like Higgins' in Cavendish and Cochrane's in the same township, thirty and forty miles from the city, have been arranged for first.

Only 18,000 ballots have been printed, and the chief returning officer was doubtful to-day if there would be enough to go around as some of the ballots have been improperly printed and may have to be destroyed.

WITHDRAWAL HANNA ORDER RECOMMENDED

MAJORITY REPORT OF BOARD OF CONCILIATION PRESENTED TO MINISTER OF LABOR.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Feb. 1. — The majority report of the Board of Conciliation which investigated the dispute between the employees and the management of the Canadian National Railways, now in the hands of the Minister of Labor, recommends the withdrawal of the "Hanna order" which was the cause of the dispute.

The report is signed by J. M. Godfrey, chairman, and D. Campbell, representative of the men.

F. H. McGuigan, representative of the employers, submits a minority report which is not yet available.

MACHINE GUN BRIGADE BAND

NEW ORGANIZATION WAS FOUNDED LAST NIGHT—W. H. PERYER BANDMASTER.

A new band was formed in the city last night to be known as the "4th Machine Gun Brigade Band". The band is comprised mostly of Veterans and the new organization will allow a larger scope than was possible when it was the G.W.V.A Band.

There are many reasons why it is a pleasure to announce the information of this new band.

First,—the Band is a Peterboro Product and we are not dependent for the hearing of it upon condition or events in other cities.

It is a Band any city might be proud of, and it will be again presented this year for the public in a series of concerts ,that are not commercial proposition but a generous offering for the love of music.

And the public, doubtless, remembering how the band made good last year, will turn out and support them this year. Mr. R. H. Peryer has been appointed bandmaster, with the rank of lieutenant in the Machine Gun Corps. Mr. Peryer is well known in Peterboro musical circles. He was Bandmaster of the local S. A. Band for eight years, during which time they had the honor of representing Canada, at the International Congress held in London, Eng., in 1914.

He had had 4 1-2 years overseas service as a bandmaster and was in charge of the 39th., 59th. and 6th Canadian Reserved Battalions.

He was chosen to go to Paris in 1916 as one of the assistant bandmasters of the Canadian Massed Bands. Now the music lovers can look forward to hear something good this year, from this new organization.

BREAD TAKES ANOTHER DROP

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 1.—Bread to-day selling at 20 cents retail for three-pound loaf, the drop from 2 cents having taken place this morning. The wholesale price has been fixed at 18 cents.

Belleville bakers have been somewhat slow in falling into line with bakers in other town and cities. While other bakers, however, raised the prices much higher when flour was at its steepest, Belleville men never exceeded 24 cents.

The drop in bread price will reduce the weekly budget in many families considerably.

SENATOR GEO. H. BRADBURY, of Selkirk, who is seriously ill in Ottawa.

STOCK MARKET DULL TO-DAY

ATTRIBUTED TO ADVANCE IN CALL MONEY YESTERDAY.

(United Press.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Trading was slow to get under way at the opening of the New York Stock Exchange today. Practically all transactions were in one hundred share lots.

Some orders attributed the dullness to yesterday's advance in call money to 8 period. In general that advance was believed a reflection of bank requirements to close the month's business. The government also was to withdraw $7,700,000 from the New York district to-day.

U. S. Steel started at 82 5-8, unchanged, Mexican Pet. was unchanged at 158 3-4, American Smelting was 3-8, off 43. Rails were dull and Equipments were slow to move at fractionly lower quotations. Reading opened at 83 3-8, off 1-4.

The opening quotations included: U. S. Steel 82 5-8, unchanged; Sinclair 24, unchanged; American Hide and Leather Pref. 43 1-2, off 1-2; Mexican Pet. 158 3-4, unchanged; American Smelting 43, off 3-8; United Retail Stores 55 5-8, off 1-8; Studebaker 57 3-8, off 3-8; General Asphalt 69 1-8, off 1-4; American Tel. 99 1-8, up 1-8; Northern Pacific 84 7-8, off 3-8; Reading 83 3-8, off 1-4; Pan. American Pet. 74 3-4, off 7-8; Baldwin 89 1-2, off 1-4.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Foreign exchange was slightly lower to-day. Sterling 3.81 1-2; Francs .0689; Lire, .0361; Marks, .0151. Canadian Dollars .8937.

GRANDMA NEVER LET HER HAIR GET GRAY

She Kept Her Locks Dark and Glossy, with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is mussy and troublesome. At little cost you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger.

DR. ALLEN would like physicians to take note that because their patients have Pyorrhoea, it is in most cases very unwise to advise extraction. A great many perfectly good teeth are being extracted these days, thus greatly injuring powers of mastication, which is necessary to good health. Pyorrhoea is quite curable. Results are very gratifying. Consultation free. Electrical apparatus used in examination. — 158 Charlotte Street, corner George Street.

A Laxative The Old Can Rely On

Let them take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin for Constipation. Mild and gentle. Never loses its good effect.

ELDERLY people know how much more difficult it is each year as they get older to avoid the ill effects of chronic constipation. The stomach and bowel muscles relax as age advances, and as you are naturally less active, in time they work only by stimulation. You try dieting and exercise, and then take medicine.

All medicines, however, are not suited to elderly people any more than to children, so you will be glad to know of a particular medicine that acts as near to Nature as has yet been found. It is a prescription written thirty odd years ago by Dr. W. B. Caldwell, who is himself now in the 82nd year of his age and still active in his profession. It is known in the trade as Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, and you can buy it under that name at any drug store. A sixty-cent bottle will last an average family many months, and all can use it.

Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin. It acts mildly, gently and without griping. It so trains the stomach and bowel muscles that in time medicine of all kinds can be dispensed with. When people learn of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin and see how wonderfully it acts they realize how unnecessary it is to use drastic salt waters, pills and powders, for these do but temporary good and are weakening to most constitutions. Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, on the contrary, is so natural and safe, (it contains no narcotic or strong drugs), that two generations of mothers have given it to their babies.

Take a teaspoonful the next time you feel any distress of the stomach, liver or bowels, if you are constipated, have a headache, cold or fever, if you are bilious, dyspeptic, tired. If Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin should ever fail to do as claimed you can have your money refunded. More people use it than any other laxative in the world.

WHY NO GENERAL ELECTION

Why this Government with a mandate from nobody refuses to go to the country, and what part I took in the G. T. R. deal when the proper time came, will be apparent from the following. As recorded on page 1728 Hansard, Vol. 2, 1919, Second Session, (to be seen at the Peterborough Public Library), Mr. Campbell, M.P., moved:

"12. Notwithstanding anything contained in this Bill the value of the four per cent. stock of the Grand Trunk amounting to twelve milion five hundred thousand pounds ($62,000,000) shall be submitted to arbitration."

On p. 1739 appears my vote supporting this resolution which was voted down by the Government. The arbitrators' hands were tied. It was the whole G.T.R. deal in a nutshell.

Sec. 5 of the Bill as amended, read:

"The present guaranteed stock and the new guaranteed stock, or any part theerof, may be called in or redeemed by the Government at par . . . . " Why at par?

Extract from Mr. Cahill's speech: "In the book furnished us by the Government, it is shown that for 1918 no dividends were paid on the guaranteed stock, none on the first preference, none on the second preference, none on the common stock." And yet Sec. 5 says, "at par"!

As I have repeatedly said, I notified Mr. Meighen that I would even be a candidate in support of the government if he would recognize my right to demand an appeal to the People. But that would have settled too many things. At no time have I in any way compromised my right to demand that the people be given a chance to say what they want.

There is now no Conservative party in Parliament, hence if elected I will sit on the cross-benches as an independent. This Government declines to be responsible to any party or any People. It is just a little tea-party of its own. The People just pay the taxes. That is to be their sole privilege apparently.

There are two planks in the Farmers' platform which beyond all doubt would ruin the Ontario farmer. One is the removal of the Canadian duty on foodstuffs. Foodstuffs as demanded by the American farmer are to bear a high duty going into the United States, but this platform plank would allow United States' foodstuffs to come into Canada free. This would result in the flooding of Canada with the American farmers' products, and in the further decrease of the Canadian dollar's value. This plank might have had some reason in it before the present American farmers' demand for a high tariff against the Canadian farmers' products, but to adopt it now is for Canadian agriculture to commit deliberate suicide. The other plank is that of the land tax, which may suit an almost purely agricultural country like the Middle West, but in Ontario it would at once throw all unused lands on the market and reduce the value of all used or cultivated farm lands accordingly. These two planks, with direct taxation into the bargain, will, in my opinion, utterly and immediately ruin the Ontario farmer. Come to my meeting in Victoria Hall, Wednesday evening next.

NUMBER OF POLITICAL PARTIES IN BRITAIN

At no time in the long history of the Parliament of Great Britain have there been so many distinct political parties and groups in the House of Commons as exist there at present.

The parties are seven in number Coalition Unionists, Coalition Liberals, Independent Liberals, Labor National (all British), and two Irish parties Ulster and Nationalist, each having its own separate organization.

There are besides several groups formed to advance particular objects but giving a general support to the Coalition. The most able and distinguished of these groups is composed of six young members (young at least, in a Parliamentary sense) who sit together on the top bench below the gangway on the Ministerial side, and act in consort.

These are —Sir Samuel Hoare (Chelsea), associated with banking; Mr. Walter Guiness (Bury St. Edmunds), son of Lord Iveagh, of the Irish brewing firm; Mr. Aubrey Herbert (Yeovil), brother of the Earl of Carnarvon; Major Hills (Durham), a solicitor; Mr E. Wood (Ripon), son and heir of Lord Halifax; Earl Winterton (Horsham and Worthing) of the Irish peerage.

They are not Unionists, as they are in favor of giving Dominion Government to Ireland, and may be described as Independent Conservatives with strong leanings towards social and industrial reform.

MOTORCYCLES TO SPEED UP INDIA

GOVERNMENT OF JELLABAD LET CONTRACTS FOR MACADAM ROADS.

(Associated Press.)

BOMBAY, Dec. 20.—(By Mail).—Life in Afghanistan is speeding up, writes a frontier correspondent of The Times of India.

Three cartloads of motorcycles have recently arrived at Jellalabad for Prince Kasir Jan, the Director of Communications, who intends to organize a despatch rider service throughout the country.

Orders have been issued by the Amir's Government for contracts to construct macadamized roads through the country to the capital, and for the importation of automobile vehicles. Firms are also invited to establish woollen mills and sugar refineries at Kabul, the capital.

SIMPLE PHOSPHATE SUPPLIES STRENGTH AND ENERGY BUILDING ELEMENTS THAT MODERN FOODS LACK.

Just one or two little tablets of real organic phosphate dispensed in drug stores under the name of Bitro-Phosphate taken with each meal is probably just what you need to cause you to jump out of bed in the morning eager for the industrial battle of the day.

Modern foods lack sufficient phosphorus, and that is why 40 per cent. of men and women to-day are nervous, weak and run-down. Bitro-Phosphate is safe to take and McDermid and Jury or any good druggist can supply it at reasonable cost.

READY-MADE SCREW-HOLE LATEST INVENTION

A novel invention is just being announced to motor boat and marine hardware dealers by the I. D. Stine Screw Holes Co., Waterbury, Conn. The device consists of a metal screw-hole that is designed to fit any wood screw or machine screw, and this is simply driven into the material with a hammer, the special features being that it can be used in any place wheer a screw can and it therefore becomes a permanent hole. These are the first ready-made screw-holes to be put on the market, and from the opinions of mechanics who have tried them out they are due to meet with considerable sale and success. This invention is a great time-saving device. Ever since the first screw was used trouble has been encountered in the driving of either wood screws or machine screws in every kind of material. In many cases a hole must be bored, and after the screw is set a slight additional turn of the screw driver will often strip the threads, thus wasting the time of the user and demanding that the hole be plugged and the screw driven once again. These novel ready-made screw-holes eliminate all this trouble and waste.— In Motor Boating for January.

BRITISH MINERS MAKE NEW RECORD POST WAR OUTPUT

RESPOND TO GOVERNMENT'S WAGE INDUCEMENT AND ARE WELL ABOVE PRODUCTION SCHEDULE.

(Associated Press Letter.)

LONDON, Jan. 15.—Put on their mettle by the prospects of sliding scale bonuses for increased production, the coal miners of Britain have put their backs into the work, and achieved a record post-war output of 5,307,000 tons for one week. As a result their pay will be increased by about $250,000,000 in the coming year.

Five weeks were selected by the Government as a test period as part of the recent coal strike settlement. The miners were told that if they produced between 258,000,000 and 262,000,000 tons in a year of 50 weeks they would get an extra three shillings and six pence a day (normally equivalent to about 87 cents) from January 3, 1921, and that when their output reached 266,000,000 tons they would get four shillings—nominally about a dollar—a day extra.

At their latest rate, they are producing at the rate of 265,350,000 tons a year; just under the four shilling mark.

In 1913, Britain's coal output was 287,000,000 tons, but during the war this figure was reduced by over 50,000,000 tons.

Householders are being told that the increase in miners' wages will inevitably raise retail prices, because the Government relied on continued big selling prices for export coal to meet the advance in wages.

Now, however, America has come into the market and, according to the Coal Owners' Association, French, Italian and South American consumers will refuse to continue paying the high British rates.

This assertion is, however, flatly contradicted by an authority in the Laborite Daily Herald, who holds that there is no likelihood of export coal prices falling, and that apparently the consumer is about to be fleeced in order to keep up mine owners' profits.

NEWTON ROWELL TO RESIGN SEAT

PORT HOPE INTIMATES RUMORS MAY HAVE FOUNDATION.

PORT HOPE, Jan. 31. — Referring to the despatches from Ottawa intimating that Hon. N. W. Rowell is about to resign his seat in the House of Commons, the Daily Guide, which enthusiastically supported Mr. Rowell in the election of 1917, says in part: "It is well known here that Hon. Mr. Rowell is particularly sensitive about his relation to the electors of Durham. During the campaign of 1917, he emphasized his appeal for election simply for the carrying on and the duration of the war. He asked for no mandate beyond. When he declined to enter the Meighen cabinet he acted altogether with the approval of his most influential personal and political supporters in the riding.

"It is understood that since his return from Europe it has been suggested that he should accept nomination as the government candidate and take the field against the Liberal candidate, W. T. R. Preston. But the proposition failed to meet with his approval.

"The Guide believes Mr. Rowell's withdrawal from political life is only temporary, as is also his estrangement from certain sections of the Liberal party. The country cannot afford to allow Mr. Rowell to retire from public life."

JAPAN LEADS WORLD IN PROPORTION OF DIVORCES

(Associated Press.)

TOKIO, Jan. 31.—The assertion is made here that Japan leads the world in proportion of divorces to marriages. Unofficial reports state that the number of divorces in 1918 were 56,741, as against 503,236 marriages, a ratio of 112.8 divorces to each 1,000 marriages.

This is compared to the German rate of 21.6 per thousand, which is said to be the highest divorce rate in Europe. Unofficial figures indicate that Japan's rate of increase in population was cut about one-half in 1919 by influenza and high cost of living. The estimated yearly increase of Japan's population has generally been assumed to be about 800,000. In 1918 the customary estimated census showed an increase of about 600,000 while 1919 the increase was only 308,794.

SHORT WEIGHT FOWL

PORT HOPE GUIDE:—Customers buying fowl by the pound at the market should always weigh the same on the market scales. A lady purchased three chickens at the market this morning The weight of each one was written on paper and attached to the chicken and totalled eleven and a half pounds. The lady accepted the weight and paid $4.60

On a computing scale in one of our grocery stores the chickens were again weighed and tipped the scales at exactly 10 pounds 2 ounces. which at 40 cents per pound would be $4.05. The buyer was out 55 cents on the transaction which should be a lesson to customers to weigh their purchasers before paying.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

FEDERAL RESPONSIBILITY.

With the opinion advanced by one George Halcrow, M.P.P., leader of the Labour party in the Ontario Legislature, that the Dominion Parliament is the logical body to deal with the eight-hour day, old age pensions and unemployment insurance, there will be general agreement, and the decision of the Labour group to endeavour to have a conference called of all the provinces to place, if possible, the responsibility for the institution of these measures on the Federal government, seems to be a wise step, although it will perhaps be difficult to induce the Ontario administration to act. Especially in regard to the eight hour day question there must be a uniform adoption of this system throughout the country, for no province will be willing to accept the eight-hour day unless its rural provinces will adopt the same legislation, and the only logical way of ensuring this is to have the Dominion Parliament deal with the question. The same conditions apply to the other matters that have recently been discussed by the Labour group, and in endeavouring to have the provinces co-operate in applying to the Federal Government, the Labour party is moving on business-like lines—even if the "buck is passed" back to the provinces again.

THEN AND NOW.

The advent of the motor car has revolutionized election campaigns, as it has many other things in everyday life. Old campaigners —and not so very old, either —remember how a trip to the northern part of the riding of West Peterborough was much like a journey to Moose Factory, a matter of a couple of days usually, especially if the election was being held in the winter. Conditions are changed nowadays, thanks to the automobile. Just to illustrate the point, Mr. T. Tooms, M.P.P., was seated in the Grand Opera House at the Drayton meeting on Saturday night when he was notified that he was wanted at the telephone. The message was a rush call from Lakehurst, and Mr. Tooms was asked to hurry north and address a meeting being held in the Harvey capital in the interests of Mr. McMurray, the Labour candidate. The hour was 8.40, and in the old days it would have been impossible to carry out the request. A fast motor car solved the problem, however,and Mr. Tooms was at Lakehurst before the local meeting at which he had been an attendant, was over. Fifteen years ago such a feat would never have been thought of —the automobile has made campaigning a much easier task than it formerly was.

AN UNUSUAL ELECTION.

The unusual nature of the by-election in which West Peterborough is engaged is illustrated by the fact that the Government has seen fit to send the Minister of Agriculture on a stumping tour of the rural sections of the riding and that Hon. Mackenzie King, the Liberal leader, is also billed to visit some of the outposts. It is rarely indeed that cabinet ministers or Dominion leaders have appeared at country meetings, unless, perhaps, in their own ridings, contenting themselves with a mass meeting in the principal town of the constituency. On this occasion, however, no section is being neglected by the rival forces, all of the parties, with the exception of Mr. Burnham, having held or announced meetings in every part of the riding. The list of speakers would fill a volume of "Who's Who," and the oratorical bateries have thundered in every school house and public hall in the riding. Never has West Peterborough had such a deluge of talking; probably never again will the electors hear in one campaign such a steady outpouring of political addresses. The district will seem very quiet when it is all over.

NO GERMAN FILMS.

A Toronto moving picture theatre announces in flaring display the coming of a famous "continental" film which is to be shown next week. Theer is no hint in the advertising that the picture is a German produetion, German in thought, German in execution, German in caste. To emphasize its Teutonic origin would be taking too big a chance, so camouflage is resorted to in the hope that the people of Toronto will not detect the Hun flavour. But where are the censors? Why does the Ontario Board allow a German picture to be shown in the province that a few short years ago was sending thousands of men across the seas to protect the world against the German menace and which mourns the death of many of her best and bravest sons? We are dependent almost entirely upon the United States for our films and some of them are not to our liking it will be admitted, but at least they were made by people who were our allies in the war Why is it necessary to import pictures from Germany, pictures that are being supported financially by the German government and with which the world is to be flooded if the various nations with whom Germany was only yesterday at war are soft-hearted enough to accept them. This celebrated "continental" film may be a wonderful picture; it may be a second "Birth of a Nation"; it may surpass thn film triumphs of Griffith ,or any of the great American directors, but granting all that, the people of Ontario surely do not want to see a film made by men who a short time ago were perhaps releasing a cloud of poison gas against the Canadian soldiers at Ypres. If the Ontario Board of Censors is not going to protect us from the threatened invasion of the province by German made films we will have to protect ourselves by remaining away from the theatres which show them.

A COURSE IN POLITICS.

Principal Currie's proposal of a university course in politics is what might be expected from the new head of McGill. He is a practical man of the world, and one whom the great war has caused to think deeply on its causes, remote and near.

In the universities, students are trained in history, general, constitutional, political, social and economic. But the courses, except in constitutional history, are commonly too general for much time to be spent on the purely political part, though someone has defined history as "past politics"; and as for the philosophy or science of politics, that gets no attention at all except in the few institutions where courses in Government are given.

Theer are three phases of Politics which should be covered in a course on the subject. First, political theory, almost a branch of Philosophy as Aristotle made it; the history of political theories should be taken up. And the wise professor will not occupy himself mainly with ancient and semi-ancient books, Aritotle, Plato, More, Hobbes, Godwin, etc., but spend the most of the time on the theories of the last 50 years. The weakness of university study is to burrow in the roots of a subject without sufficient attention to its modern developments.

Next comes the history of actual politics, especially of parliametnary evolution and party strife in the various countries. A broad view of tendencies should be developed, and a great mass of detail faced and mastered. Finally would come a searching review of Canadian politics, especially since Confederation. A great deal of insincerity and buncomb that has crusted over a clear view of our national problems would be swept away from students' minds by a detailed, rigorous, relentless sifting of Canadian politics from the rise of Sir John Macdonald down to the demise of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Hansard could be put to use, newspaper files would come alive again, and often to judgment, truth for truth's sake, would be sought and established. At the close of such a course a graduating student would have some real knowledge, not only of our political past, but of Canada's present and future needs and how perhaps to meet them.—London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A week from to-day and four candidates will have known "the cold gray dawn of the morning after."

German films in our theatres are a poor advertisement for a made-in-Canada campaign.

If there is no legal way of stopping the imoprtation of German motion pictures, Canadians have the remedy in their own hands. They do not need to go and look at them.

It is understood Mr. Burnham's invitation to the other candidates to attend his meeting to-morrow night were marked B.Y.O.P.—"Bring your own platform."

WISE AND OTHERWISE

If the proposed liquor legislation materializes the "kick in high life" as far as Ontario is concerned will be relegated to the history books.

Toronto Masons are to give Premier Drury the third degree. He will then be fortified to withstand a similar process in the Legislature when the "hide-skinning" begins.

Defining the issues in the by-election campaign is becoming almost as prevalent a form of passing the buck as the appointment of commissons to execute the duties of governments.

When Howie Ferguson gets through nailing those hides to the fence he might have them manufactured into boots. Then he could carry out his cherished scheme of giving certain members of the Legislature the boot.

"Smashes bottle; spills liquor," reads a heading in The Toronto Globe. The fact that nowadays bottles receive tender care probably accounts for this headwriter not recollecting that when a bottle is broken there is generally a little liquor split.

Voice Of The People

AN OFFICIOUS OFFICIAL?

To the Editor:

Sir,—I wish to give notice to the people of Brownton, Monaghan, that it is absolutely essential that they should make sure that their names are upon the voters' list as the registrar at Brownton seems to be uncertain, or over certain of his duties. While your name may be upon the 1919 provincial voters' list it is no guarantee that it will be upon the list of the voters for the by-election of Feb. 7th, as the registrar for Brownton is taking upon himself to cut out any names he thinks have removed from the residence of 1919, even if you are still in the west riding of Peterborough. What appeal have people who have been refused upon these grounds through such misunderstanding by the registrar and persons concerned.

If this is a technicality it should be cleared up and people of all classes should not be deprived of their franchise. Registrars should be men who understand their business.

T. TOOMS.

Peterborough,
Jan. 31st, 1921.

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—I notice in reply to my letter calling the attention of prohibitionists to the fact that only one party, namely the National Progressive Party, comes out squarely on the prohibition question. Mr. Wearing charges me with dragging in the issue of prohibition and "making the muddle in this election more complete."

Mr. Wearing should know that prohibition was not "dragged" in but was in from the start as an important plank in the platform of one of the political parties contesting this election.

The National Progressive Party are evidently not afraid to place their whole platform before the people.

In calling the attention of prohibitionists to the fact that the Progressive Party's position on this great question is in accord with the unprecedented public demand for the complete suppression of the Liquor interests, and that this party, represented by Mr. J. C. Campbell, is the only party that stands square on this issue, neither quibbling, pettifogging or side-stepping the matter. In doing this I assert that I am performing a public duty instead of "making the muddle of this election more complete."

As prohibitionists we have repeatedly asked both the old parties to take the stand on this question that the new Progressive Party have done. They failed to do so. Now that we have a party in the field pledged to the abolishment of the traffic, would it not be very inconsistent for us to fail to support them?

We should practice at polls what we preach in the pulpit. Mr. Wearing and his party may take their issue second hand from Mr. Burnham if it suits their purpose, but some, and I believe most, temperance pople will determine the issues for themselves and will refuse to permit them to be set by others and particularly by a man who has repeatedly attacked prohibition both publicly and privately and not obtain them at any old party pawn-shop.

Mr. Wearing informs us that Mr. Gordon uses liquor only for medicinal purposes. That is his own affair. I did not raise that question, but he need not be surprised that, having been known for years as the legal champion of the liquor law violators and bootleggers that many temperance people are rather chary of trusting their interests to his care and his party, has not taken a clear and definite stand on the question. Many, therefore, turn to those who have taken such a stand.

I regret that Mr. Campbell's address was not published at an earlier date, as some good temperance people unwittingly committed their support to the old parties. Of these I have no criticism to offer, but to all who hold their ballot unpledged, and especially the thousands of women who for the first time will use this sacred power, let us exercise it to help clear our country entirely from the curse of booze. I am not deceived by the beating of the political tomtoms, and in urging this course, I am not "increasing the muddle," but pointing to the clearest, purest, highest and safest course of action—a course that moral consistency demands, a course essential for the final and complete victory for which temperance people have hoped, prayed and toiled. Let us stand by the Farmers' Party as they are standing for this great principle of total prohibition.

GUN TROPHY POINTS IN WRONG DIRECTION

TRENTON, Feb. 1.—Citizens here are objecting to the position of the war trophy gun at the entrance to Governor Simcoe Park. This German piece of armament is mounted with its muzzle pointed directly towards a monument erected in memory of Canadian soldiers killed during the late war, contrary to the custom and practice of having any gun pointed away from the object it is intended to adorn, on the theory that it protects that object.

Representation to this effect has been forwarded to the Mayor, with a request that he issue the necessary instructions to have the position of this gun changed accordingly.

WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE IN WILDS OF BORNEO

PROGRESS OF MOVEMENT IMPORTED FROM THE WEST IS SLOW.

(Associated Press.)

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 1.—Women's suffrage movements have reached the Dutch East Indies, the colonies whose history and ancient savagery were chiefly known to credulous Americans through the agency of circus sideshiws, wherein the "Wild Man of Borneo" and "The Terrible Dyaks, Ferocious Head Hunting Cannibals," drew many dimes while the crowds waited for the "big tent" to open.

Head hunting and kindred savage pastimes still continue, to some extent, within the jungles of these Dutch Islands, but, according to the Dutch press, most of the natives are rapidly adopting modern theories.

In Java, the upper class native women, under leadership of Raden Adjeng Partini, a woman of high birth, are reported to be making rapid strides toward emancipation, although the Mohammedan custom of polygamy still prevails. In all the "Kartini Schools," the girls of the upper classes are being taught accidental theories of equality with the men. Dutch correspondents say the progress of the movement is necessarily slow but appears to be certain of ultimate success.

THAT SON-IN-LAW OF PA'S — By C. H. Wellington

Protection and Prosperity or Free Trade and Ruin?

LET MR. G. N. GORDON ANSWER THIS.

The Mackenzie King Candidate in West Peterborough was a delegate to the National Liberal Convention which met in Ottawa in August, 1919. That Convention adopted the following as the official tariff platform of the Liberal Party:

> "That, to these ends, wheat, wheat flour, and all products of wheat; the principal articles of food; farm implements and machinery; farm tractors; mining, flour, and sawmill machinery, and repair parts thereof; rough and partly dressed lumber; gasoline, illuminating, lubricating, and fuel oils; net twines, and fishermen's equipments; cements and fertilisers, should be free from Customs duties, as well as the raw material entering into the same."

This platform was adopted unanimously. The official report of the Convention, just made public, shows that among those voting for it was Mr. G. N. Gordon, Delegate from Peterborough.

Now, adoption of two things in this platform—removal of the duty from machinery and from the principal articles of food—would mean the certain closing down of at least three of Peterborough's largest industries, with loss of employment for upwards of two thousand of Peterborough's men and women.

Does G. N. Gordon still subscribe to that?

Does he stand to-day where he stood in August, 1919?

Mr. Gordon speaks on Mr. Fielding's platform to-morrow night.

We challenge him to say where he stands.

A LESSON FOR CANADIAN WORKERS.

According to official figures issued by the Department of Labour, 53,000 Canadians were laid out of employment between October 15th and December 31st, 1920.

During the same period, according to statistics of the Trade and Commerce Department, United States goods to the value of $200,000,000 were imported into Canada.

In other words, while Canadians were sending $200,000,000 out of Canada to buy goods made in American factories, which were paying out millions to American workmen, our own factories had to close down, and our own people had to go idle.

The moral, surely, is clear. It is that we should buy Canadian-made goods, and by so doing keep Canadian factories and Canadian labour employed.

Yet in this Peterborough bye-election we have the spectacle of a Liberal and Farmer candidate—Messrs. Gordon and Campbell—standing for policies that will make it easier to buy more American goods.

Could economic insanity go farther?

THE TARIFF AND THE HOME MARKET.

Listening to Farmer-politicians like Mr. J. C. Campbell (there is a vast difference between the Farmer-politician and the plain farmer), one would think that the tariff was designed for manufacturers alone. The truth is, however, that the tariff has builded, and is to-day maintaining, the one solid asset of Canadian agriculture—the home market.

Let us cite one example of what this market means.

In 1919 Canadian farmers sold within Canada (the home market) 226,000,000 pounds of butter at from 57 to 60 cents a pound.

Compared with this, they were able to sell for export only 17,000,000 pounds, and at a price of 47 cents.

In other words, the home market, taking account of quantity and price, was about twenty times more valuable than the export market.

Even to-day, when the ruling price for butter in Canada is between fifty and seventy cents, the British Food Control, with a purchasing agent in Montreal, is offering but 37 cents.

Hence the importance of the tariff in maintaining a home market.

Under Free-trade this home market would be destroyed. It would be destroyed because Canadian towns and cities, swept clean of industries by American and foreign competition, would be depopulated, and the purchasing power of those left behind impaired.

Let the farmers of Peterborough ponder these facts. They are perhaps less interesting and entertaining than the parrot cries of Mr. G. N. Gordon about "irresponsible Government" and the wild, unsupported assertions of Mr. J. C. Campbell, but they are certainly more vitally concerned with the farmers' and the nation's welfare.

THE ONE VITAL ISSUE.

There is but one vital issue before the Electors of Peterborough. It is the issue of Protection versus Free-trade.

The Meighen Government is not on trial. Its opponents do not attack its administration. No challenge is offered against its war record. Its integrity and capacity are not assailed. The old scandals, which besmirched too many pre-war elections, are absent from this campaign.

True, Mr. Gordon, Candidate of Mr. King, anxious to avoid a battle on the fiscal question, has descended to personalities and vague insinuations, but these, unsupported by even a shadow of evidence, can make no appeal.

Electors of Peterborough, alive to the interests of their constituency and country, cannot be diverted from the real issue by red herrings across the trail. This is not a time for pussyfooting. It is not a time for evasion. It is not a time for trickery and deceit.

The clear situation is that the old National Policy of Moderate Protection—a policy which has made Canada one of the most prosperous countries in the world—is in danger. It is in danger from the Liberal Party. It is in danger from the Farmers' Party. Messrs. Gordon and Campbell, respective Candidates of Mr. King and Mr. Crerar, deny this, deny that they would destroy the tariff, but the platform of their Parties and the declarations of their leaders belie what they say.

Let there be no mistake about it. A vote for either Gordon or Campbell is a vote against the policy that has made Canada industrially great. It is a vote to drive the Canadian dollar to a discount of fifty cents. It is a vote to drive Canadian industries on the other side of the line; a vote to deprive thousands of Canadian men and women of the means of livelihood; to deprive the Canadian farmer of his home market, and to replace our present industrial prosperity with poverty, stagnation, and ruin.

DISHONEST, OR JUST IGNORANT?

In The Examiner yesterday, Mr. J. C. Campbell, so-called National Progressive Candidate, made statements respecting the tariff which, if written with a full knowledge of the truth, ought to put him outside the pale of decent controversy. In order to do him no injustice, we will quote his exact words. He said:

> "Prominent men have been telling the people of West Peterborough that the average tariff in Canada is about 23 per cent. This is a half truth that is very misleading. The fact is that the tariff is very high—as high as 35 and 40 per cent. on many of the most essential things that the people have to buy. It has been 42½ per cent. on flannels, 37½ per cent. on boots and shoes, 42½ per cent. on underclothes, 32½ per cent. on cotton, etc., etc."

Mr. Campbell, after asserting that "this is one reason why these articles have been costing so much," goes on to say:

> "One reason why rents are so high in Peterborough is because the duty is so high on the things which are required in the building of homes. Lumber has had a duty of 32½ per cent., window glass of 42½ per cent., sash and doors of 32½ per cent., locks, hinges, etc., of 42½ per cent., brick 30 per cent., paints 37½ per cent."

Now, it would be almost impossible to crowd a greater number of misstatements into two such brief paragraphs. Mr. Campbell, either through ignorance, or something more sinister, is simply quoting from the Customs duties of 1918-19, years when, as everybody knows, there was a special war tax of 7½ per cent. That tax, of course, has been repealed; consequently the figures which Mr. Campbell cites have no relation to the present tariff at all.

Thus, instead of the duty on flannels being (as Mr. Campbell says) 42½ per cent., it is actually 30 and 35 per cent. Instead of the duty on boots and shoes being 37½ per cent., it is actually only 20, 27, and 30 per cent. Instead of the duty on cotton being 32½ per cent., it ranges from 17 to 25 per cent.

Mr. Campbell speaks of high rents being due to a duty of 32½ per cent. on lumber. Can it be that he is ignorant of the fact that rough sawn and partly dressed lumber (which is the only kind home builders would want to import) are admitted entirely free?

But that is not the worst! Mr. Campbell, after either ignorantly or deliberately seeking political capital out of a tariff which does not exist, proceeds to tell the electorate how his party will cure their ills, as follows:

> "The National Progressive Party will not needlessly injure any of our great manufacturing industries. It is determined, however, to see that there is a substantial, all-round reduction in the tariff in the interests of the common people. In this connection it intends to see, for example, that such an important article as coal, which all the people use, and of which but comparatively little is produced in Eastern Canada, is admitted free of duty."

It is difficult to believe that Mr. Campbell, who aspires to a seat in Parliament, does not know that hard coal, which is the kind of coal the poor man uses, is already duty free. Yet, as every school boy knows, such is the fact. Even bituminous (soft) coal, which is used almost exclusively by big manufacturers and railways, carries only the inconsequential duty of 35, 45, and 53 cents a ton.

Mr. Campbell, quite clearly, has a great many things to learn. We are not quite sure whether his first lesson ought to be in honesty or in prudence, but we venture to tell him this: That if he made the statements in Parliament that he made in The Examiner yesterday, he would be either hounded or laughed out of the House.

A MODERATE TARIFF.

The truth is that the present Dominion tariff, so far as it affects the necessaries of life, is a very moderate tariff. It is no more a tariff for robbery only than it is a tariff for revenue only. It is simply a tariff maintained just sufficiently high to keep Canadian factories in Canada employing Canadian capital, developing Canadian resources, and employing Canadian labour. The average of duties today, Mr. Campbell to the contrary notwithstanding, is 22.70 per cent. That is the lowest the tariff has been since 1878. It is 5 per cent. lower than the tariff which the Laurier Government maintained for fifteen years—a tariff which had the unquestioning support of Hon. T. A. Crerar, Mr. Campbell's leader.

A Much Encumbered Candidate —Advt.

A QUESTION FOR MR. CAMPBELL.

Mr. Campbell, like all demagogues, is worried about Big Business. Well, when he is on the subject of Big Business, will he kindly explain to West Peterborough farmers how it is that the United Grain Growers, Limited, of which his chief, Mr. T. A. Crerar, is president, makes such enormous profits? Will he kindly explain the following admission of Mr. Cecil Rice-Jones, manager of the United Grain Growers, Limited, made before an official committee if Parliament?

Q.—"In 1916 your profits are $855,288?"

A.—"Yes."

Q.—That is 62 per cent. on your capital?"

A.—"Yes."

Will he also kindly explain to the Peterborough farmers how it comes that on a capital of $250,000 ($100,000 subscribed in cash) the profits of Mr. Crerar's Export Company in 1915 was the enormous sum of $530,000?

RUNNING UNDER FALSE COLOURS.

The Toronto Globe, in its issue of Saturday last, exposes the fact that Mr. J. C. Campbell, so-called National Progressive candidate in West Peterborough, is not running on the official platform of his party.

The humour—or is it tragedy?—of the thing is that neither is the Mackenzie King candidate running on the platform of his party.

Both Gordon and Campbell, in their desperate efforts to attract votes, are running on improvised platforms. If they ever got to Ottawa, of course, their personal platforms would count about as much as a bubble on Niagara, but what does that matter if they can land the votes!

PRESENTATION TO REV. W. H. WHITE

RECTOR OF ST. LUKE'S CHURCH LEAVES FOR TORONTO.

Practically every member of St. Luke's Church attended the congregational meeting held last evening to say farewell to Rev. Walter H. White and Mrs. White, who left this morning to reside in Toronto.

After a brief musical programme, to which Miss Mildred Green contributed several solos, Mr. Thompson and Miss Green a duet, Mr. Hope a solo, and Miss Hope a recitation, Mr. R. B. Rogers acting as chairman, Rev. and Mrs. White were presented with a purse of gold by Mr. R. H. Parsons on behalf of the congregation, while the following address was read by Mr. Frank Adams:

To the Rev. Walter H. White, M.A.,
Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Mr. White,—On behalf of the congregation of St. Luke's Church, we desire to extend to you our regret at your departure from this parish, and our wishes for your happiness and success in the new work you are undertaking.

You came to us at a time when the Great War, still in its early stages, was bringing misery and suffering to the warring nations, and anxiety and sorrow to so many of the members of this congregation.

You faithfully undertook the duties of your office, and extended sympathy and kindly encouragement to the afflicted ones, and during the whole of your ministry here you have remained true to the work you had undertaken, and have served the congregation ably and earnestly.

We realize that sometimes you have not received the encouragement which your efforts deserved. Members may not have been zealous to do their part in the work of the parish, but these failures have not lessened your determination to be a constant guide to your people along the path leading to salvation.

We also express our regret at the loss to our parish of Mrs. White, who has so devotedly supported you in giving such valuable aid in ministering to the wants of the parish.

May you both enjoy health, strength and happiness in the larger field of work now being undertaken by you, and be assured that the affection we have for you both will continue, and we shall watch with interest the progress of our work at St. Mark's, Parkdale.

Will you kindly accept the accompanying gift as a very slight token of our appreciation of your efforts here.

Dated at Peterborough this 31st day of January, 1921.

Signed on behalf of the Congregation,

H. A. Perry,
T. H. Adams,
Church Wardens

and other members of the congregation.

Mr. White's Reply.

Mr. White made a graceful reply to the presentation, assuring St. Luke's congregation of his continued interest in all matters pertaining to the church.

GREEK ROYALTY SEEK POPULARITY WITH ALL CLASSES

QUEEN SOPHIE RECEIVES MORGANATIC WIDOW OF PRINCE ALEXANDER.

(Associated Press.)

ATHENS, Feb. 1.—Kng Constantine and all the members of the Greek royal family, now again in Athens(are leaving nothing undone to win favor with the people. On the other hand, members of a section of the upper class of society (the so-called lion hunters) are doing everything in their power to obtain admittance into the royal circle.

The Venizelists, to whatever class of society they belong, regard King Constantine as a selfish individual who would sacrifice the interests of Greece to satisfy his own ambitions.

The King's several brothers are also heartily disliked in Venizelist circles for they never miss an opportunity for making disparaging remarks about the Cretan statesman, thanks to whose astute diplomacy Greek territory was extended to its present frontiers.

Mme. Aspasia Manos, the morganatic widow of the late King Alexander, continues to attract general attention in Athens. She now lives by herself in a rather modest dwelling in the Kiphissia avenue. The Princes and Princesses who preceded King Constantine and Queen Sophie to Athens rather looked upon Mme. Manos motherly instincts, however, got the best of royal blood prejudices and she received her morganatic daughter-in-law with open arms. Alexander was Queen Sophie's favorite son.

Queen Sophie has given orders for the employment of an English first-class nurse in preparation for the birth of Mme. Manos' child.

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Jan. 31.—The name "I. Shoot," in large, easily readable letters on the plate-glass window of the jewellery store at 354 West Queen Street, holds no fear for bandits, as was evidenced at 5.30 p.m. on Saturday, when three gunmen, after rendering Mr. Shoot insensible and locking his prostrate form in the cellar, looted the place of $4,500 in cash, Victory bonds valued at $1,500, a platinum pendant worth $1,000, a number of sapphires valued at $150, and a large collection of rings set with similar stones.

The robbery was conducted in broad daylight, with hundreds of persons passing by the store at the time.

Mr. Shot was alone in the store, his wife and little girl being out on a shopping trip. It was not until about half an hour after the robbery that Mr. Shoot was alone in the store, his scious, at the foot of the cellar stairs, by his wife.

This delay somewhat hampered the police in their efforts to apprehend the gunmen, and although furnished shows, wherein the "Wild Man of they scoured the neighbourhood without results.

BRITISH LABOUR GAINS NULLIFIED BY UNEMPLOYMENT

REVIEW OF INDUSTRIAL CONDITIONS LAST YEAR—REDUCTION IN WORKING HOURS.

(Associated Press.)

LONDON, Jan. 14.—(By Mail).—British labor has gained a great advance in wages as well as a further shortening of working hours during 1920, but the new year begins with a rising tide of unemployment.

Increases in wages during 1920 have amounted to nearly £5,000,000 and affected 7,547,000 workers.

A labor correspondent of the Liverpool Post says, however, that "it is probably a modest estimate to say that the whole of these wage increases have been swept away by unemployment and underemployment. For example, the textile workers to the number of 1,053,000 received, in the earlier months of the year, advances in wages totaling £580,000 a week. The mber of mills are now running only three days a week and it is well within the mark to put the loss for underemployment at £1,000,000 a week.

"In the engineering and shipbuilding industries 1,202,000 workers received advances to the amount of £429,500 a week, but here again the wage advance has been more than lost by unemployment and underemployment. Dock workers have had the same sorry experience, and the lesson which it carries is that in competitive trades the wage-earning power can only be maintained on a output of corresponding value."

During the year 553,700 workers have obtained an aggregate reduction of 2,071,200 hours a week.

Although there have been more industrial disputes than in 1919, the number of working days lost by strikes shows a diminution. There were 1,563 disputes during the year 1920, involving 1,952,000 workers and 26,567,000 days were lost, the latter being swelled by the coal strike in October and November.

HEADACHES

Make Life Miserable

Headaches are one of the most aggravating troubles one can have, and it is hard to struggle a long with a head that aches and pains all the time.

Headaches seem to be habitual with many people; some are seldom if ever, free from them, suffering continually from the dull throbbings, the intense pains; sometimes in one part, sometimes in another, and then again over the whole head.

There is only one way to get relief from these persistent headaches and that is by going direct to the seat of the trouble, for unless the cause is removed, the headaches will still continue to exist.

The fact that Burdock Blood Bitters keep the stomach, liver and bowels toned up is proof enough to show that it will eliminate the cause of the headaches.

Mrs. Harold Lanain, Owen Sound, Ont., writes:— "My system was run down and my blood out of order. I suffered a great deal from severe pains in my head, which made me feel very miserable. After having tried other remedies I purchased a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitter, and was very glad to notice a decided improvement in my health, so I took another and am glad to say that it has done me an enormous amount of good. I have recommended it to my friends, who were in a similar condition, and they all say it is a wonderful remedy."

MISERY IN VIENNA.

(Associated rPess.)

BUDAPEST, Feb. 1.—An American Red Cross kitchen has been opened here to feed 50,000 children but the misery among adults, according to Captain Pedlow of the Red Cross, surpasses even that of Vienna.

"They hide their suffering through pride and they revolt at the idea of asking help from foreigners," Captain Pedlow said. "To help them one must conceal the charitable aspect of the work.

"I have seen much poverty, but never any thing like that of Budapest."

In Vienna, he said, American and other foreign aid had brought some relief while virtually nothing had been done by the outside world here.

An easy way to get rid of headaches and break up colds.

IF you are subject to Headaches; often have attacks of Neuralgia; or take cold very easily; you will naturally welcome information of any remedy which has been tested in hundreds of cases just like yours and has given thoroughly satisfactory results.

During the last Influenza epidemic, and the wet, slushy days of last spring, DOMINION C.B.Q. TABLETS were recommended to be taken at the first sign of cold; when one felt a Headache or Neuralgia coming on.

Those who wisely followed this advice found that one or two tablets relieved the pain, reduced the fever, and broke up the cold.

DOMINION, C. B. Q. TABLETS are a combination of Cascara, Bromide and Quinine and are sold by all druggists.

They were originated by the National Drug and Chemical Company of Canada, Limited, an assurance in itself of the purity and efficiency of the ingredients.

Home Made Bread

Home made bread is without doubt the cheapest and most healthful food that can be produced for human consumption. It is the most completely digested solid food in the world, over 90% of it being transformed into health and strength. It yields nearly twice as much nourishment as rice or potatoes, and is ten times as nourishing as an equal value of meat. No bread is more truly wholesome or more perfectly satisfactory than that baked at home in which Royal Yeast Cakes are used.

Scientists have discovered a new and truly wonderful use for Royal Yeast Cakes Physicians are prescribing it with remarkable success for conditions attributed to poor blood conditions. Soak a cake of Royal Yeast for half an hour in a cup of luke-warm water with one teaspoon sugar Then stir well and strain once or twice through muslin and drink the liquid. BETTER results will be obtained by allowing it to soak over night and drinking half an hour before breakfast. Repeat as often as desired. Send name and address for free booklet entitled "Royal Yeast for Better Health."

SAYS THAT BUSINESS HAS DISPLACED THE MINISTRY

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 1—"

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 1.—"Business has displaced the ministry, medicine, and the law as the occupational choice of a large and increasing per cent. of College graduates," said Dean Wallace Brett Donham, of the Harvard graduate school of business administration in his annual report to-day.

"While schools of theology, medicine and law have been of recognized value for many years until very recently no effective method of training from the transition from college has been devised. Yet this transition is unquestionably more difficult than a similar transition from the technical school to engineering positions," he stated.

GENEROUS CHAPS

Port Hope Guide—The lease on the Counties buildings at Cobourg has expired. Under the previous lease the Counties pay a yearly rental of $1,300 but in renewing the lease this year those generous chaps in Cobourg raised the rental to four thousand dollars. After a lengthy discussion they made a compromise for $2,000 per year.

YOUR STOMACH'S VACATION

Don't wait for old age and disease to give your stomach a rest. Normal living calls for three wholesome, nourishing meals a day. The way to give your stomach a rest is to cut out heavy, indigestible foods and eat Shredded Wheat Biscuit. It contains the sixteen chemical elements necessary to repair waste tissue and keep the body in top-notch condition.

Two Biscuits with hot milk make a warm, nourishing meal at a cost of a few cents.

"Brampton!"

As the conductor called out the name, two of the five passengers in the rear coach arose and made their way to the door.

The man who had sat lost in somber abstraction was the first to reach it. A drive of rain made him pause. Then he noticed that a young girl was close in his lead. He stepped to the depot platform and caught her arm.

"It is pouring a torrent," he said, "you will be soaked through if you do not gain shelter speedily."

A dismal lamp showed against a building half a hundred feet away. The girl did not resent the courtesy of a stranger and joined him in a dash down the platform. The depot was locked up and there was not a sign of life of habitation in its vicinity. The eaves were narrow and dripping.

"Wait here," spoke her companion and went to a window, raised it, climbed inside and unset the lock of the door and lighted a lamp.

"This way, miss," he called to the girl. "Dismal inside and out. Do you know anything about this uncivilized spot?"

"Oh, yes," replied the girl animatedly. "There are no houses here for it is only a little way station, but my home is a mile distant."

"A mile in this howling tempest!" uttered the man. "It might quite as well be ten, child! Are you chilly? There is a stove here I see. I will look around and find out if there is a coal bin or woodpile handy."

He strode down the platform and examined a box with a hinged cover. It contained kindling and coal. Then he let the cover drop with a sudden crash, for from the depot there echoed a sharp ringing cry. Through the window of the lighted room he made out the figure of the girl struggling with the uncouth figure of a man in tramplish attire.

Evan Rogers sent her despoiler whirling through the open doorway and the fellow made off promptly. Rogers hastened to the side of the girl, who, pale and perturbed, came close to him as if grateful for his protection. Then after two visits to the coal box he had a roaring fire in the stove. The reaction from exposure and the shock of her recent adventure had overcome the girl. Her rescuer walked over towards the window and peered out grimly.

It was a desolate prospect without, but in accord with his life, and Rogers was so engrossed in mentally surveying the circumstances that had brought him to this dreary spot that he almost forgot the girl.

He had come hither on a strange mission. Twenty years previous he had married Alice Hilde. He was young, improvident, reckless. Within two years he had trifled away her little fortune. There had been a final stormy scene. Her brother, cold, loveless, had reproached Rogers with his misdoings, had taken his sister to his own home and the next day had written a brief note to Rogers. It ran:

"Alice hopes never to see your face again, but if you are a man you will go to work to repay the little fortune you have misappropriated and wasted."

Dominated by her brother, the wife never sent a further word to her husband. Rogers later heard that a little child was born. He became a changed man, accepting his dismissal as just. He was too proud to sue for forgiveness, and discerned that his wife's brother amid his hatred for him had blocked the way to any reconciliation.

At the end of each year Rogers had sent to the brother of his wife a certain sum. The last payment that marked the return to his wife of every dollar he had spent, had been made only a month since. From the attorney who acted for the brother he received a brief letter telling that he was dead and suggested that he see his wife.

Was it thus guardedly that the lawyer indicated that the death of the brother removed a barrier that had through the years prevented a reconciliation? Evan Rogers mused so long that before he turned from his absorbing thoughts the storm had cleared and the girl stood at his side.

"The roads will be bad to Alden, where I presume you are going," she said, "but half the distance is my home. You will be very welcome to become our guest."

Rogers acquiesced in the arrangement. She was the guide now. A mile accomplished, she indicated a light in a house somewhat off from the road.

"It is mother's light in the window for me," she told Rogers cheerily. How kind you have been to me! how mother will appreciate your caring for me amid storm and peril! I shall tell her you are Mr.——?

"Evan Rogers."

The girl halted with a sharp gasp. She reeled so that her companion caught her arm to steady her.

"And I am Evaline Rogers," she quavered, "Oh, father! is heaven's hand in all this? The lawyer told mother you might come. And she—oh, dear father! she has so longed for you, and the light of the window is for both of us. Come."

She took his hand and led him forward toward the glowing light and into paradise regained.

A Strange X-Ray.

An English scientist has taken an X-ray picture of the hand of an Egyptian princess of the second dynasty (about 4500 B.C.). The picture was taken through the wrappings of the mummified body, showing all the bones with great clearness, and a ring on the third finger.

Queen Mary of Rumania Works Hard at Her "Job" And Is Beloved by People

"HOW to be a successful queen?" said Queen Mary of Roumania, repeating the question of an interviewer in England.

"Why, it is something of a trade to be a queen, and the chief implements of the trade are courage and courtesy. Smile when your head is aching, smile when you are ready to drop from fatigue and worry, smile when all is going wrong, smile at good news and at bad news. Always keep yourself interested in others. No matter how great may be the strain on your patience when talking or listening to a bore, make him or her think that you think the conversation is vital. Never think of your personal troubles, but those of your country. I don't even own up when I know that I don't know a thing; but I always go out and find out all about this unknown subject."

Ask anybody, peasant or politician, who rules Roumania, and he will look at you with eyes wide open in surprise and say: "Why, the Queen, of course."

Queen Mary is the scene shifter.

MRS. SANFORD'S MESSAGE TO WORKING WOMEN

Laurel, Miss. — "Eight years ago I was suffering with pains and weakness caused by a female trouble. I had headaches, chills and fevers, and was unable to do my work part of the time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me and I took twelve bottles of it, and my health has been good ever since. I am able to run the machine and do dressmaking besides my housework. You are at liberty to publish my letter if it will help some poor suffering woman." —Mrs. J. C. SANFORD, 1237 Second Ave., Laurel, Miss.

Thousands of women drag along from day to day in just such a miserable condition as was Mrs. Sanford, or suffering from displacements, irregularities, inflammation, ulceration, backache, sideache, headache, nervousness, or "the blues."

Such women should profit by Mrs. Sanford's experience and try this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and find relief from their sufferings as she did.

For special suggestions in regard to your ailment write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of their long experience is at your service.

the silken hand, the power behind the throne of King Ferdinand every minute. Since she went to Roumania from England, nearly twenty-five years ago, she has been learning this trade of being Queen, and now she has been at it for more than five years, in place of Carmen Sylvia, and she has made it her business to know her country and her people.

QUEEN MARIE.

She aspires to be queen in every sense, and she is quite as willing to take the duties of the job as its pleasures. As for its pleasures, she gets all the fun she can, to enhance her beauty, which is famous.

"If a queen goes around shabby and red-nosed it makes a great deal of difference, I think," she said. "It is not expected of us and so why should I do it? I felt rather mortified when in Paris just after the armistice and I had to attend receptions frequented by all the beauties of the world, and was not able to wear some of my splendid jewels, which had been sent to Moscow. Just to think that I had four or five crowns, some of them inherited from my Russian mother, and not a one to wear in Paris!"

That the Queen is quite willing to shoulder the duties of queendom is testified to by thousands of men and women who met her during the German occupation of Roumania. As a Red Cross nurse she was visiting the hospital of the incurables at Jassy. When she and the surgeon reached the door of the hopeless. "There's no need of going in there, it is too dangerous," said the surgeon. "They are dying—it is my duty," answered the Queen. Just after she entered the Queen heard a dying soldier calling for his wife. Without a word the Queen walked over to the bed of the typhus victim, saying, "Here I am," and knelt down and embraced the man, who died in her arms, happy.

The Queen is a practical queen. In the same city of Jassy, this fact was discovered and when the mayor wanted to get the snow cleared on the streets he timidly applied to the Queen for help. "Why, bless you, of coure I will help," said the Queen, and she led the gang of snow shovelers. After this whenever medicines and instruments were needed in the hospitals, or extra nurses, the Queen was called upon.

Once there was a bread famine. The Queen got her own private motor cars scouring the country for flour and then she organized the bakeries of the city. She did the same when there was a wood and coal famine. "As a child I was taught to live for others," said the Queen in one part of the conversation with a newspaper correspondent. "So whatever I do I do naturally, without effort. As a little girl I was told that this was part of the trade."

"Should the Queen get a touch of internationalism and go on strike some day, that would be a hard day for Roumania," said laughingly one of her admirers, a man regarded as the keenest-minded lawyer, financier and politician in the country.

DEATH SUMMONS

MRS. C. D. MASSEY

Wife of Well-Known Philanthropist Dies in California.

TORONTO, Feb. 1.— Word was received in Toronto Sunday of the death at Pasadena, California, on Saturday, of Mrs Massey, wife of Mr. Chester D. Massey, Honorary President of the Massey-Harris Company. Deceased, who was Miss Margaret Phelps, of Gloversville, N.Y., was married to Mr. Massey in January, 1907. She was a woman of keen intelligence, true culture and broad Christian charity. Like her distinguished husband, she was deeply interested in the welfare of the Methodist church. The late Mrs. Massey was identified with a number of societies and was prominent in the work of the Methodist church in the city. The news of her death will come as a shock to her large number of friends and acquaintances throughout Canada and the United States.

Beware of Tender Gums

Unhealthy soil kills the best of wheat. Unhealthy gums kill the best of teeth. To keep the teeth sound, keep the gums well. Watch for tender and bleeding gums. This is a symptom of Pyorrhea, which afflicts four out of five people over forty.

Pyorrhea menaces the body as well as the teeth. Not only do the gums recede and cause the teeth to decay, loosen and fall out, but the infecting Pyorrhea germs lower the body's vitality and cause many serious ills.

To avoid Pyorrhea, visit your dentist frequently for tooth and gum inspection. And use Forhan's For the Gums.

Forhan's For the Gums will prevent Pyorrhea—or check its progress, if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's will keep the gums firm and healthy, the teeth white and clean. Start using it today. If gum-shrinkage has set in, use Forhan's according to directions, and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

REEVE NICHOLLS IS PRESIDENT OF COUNTY ROADS COMMITTEE

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES ADOPTED AT CONCLUDING SESSION—USUAL PREPARATIONS FOR THE YEAR'S WORK ON ROADS AND BRIDGES.

GRANTS TO SOCIETIES

In the concluding work of the County Council the following reports of committees were adopted:

Roads and Bridges.

The report of the Committee on Roads and Bridges was adopted as follows:

That the reeves of the municipalities be respectively commissioners for the expenditure of any county monies appropriated for roads and bridges in their respective municipalities and that where money is voted towards a bridge or road on the boundary between Municipalities the reeves there of shall act in conjunction with each other.

That such commissioners shall be empowered to make such repairs from time to time as they shall deem necessary upon bridges or approaches in their respective municipalities, and that the treasurer pay therefore upon the certificate if such commissioners, but where such repairs are likely to exceed $100.00, the commissioner shall first obtain the approval of the reeve of an adjoining municipality.

ADANAC MALE QUARTETTE

(By JEANETTE)

The many of Peterbors music lovers who have in the past listened to the Adanac Male Quartette do not need to be reminded of the excellence of the four vocalists who compose it, and their record here was only augmented by one more triumph in the concert given by them last night in George Street Methodist Church, before a large and very appreciative audience.

Mr. Ruthven McDonald, basso Mr. Morley Sherris, baritone, Mr. J. Riley Hallman, first tenor and Mr. Albert Downing, second tenor, compose the quartette, with an exceptionally able and sympathetic accompanist in Mr. Ernest R Bowles.,

The first number, rendered by the quartette, was "Scots wha hae wi' Wallace Bled," and an encore of "Annie Laurie" with variations, two beautiful renditions of these old and beloved Scotch songs, the four performers wearing full Scotch regalia Mr. Sherris then gave "The Kiltie's March", a stirring number with rapid tempo which emphasized the martial swing and brought out to the best advantage this fine musician's splendid voice, with its forceful low notes and fineness of timbre in the higher registers. An encore to this number was "Lassie o' Mine," a tender Scotch ballad, and, while the first number rang with the skirl of the pipes, the second brought an atmosphere of purple twilight on the rolling, scented heath.

Mr. Hallman followed with "Mary of Argyle", his richly sweet tenor clothing this lovely old song with feeling and tenderness while the encore "There is no death," was delivered with resonant vigour.

Mr. Ruthven McDonald, who enjoys a widespread popularity in Peterboro, gave, (by request) the musical monologue "The old Sweetheart of Mine," and "The Darky Sermon," Messrs. Sherris and Hallman sang a humorous duet, entitled "Tenor and Baritone," and as an encore, an effectively blended arrangement of "Somewhere a Voice is Calling."

The quartette was heard to great advantage in "Lead Kindly Light" and "Steal Away to Jesus" with its softly beautiful reiterated refrain, the swelling volume of the concerted voices combined with a religious feel-feeling giving these two numbers a telling effect.

Mr. Downing, who has rather an extraordinary voice, with its clear powerful ringing tones and soft minor cadences, gave "There's a Land", in fine style, and, as an encore an expressive rendering of "Annabel Lee", the quartette followed with "The March of the Guards," the bass viol, the flute the French horn and the cello-like qualities of their several voices ringing out strong and free in the beginning and diminishing to a mere echo as the "Guards" filed by. "Kentucky Babe" was a darky lullaby with a humming refrain, executed in perfect time.

Mr Ruthven McDonald, (may his shadow never grow less) with his finished technique and richly powerful voice, sang "Arise, ye Subterranean Winds," a number which portrayed his masterly vocal abilities, to the best advantage, followed (by request) with "The Song of the Bow' and, in response to more repeated demands, with the rollicking "Irish Names."

The quartette closed the programme with a beautiful rendition of Tosti's "Good ye" and the National Anthem.

Mastery of technique, an evident atmosphere of good fellowship and generous response to appreciation, combine with beauty of tones to make this quartette a musical treat, and they have a sterling quality which endears them to the hearts of their audiences and which is often conspicuously absent in musical offerings: They know when to stop. One leaves them, not with the wish that they had sung half-a-dozen numbers less, but with a desire to have heard just one or two more.

RECLAIM POTASH FROM THE DESERT

INTERESTING LETTER FROM MR. R. H. STRICKLAND DISCLOSING THE WEALTH OF GREAT SALT LAKE DISTRICT.

The following letter from Mr. Roland Hugh Strickland at Salt Lake City, Utah, U.S.A.—a graduate of the R.M.C., Kingston—to his father, Mr. R. C. Strickland, Haultain, Ontario, will be found of interest:

"For the last two months I have have had a party of engineers from the east examining a project in which it is proposed to expend a million dollars. I am superintendent of the work, representing a company who own the property, and they in turn represent three large companies of capitalists in the east, one of which is the Armour Packing Co., of Chicago. The work is being done under great difficulty at this time of the year, and it has kept me guessing to keep the examination going, our activities being in the middle of the great American desert, which at this season is at its worst for transportation, storms and blizzards and every conceivable obstacle that nature can put in the way of accomplishment. This work is somewhat out of the line and type of mining that I have been doing for a number of years, yet most intensely interesting. The project is to extract potash from the brine that saturates the floor of that portion of the Great Salt Lake when it was greater in area than Lake Huron. In other words, in early geologic times, Salt Lake spread over most of Utah, a large portion of Eastern Nevada, Southern Idaho and Western Wyoming, and was many hundreds of feet deep. The benches or portions of the old lake shores plainly seen yet where they have not been cut away by later creeks and ice flows. This lake covered an area of over 25,000 square miles, and was a fresh water lake which emptied at that time into the Snake River and thence into the Pacific ocean. A volcanic uplift closed up its outlet and it has evaporated away until all that is left is Great Salt Lake, about 80 miles long by 40 miles wide. The old portion of the lake bed is full of old lake silts which contain a great deal of potash and the waters that permeate all the silts has dissolved the potash from them, and we are taking this water—about 25 p.c. salt—and extracting the potash from it. This is done by pumping the water into great vats which will eventually cover about 2,500 acres, and let the sun evaporate off the bulk of the water. This lets the sodium salt—that is common salt—all settle, and leaves all the potash in the remaining liquor, which we pump into a large refining plant, where the potash and magnesia salts are taken out by machinery.

"We have about 50 square miles of territory we have drilled and sampled and analyzed at each corner of every 40 acres. The brine will be collected in a canal 15 feet deep and 35 feet wide, and 22 miles long. Along each side of this canal evaporating vats will be built, which will be 10,000 in number, covering in all 2,500 acres. Then a larye dyke will be built all around the property, about 60 miles in length, to keep the fresh flood water out, which comes from the mountains around the edge of the desert and covers all the desert floor. At present it is a foot deep there, and we drive Ford machines over it on the hard salt which covers miles and miles of the desert. In the summer the temperature gets up as high as 130 degrees, and this water evaporates away, leaving a surface of salt from six inches up to five feet thick, and stretching away miles in every direction. It gives much the same sensation as driving over Lake Ontario were it frozen over. There is nothing but salt as far as the eye can reach and this salt looks like smooth ice with a light coating of frost over it. One can only steer an auto by distant mountain peaks, and the salt is so smooth that one can open the gas wide and let the machine go its limit of speed. The fastest automobile speed in the world was made on this salt.

"Around the edges of the salt bed, between it and the mountain shores, are great wide mud flats. The fine clay silt that the mud is composed of is like very smooth, soft putty, and would mire a grass hopper when wet, but when dry is hard enough on top to carry a light auto. The brine is generally about one or two feet below the surface. The supply is absolutely unlimited—it is simply a matter of cheap handling and extraction.

"This is the deposit which will compete with the German potash, of which they had a world monopoly until the big war and will still have unless this country develops its resources in competition. I often wonder if sometime Jack won't be putting fertilizer on the old farm with potash in it from the plant I am operating. It is wonderful when one thinks of it, that the most dreary waste of country one can imagine, and one that has always been considered most useless, and has in the past been one of the greatest obstacles to the pioneers of the west, should have become a great factor in the rejuvenation of the farms of the east, and no one can foresee what else will come from it before it is all explored.

"We will have dredges and great caterpillar tractors, railroads and motor boats on this waste in another year, and refining plants also.

"In some of our experimental vats wild ducks light in the brine to rest on their flight across the desert, and they get so filled with salt through their feathers that they cannot rise, and they die there."

Mr. R. Hugh Strickland, C.E. and E.M., who wrote the foregoing, besides being a graduate of the R.M.C., is also a graduate of the U.S.A. Mining College, Houghton, Mich.

DON'T NEGLECT A COLD IN THE HEAD

IT MAY LEAD TO MANY SERIOUS DISEASES.

Never neglect a cold in the head. It is a trouble so common that we are apt to treat it as of little consequence. But it is only a step from cold to grippe and the possibility of acute trouble in the throat—pleurisy—pneumonia—is always there if it is neglected.

In its early stages a cold yields quickly to proper treatment. Grip-Fix, a combination of the drugs which relieve the system in such cases, gives remarkable results. It relieves a cold in a night and even grippe yields to it in forty-eight hours. Its action keeps the system open to throw off the systemic poisons created by the cold, reduces the feverish conditions and allays the pains in the head and muscles.

Grip-Fix is sold by all druggists at 35c a box. Accept no substitute

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBORO

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—

At a public meeting of the Independent Labor Party I was chosen as their standard bearer for the coming by-election, February 7th.

In appealing for your support I wish to ask you whether you think the Labor Candidate cannot represent you better than any of the old parties, being in the same walk of life as most of you, and knowing your requirements, to make your home a happier and brighter place to live in. I know I can be of great benefit to you in the House of Commons, to place your needs before those people who control the destinies of this Dominion, and I will never fail in my duty in doing so.

Anything I undertake will be along Constitutional lines, as this is the great re-construction period and in standing for this election I have nothing at heart but the interests of the masses of the people and Canada as a whole, and especially the West Riding of Peterboro. I know your needs as I have laboured amongst you, from the farm where I was born, to the mines in the West of this Dominion, and therefore I should be in a better position to legislate for you than my opponents.

I am in favor of Protection for the manufacturer, and I am also in favor of Protection for the worker, so that the greatest good shall come to the greatest number, and if we want to build up this great Dominion of ours, we must work along these lines, and promise that if you favor me with election, that will be my one endeavor.

I stand on the platform of the Referendum Recall.

I may not be able to meet you all before election day, but I tender a hearty invitation to the electors, especially the ladies, to our meetings, where public questions will be thoroughly discussed. Trusting that you will honor me as your Representative for West Peterboro.

Respectfully Yours,

T. J. McMURRAY.

LABOR LEADERS URGE ELECTION OF THOS. J. M'MURRAY

POINT TO THE LEGISLATION OF THE DRURY GOVERNMENT AS A SAMPLE OF WHAT SHOULD BE DONE AT OTTAWA.

SHOULD RESIST DIVISION

With a meeting in the G.W.V.A. Hall last evening the Independent Labour Party opened the final week of their political campaign to secure the West Peterboro seat in the House of Commons, for Thomas J. McMurray. The hall was comfortably filled. The speakers were Mr. Joseph Marks of Toronto, secretary of the I.L.P., Mrs. Singer, of Toronto, Mr. H. Harper, business agent of the Machinists Union, and Mr. Thomas McMurray.

The chairman of the meeting, Mr. Peter McArthur, urged the Labour men to resist every attempt being made by the other parties to split their ranks, and especially to deny the insinuations that O'Connor was making a dupe out of Labour. The Labour party was in no way committed to O'Connor. It was immaterial to them which interests he was representing here. He had been given a good hearing and despite reports the Labour Party thought well of everyone till they were convinced otherwise.

The fight now, the chairman said, was not between Mr. Denne and Mr. Gordon, as they were told, but between Mr. McMurray and Mr. Gordon. He dwelt on the moral effect of a Labour victory here with a general election in which Labour will likely participate as a unit, a year or 18 months hence. Mr. McArthur maintained that all over the country the Liberals were in a bad condition and the Farmers and Labour were showing great strength.

Candidate's Campaign.

While unable to make a house-to-house campaign and while not in a position to spend money wholesale, Mr. McMurray reported a satisfactory campaign. He was appealing to the common people and the citizens to support him. He knew the conditions the working classes live under, he was aware of needed reforms, and he would work unceasingly, and on these grounds he made his appeal. If they did not consider the issue seriously enough he said that they would be "beat" on Feb. 7th. Trade unionism, he contended, had raised the standard of living to where it was today and not the tariff and the other causes ascribed to it. The tariff should be high enough on certain articles, said Mr. McMurray, that Canada would become more than a finishing shop for certain articles manufactured in the States. A tariff was necessary but not one that would allow exorbitant profits. As far as he and O'Connor were connected, he declared that they were not trying to pull anything over anyone's eyes. He denied that he had ever had any ulterior connection with Mr. O'Connor. "It will not hurt me a particle if I am defeated—it will hurt the working people worse. I think in the bottom of my heart Labour will be victorious on Feb. 7th."

Dissatisfaction with the existing condition had driven the workers away from the old parties, and in the ranks of Labour they have found a place and work to do to promote the new Democracy that is transforming the world, said Mr Marks. The only thing that is going to save the country is to elect to power men who stand on principles — humanitarian principles. We are not revolutionists—we are evolutionists. We appeal not to the passions and the prejudices of the people, but to their intelligence. "The only flag we recognize is the British flag," and he said they hoped to right conditions that exist under it in a constitutional way. Mr. Marks said he admired the Conservatives for their colossal gall but he had no respect for the Liberals who lay down and let the others tramp all over them.

Mrs. Singer made a stirring appeal to the women electors last night, laying particular stress on the Mothers' Allowance Bill as an example of the kind of legislation passed by the Farmer - Labour Government, and she said that more legislation of a like character in the interests of the workers was needed. Mrs. Singer told of the good work of the Allowance, as one of the Board at Toronto. She also told of the governments' and other parties election devices, and warned the ladies to "watch out." Her heart and soul was in the Labour movement, she said, and she knew the workers' condition, and she advised the electors to elect a Labour man who has no big interests behind him to pull the strings or who has any shares in a cold storage company to raise the price of food beyond the workers' income.

Mr Harper of Toronto, was the concluding speaker. He attacked the government and the monopolists, which he said were hand in hand with it. Only 15% of the people were represented to-day — those who don't work. The same concern which last summer forced men to leave the city was supporting the Government. "We class people," he said, "by the company they keep." (Applause.)

Mr. Harper felt the government would be defeated here on account of the stand this concern has taken. He outlined some of the progressive legislation that could be, and would be, passed if Labour was represented at Ottawa.

A VICTIM OF SCIENCE.

GENEVA, Jan. 12.—(By Mail).—Twenty years suffering from the burns of radium and X-rays were ended recently for Dr. Behrens, a prominent Swiss surgeon of Bienne, when death brought relief. Physicians several years ago pronounced his case hopeless and death certain, but Dr. Behrens, whose hands had been spared, continued his experiments until his last days

MERCHANTS' BANK CHRISTMAS CLUB

The Christmas Club idea has in recent years become a new feature in banking. It is merely a systematic method for saving money, begun around the Holiday period. This is the time when nearly everyone feels most the need of money. This is the period of making new resolutions. The plan is simple. You merely go into the Merchants Bank where you will receive free of charge an attractive little Christmas Club Banking Book. The pages of this book show you how you can start a bank account with only 1 ct., 2cts., 5 cts., or 10 cts., and increase your deposit with these same amounts, 1 ct., 2 cts., 5 cts., or 10 cts., each week. At the end of fifty weeks, the 1 ct. club pays $12.75, the 2cts. club pays $25.50, the 5cts. club pays $63.75 and the 10 cts., club pays $127.50. It is really amazing to anyone to see how rapidly money will accumulate under this plan.

The bank offers also an opportunity to those who wish to put in an even amount each week, 25 cts., 50 cts., $1.00, $2.00, $5.00, $10.00, $20.00 or more for a period of fifty weeks.

At the end of this period, next December, the club member can draw out a part or all of this Christmas Club money or let a part or all of it stay in the bank to start a regular savings account.

The great big thought in the Christmas Club plan is that you start out with the idea of accomplishing something—of saving your money regularly.

Life is habit; and the banking habit is perhaps the best habit any man or women, boy or girl can form. Praise is certainly due to the Merchants Bank for offering an opportunity for every person in our community to form the habit of economy and thrift As each year goes by, the number of members in the Christmas Club increase as those who join and receive a notice that they have money to their credit at Christmas time, tell their friends about their prosperity.

We commend the Christmas Club idea and trust, as is sure to be the case, that the Merchants Bank will have a very large membership in the Christmas Club they are now forming. You receive three per cent. interest on all Christmas Club accounts

SHE DARKENED HER GRAY HAIR

Tells How She Did it With a Home-made Remedy.

Mrs. E. H. Boots a well-known resident of Buchanan County, Ia., who darkened her gray hair made the following statement:

"Any lady or gentleman can darken their gray or faded hair, and make it soft and glossy with his simple remedy, which they can mix at home. To half a pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, one small box of Orlex Compound and 1-4 ounce of glycerine These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair every other day until the gray hair is darkened sufficiently. It does not color the scalp, is not greasy and does not rub off. It will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger."

QUARANTINE UPON CORN ANNOUNCED

CERTAIN WESTERN ONTARIO TOWNSHIPS AFFECTED DUE TO PREVALANCE OF BORER.

Canadian Press.

OTTAWA, Feb. 1. — Official notice is given by the Department of Agriculture of a quarantine of "corn fodder or corn stalks, including any broom corn, whether used for packing or other purposes, green sweet corn, roasting ears, corn on the cob or corn cobs" grown in certain townships of Welland, Haldimand, Oxford, Huron, Elgin, Middlesex, and Kent Counties, in Ontario, because of the prevalence of the European corn borer in those townships and the danger of its introduction into other portions of the province by reason of the shipment of the corn and corn products.

MARKHAM AT LINDSAY.

Lindsay Post: Markham is all fed-up over the victory of their Intermediate hockey team in Uxbridge on Friday night, thus winning the championship of their group. Those who saw the game say the Markham team is composed of husky players who dish up a splendid brand of hockey. They ran in six goals in a row at Uxbridge and played like fiends throughout the night.

Markham plays Lindsay Intermediates on local ice to-night. The locals are in great shape now and are ready for all comers. Referee Tackaberry will likely officiate, and as a good ice sheet is assured a real worth while game is assured.

TEMPORARILY INSANE FARMER HANGS HIMSELF.

CORNWALL, Feb. 1.—While his mind was temporarily affected as a result of being kicked on the head by a horse a couple of years ago, Alex. McNaughton, a farmer, of Finch Township, committed suicide by hanging himself in a barn on his farm, according to a report received by J. G. Harkness, County Crown Attorney, from the Coroner, Dr. Gormley, of Crysler.

Mr. McNaughton was 50 years of age. He lived with his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Park, on the old McNaughton homestead, near the village of Finch, and was a bachelor.

FIVE DAYS A WEEK.

BROCKVILLE, Feb. 1. — The James Smart plant, Canada Foundries & Forgings, Limited, possibly the most important local industry, to-day went on reduced working hours. All employees, except moulders, will work five days a week at the rate of eight hours a day, a total of 40 hours a week, while the moulders will work four days of nine hours, a total of 36 hours a week.

HOME BURNS WHILE PARENTS AT CHURCH.

TRENTON, Feb. 1.—The home of Fred. McQuoid, west of Trenton and adjoining the village of Smithfield, was totally destroyed by fire Sunday night while the parents were at church. Four small children, ranging from five to twelve years, were at home in bed when the alarm was given. They were all rescued without injury. The origin of the fire is uncertain. The property was insured.

SPORTING FAMILY.

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 1.— The Goyer family of this city can boast of six brothers who can play hockey, and have issued a challenge to any city league or similar family team for a match. The Goyer's are not only hockeyists but baseball players also.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Rev. and Mrs. F. J. Sawers, Cobourg, are in the city visiting Mr. and Mrs. H. Rush, McDonnel street.

Mr. Cunningham Ardies, of Ottawa, is in the city in connection with the Dominion Dustless Sweeper Co., Limited. Mr. Ardies is an active official of this company.

Peterborough was well represented at the annual conversazione held this week at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, and the entertainment, at which Sir Robert Falconer, President Reynolds and Mrs. Reynolds received, was a huge success. Miss Edna Allan, Miss Helen Davidson, Mr. Lawrence Soden, Mr. Reg. Dixon, Mr. Gerald McClellan and Mr. Billie Mowat were among the Peterborough guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Park entertained the Adanac quartette at their home last evening after the concert. A very pleasant and successful evening was spent in song and story, and dainty refreshments were served.

James Seymour, H. Sanderson, J. T. O'Connell and R. B. Rogers left for Toronto this morning to attend the annual meeting of the Ontario Milk Producers' Association.

Rev. W. E. Hassard, B.A., of Toronto, is the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Harvey, 212 Brock street, while in the city.

Miss Raymore is visiting Dr. and Mrs. Scott, Hunter street.

Rev. C. S. Applegath, of Port Hope who occupied the pulpit of George street Methodist Church, Sunday last, was the guest of Mr and Mrs. H. M. Moore, 422 Rubidge street, while in the city.

Mr. Herschel Welbourn and Mr. George Robinson have returned from Trenton, where they represented St. James' Epworth League at the Boys' Work Conference.

MEETINGS FOR THE U.F.O. CANDIDATE

J. J. Morrison, secretary of the U.F.O., and the accredited father of the organization, enters this riding in the interests of Mr. Campbell to-night, and will speak at Bensfort, South Monaghan, to-night. It is expected he will reach the city on the evening Port Hope train, and will be rushed to Bensfort immediately, or he may get off at Fraserville and save a ten-mile automobile trip. Other speakers to-night are Mr. Anderson, of Warsaw, and Mr. J. C. Campbell.

Besides the meeting in Mr. Campbell's own district, there is one at S. S. No. 2, Smith, and here Mr. R. A. Halbert, M.P., and Mr. S. C. McKee, Farmer organizer, will speak.

Two splendid meetings, the Examiner was informed to-day, were held at Smith Second Line School last night, where Mr. Campbell, Mr. A. A. Powers, president of the U.F.O. Co-operative Co., and Mr. S. C. McKee spoke.

Another meeting was held at Brailey's School-house, North Monaghan. Mr. Campbell, Mr. Halbert, M.P., and Mrs. H. L. Gotz, of Bardsville, were the speakers.

On Friday night, one of the principal speakers on the U.F.O. platform at the mass meeting in Victoria Hall will be A. W. Roebuck, well-known lawyer of Toronto. The other speakers have not been decided on.

On Saturday the final U. F. O. gun will be fired in the Parish Hall, Ennismore, with the following oratorical aggregation: R. A. Halbert, M.P.; G. C. Campbell, candidate, and G. G. Morrison, secretary of the U.F.O.

To-day Mr. Powers declared that everything looked very favourable to Mr. Campbell's victory.

COLUMBIA EXTENSIONS SHOW CONFIDENCE IN BUSINESS PROSPECTS

Graphophone Company will Move Into Million Dollar Headquarters—Canadian Interests Keep Step.

"Full steam ahead!" is the order of the day with the Columbia Graphophone Company.

Every branch of this mammoth pioneer house of the talking-machine industry is pulsing with an energy, which betokens utmost confidence in the commercial outlook for 1921.

In Canada the rapidly growing establishment of the Columbia Company is keeping pace at every step with the forward movement inaugurated by the parent organization in New York.

A. E. Landon General Manager of the Columbia's Canadian interests, is a stalwart and unwavering believer in the soundness of Canada's commercial position.

"For our company" says Mr. London 'the year 1921 in Canada will be a year of growth. Not only do we begin the year with optimism but we are translating our faith in the future into action every day by important extensions of our facilities for both manufacturing and merchandising."

New Million Dollar Home.

To hundreds of thousands of Canadians, in whose homes Columbia Grafonolas and records have become an biding institution, news of the Columbi's approaching move to its new million-dollar home in Columbus Circle, New York city, will be of deep interest.

The erection of the magnificent 24-storey Gotham National Bank Building gave the Columbia Company an opportunity to obtain headquarters with facilities such as it had long been seeking. Eight entire floors of this new sky scraper have been set aside for the purpose.

The three top floors have been specially arranged with a view to ideal acoustic conditions for the recording of records. Aside from the wonderful rooms where music in all languages will be recorded by specialists, there will be a department given over to the reception of the many great artists whose music the Columbia Company reproduces.

Provision of fitting "atmosphere" and surroundings for these famous stage and concert stars is recognized by the Columbia Company as essential to obtaining the best product of their talent.

HALLAMS COMMITTED FOR TRIAL TO-DAY

WILLIAM HALLAM RELEASED ON BAIL BUT BROTHER HELD.

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Feb. 1.—Stanley and William Hallam, held on a charge of criminal negligence arising out of the shooting of Mrs. Ruby Cross, were to-day committed for trial. William Hallam was released on bail of $1,000, but the Crown refused to fix bail in the case of Stanley Hallam. The condition of Mrs. Cross, according to the Crown Attorney, is very serious.

when he returned from his holidays on 6th September.

Justice Riddell said he looked upon it as a very grave matter indeed that the Minister or Deputy Minister was not notified of an official document which concerned the Crown, and in which $3,500,000 was involved.

Justice Riddell asked if he had any explanation to make. Ferguson did not disagree with the Commission, he said, and he regretted it more than the Commission did. He stated that when he returned from his holidays, the chief clerk was on leave of absence, and he had assumed his duties as well as his own.

Justice Riddell: "The document ought to have been on the file. It was brought in by an outsider and given to you. You don't notify Mr. Grigg or even counsel engaged in the inquiry."

Hele, the former private secretary to the Hon. G. H. Ferguson, said that since yesterday afternoon he had examined every book and paper of the ex-Minister in his possession. In no instance had he been able to locate anything that could be classified as a public document or a public letter having any information that should properly be in the hands of the Crown or any property of the Crown.

He made the allocation of the papers that belonged to the Crown and of those that he considered belonged to Mr. Ferguson, personally in October or November, 1919.

"I am absolutely responsible for it," he said. "No one acting on behalf of the Department checked what he took away or what he left. No one was entitled to access to the Minister's file but himself," he said.

In answer to the direct question, he said he could not allow Mr. Grigg to examine the papers in his possession to see if in his judgment there were papers which properly belonged to the Department.

He had consulted Mr. Ferguson this morning, and the latter told him he had acted in accordance with his wishes in not producing private correspondence without his consent.

He promised to ask Mr. Ferguson's consent for these papers to be examined.

Justice Latchford pointed out a doubt might arise as to whether letters relating to the disposal of the country's resources should be regarded as private or not.

Justice Riddell observed that some people might not take the judgment of Mr. Ferguson's previous private secretary.

WILD DUCKS FROZEN IN.

ECCLESIASTICS MADE FALSE ACCUSATIONS

SACRED TRIBUNAL PUBLISHES FINDINGS IN DEFAMATION CASE.

(Canadian Press.)

ROME, Feb. 1.—The Sacred Rota Tribunal has made public its findings in the defamation case brought by Monsignor Fallon, Bishop of London, Ont., against Reverends Loiselle, L'Heureux, Langlois and St. Cyr, the last of whom now is dead, all the ecclesiastics belong to his diocese. In connection with the long standing case the Tribunal says there were no libels on either side, but asserts that the affirmations of the ecclesiastics contained a false accusation against the Bishop. The Tribunal recognizes the competence of the London Ecclesiastical Court in the case, but admits the advisability of holding the trial elsewhere because of the danger of local excitement.

Make Them Show Their Profits

One Way of Dealing with the Trusts and the Combines, endorsed by J. C. Campbell, the Candidate of the National Progressive Party.

J. C. CAMPBELL, Candidate of the National Progressive Party.

THERE ARE TWO outstanding reasons, among many others, why the trusts and the combines in Canada, fear the National-Progressive Party. The first is because the National-Progressive Party is the only party which has announced in both city and country that it intends to see that there is a substantial all-round reduction in the tariff. The second is because the National-Progressive Party has a plank in its platform which reads as follows:

"That all corporations engaged in the manufacture of products protected by the Customs Tariff shall be obliged to publish annually, comprehensive and accurate statements of their earnings."

Just think what this means. The casual method of trusts and combines (after getting the tariff fixed to suit themselves) is to unite in crushing smaller concerns in the same line of business. During the past forty years, thousands of small businesses have been driven out of existence by their larger competitors, and thousands of working people have been thrown out of employment. This is a way in which the tariff reduces employment instead of increasing it. After the trusts have crowded out all competition they are able to make such big profits as those that were shown last year by the Government Commission which investigated some of these companies, and which found that their profits ran anywhere from 40 to 310 per cent.

In the past neither of the old political parties have ever troubled to investigate the question of the profits of these concerns unless forced by special circumstances to do so. The National-Progressive Party says it will see that these companies every year are required to show exactly what their net profits have been. If they ask for tariff favors from the people why should they not be compelled to prove that they need them?

Claims Must Be Made In Public

Another plank in the National-Progressive Party's Platform, which the trusts and combines hate, is one which reads as follows:

"That every claim for tariff protection by any industry shall be heard publicly before a special committee of Parliament."

No wonder trusts and combines do not like the thought of publicity. They prosper best when they keep their actions in the dark. The people, however, want to know about these things. They have found that neither of the old political parties can be depended upon to deal with them as they believe they should be dealt with.

The Prohibition Issue

Do you know that the big liquor interests in the Province of Quebec have been flooding the mails with circulars addressed to the boys in the schools of West Peterboro inviting them to write away, and buy liquor. Do you know that groups of boys in the City of Peterboro have bought liquor in this way, fine boys, boys out of good homes, and that some of these boys have been seen drunk publicly? These boys did not get this liquor in the open bar. They got it as a result of the inter-provincial trade in liquor It is the Dominion Government which is responsible for this inter-provincial trade in liquor. Yet neither of the old political parties have taken any stand on this question, nor have their candidates in this bye-election.

The National-Progressive Party is absolutely against the liquor traffic. Its candidate in this by-election, Mr. J. C. Campbell, has pledged himself to use every effort to see that this inter-provincial traffic is stopped, and that our boys and girls are saved from these temptations.

If you want to expose the trusts and the combines, if you want to reduce the high cost of living, if you want to stop the liquor traffic, if you want to save your boys and girls.

SALVATION ARMY NEWS.

The splendid services which were conducted by Mrs. Brigadier Green, of Toronto, on Sunday, at the Temple Corps were continued last night, when she gave to a delighted audience part of the story of her life as a Salvation Army officer. The Sunday School was crowded to its capacity, and for two hours Mrs. Green held her audience spell-bound as she told of her experiences. So interested were the people that although the story could not be finished in the time, many begged her to continue, although the hour was late. This was impossible, but on Wednesday night at 8 o'clock the Brigadier will continue her lecture. Mrs. Green has a very magnetic personality, and last night led her hearers from laughter to tears, and from tears to laughter, as she told them of many strange incidents that befall an Army officer.

Do not fail to come to-morrow night to the Temple at 8 o'clock. This is the last opportunity you will have of hearing Mrs. Green, and the latter part of her life story promises to prove just as interesting as the first. Remember the time, 8 o'clock, in the Temple on Simcoe Street.

FASHIONS in SLEEVES

How Scarfs Are Used in Producing Sleeve-Like Effects in the Latest Gowns.

By Mme. Frances

The Famous Creator of Fashions

SLEEVES have become a very definite feature of evening gowns. For a while "before the war" we were taken through several degrees of scarcity of material in the bodice of the formal evening dress. As a last favor to good taste we were allowed a vision of very, very narrow shoulder straps consisting usually of a few beads. The more conservative element of society decried this fashion, especially on young girls, whose slender—nay, even 'skinny"—shoulders seemed barely able to support the shoulder straps.

That style was not pretty and could lay no claim to grace unless the wearer possessed a faultless modelling of the figure. Even then a slight veiling of the arms and shoulders presented a more attractive picture. There is greater charm in feminine loveliness which is concealed at least by the suggestion of tulle or other diaphanous fabric.

The edict of the French government which forbade the wearing of extreme decollette by the women of that courageous country had its immediate effect on American fashions. Women began to ask for "sleeves." These were supplied either in literal reality or by draperies of thin chiffon or net, sometimes plain, sometime beaded, again showing wonderful metallic embroidery in shades of gold and silver.

The passing of extreme decollette was quick and sure. Low neck is worn in Washington, it is true, at the foremost functions which necessarily are a part of life in the capital. Even there it is being modified. I was told by an American woman who is the wife of a member of the French high commission that she was quite stunned when she arrived in Washington and found many of the women wearing extreme decollette. No such thing is seen in France, where only a round or square neck in the front of the gown is being permitted. The back and sleeves are always veiled with tulle or chiffon.

Sometimes the gowns designed for American women are cut low back and front, but they are supplied with a scarf in keeping with the color and trimming of the costume and designed especially for wear with it. Rare beauty and the supreme art of fabric and embroidery are put into these scarfs. Sometimes the scarf may be a part of the drapery of the gown or more often make the sleeve itself.

Take, for instance, the gown of rose and silver brocade. The sleeves of rose chiffon are outlined with tiny silver balls and form really graceful scarfs, which float and sway with every motion of the wearer. The lines of this gown are especially picturesque and the color is to be recommended above all others for a winter dinner or evening gown. Two deep points of the brocade, woven in silver design, meet two other points, coming from the back, at the shoulder. The deep "V" and underarm thus formed are filled in with rose chiffon over flesh-pink satin. The sleeves are cut kimono over the shoulders, but are slashed into a deep "V" and fall away from the arm in a line which exquisitely reveals the curves of the arm and hand.

The beautiful fabric is draped about the figure in a slightly bias line, the right side of the front overlapping the left. At the girdle line is worn a rose of coral and silver with dull green velvet foliage. Rose stockings and cloth of silver slippers complete this very striking costume.

An example of the gown for which a separate scarf is especially designed is found in the severe lines of the black velvet dress with trimmings of jet. Bands of heavy jet mark the square line of the neck. The sleeves of black net are plain. The bodice of black velvet softly outlines the figure. The skirt is beautifully draped over a petticoat of black net. A cord and tassel of jet are pendant from the left side. The "piece de resistance" of this costume is furnished by the scarf. This scarf is black net embroidered in a dragon design in shades of vivid green, purple, red and blue. All the color of the east seems grouped in its mystic folds. The severity of black velvet is just the foil of these wonderful colors, barbaric and oriental.

Another gown whose sleeves are its most conspicuous feature is one of light sapphire blue velvet. The bodice consists of one fold of velvet laid flatly around the figure. Over this are draped long floating sleeves of chiffon flecked with silver and tarnished gold. The chiffon drapery is held at the waist by a soft girdle of velvet. This draping falls over the arms and merges with the lines of the skirt. Oval "drops" of tarnished gold outline the soft folds of chiffon.

The flowers at the belt are crimson velvet, with shades of green in the foliage. The skirt of this picture frock is long and narrow and closely wrapped about the ankles. With this gown I recommend silver or gold slippers and sheer blue stockings to match the velvet.

Another dress whose sleeves are less picturesque, but no less unusual, is found in the gown of steel and silver. The sleeves of thinnest gray chiffon are held by a bracelet of steel beads just above the elbow. Silver gray charmeuse satin is the foundation for this gown. The lace used is tarnished to the bluish tint of steel. Blue and steel embroidery decorates the very becoming lines of the bodice. The girdle is of silver cloth which tones with the shade of the metallic lace. Gray chiffon falls in graceful lines and is weighted with lace. A narrow row of embroidery corresponding with that on the surplice waist outlines this tunic above the lace.

This gown is strikingly becoming to the woman who counts the measure of her years beyond those of the debutante, but who in the full bloom of her charm is no less attractive than the glowing promises of immaturity. To this type of woman is recommended the severely plain black velvet gown, with its wonderful scarf, breathing the charm of places where "the dawn comes up like thunder," so glorious is its burst of colorful loveliness.

With all of your evening gowns you should have a scarf at least in tone with, if not an actual part of, the garment. Two layers of contrasting chiffon cloth, as peacock blue and lemon yellow, edged with fur, brown or black, make an effective throw wrap for indoor wear in winter.

The Fashion Forecast

Many of the new suit coats will be cut away to show the long peplum blouses of chiffon or Georgette crepe, which add an interesting bit of color to the fronts of these suits. The hems of these blouses are usually featured in a six-inch border of chenille or wool embroidery.

DEMPSEY-CARPENTIER FIGHT STILL HANGS FIRE---RE-DRAWING AGREEMENT

CHAMPION'S MANAGER OBJECTS TO HOLDING BOUT IN MONTREAL OR LONDON—MORE CONFERENCES TO-DAY.

(Special to The Examiner.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.— Shorn of much of its gilt trimmings, the Dempsey-Carpentier championship thing is tucked away in the pocket of Tex Rickard. The withdrawal of Wm. A. Brady and Charles B. Cochrane as partners, necessitates a redrawing of the agreement between the Sampson Beck Frenchman and Rickard.

When the new papers are ready there will be nothing like the $500,000 purse in the original agreement.

Rickard intimated to-day that both principals in the "battle of the age" would work on a percentage arrangement.

Jack Kearns practically has agreed to this change for Dempsey and a similar attitude is expected of Carpentier and Descamps.

Kearns said he was perfectly willing to work for a fair guarantee and a slice of the gate in keeping with the champion's right as title holder.

Following the legal steps necessary to turn the bout over to Rickard, the new agreement will be drawn or the principals may agree verbally to the change.

More conferences between Rickard and Kearns over the Dempsey-Willard bout are booked for to-day.

The champion may be induced to work on a percentage in this engagement also.

Rickard still plans to hold this bout in New York, but he is not so definite about his plans for the Dempsey-Carpentier show.

Montreal seems to be in the popular favor now, but Kearns says he is not very keen about taking Dempsey to the Canadian Metropolis and that he had decided he doesn't want it held in London at all.

"I can't understand why the idea of a heavyweight contest is so horrible to certain persons, when the little fellows are allowed to go on any place. I want the bout in America, and I don't see why we can't have it here," the champion's manager said.

JESS WILLARD,

Who lost the world's heavyweight championship to Jack Dempsey in 1919, and who may meet Dempsey again if negotiations being conducted in New York to-day are successfully concluded.

Rickard says he decided to go it alone on the big bout because he still thinks it will bring him a profit.

"Sure, I'm going through with it. If I need help in promoting the affair I can get lots of partners," he said.

The withdrawal of Brady and Cochrane was hastened, it is understood, by the threat of Kearns to enter suit against the promoting firm for violation of the agreement.

According to the original agreement, which is still in force, Rickard has until March 1st to select a site for the bout and notify the principals.

HOCKEY GOSSIP

It looks like a new attendance record for the City Hockey League's bill of two important games to-morrow night. With no more O.H.A. engagements, the fans are giving all their enthusiasm to the race for the A. A. Fowler silverware. The games so far played in the City League have been brimful of good hockey. Penalties have been few and far between, the teams having learned that they must stay on the ice, so keen has been the contests for first honors.

There should be no disappointment to-morrow night. Those fans who saw the Bankers work out at the rink last evening were highly tickled with the showing. To beat Manager Bradburn's crowd, Sid Gibbs' Hamilton A. A. team will have to give every ounce of hockey they possess. Here is the Bankers' squad: Herb. Legros, Joe Kennealley, Harry Thornton, Maurice Park, Gillespie, Tudhope, Thirnbeck and Dickson ,all of whom will be in the game.

Against this formidable line-up, Hamilton's will use Murray in goal, LeBar and Evans on the defence, and Foley, Collins, Gamey Graham and Fred Graham. This game is first on the programme and the teams should be away at 8 o'clock.

C.G.E. Toolroom will use their regular team in the critical test with De Laval in the second game. The latter club will introduce Jimmie McMartin in the sub department, otherwise the line-up will be the same that made Hamiltons go the limit to beat them by one goal. De Laval will be a powerful team with Sheehan leading the attack.

In order to place a check on the season tickets for amusement tax returns the fans holding these tickets are requested to present them at the wicket, in return for which a tax ticket will be given without extra charge. The League pays this tax.

"THE BOY"

Of quite another brand is the entertainment to be offered at the Grand on Saturday night. "The Magistrate," that somewhat out-of-date farce written 34 years ago by Sir Arthur Wing Pinero, has been set to music to make an appeal to theatre goers of a new generation. Under the title of "The Boy.' London's sensational musical comedy success ,the hilarious fun of "The Magistrate," will be brought back to us. The book has been prepared by Fred Thompson, and it is said that most of the humor of the original piece has been retained. Some pleasing music has been written for the farce by Lionel Monckton and Howard Talbot, while Adrian Ross and Percy Greenbank composed the lyrics. A. S. Byron will be seen in the role of the heavyweight magistrate.

It will be recalled that "The Magistrate" possesses a very funny second act, wherein a judge, his "14," really 19-year-old stepson, a wife, her ex-suitor, and a sister-in-law, are caught in a raid on a notorious hotel.

In the cast of musical comedy favorites to be seen here are Marie Dilworth, Clyde Difson, Mabelle Mignon, Cosmo Bellew, Lillian Lee Anderson, Donald Archer, Gene Laymon and others.

"THE NOTORIOUS MISS LISLE"

For Wednesday or Thursday. Positively Not Duplicated in This City.

Katherine MacDonald in her newest photoplay, "The Notorious Miss Lisle" is annouced as a forthcoming attraction at the Allen for 2 days, beginning Wednesday.

This picture is promised to be a really worth while attraction and one that is admirably fitted to Miss MacDonald. James Young, whose motion picture experience ranks with the foremost in his profession, is the director, while Mrs. Baillie Reynolds is responsible for the story.

GOVERNMENT LOSSES IN BYE-ELECTIONS

The Government's record in the by-election is a tale of defeat, of enormous majorities wiped out and enormous majorities recorded against them, and of a few saved out of the wreck.

In North Ontario Major Sharpe, Conservative, was elected in 1917 by a majority of 1,555. In this by-election the Government lost the seat by a majority of 185.

In Glengarry and Stormont Mr. McMartin was elected by acclamation, in 1917. He had been a Liberal but supported Union Government. On his death a by-election was held. The Government candidate was defeated by 2,376.

In Assiniboia Mr. Turriff was elected in 1917 as a supporter of Union Government by a majority of 4,524. In the by-election the Government did not put up a candidate. The combined Farmer and Liberal vote was 10,200, all against the Government.

In Victoria and Carleton, the Hon. Frank Carvell, a member of the Union Government, was elected by acclamation in 1917. The Government lost the seat in the by-election by 3,544.

In Temiskaming, the Hon. Frank Cochrane, Conservative Minister, was elected in 1917 by a majority of 2,157. When he died a by-election was held. The Conservative candidate was at the foot of the poll. He got only 2,996 votes. The Labor and Liberal canddiates got 8,312. The majority against the Government was 5,346.

In Elgin East Mr. Marshall, Conservative, was elected by a majority of 308 in 1917. When he died the Government delayed the election eight months, leaving East Elgin unrepresented during the whole session of 1920. At the by-election the Government candidate was defeated, receiving only 2,850 votes, while the combined vote against the Government was 5,112.

In St. John, N.B., the Government majority was reduced by 4,155.

The Liberals have not lost one seat which they won in the general election of 1917. They carried Kamouraska by acclamation, there being no Government candidate. They carried St. James, Montreal. The Liberal candidate, Mr. Rinfret, had 3,413 votes, the Labor candidate 1,856. There was no Government candidate. Mr. Lapointe, Liberal, carried Quebec East by 3,939.

In Prince county, Prince Edward Island, Mr. King, leader of the Opposition, was elected by acclamation.

Here is the clearest evidence that the country is against the Government and is only waiting for the chance to turn it out in a general election. The usurpers hang on to office in defiance of public opinion.—Liberal Publicity Committee.

Druggists also sell larger packages. Made in Canada. Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) of Bayer manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

"RUDDIGORE."

"Ruddigore," one of the least known, but at the same time one of the most brilliant and melodious of the Gilbert and Sullivan comic operas, was given a most artistic presentation at the Grand last night by the Boston Opera Company, the performance delighting a large audience. "Ruddigore" is a burlesque on melodrama, a clever travesty on the old type of drama with its impossibly good hero and its impossibly bad villain and the characters and action are skilfully devised as a satire upon such plays. To be successful, therefore, it calls for clever acting as well as vocal ability and last night's caste admirably answered the test in both particulars. There was not a weak spot anywhere. An old favourite, Eugene Lockhart, the Toronto boy, well remembered here for his work with the Pierrot Players, was the Robin Oakapple of the productton and his performance was one of the features of the evening. George Bogues as the dashing sailor, "Richard Dauntless," brought a breath of the salt seas with him and his hornpipe was a real hit. Marionne Godbout was a most charming "Rose May Bud," her acting and singing being equally meritorious, while Alice May Carley, who is the possessor of a beautiful contralto voice, contributed an admirable performance as the mad girl. Eva Quintard was a successful Dame Hannah and Bertram Goltra got the last drop of fun out of the part of the wicked baronet. The singing of Joseph Florian as Sir Roderick was one of the most enjoyable features of the evening.

The score of "Ruddigore" is a typical Sullivan score, abounding in lilting music, enjoyable solos, duets, trios and choruses that never fail to please. The singing of principals and chorus last night was equal to all the demands made up it, while the augmented orchestra under the direction of K. H. Schultz, added much to the success of the occasion.

Local playgoers have the Boston English Opera Company to thank for a very pleasant evening and for the opportunity of seeing and hearing "Ruddigore" for the first time.

THE TAIL-END OF TYRANNY

(By G. K. CHESTERTON)

(Copyright 1921 by Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service.)

Most discussions about liberty tend to be rather inconclusive because the matter is made to seem relative, or, what is worse, evolutionary. The debate is doomed, because before the end of it some solemn fool is certain to arise and say, "Liberty is not license." In other words, a mere verbal trick makes it look a if it were a matter of degree. It is merely verbal, yet even verbally it could be contradicted. The very use of the two words shows that they do not necessarily stand for fixed and fundamental opposites. When a clergyman gets a license to preach, we do not invariably call the clergyman licentious. When a cad takes a liberty we do not invariably salute him as a hero of humanity struggling for the rights and dignity of the citizen. So long as the words are mere words, it would be easy to turn them against each other, until the solemn fool's head went round like a windmill. But, indeed, the serious use of the two words by him and his like is equally wild and sterile. One man may say that offering a cigar to a friend is license and not liberty. Another may equally say that throwing a bomb at an enemy is liberty and not license. So long as we deal merely with this sliding scale of values, our discussion will not be very valuable. Our own common sense may see clearly enough where liberty ends and license begins; but we may not be able to use it for the object of controversy, which is conversion. And so the invasion of our most intimate rights goes on; and freedom sclowly narrows down from precedent to precedent.

Nevertheless, for the practical purposes of the present controversy, there is a way of stating the case clearly and sharply, which avoids this indefinite debate about degree. And that is by insisting that it is not now a question of where we stop, but of which end we begin at. And that is a positive, not a relative, debate. The man who said of the dachshund, "I should like half that dog," might be induced to be content with a third, or to relieve us of three-quarters. But pulling the tail of a dachshund could never be the same as pulling his nose; and even in the case of a skye-terrier, the truth, when finally ascertained, is final. He who shall essay playfully to pinch the tail of a skye-terrier, and find he has begun at the wrong end, and that it is the sagacious animal who does the pinching, will never afterwards regard the difference as merely relative; or of the nature of a fine shade of evolutionary graduation. In short, how far we go may be a comparative matter, but where we begin is a positive matter; and the test of all modern tyranny is where it begins.

Modern tyranny does not begin by lopping off our last or most remote or most recently acquired rights. It begins by digging up our deepest and simplest and most self-evident rights. It does not profess to take from us our indirect control of Hong Kong or our indirect patronage of bacteriological research; in so far as we ever had any free hand about these things, we have it still. It does not give up the pretence of a casting vote between D'Annunzio and the Jugo-Slavs, or of a democratic diplomacy which disentangles Slovaks from Slovenes. A reasonable reactionary might begin to say that democracy knows nothing about diplomacy; and begin to deprive it of its theoretic freedom in diplomacy. It might tenably be maintained that the average householder cannot manage foreign countries though he may manage his own country; or even that he cannot manage his own country though he cannot manage his own house. But under the new tyranny he cannot manage his own house. It is precisely his own house that he is not allowed to manage. He is not allowed to manage it even when he is supposed to manage almost everything else. He is to be a slave at home and a tyrant in the ends of the earth.

Now, whatever be the proper proportions of liberty and license, this is not merely license, but lawlessness; and the worst kind of lawlessness, which is lawlessness of thought. By no possible argument can it be right that a man should keep his most indirect official claims, and lose his most direct individual claims. It may be right to cut off his hair, or right to cut off his head, or even conceivably (though this will seem an orgy of license) right to leave his hair and head alone. Probably our practical politicians would make some quiet and sensible compromise between shaving him and beheading him; as, for instance, scalping him. And scalping him, however it might appear in other aspects, would in this aspect be an act of moderation and a matter of degree. It would (in the abstract fogic) be an intermediary course between cutting off his hair and cutting off his head. But by no possible logic could we say it is right to cut off his head, but wrong to cut off his hair. To begin with, as the piercing intelligence of the reader will promptly perceive if you have cut off his head you have cut off his hair. And it is equally true that if you have taken away his liberty at home, you can always really control his policy abroad. It is no good to give him a passport to all the palaces of diplomacy and a platform ticket to all the parliaments of man and federation of the world, if a small printed paper at home can clap him into an asylum or a jail. But, apart from this, it is absurd on the face of it to say that the more intimate rights can be carefully removed, leaving the indirect and dependent rights intact. No surgeon can perform as delicate an operation as cutting off the gentleman's head and leaving his hair, fixed and suspended in heaven like a halo; as a child might cut out the face of Struwelpeter from the picture book, leaving only his bristly aureole. Yet the surgical operation truly represents the sociological operation on which our legislators are now engaged. They wish him to become impotent about domestic things, while still pretending that he is omnipotent about foreign things. He is asked what he will do for Lithuania but not what he will drink for lunch; that is to be settled for him as if he were a child. He is to be consulted about whether he is to spend other people's money on a large navy or a league of nations; but not about whether he should spend his own money on a doctor or a day at the sea-side; the doctor is imposed on him, by compulsory insurance, as if he were a certified lunatic. Now this sort of nonsense cannot go on; there is a contradiction eating out the very heart of it. Either a man is a householder capable of ruling his household, a citizen capable of helping to rule his city, and afterwards in due proportion a citizen of the world capable of influencing the other cities of the world; or else he is capable of the first but not the second or third; or else of the first and second but not of the third; or else of none at all. The modern rulers really mean him to have none at all. But anyhow he cannot possibly have the last before the first; or claim the third thing by right of possessing the second thing, which he no longer possesses. In no wild fable about the fools of Gotham has there ever been a clearer or more plainly colored picture than this of the ring of lunatics around the tree of liberty; trying to dig up the roots beneath without disturbing the tiniest twig on top.

The fallacy which produces the folly is concerned, of course, with what are called the perils of these vital functions. Of course, all primary liberties are perilous because they are primary. To say that a thing is a vital need is the same as saying that it is a matter of life and death. The closer we come to domestic things the closer we come to danger; for human beings are still generally born at home and still generally die at home. Days may come of a broader and more benevolent bureaucracy, when everybody will be born in a hospital and everybody will die in a workhouse. Under such scientific supervision, however, I am by no means certain that fewer will die; and I have heard some scientific assurances that fewer will be born. The point here is that the element of life and death peril cannot be eliminated, and even in an attempt to eliminate it we must eliminate the whole of liberty and not a part of it. Our rulers have given us at once an example and an exaggeration or caricature, in the very name and establishment of a Health Ministry. It is certainly quite true that the health of the citizen is of great concern to the citizen, and even of considerable concern to the commonwealth. But it is obviously quite equally true that if the commonwealth really concerns itself to control the health of the citizen, he cannot be a citizen at all. Insuring the health of a citizen is a contradiction in torms; you can only insure the health of a slave, like that of a horse; even if you insure it as carefully as that of a race horse. A groom can watch the race horse day and night; we have not yet got so far, as a government inspector watching the citizen day and night. A policeman does not as yet sit beside your bed till morning, to see you do not catch cold by opening a window or throwing off a quilt. But I defy anybody to tell me what is the difference of principle between his doing so and his turning people away from a saloon bar; and as he has dealt with the public houses, doubtless he will soon be dealing with private houses also. But in the main, as I have pointed out, the logical tendency is actually the other way; it is actually to interfere with private things first and public things afterwards. And this could be logically applied to all cases; and as it may be in private that a man gets drunk, so it is probably in private that he catches cold. So we may rest in legitimate contentment with the happy vision of the constable watching by the bedside of the healthy citizen, through all the changes of starlight and twilight, until he wakes up. I wonder whether some day, perhaps, he may really wake up.

RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is produced by the accumulation of Uric Acid in the Blood, and this poisonous substance attacks and inflames the membrane covering the joints and separating the muscles, thus producing severe pains. If the waste products to the system are not properly carried off. Uric Acid forms and is deposited in the joints and between the different layers of muscles. DR. HENDERSON'S HERB TABLETS will correct this by its action on the Kidneys, and removing the Uric Acid from the Blood. Try them and watch the results. If they fail, your money will be refunded.

PRAISES OF A WELL SATISFIED PEOPLE

ARE WHAT GIVES DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS POPULARITY.

W. A. Shannon voices the sentiment that has given Dodd's Kidney Pills their standing in all parts of Canada.

STYAL, Alta., Jan. 31.—(Special.)—"I am well satisfied with the results I have got from the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills. They were perfectly satisfactory as I have had no trouble since using them. I want other sufferers to know what they did for me."

This is the statement of W. A. Shannon, a well-known and highly respected resident here. And in these few words W. A. Shannon gives the reason why Dodd's Kidney Pills are so popular in all parts of Canada. They do what is claimed for them.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are purely a Kidney remedy. They tone up and strengthen weak Kidneys and put them in condition to do their full work of straining the impurities out of the blood. Strong healthy Kidneys are absolutely necessary if the blood is to be kept pure and the body healthy. Pure blood coursing through the body carries to the different organs the nourishment they need, keeps them sound and enable them to throw off disease of different kinds.

Ask your neighbors if Dodd's Kidney Pills do not make strong healthy Kidneys.

When W. R. Breyfogle Urged Gordon To Go To Ottawa

It takes an emergency to bring the strong man to the top.

And in a crisis, when someone has to get things done—to deliver the goods—the man of native force and character just naturally rises to the surface.

Every citizen of Peterborough who knows G. N. GORDON recognises that he is a "go-getter," and that in any company he stands out as a dominant personality.

Let's recall an example—and a rather striking one—TO PROVE THAT G. N. GORDON'S ABILITIES ARE APPRECIATED.

You remember the power shortage in Peterborough last fall.

Factories were forced to run on short time, and some temporarily suspended operations.

Employees were thrown out of work, and the loss in wages and in production in the industries of this city was at least $100,000.

It was apparently a crisis that had to be dealt with quickly.

A meeting of the Manufacturers' Committee of the Board of Trade was held.

ALDERMAN G. N. GORDON, CHAIRMAN OF THE MANUFACTURERS' COMMITTEE OF THE CITY COUNCIL, was present.

W. R. Breyfogle Chose Gordon Then

At that meeting W. R. Breyfogle, general manager of the De Laval Company, urged that Alderman G. N. GORDON go to Ottawa to interview the Government in behalf of the industries of Peterborough and their employees.

And W. R. Breyfogle said that the situation required a man to go to Ottawa WHO HAD SOME FIGHT IN HIM AND WHO WOULD PUT "PEP" INTO THE DEMAND TO THE GOVERNMENT to increase the flow of water in order that more power could be generated for Peterborough's factories.

That was a voluntary and a rather neat tribute to THE QUALITIES WHICH W. R. BREYFOGLE—who knows men if anyone does—RECOGNISED IN ALDERMAN G. N. GORDON.

Alderman Gordon went to Ottawa, and, as usual, got what he went after.

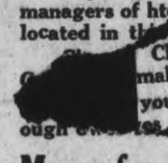
Not only that. He and E. Gus Porter, M.P., of Belleville, inaugurated a campaign for the extension of the system of conserving the water in this district in order that the storage area could be increased, and that any shortage of power might be avoided in future.

THAT IS THE KIND OF MAN PETERBOROUGH NEEDS AT OTTAWA ALL THE TIME.

Everybody knows the municipal record of G. N. GORDON.

With the exception of the City Clerk, no man has done so much during recent years to bring new industries to Peterborough.

If you have any doubt about this, ask the general managers of hte last half-dozen companies which have located in this city.



Clerk [illegible]strong and Alderman G. N. [illegible] make a good team.

Have you ever stopped to think of the debt Peterborough owes to the [illegible]als who have gone before?

Memo for Messrs Denne and Burnham

It is well to remember, when you hear "A Greater Peterborough" sounded these days, the names of those who made Peterborough what it is to-day.

The William Hamilton Company was founded by William Hamilton, a prominent Liberal.

The Peter Hamilton Company owes its existence to the late Peter Hamilton, for years the President of the Liberal Association in West Peterborough.

The Auburn Woollen Mills was established by John Bertram, a former Liberal Member of Parliament.

The Dickson Lumber Company was started and operated by two prominent Liberals, Samuel Dickson and T. G. Hazlett.

.....Then there is the Peterborough Cereal Company, founded by W. H. Meldrum.

Peterborough was really put on the map by the enterprise and the organising genius of one of the most prominent Liberals Peterborough ever saw, George A. Cox, who was also instrumental in securing for Peterborough the Canadian General Electric Company and the Quaker Oats Compny. He and 6ther Liberals also built up the Peterborough Lock Works.

Other monuments to the enterprise, industry, and public-spiritedness of leading Liberals could be readily mentioned. PETERBOROUGH IS MAINLY WHAT LIBERALS HAVE MADE IT.

These men had no tariff bogey to frighten the people and to intimidate employees.

PETERBOROUGH HAS NOT BEEN EFFICIENTLY REPRESENTED AT OTTAWA SINCE R. R. HALL WAS THE FEDERAL MEMBER.

Political opponents of R. R. Hall admit that he did more for Peterborough at Ottawa than any man ever elected in this Riding.

Space prevents a recital of the work he accomplished during only one term, but the Armouries alone stand out as perpetual monument to his persistent efforts; while the County will not soon forget the concrete bridge at Buckhorn, for which the farmers were not taxed one cent.

It is time Peterborough was again represented at Ottawa by a man of this calibre.

G. N. GORDON IS THE MAN.

He was big enough for W. R. Breyfogle during the power shortage last November.

Ladies and Gentlemen—TAKE A TIP FROM W. R. BREYFOGLE, AND ELECT G. N. GORDON NEXT MONDAY.

WEDDING BELLS

HYNES—GOLLOHER

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized on February 1st 1921 at St. Peter's Cathedral, when Annie E., eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robt Golloher of Norwood, became the bride of John Leo Hynes, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hynes of Smith. The ceremony was performed at 6 a.m. by Rev. Father Phelan in the presence of many friends. The bride looked charming in her pretty attire of taupe satin dress with over dress of georgette beautifully embroidered with alice blue and beads, with black seal skin sacque and black hat with white plumage. She was attended by the groom's sister, Lillian, who was becomingly dressed in Copen blue with Alaskian woffe fur and white hat. The groom was ably supported by Mr. Vincent Sullivan. The young couple received many beautiful and costly presents including a beautiful mantle clock from the employees of the C.G.E. of which they were both employed. After a buffet lunch served at the groom's sisters, Mrs. F. Lasure. The happy couple left on the morning train for Toronto, Hamilton Orillia and points west and on their return will reside in Peterborough.

OBITUARY

LAID AT REST.

The remains of the late Rev. Edward Soward, 521 Albert street, were laid at rest this afternoon in Little Lake cemetery. Service was held in All Saints' church previous to leaving for the cemetery. The pall bearers were Messrs. F. C. Hungerford, H. Rush, W. E. Conway, Wm. Buller, Thomas Hooper and R. J. Devey.

MRS. J. W. McFADDEN.

The death took place some time ago in Lindsay of a well-known resident of that town, in the person of Mrs. J. W. McFadden, medicine dealer, in her 72nd year. The funeral took place from the residence of her son, 61 Glenelg Street East, and interment was made at Riverside Cemetery.

MRS. THOMAS TULLY.

Word received in this city to-day by Mrs. T. R. Kennedy, 332 McDonnel street, informed her of the death of her eldest sister, Mrs. Thomas Tully of Vancouver, British Columbia, after a lingering illness. The late Mrs. Tully was Miss Agnes Fowler, of Fowler's Corners, eldest daughter of the late Andrew and Mrs. Fowler. She was 64 years of age. For many years after her marriage she and her husband lived in Peterboro, but some 11 years ago he moved to the coast in a vain endeavor to recover Mrs. Tully's failing health. She was well known in the city.

Besides her husband, she leaves one brother, John Fowler, of Carberry, Manitoba, and one other sister, Mrs. S. H. Corbman, of Vancouver.

No information was received as to the funeral arrangements.

FURS AT THEIR LOWEST PRICES

Our "Pre-War" Sale of Furs Will Continue During February

ON MARCH 1st, PRICES WILL ADVANCE!

¶ Fur prices will be increased 10%, possibly 20%, on March 1st, owing to the marked advances during the past few weeks on all Raw Fur skins. The world is short on Raw Fur stock—something which cannot be increased artificially.

¶ We announced on Jan. 1st "that in order to keep factory working full time and at full wages, we would reduce Furs to 'pre-war prices,' save and except labor costs—that Raw Fur prices were advancing from the low level they had touched, and would increase costs materially later on."

¶ Our predictions have been fully verified, so that this announcement of increased prices after March 1st has been found necessary.

¶ No Fur House in Canada cut prices as low as we have, and this has resulted in our being able to keep workpeople fully employed, as the public have appreciated our prices and our efforts in this connection. So we are going to continue these conditions during February by maintaining our Low Pre-War Sale Prices to the End of this month only—after that, advanced prices.

¶ Every one needing Choice Furs now or for next season will save money buying this month, as furs will be much higher next season.

¶ No Luxury Tax now. The new tax may be applied before this month is out, as Parliament meets on the 10th February, and, as announced, a new tax is under consideration — another gain to present buyers.

Government Lacks Mandate to Power, Declares Burnham

IN TWO HOUR SPEECH FORMER MEMBER ASSAILS "SINISTER" ORIGIN OF MEIGHEN GOVERNMENT AND REITERATES A GENERAL ELECTION IS JUSTIFIED.

CANADIAN DOLLAR AT NEW YORK TO-DAY ..... 89.37 CTS

HAD LARGE AUDIENCE

Victoria Hall was packed to the doors last night despite the large mass meeting of the Liberals in the Opera House, and a ladies political meeting in the Y.W.C.A., to hear Mr. J. H. Burnham, who precipitated the West Peterboro bye-election, by his resignation in the House last July, in his first, last and only appearance on a platform in the election. That Mr. Burnham has a strong following in this city was indicated by the large attendance.

The chairman was Mr. William Croft, who spoke of Mr. Burnham's high ideals in his political life, and his sole aim to represent the common people straightforwardly.

Ex-Ald. William Langford spoke briefly dwelling principally on Mr. Burnham's political honesty. The people, he said, should appreciate and approve the stand he had taken in liament on the great principle of keeping faith with the people. In 1917 the sole issue was the war. Those who have not resigned have been more fond of holding on to their jobs, than keeping faith with the people who elected them on that issue. The Farmer and Labor platforms were in the same category stated the speaker, for both were making a bid for power to shake things down for their own class. The Liberals and the Farmers both supported Mr. Burnham in his contentions and they have shown insincerity by bringing out candidates to oppose him, said Mr. Langford.

Mr. William Langford.

We are pleased to be here this evening in the interests of our candidate, Mr. Burnham. We appreciate and approve of his action in resigning his seat in Parliament on a question of principle, keeping faith with the people, said Mr. William Langford.

The electors were appealed to in 1917 to vote for a Union Government in order to prosecute the war more vigorously. They were returned by an immense majority on that ground alone. It is now said that, according to law, they can stay in power two years or more. Such an argument is mere subterfuge. The argument of men more concerned about holding on to office than keeping their promise to the people.

I know it is said by some that a man is a fool to do what our standard-bearer in this election has done. That a man who is not a rich man should give up his seat in the House, bringing in $4,000 per year, just for a matter of principle. Such high standards of political honesty are not understood by some, but we have faith enough to believe that the great mass of the electors appreciate what Mr. Burnham has done and will show by their vote that they want just such men at Ottawa to look after their interests and to help maintain a high standard of public life in this country.

We have had the pleasure of hearing most of the leaders of all parties and classes opposing our candidate in this election. To the average citizen who tried to calmly view and figure out the situation, it has indeed been a remarkable and interesting spectacle, an object-lesson of how men with great ability and considerable political astuteness, bring all their powers to bear on the one question of expediency, the holding on to office or the attainment of office.

Let us consider for a few minutes the platforms of the different parties in this election. As to the Farmer and

FARMERS FEAR BIG INTEREST

NEW BRUNSWICK FARMERS AT CONVENTION STATE POWERFUL ORGANIZATION ARRAYED AGAINST THEM—REVISE PLATFORM.

CALDWELL PRESIDENT

(Canadian Press).

FREDERICTON, N. B., Feb. 3.—Considerable progress was made yesterday at the sessions of the annual convention of the New Brunswick United Farmers, in revising their platform and agreeing on certain principles. Thomas W. Caldwell, M.P., was unanimously re-elected president. Complaints were registered at the boycott of their paper by industrial interests and the lack of sympathy by some sections of the daily press was spoken of as being due to the pressure of a powerful organization.

FRENCH THREATEN TURK NATIONALS

UNLESS FRENCH HELD PRISONERS RELEASED DRASTIC ACTION WILL FOLLOW.

(Canadian Press).

PARIS, Feb. 3.—Admiral Du Mesnu, commanding the French naval forces in the Near East, has sent an ultimatum to the Turkish Nationalist Government at Angora, demanding the immediate release of French soldiers captured by the Nationalists in recent engagements, says a Constantinople despatch to the Matin. He has threatened to bombard the localities occupied by the Nationalist forces if his demands are not met.

MORE MURDERS IN IRELAND.

(Canadian Press).

DUBLIN, Feb. 3.—Four men are dead as a result of the ambush of a squad of auxiliary police at Ballinlee, near here, yesterday, two of the wounded having died late last night. Details of the attack have not been received here, but it is known that one of the two motor lorries was blown up by a mine set in the road, it being said that this was the first time such a method of attack had been used against the Crown forces in Ireland. Three lorries loaded with police were attacked here last night, several bombs being thrown at them. Officers on board returned the fire, two civilians being wounded. A constable in plain clothes who was cycling along Trinity Street, was shot dead during the evening.

ELIMINATES DEPARTMENTS OVERLAPPING

PROVINCIAL DEPARTMENTS OF AGRICULTURE TO OVERSEE PRODUCTION, FEDERAL DEPARTMENT TO CARE FOR MARKETING AND EXPERIMENTS.

REPORT OF MINISTER

(Canadian Press).

OTTAWA, Feb. 3.—The overlapping in the work of the Federal and Provincial Departments of Agriculture will be eliminated and closer co-operation established through the agreement that has been reached at a conference of representatives of these Departments, according to the report of the Minister of Agriculture for the year ending March 31, 1920, which has been issued. Production, it was agreed at the conference, is to be carried on through Provincial activities, while marketing and experimental work are to be cared for by the Federal Department, except where special arrangements to the contrary are deemed wise. The report of the Minister covers in detail the work carried out by the Department during the year. The report is distributed by the publications branch, which is shown to have sent out during the year more than 2,500,000 copies of publications.

ENDORSE HYDRO RATES REPORT?

U.F.O. SENTIMENT SEEMS TO FAVOR SUCH, THOUGH NOT YET DEFINITE.

(Canadian Press).

TORONTO, Feb. 3.—About 25 members of the U.F.O.-Labour Alliance met at Queen's Park this morning, under the chairmanship of F. G. Sandy, of South Victoria, to hear the committee which recently reported on a more equitable distribution of Hydro power and more uniform rates, explain their report. No actual decision was arrived at. The general feeling, however, was in favour of endorsing the report.

POLICE REPULSE SINN FEINERS

(Canadian Press).

KIBBEREEN, County Cork, Feb. 3.—Six members of a party said to number several hundred Sinn Feiners were killed and several others wounded in an attack last night upon a detachment of fifteen police near Rosscarbery, according to reports from police sources reaching here this morning. The attacking party was beaten off after a fierce fight, abandoning a quantity of ammunition. The police, the reports declare, sustained no casualties.

ST. ANDREW'S WOMEN STAGE NOVEL EVENT

UPBUILDING OF WOMEN'S SIDE OF CHURCH PROMOTED AT CONGREGATIONAL BANQUET AT ST. ANDREW'S PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

WORK DURING YEAR

For the first time in many years the Ladies Aid Society of St. Andrew's Church entertained the ladies of the congregation last night at supper and followed with a splendid programme the event proved a most enjoyable one. Over two hundred ladies sat down at 6.30 o'clock to the supper prepared. Practically all the women of the church were present and in every way the event was successful and it will have one direct result that of binding the ladies of the congregation more closely through the medium of the ladies and of the church and in which every woman may find a wide sphere of service and usefulness.

Mrs. Fred Weir was toast mistress Mrs. (Rev) Rollins spoke to the ladies of the successful year. St. Andrew's Church has had and of the important part the Ladies Aid have shown in the annual report of Mrs. played in making it such a memorable one. This was more concretely Conner, which showed that $2,600 was raised in the last year by the society without asking anyone for a cent. In one rummage sale they realized $700.

The toast to the King was responded to by singing the National Anthem. The toast to the Church proposed by Mrs. George Laing was responded to suitably by Mrs. Rollins Mrs. Kerr proposed the toast to the President Mrs. (Dr.) Robinson the president in her reply said in part.

The past year has been one of what might reasonably be called surprising prosperity in St. Andrew's Ladies Aid. When one considers the myriads of causes which are continually appealing for funds, the fact of such a large amount of money being raised in this society is gratifying indeed. One learns by doing, and although some things may seem unwise and hazardous at the beginning, one learns wisdom before the end.

To the very kind co-operation and unfailing help of all the members of the Society I attribute the very successful year we have had and to each one I extend my sincerest thanks.

"The task we have set for ourselves have not been easy ones, but they have been interspersed with many pleasant occurrences and the year I hope will be always a happy memory to us all."

Miss Lancaster, matron of the Protestant House made a stirring reply to the toast to "Our Country".

Mrs (Dr.) Robinson was chairman of the evening and a programme which embraced a solo by Mrs. Maurice Park, recitations by Miss Helen Davidson and an amateur play entitled "The Old Maid's Union" which were all refreshing numbers given.

The following ladies took part in the amateur play which was greeted with such marked success last night that it may be presented later on to the public:—Mrs Barnes, Mrs. Foster, Mrs. Allison, Mrs. George Henderson, Mrs. Breckenbridge, Mrs. Wren, Mrs. Latimer, Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Wilgar, Mrs. Beal, Miss Ina Allin, Miss Margaret Ray, Mrs. Ray, and Miss Breigal.

GERMANY IS ATTEMPTING DECEPTIONS

"BLUE RUIN" BUDGET PREPARED ESPECIALLY TO THROW DUST IN EYES OF THE ALLIED NATIONS SUBJECT OF REPORT BY EXPERTS.

RECOMMENDATIONS MADE

(Canadian Press)

PARIS, Feb. 5.— Germany is told exactly how to eliminate the 76,000,000,000 marks deficit in her 1920 budget in the report to the allies of the conference of financial experts held in Brussels, made public here.

Certain German expenses are declared to have been multiplied 75 times over those of 1919 and certain German taxes are shown to be far below those the allied populations are paying. The report says:

"Many figures in the ordinary budget seem to have been established by an administration and parliament equally desirous of showing the world the precarious financial condition of Germany and her difficult situation."

If the various recommendations are followed the budget should be speedily balanced, says the report. Thus, with a continuation of Germanys economic recovery, the experts declare that Germany, "in a relatively short period, can meet her treaty obligations thru taxation without continuing to increase her floating debt or inflate her currency.

The report says the 1919 and 1920 budgets of Germany carried a number of credits, which were only partially disbursed, such as 16,500,000,000 marks for the allied armies of occupation expenses, of which only 4,500 000,000 marks wes spent. The budget for 1920 carried 42,000,000,000 marks for execution of the peace treaty, while only 17,000,000,000 marks had been paid out up to December 1 last.

Unjustified Items.

Items not justified or greatly multiplied over previous appropriations are said to appear in the 1920 budget. The ministry of the interior appropriation was raised from 19,000,000 marks to 1,433,000,000 marks, an increase of 7500 per cent. The foreign affairs allowance was increased from 24,000,000 marks to 295,000,000 marks The postal and telegraph employees' expenses mutiplied seven times over those of 1919. Thirty-two billion marks were listed for economic subsidies, said to be largely unnecessary and all or the greater part of these and similar expenses, the report declares, should disappear from future budgets. The deficit of 19,000,000,000 marks in railways and other governmental operations should be eliminated thru disappearance of the items charged and increasing of rates, which, the report asserts have been inadequately raised. The German answer to a questionnaire is cited, showing there are 350,000 more government employees than before the war.

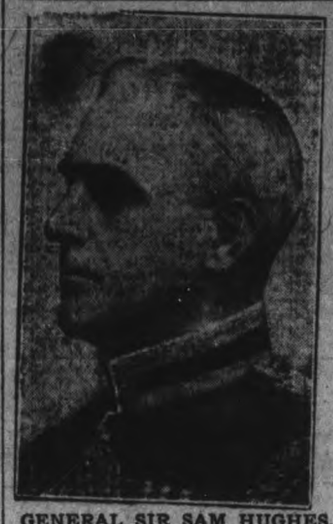
Veteran Liberals State Government Is on Trial Here



GENERAL SIR SAM HUGHES,

Who will move a resolution in the House of Commons calling for re-establishment of patronage as a necessary concomitant of responsible government.

HON. W. S. FIELDING AND HON. CHARLES MURPHY DECLARE GOVERNMENT MUST BE ARRAIGNED FOR THE SINS OF ITS PREDECESSOR AS WELL AS ITS OWN.

ACCEPT CHALLENGE

A big crowd heard the Hon. W. S. Fielding and the Hon. Charles Murphy in the Grand Opera House last evening. The two veterans of Canadian politics were in good form and were given a rousing reception. Mr. F. D. Kerr occupied the chair. A pleasing feature of the programme was a number of solos contributed by Mrs. George King.

Mr. G. N. Gordon, the Liberal candidate, made a fighting speech. He said he was prepared to reply to any accusations the "mudguns" of the Government, esconced in the old Oriental hotel, might have to make against him. "O'Connor dropped into town like a gyspy," said Mr. Gordon, and his mission here was to split the labour vote in a way that would help the election of the Meighen candidate. Mr. Gordon recalled Mr. O'Connor's record with the government and reminded his auditors that the former Board of Commerce Commissioner had held three jobs with the government at one time and in three years received thirty-one thousand dollars in salaries for various government jobs which he held.

Referring to the tariff Mr. Gordon said it was not an issue in the campaign and if it was he was not afraid of it. A few days ago he had been invited by the manager of one of the local food producing plants to go through the factory and canvas all the men in his own behalf. In conclusion Mr. Gordon said he stood for the protection of labour and industry and above all for clean public life and an upright government.

Hon. W. S. Fielding.

Mr. Fielding expressed his pleasure at being in Peterborough and remarked that this was his first visit here, as, in former campaigns, when "the bills were put up for the circus," Peterborough had never been included in his itinerary. With regard to Mr. Burnham, "my genial friend, who never rises to address the House without "being quite interesting, and may be "said to add a good deal to the gayety "of nations," Mr. Fielding said that his contention that the government had exceeded its term, and Mr. King's assertion that Parliament had also outlived its mandate, were regarded by the present party in power as very shocking proposition. The examples of Mr. Crerar, of Mr. Rowell, of Mr. A. K. McLean of Halifax, of General Mewburn, were cited, "so that the "view taken by Mr. Burnham and Mr. "Mackenzie King in these matters is "by no means held by them alone."

A General Election.

"The Conservative leaders say that "a change of leadership does not con"stitute ground for a general election. "I admit that," said the speaker, going on to say that in the past, when a leader died or resigned, there was no need of a general election, because there was no change of policy. "Now we "have not only a change of leadership, "but a change of policy and a change "of name."

"Mr. James Calder is held responsi"ble for the new name of the party, "The National Liberal and Conserva"tive Party. "Why not say: "The Na"tional Liberal and Conservative and "Farmer and Labor party?" Mr. Fielding wondered if the "National" is a delicate compliment to the National-

MAY INCREASE EXPRESS RATES

BOARD OF RAILWAY COMMISSIONERS GRANTS INCREASE TO EXPRESS COMPANIES OF 35 PER CENT.

LIQUOR RATE ADVANCE

(Canadian Press).

OTTAWA, Feb. 3.—In a lengthy judgment, containing some 27 typewritten pages, the Board of Railway Commissions grants to Canadian express companies an increase of 35 per cent. on first-class rates, 25 per cent. on second-class and 20 per cent. on commodity rates, including principally, cream, fish and fruit. The judgment, which is concurred in by all the Commissioners who sat in the case, was written by Chief Commissioner Frank B. Carvell, and was made public late yesterday afternoon. In addition to the increases mentioned above, it provides that the rate on all spirituous liquors in the future is to be increased to first-class. The cartage differential at non-cartage points has been eliminated and as a result express charges will be the same to all points whether city, town, or country.

AUSTRALIA IN FEAR OF ASIA

PREMIER OF QUEENSLAND SAYS "YELLOW MENACE" IS A DANGER TO AUSTRALIAN IDEALS.

(Canadian Press).

BRISBANE, Australia, Feb. 3. — In a speech here to-day, Premier E. G. Theodore declared that anyone who doubted that the Australians would soon be called upon to defend their homes against an Asiatic invasion were living in a fool's paradise. Asiatic ideals and aspirations, he added, were a menace to the ideals of the Australian Liberal party.

BREAD WAR RAGES AND PRICES DOWN

REDUCTION OF EIGHT CENTS A LOAF IN BELLEVILLE.

(Canadian Press).

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 3.—A further reduction of the price was made this morning in the bread war being carried on by the bakers of this city. Three-pound loaves were selling at fourteen cents for wholesale and sixteen cents retail, being eight cents less than a week ago.

SLEEPING SICKNESS SPREADS IN BRITAIN

OVER 300 CASES IN ENGLAND AND WALES ARE REPORTED.

(Canadian Press).

LONDON, Feb. 3.—Reports of new cases of sleeping sickness have been made by doctors in this city and throughout the country. Quite an alarming spread of the disease is being shown. There are now over one hundred cases in London and over three hundred in England and Wales.

Government Lacks Mandate to Power

Labour parties, they are in the same category. A bid for power that may shape things to suit their particular class. The Government has dragged in the tariff, but that is not the issue in this by-election. The Liberals and Farmers are supporting Mr. Burnham's contention, but their insincerity was plainly manifest when they brought out candidates to oppose the man who had the courage to resign his seat in the House and place his case in the hands of the people for a verdict at the polls.

The electors have seen ere this, just what is being staged in this riding for their particular benefit. Independent thinking men and women must surely have come to the conclusion that the only man to elect at this time is he who, by his past record and the stand he has taken, has at heart the welfare of the people as a whole and a high conception of public honor and duty.

Two Hour Address.

Mr. Burnham began his address shortly after 8 o'clock and concluded it just after ten. When his speech was over the meeting was brought to a close with cheers for the King and Mr. Burnham.

Mr. Burnham's speech was filled with numerous witticisms and the spicy humour injected into the meeting was much enjoyed by the audience.

Mr .Burnham told of the formation of the Unionist Party in opening his speech. In 1917, he said, it was realized by both parties that if the war was to be vigorously prosecuted, a union of the two parties would have to take place. Sir Robert Borden made the first overtures to the Liberals. Sir Wilfred Laurier wavered. He felt that he would be deserting all the traditions of his old party, and could not at last see his way clear to take the plunge. At last Sir Robert called a convention at Ottawa ,and despite the chill of partyism which at first was in the air, and later dispelled, he succeeded in forming a government of Liberals and Conservatives on the understanding, as expressed by Hon. Crerar, Fielding and others, that when their duty was done as a war administration, they would separate and go back to their parties

Many, including Hon. Mr. Fielding, whom he praised highly as a great patriot and honest gentleman, the right hand of the government and a tower of strength to the Liberal opposition, resigned. "I have followed modestly in the rear of that great procession."

Unionist Party.

When the war was over, Sir Robert, he said, saw that he must form a permanent Unionist Party, or go to the people, and three caucuses to form such a party failed. People were opposed to the government. After the third caucus had failed Mr. Burnham said, the Premier resigned, but on the advice of his friends "hung around," for several months, but as no support was forthcoming for the Unionist Party, he finally left the ship of state.

"Slippery Jim" Calder, as Mr. Burnham called him, then decided he might get the Premiership, and reorganize the government, but he was turned down by the others, and with Calder, the sinister force behind the whole thing, Hon. Arthur Meighen became Premier of Canada. The watchword of the party was "hang on." Hon. Mr. Calder was disliked by friend and foe alike and at present they did not know what to do with him at Ottawa. As to his own resignation, Mr. Burnham said it was because of his conscientious regard for the electors.

The National Liberal and Conservative Party, like Topsy of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," was not born—it grew—and now everything at Ottawa was topsy-turvy. He felt this new party should have come to some agreement with the people, but they seized power over night, and, so to speak, they were really the straw that broke the camel's back. He resigned.

The G. T. R. Purchase.

The people on the G.T.R. purchase were getting stuck for between 70 and 100 millions, declared Mr. Burnham, and yet this session the government will likely in their dying days take over the railway.

The National Liberal and Conservative Party would cast aside all political traditions, said Mr. Burnham. They had a new party, and in their own estimation Canadian political history only dated from their formation. "I watched events at Ottawa, and I saw, and here is where my greatest hatred of the Unionist Party developed—when the government did not conscript wealth." Mr. Burnham said in their administration they conscripted blood but left wealth alone. He told the House this and threatened to resign if some measures were not taken. He would resign if his suggestion was not followed; and he declared he would have beaten them on that principle here. The result was that heavier taxation was put on wealth.

During his regime Mr. Burnham told of his work. He told of his endeavors (although without concrete results) as chairman of the Old Age Pensions Committee, in securng evidence and data. He favored also some adequate protection by the government against unemployment.

Mr. Burnham told in a lengthy dissertion of old Empires crumbling because they did not cultivate their minds and improve. If Canada is to improve, her mind must be cultivated towards progress. He declaimed against the present financial situation whereby capital depends on money lords for its finances, and the lives and fortunes of millions of people are controlled.

These men control the government in Canada as well, said Mr. Burnham, by their influence and in having so many lawyers in the House who can—and do— work in their interests.

In the course of his remarks, Mr. Burnham told of the other candidates and their representatives having all declined to speak with him last night, as he requested. For that reason the bill of fare was not as attractive as expected. Mr. Burnham pointed out that in his opinion only men qualified to give all their time to the business of government should be elected to the House.

In concluding Mr. Burnham believed a return to the two party system inevitable. He said the group system was disrupting the whole country.

Mr. Burnham said the people had no idea what campaigns cost and the candidate had to pay most of the cost out of his own pocket. In his short experience in political life he said he had paid out $12,000 in cold cash in campaigning.

TALENT SOCIAL HELD IN APSLEY

APSLEY, Feb. 2.— A talent social under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society was held here on Friday evening, Jan. 28. This society has been re-organized under the supervision of Rev. W. H. Hall and the work they are undertaken is a credit to the ladies and pastor in charge. The programme rendered consisted chiefly of local talent and every item was deserving of merit, many responding to encores. All regretted very much that on account of illness the pastor was unable to attend, but the chair was ably filled by Rev. S. Carr, a former pastor. The following was the programme rendered:

Chairman's address—Rev. S. Carr.
Anthem—"All Hail."
Instrumental, mouth organ and auto harp—Mr. and Mrs. W. Carr.
Recitation—Marjorie Wilson.
Instrumental, organ and accordian—Mrs. W. Lean and Mr. T. Lean.
Recitation—Mrs. W. Staples.
Instrumental, organ and mouth organ—Mrs. H. McColl and Mr. W. Earnshaw.
Recitation—Alma Jones.
Solo—Wilbert Johnston.
Dialogue, "The Photographer's Troubles", 3 characters.
Instrumental, organ and autoharp—Mrs. W. Lean and Mrs. W. Staples.
Recitation—Miss Lulu Knox.
Instrumental, organ, accordion and mouth organ—Mrs. W. Lean, Mr. T. Lean and Mr. W. Earnshaw.
Recitation—Amy Lean.
Address, "There's No Place Like Home"—Miss Slimkins.
Dialogue, 'The Frog Hollow Lyceum," 12 characters.
Instrumental, mouth organ and auto harp—Mr. and Mrs. W. Carr.
Reading—Wilbert Johnston.
Address and Toast to the Ladies—Rev. C. A. G. Spence.

Before dispersing a dainty lunch was served by the ladies. Then all joined in singing the National Anthem.

HEAVIEST FRENCHMAN.

WHAT VETERANS WILL GET RELIEF

INTERPRETATION OF MEASURE EXCLUDES SOME OF MOST NEEDY SOLDIERS.

Provision has been made by the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-Establishment for the relief of distress among pensioners and certain vocational graduates who may be unemployed during the months of January, February and March, 1921.

Who Entitled.

Those entitled to assistance shall be (a) necessitous cases among former members of the forces who are in receipt of pension for a disability due to or aggravated by service in the great war, or former members of the forces who have received vocational training under the Department of Soldiers' Re-Establishment for a war disability which prevented the trainee from following his pre-war occupation; and (b) former members of His Majesty's Imperial forces and former members of the forces of His Majesty's "Allies" who are in receipt of pension for a service disability due to or aggravated by service in the great war, and have been residents in Canada for three months prior to making application. This is not to be construed in any way to include minors who have received vocational training, except in cases where they are in receipt of pension for [illegible] disability.

In order to determine what is a necessitous case, officers of the Department shall investigate the home conditions of the applicant for assistance and shall take into consideration income from the earnings of the members of the family. When a pensioner or a former vocational student is unable to secure such employment as will yield sufficient remuneration to provide for himself and dependents or for whom such employment cannot be secured by reason of there being no employment available, as certified by an official of the Employment Bureau, assistance may be granted.

The assistance granted shall not be in cash but shall be limited to expenditure by the Department on behalf of the pensioner or former vocational student of such amounts as may enable him and his dependents to subsist for the period indicated.

The Relief Section shall be governed by the following schedule as a maximum, and in no case shall any applicant be entitled to more. In granting assistance, under the schedule, all sources of income, including pension and bonus of vocational students who have completed course, shall be taken into consideration.

(a) Married men with no children, $75.00 per month; 1st child under 16 (girl 17), $12.00 per month; 2nd child under 16 (girl 17), $10.00 per month; maximum amount, $100.00 per month.

(b) Single men with dependents shall be treated the same as married men.

(c) Single men with no dependents to be given meal tickets and lodgings, when necessary (a maximum of $50.00 per month).

Vendors will be instructed to forward itemized accounts in triplicate weekly to the District Vocational Officer.

Eligible for Relief.

(a) If there is no employment available to which to refer him.

(b) Although there is employment available yet the applicant alleges that his circumstances are such that he is urgently in need of assistance until such time as he received his first remuneration from the work he has been referred to.

(c) Where the applicant refuses to take work due to an industrial dispute (strike or lockout).

THE HEALTHY MAN HAS THE BEST CHANCE

IS ALWAYS FULL OF LIFE AND ENERGY — FAILURES ARE WEAK AND BLOODLESS.

Some men seem to have all the luck. If there are any good things going these men seem to get them. If they are business men they are successful; if they are workmen they get the foreman's job. They have the power of influencing people.

The same is true of women. Some have the charm that makes men seek them out; others are neglected. But this is not luck. It is due to a personal gift—vitality. Men and women of this sort are never weak, puny invalids. They may not be big, but they are full of life and energy. The whole thing is a matter of good blood, good nerves and good health. Everyone would wish to be like this and the qualities that make for vitality and energy are purely a matter of health. By building up the blood and nerves, sleeplessness, want of energy, weakness of the back, headaches and the ineffectual sort of presence which really comes from weakness can be got rid of. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have made many weak, tired men vigorous, and many pale, dejected girls and women rosy and attractive, by improving their blood and toning up their nerves. If you are weak, low-spirited or unhealthy, try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and note their beneficial effect.

You can get these Pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE IN THE SAVAGE ISLES

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 2.—Women's suffrage movements have reached the Dutch East Indies, the colonies whose history and ancient savagery were chiefly known to credulous Americans through the agency of circus sideshows, wherein the "Wild Man of Borneo" and "The Terrible Dyaks, Ferocious Head Hunting Cannibals," drew many dimes while the crowds waited for the "big tent" to open.

Head hunting and kindred savage pastimes still continue, to some extent, within the jungles of these Dutch Islands, but, according to the Dutch press, most of the natives are rapidly adopting modern theories.

In Java, the upper class native women, under leadership of Raden Adjeg Kartini, a woman of high birth, are reported to be making rapid strides toward emancipation, although the Mohammedan custom of polygamy still prevails. In all the "Kartini Schools," the girls of the upper classes are being taught occidental theories of equality with the men. Dutch correspondents say the progress of the movement is necessarily slow but appears to be certain of ultimate success.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1921.

THE CAMPAIGN.

The last stage of the great West Peterboro political free-for-all is rapidly approaching and the interest continues to increase. Last evening, in addition to several meetings in the rural sections, there were two big rallies in the city, the Liberal cause being championed at the Grand Opera House by Hon. W. S. Fielding and Hon. Chas. Murphy; while at Victoria Hall, Mr. J. H. Burnham held his first, last, and only meeting of the campaign. The attendance at both gatherings was barometrical of the keen interest that is being taken in the campaign.

Mr. Murphy has been heard here in recent years, and has lost none of his vigour and eloquence, but it was the first opportunity that many Peterborough people have had of hearing the Hon. Mr. Fielding, Finance Minister of the Laurier Government, and regarded by political friend and foe alike as one of the ablest members of the Canadian Parliament. Both speakers were in excellent form and were given a splendid hearing.

At his meeting, Mr. Burnham had no reason to complain either in the matter of attendance or of interest, for Victoria Hall was crowded, and the speakers' remarks were attentively followed.

THE COST OF EDUCATION.

The cost of education in Peterboro is steadily mounting and the estimates of the Board of Education for the current year show a heavy increase over the figures of last year. There is a jump in nearly every item, and the total increase is $33,400, which is unusually large, even in these days of quickly growing municipal expenditures. To operate the Collegiate Institute alone, it is estimated, will cost $49,100.00 this year. Although it is pointed out that the higher scale of teachers' salaries is not responsible for the large increase, yet the remuneration of the teachers is by far the largest item in the estimates, the public school teachers being paid $90,500.00 for the year. The amount which the Board Education will demand from the Council is $191,000.00 and there will be no loud cheering from the City Fathers when the matter comes before them to comply with the request, and provide the necessary money. The Board of Education would be well advised, however, to give the public an explanation of the necessity of the increase, the mere publication of the figures affording little information to the ratepayers, many of whom would doubtless like to know why there should be such a great difference in the estimates for one year.

THE PATRONAGE QUESTION.

In presenting a resolution calling for the re-establishment of patronage as a necessary concomitant of responsible government, General Sir Sam Hughes will have to be given credit for frankness, if he cannot be commended on his good judgment. Sir Sam is one of the old school. He believes that the members of Parliament should have the power to make all the appointments to the civil service in their respective constituencies. The present system of appointments through the Civil Service Commission is as distasteful to him as is any allusion to the Ross rifle, and he wants to go back to the old days when the member carried the Civil Service jobs around in his vest pocket, and distributed them to the faithful. And Sir Sam is not alone in his opinion; other members share the same views and feel that much of the importance of their position has been cut off by the elimination of patronage, so far as they are concerned. These members are not as frank as the ex-Minister of Militia in airing their views, but the presentation of the Hughes' motion in the House may cause them to voice in public what they have not hesitated to declare in private conversation.

TEACHERS' SALARIES.

The Board of Education has decided to increase the maximum salary of some of the women teachers of the Public School staff, and with this course the public will no doubt be satisfied. The increase from $1250 to $1500 takes effect in September, and, as only twelve teachers are affected this year, the estimates will not be appreciably increased by this simple act of justice. The only difference of opinion will be as to whether the Board has gone far enough, for there is still a wide difference in the remuneration paid male teachers and that provided for the women teachers. Mrs. Morris, in holding out for the application of the principle of equal pay for equal work, was on sound ground logically. However, the local Board of Education has shown a desire at all times to be fair and generous in their treatment of the teachers, and while the salary schedule may not give perfect satisfaction, and there are inequalities that might be remedied, the local teachers on the whole have reason to feel that they can expect justice from the men in charge of the administration of school affairs in the city.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The one big pastime of the week is guessing the election returns.

The Brackin Bill to make all school text books free should receive general endorsation in the Legislature..

Dr. Tolmie says that Chinese eggs are a menace to the Canadian farmer. And to some theatrical attractions, too, he might have added.

Next problem is, what are the people going to do with their evenings when the election is over?

Sir Sam Hughes wants the political plum tree restored and the privilege of shaking it given to the private members.

If the bear came out yesterday he may not have seen his shadow but he must have absorbed a lot of political gossip.

WEEPING FOR GERMANY.

Britain, France, and Italy, through their respective leaders, have come to a complete agreement regarding the terms of the remaining payment by Germany of war indemnity and reparation. The agreement follows the principles and stipulations of the Treaty of Versailles, and is the result of strenuous and prolonged deliberation on the part of well-informed men. The chief German newspapers jeer at it on the instant as impossible. At less than a day's notice they see how foolish it is. Nor are they alone in their perspicacity. Some of the English newspapers which are not known to have ever noticed that Britain has ever done anything right in a hundred years see as clearly and as promptly as the German papers that the agreement between the Premiers of Great Britain, France, and Italy is foolish, and impossible of execution. The Manchester Guardian says it is absurd. The London Daily News wonders if the Allies are sane.

With all due deference to the wisdom of the editorial human wonders of the Manchester Guardian and the London Daily News, two newspapers which for a century or so have accompanied the British Empire in a prosperous and successful march in which the Empire has never done a thing they did not disapprove of, we venture to suggest humbly that perhaps a good idea in the German case would be to "wait and see."

One is not surprised to observe the German newspapers proclaiming that the Allied terms are impossible. Since 1914 the Allies have never said or done anything, including licking Germany, that the German newspapers did not declare to be impossible. Since the Armistice, the Allies have never suggested anything that the German newspapers did not within twenty-four hours announce to be crazy. The German newspapers have all along been perfectly certain that Germany did not do anything in the war that Germany ought to suffer for. All their comments upon what the Allies do or want have been and continue to be based upon the conviction that Germany should be treated like the returning Prodigal Son, and fatted calves killed for it. The Prodigal Son however, left home without murdering anybody or burglarising part of the neighbourhood, and setting fire to the rest. The Germans ought to expect to pay. The German armies ripped up most of the rest of Europe for several years, they destroyed everything they came across that they could not steal, they stopped at no possible villany. Nevertheless, the Germans find it impossible to imagine that they did anything wrong or should pay. This should not be considered important by other people. The fact that the Germans butchered all of Europe they could, may not be a reason why Europe should oppress Germany unnecessarily now, but the fact that the Germans did that and claim that they were not wrong is a good reason why the Allies should not be disturbed when the Germans also declare volubly and angrily that they ought not to be made to pay damages.

The stranger thing is that some English newspapers should protest on the German behalf. Why not wait and see? If the terms the Allies outline are so harsh that Germany cannot meet them, Germany will not meet them, and then will come a more excusable time for the Manchester Guardian and the London Daily News to protest should the Allies take any drastic measures. But at a moment when the German Government is sending millions of dollars over to the Kaiser, maintaining in addition to regular troops a couple of hundred thousand armed police in contravention of her agreements after the Armistice, and falling short of what she agreed to do in many other respects, the instantaneous sympathy of the Little Englanders whenever Germany sheds tears, and their instantaneous conviction that whatever their own countrymen do—albeit after every care and deliberation — must be wrong, is a wondrous illustration of the mug-wump temperament.—Ottawa Journal.

PRESENTATION TO MR. AND MRS. J. R. BORLAND

KEENE, Feb. 2.—A large number of Bethel and Indian River neighbors met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Borland on Monday night, previous to their departure from the old homestead to their new home in Peterborough.

The accompanying address was read to them by Mrs. E. G. Patterson, and two comfortable chairs were presented. Though completely surprised, Mr. and Mrs. Borland replied in fitting terms.

The company spent an enjoyable evening in games and social amenities, refreshments also being served.

The Address.

To Mr. and Mrs. Borland.—Learning, with deep regret of your intention to remove from this neighborhood to another place of abode, we, your friends of the Bethel church and community, desire that you shall not leave without some tangible evidence of the high esteem in which you have been generally held. Your life-long residence in this neighborhood adds to the sense of loss which we sustain in your departure. You will both be greatly missed, especially in the congregation, where your heart and interest were so devotedly centred. Seldom indeed has your pew been vacant, and never without a good and sufficient reason.

As a faithful and valuable member of the quarterly trustee boards, you, brother Borland, will be greatly missed, and your services as steward have made your departure a distinct loss, not only to the Bethel appointment but to the whole Keene circuit. Your constant Christian kindness, courtesy, and integrity have endeared you both to the neighborhood.

Ruthless time and change now interfere with the regular intercourse which we should have continued, but while you change your residence it is in no degree diminishing the cordial feeling of our Christian fellowship, in token of which we ask you to accept these chairs.

We trust that inasmuch as you will not be far removed from us, you may from time to time visit the old friends at Bethel and worship with us again in the wayside church, where for so man years you so loyally gave your constant services. Our prayer is that you may be spared in your new home to enjoy many years of happy tranquil life.

Signed on behalf of the Bethel congregation and community.

THE LAKEFIELD BOARD OF TRADE

OFFICERS ELECTED FOR THE YEAR —BUSINESS TRANSACTED.

LAKEFIELD, Feb 3.—The Board of Trade held its first meeting of the New Year in the Town Hall on Monday night with the President Mr. J. A. Porter in the chair. There were present:—Messrs J. C. Strickland, B. Marling, W. G. Morrison, A E. Dawson, A. Carveth, J. E. Richardson, S. R. Leggott, W. W. Leonard, A. Payne, J. F Lillicrap, Dr Finnemore D. Darling, A. McDonald and E. R Tate.

Mr. W. G. Morrison gave a report of the transportation committee and Mr. J. F. Lillicrap of the Industrial Committee.

It was moved by John E. Richardson, seconded by S. R. Leggott that Mr J. F. Lillecrap be president for the Board of Trade for 1921.—Carried.

Mr. W. J. Charlton was elected 1st Vice President and Mr. E. R. Tate was re-elected Secretary.

The following committees were formed, the first named being chairman in each case.

Transportation committee—Messrs W. G. Morrison, S. R Leggott and J. C. Strickland.

Industrial committee —Messrs. B. Marling, J. E. Richardson and A. E. Dawson

Merchants' Committee—Messrs. J. A. Porter, Spence and H. G. Fitz-Gerald.

Civic Improvement Committee—Messrs. S. R. Leggott, W. W. Leonard and Dr. Finnemore

Publicity Committee—Messrs. A. E. Dawson, W. W. Leonard and J. W Ridpath.

Messrs. J. C. Strickland and W. G. Morrison outlined the plan of the transportation committee with which they hope to get into closer touch with the railways and obtain a better train service.

Mr. B. Marling spoke on the Industrial situation and suggested that an effort be made to get more small industries which employ skilled laborers as he feels it a greater advantage to th town than large plants employing unkilled labor.

Mr. Porter hopes that the Merchants' Committee will advance the interests of the Town and the busines men.

Mr. Dawson, chairman of the Publicity Commitee believes in advertising and feels sure that proper advertising of our village would be of great benefit.

Mr. J. A. Porter addressed the meeting about the loss the Board of Trade and Community at large had sustained in the death of Wm. M. Graham. All public organizations will feel his loss as he was a citizen who took a deep and active interest in anything pertaining to the public welfare and the advancement of the village.

It was moved, seconded and carried that a resolution of sympathy be sent to Mrs. and Miss Graham.

The membership fee for the Board of Trade was reduced to one dollar for the coming year.

"I regard Mr. Meighen with the greatest admiration and respect. He is a man of integrity, high ability and of the greatest industry."—Hon. W. S. Fielding's Remarkable Tribute to the Leader of the Government at the Opera House Last Night

Has the Government a Mandate to Carry On?

The chief, and only, indictment uttered against the Meighen Governemnt by the Hon. W. S. Fielding at Mr. Gordon's meeting last night was that inasmuch as it constitutes a new Ministry under new leadership, it has no mandate from the people, and, therefore, ought to dissolve Parliament and go to the country.

The fallacy of this claim is so clearly exposed, not alone by what actually took place in 1917, but by a whole series of constitutional precedents, that one marvels at its being repeated by a Parliamentarian of Mr. Fielding's knowledge and experience. What are the facts?

(1)—The British North America Act (the Constitution) provides that Parliament shall be elected for a term of five years. As the election was held on the 17th December, 1917, and the last writ was not returned until June, 1918, Parliament could only legally continue until five years from the latter date. The test as to whether a Government should appeal to the country before the expiration of the Parliamentary term is simply whether the Government controls a majority in the House of Commons sufficient to enable it to carry on business. There are many reasons why a dissolution should take place short of the five-year term as, for instance, when great questions of policy which have never been discussed by the electors are submitted to Parliament, but unless some important reason exists, Parliament should continue for the full Parliamentary term.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL PRACTICE.

(2)—Constitutional practice, both here and in England, justifies the present Government in continuing in office without an appeal to the people. In 1891 Sir John Macdonald died, in June. The general election was held in March previous. His Government came to an end with his death, and a new Government had to be formed. Sir John Abbott formed a Government shortly after Sir John Macdonald's death, but there was no dissolution. A year or so later Sir John Abbott found it necessary to retire on the grounds of ill-health, and his retirement was the end of his Government, and a new Government had to be formed. The task was undertaken by Sir John Thompson, and although his Government contained members who were not in the former administration, it was not deemed necessary to dissolve the House. A little more than a year later, Sir John Thompson died, which brought his Government to an end, when Sir Mackenzie Bowell formed a new Government and continued in office until the spring of 1896, when he retired, and Sir Charles Tupper formed a new Government, and dissolved the House at the expiration of the Parliamentary term. In this case, Parliament ran for five years and three months before a dissolution.

A BRITISH PRECEDENT.

(3)—One outstanding example in England occurs in connection with the retirement of Mr. Gladstone in 1894, in the middle of a Parliamentary term. Lord Rosebery was called on to form a new Government, much to the disgust of Asquith, William Harcourt, and John Morley, but the new Government was formed and carried on until nearly the end of the term without any dissolution or general election.

(4)—Again in Canada in 1896, when Sir Wilfred Laurier was returned to power, he selected as his colleagues three Provincial Prime Ministers, namely, Sir Oliver Mowat, Mr. Fielding, and Mr. Blair. In each case these Provincial Premiers had been returned to power at a Provincial General Election held shortly before 1896. These three Provincial Premiers resigned office and their Governments came to an end. In each Province a new Government was formed under a new Premier and with a change of personnel in the Cabinet, but not in a single instance was it considered necessary to dissolve the Legislature or appeal to the people.

In all the above cases the correct constitutional practice was followd. In each instance the new Government was able to command a majority in Parliament and in the Legislature. No new or important line of policy was proposed, and no dissolution was necessary.

LET THEM PRODUCE PLEDGE.

But it is said that the case of the Meighen Government is different, because certain members of the Government gave a pledge in 1917 to resign with the end of the war. What was that pledge? When and where was it given, and by whom?

We challenge Mr. Fielding, or Mr. Murphy, or Mr. Gordon, or even Mr. Burnham, to produce such a pledge. We challenge them with full confidence, because no such pledge, promise, or undertaking was ever given.

Mr. Murphy last night, hard pressed for something or somebody to support his case, summoned as his witness, Hon. Robert Rogers. According to Mr. Murphy, Mr. Rogers—strange witness on behalf of Mr. Murphy—recently declared that "it was well understood when Union Government was being formed that it was to resign right after the war." But what does Mr. Rogers know about it? He was not a member of Union Government. He was not consulted in regard to its formation; he had resigned from the Borden Government at least three months before that time.

The plain truth is that no such pledge was given. The Parliament of 1917 was elected for the usual Parliamentary term of five years; the Government, in addition to its war mandate, was given a mandate to carry out a clearly-defined platform of domestic policy, and it is simply carrying out its mandate.

That in so doing it has the support of the Canadian people is evidenced by the fact that it has carried three out of four bye-elections since Mr. Meighen took office seven months ago.

Uncle Sam:—I don't care which of you fellows wins; ye're both fighting to give me your markets. Advt.

Gordon Admits That He Is For Free Trade

G. N. Gordon, Mackenzie King Candidate in West Peterborough, admitted in the Opera House last night that he is for Free-trade. True, he is not for Free-trade in all things, but he made it abundantly clear that he stands for, and will support, any motion Mackenzie King may move in Parliament to abolish the duties on all foodstuffs, as well as upon farm and other machinery.

In other words, on his own admission, Mr. Gordon is pledged to vote away the Protection enjoyed by some of the greatest industries in West Peterborough.

Mr. Fielding, who is a Protectionist, and who was shelved by his party in favour of Mackenzie King for that very reason, told the Opera House audience that Free-trade would mean disaster for the industries of Canada.

Notwithstanding that, however, Mr. G. N. Gordon declared that so far as he is concerned, he is pledged to Free-trade for the chief industries of West Peterborough.

"Free-trade is ruin for industry," says Mr. Fielding.

"Let us try it on West Peterborough," replies Mr. Gordon.

West Peterborough has three or more great industries, whose very life-blood is Protection. They employ more than 2,000 of West Peterborough's citizens; they have an annual payroll of $2,000,000; and they provide a market for West Peterborough farmers. Mr. Gordon boldly commits himself to a policy that would involve their complete annihilation.

DON'T TAKE CHANCES.

Don't delude yourself into the belief that there is no danger, that Gordon is merely "talking through his hat," and that if the Liberals got back into office they would leave the tariff alone. Mr. Fielding told you that last night. "Look at what happened after 1896," he said. "We didn't hurt your industries then; we are not going to hurt them now." These words were uttered to help the candidature of Gordon, to help Gordon out of the hole in which his foolish Free-trade talk has placed him in a constituency which, Mr. Fielding's sense tells him, is Protectionist; but they cannot be relied upon. They cannot be relied upon, because Mr. Fielding, alas, is no longer a power in the councils of Ottawa Liberalism. The most able, the most distinguished, the most sagacious of Liberal statesmen, the Ottawa Liberal Convention, dominated by its Free-trade wing, shelved him in favour of the immature, inexperienced, but low tariff Mr. King. Although Mr. Fielding was Liberal Finance Minister for fifteen years, he was not permitted to write the Liberal tariff platform. That platform was written by Mr. Andrew McMaster, a rabid Free-trader, who has ousted Mr. Fielding from the position of Opposition Financial Critic, and by Mr. George Langley, an out-and-out Free-trader, and a member of the Western Farmers' Party (The Canadian Council of Agriculture), aided by G. N. Gordon of West Peterborough.

The whole tendency of that platform is toward Free-trade. It wants Free-trade in foodstuffs, in farm and other machinery; it wants to practically abolish the tariff on scores of other articles; and it wants Reciprocity with the United States. Its real meaning has been expressed by Mr. King, who, in the course of a speech at North Battleford on 29th October, 1920, said:

"There is nothing in the programme of the farmers which is not in the programme of the Liberal Party."

In other words, the Liberal Party, according to Mr. King, is for the fiscal policy of Mr. Crerar—ultimate Free-trade.

Mr. Fielding pleads with West Peterborough Electors to not take this language seriously, and refers them to what happened after 1896. What he forgets is that the position of the Liberals after 1896 was different from what it would be if the Meighen Government were beaten to-day. In 1896 the Liberals had a clear majority in Parliament and a majority of Protectionists in their own ranks. But if Mr. King were called upon to form a Government to-day, he would be dependent upon the Farmers for his Parliamentary majority, and there would be a majority of Free-traders within his own ranks. In other words, the West would hold the balance of power, and the West would dictate Free-trade.

RALLY BEHIND DENNE.

West Peterborough cannot afford to risk helping a Free-trade Government to power. The election of G. N. Gordon would not bring about the downfall of the Meighen Government. It would, however, give encouragement and support to the Free-trade party. It would strengthen the arm of the Western Radical Free-traders, who are out to destroy Protection; it would give all Canada the impression that this great industrial centre does not care a tinker's curse about Protection, and it would discourage those who are fighting to keep the old policy of Protection and Prosperity alive.

Let the Electors of West Peterborough rally, then, to the banner of Roland Denne. Whether you are Liberal or Conservative or Labour, go out and Vote for the one man who stands for your industrial prosperity.

Roll up a decisive, smashing majority for Roland Denne.

The National Liberal and Conservative Publicity Committee

GOVT. AND PROFITEERS; A REPLY TO MR. MURPHY

In his speech at the Opera House last night Hon. Charles Murphy claimed that the Government was the friend of Big Business and had failed to tax the Profiteers.

What are the facts?

The facts are—and this can be substantiated by official figures—that no Government in the world has taxed or is now taxing Big Business more heavily than the Government of Canada. In support of this we submit (and Mr. Murphy will not and canot deny it):

(1) That the Canadian Business Profits Tax was the heaviest existing in any country — heavier than that of even England itself;

(2) That the Canadian Income Tax to-day is exactly on a par with the Income Tax of the United States, and that on BIG INCOMES it is the heaviest in the world.

The British Income Tax, the Australian Income Tax and the New Zealand Income Tax are heavier than the Canadian Tax on small incomes, but on big incomes, on the earnings of Big Business and the Profiteers, the Canadian Tax is the severest of all.

Thus on an income of $250,000—and there are plenty who have that income—a New Zealander pays $93,000; an Australian pays $98,000; an Englishman pays $129,000; WHILE A CANADIAN PAYS $133,000.

We challenge Mr. Murphy, Mr. Fielding, Mr. Gordon or Mr. Campbell to deny these figures. And they constitute but one instance of the whole scale of Canadian income taxation as compared with the scales of the other countries mentioned

Furthermore, in addition to the Income Tax and the Business Profits Tax, there is a heavy tax on the profits of packers and a 10 per cent tax on Corporations as well.

Oh, but, says Mr. Murphy, you are not collecting it!

Well, let us see!

According to figures just issued by the Department of Finance, the total collections from Profits or Income collected up to January 27th, 1921 under the Business Profits War Tax Act and the Income War Tax Act amount to the gigantic figure of $195,528,876.77. The official figures are as follows:

Business Profits Tax	$139,913,751.43
Income War Tax	$ 55,615,125.34
Total	$195,528,876.77

That is what the profiteers, who, according to Mr. Murphy, have been let go free, have been forced to pay into the treasury.

Friends of Big Business! Who were the friends of Big Business when the Government took the Canadian National and Grand Trunk Railways out of the hands of the Railway Magnates and handed them over to the people, this in the teeth of opposition from the financial interests of Montreal, whose cause was championed on the floor of Parliament by Mackenzie King and his friends?

The truth is that the present Government is the only Government that Canada has ever had that has taxed the Profiteers. Between 1896 and 1911, when Mr. Fielding and Mr. Murphy and their friends were in power, not one cent of direct taxation was levied in this country.

No, Mr. Meighen is not a friend of Big Business. On the contrary Big Business in Montreal denounces him as a "dangerous Socialist."

But Premier Meighen is neither of these things. He is a Canadian, sprung from the soil, the son of a plain Ontario farmer, who has risen to his proud position by the divine right of intellect, and whose only desire is to mete out even-handed justice to all classes, interests and creeds in this country.

"Please Get Married," the Screen Classics, Inc., production of the successful Broadway stage comedy of honeymoons, starring dainty Viola Dana, has been booked as the attraction at the Empire Theatre beginning to-day, and the management assures its patrons of entertainment of the most amusing kind. "Please Get Married," by James Cullen and Lewis Allen Browne, was one of the hits of the season when it was produced in New York by Oliver Morosco, and all of its mirth-provoking qualities have been transferred to the screen.

The photo-production was made under the personal supervision of Maxwell Karger, Screen Classics, Inc Director General and is released by Metro.

Miss Dana is ideally suited for the role of Muriel Ashley, the timid young wife in "Please Get Married." In the delicious situation of a wife, but not a wife, she distils every drop of comedy and clever naughtiness with which the play is surcharged.

R.O.S. TUXIS BOYS WIN THEIR FIRST GAME

Early spectators to the City League game last night witnessed a fast game between the Tuxi and the Murray Street boys. There was considerable amount of snow on the ice, which was some hindrance. The score for the first 10 minutes was zero, but in a rush Thornton scored for the Tuxis boys. At the end of the 1st period the score was 4-0 in favour of the Tuxis boys.

The second period saw the only goal put in for Murray street boys, which was a race shot from John Ward. The Tuxis boys were not idle and managed to make the total of 6 goals.

The game was fairly clean and only a few penalties had to be paid.

Mr. Steer handled the game very satisfactorily. Line-up:

COAL SHORTAGE IS ACUTE IN HUNGARY

WOOD ALSO IS AT A PREMIUM—THEFTS OF FUEL COMMON OCCURRENCE.

(Associated Press.)

BUDAPEST, Jan. 16.—(By Mail).—Many of the poor people of this city are being driven to wholesale thievery by the fuel shortage. The recent theft of 25 carloads of wood from one train of 100 carloads as it entered the city shows the extent to which the stealing is going on.

Wood is so scarce that when a wagon-load is driven through the streets people stop and gaze after it until it is out of sight.

Daring small boys are ever on the alert for a stray piece of wood or anything that will give heat at home. They scamper after every passing wood wagon, but are soon frightened away by long whips in the hands of two women who sit on guard astride the load.

The operation of unloading a ton of Hungary's inferior brown coal before a house attracts many neighbors who make a pathetic picture as they watch basketful after basketful disappear into the coal bin of the more fortunate one.

Because of the urgency to obtain fuel, by dishonest means, if honest ones are of no avail, the juvenile courts were never so crowded with youthful offenders.

The scarcity of fuel, arises more acute daily as winter advances. The street railway service has been sharply curtailed and people wait for hours exposed to the bitter cold. The worst operated American street car never tolerated such crowding.

Gas is Short.

Gas factories are provided with coal for only 24 hours at a time and the gas is turned on now only at noon and after 6 o'clock. Only one light is permitted in a room and not more than three rooms in a house or single apartment may be lighted at the same time. Even at the most expensive hotels there is no running hot water. Saturday is bathing day. On other days baths can only be had at the public baths for which Budapest is famous.

One of the latest and most drastic steps of the new Government is the deportation of undesirable citizens, those suspected of Bolshevik tendencies or who are known to be opposed to the present form of Government. Hundreds of these have come to Hungary since the outbreak of the war. Now their houses and flats are being commandeered and turned over to homeless refugees from Transylvania and other sections who have been living in freight cars in the railroad yards.

Parting With Jewels.

The majority of the people have parted company with the last of their articles of jewelry and the dealers from other lands are not getting many takers of their offers of fabulous prices for gold and silver. What is called the State Exchange Bureau, a sort of national pawnshop, has paid as high as 80,000 crowns for a kilogram (of 2.20 pounds) of scrap gold and dealers are offering 120,000 crowns in an effort to coax another kilogram from people who may be hoarding their precious metal. For pure gold 250,000 crowns a kilogram is offered with no takers. The explanation is that most of the gold has been smuggled to other countries where the money has more value.

Warning to America.

The Hungarian newspapers print a warning to 150,000 laborers of Hungarian origin in the United States to desist from their reported intention to return to their native land at this time. The papers say that the economic crisis in America can never be as bad as it is here and urged their countrymen not to further embarrass Hungary's unemployment problem.

As if the country's cup of misery was not full it is now visited by an epidemic of hoof and mouth disease and people are prohibited from buying cattle from neighboring states. All frontiers are closely watched and all cattle within 20 kilometers of the border must be registered with the health authorities.

Fletcher--Hawkins.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the parsonage on Wednesday, January 26th, when Harriette Beryl, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hawkins, Cedardale Farm, Otonabee, was united in marriage to John Alfred, the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Fletcher. Mr. Fred. Hawkins, brother of the bride, officiated as the groomsman, and Miss Muriel Upton, of Campbellford, as bridesmaid. The grooms gift to the bride was a pearl pendant; to the bridesmaid a bar pin, set with pearls, and to the groomsman a tie pin. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. E. Honey.

Boy Scouts.

The Boy Scouts held their first regular monthly meeting in the town hall on Thursday evening and received their first instructions and drills under the direction of their Scoutmaster, Mr. Barnes.

Hockey News.

The Keene juniors played Peterboro Junior hockey team last Thursday night at Peterboro, the latter team winning with a score of 2 to 1.

Keene senior hockey team played Lakefield on the Keene rink on Tuesday evening. Keene won by a score of 12 to 3.

FISHERMAN'S DAY IS FEBRUARY NINTH

To give other food resources an opportunity to recover, but primarily to assist in the development of the fishing industry, enable Canada to take its logical place at the head of fish-producing countries I would ask every hotel keeper and restauranteur throughout the country to give prominence to Canadian fish on Fishermans' Day—National Fish Day, February 9th .

We at home consume about one-third of the fish we produce. Canada is our bigest buyer. Unlimited supplies of fish are available to us and our chief concern is to extend the demand for it. Each and every Canadian can do his or her part to develop the most important of our markets right here at home, by giving fish the place it deserves in one's diet. Let all begin to cultivate the habit on February 9th.—C. C. Ballantyne, Minister of Marine and Fisheries.

GROCERS TAKING LESS PROFIT ON MANY LINES

RED ROSE TEA PEOPLE MAKE A FURTHER STATEMENT.

Some of our friends among the grocers, in speaking of our letter to the press on grocers' profits, have indicated that apparently it has been construed by some readers to mean that Red Rose Tea was the only article on which the grocer takes a smaller profit, in order to give his customers a higher quality.

It was not our intention to convey such an impression, as we know that most grocers sell well-known brands of other goods at less profit than they could make on some brands equally well known, and for the same reason that they recommend Red Rose Tea, simply to give their customers the best possible value.

In our letter we mentiontd Red Rose Tea because it naturally came first to our mind and because we knew that grocers were selling it at a less profit than they make on other teas.—T. H. Estabrooks Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

CLOVER MAY BE A SHORT CROP

TORONTO, Feb. 2.—Fears as to the extent of winter injury extends to other crops besides wheat. At a meeting of beekeepers from all over older Ontario, held in the office of Mr. P. W. Hodgetts, the belief was expressed that the clover crop has suffered severe damage and that as a result both the clover and honey crops of 1921 will be short ones.

"It is not unlikely that strawberries, where not protected by mulch, have suffered as well," Mr. Hodgetts said. "The frost was out of the ground to a depth of three inches during the late thaw and the hard freeze-up that followed has probably caused some damage at least."

Mr. Hodgetts is of opinion, however, that fruit trees have not sustained any hurt so far.

An iron kettle for deep fat frying is a necessity in every kitchen.

DOWNEYVILLE, Feb. 2.— Miss Mary Foley of Peterborough, who has been the guest of Mrs. John Murray, has returned home.

Miss Kate Perdue of Ennismore, has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. Percy Lucas.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Winn, of Toronoto, who were here to attend the funeral of the late Michael Crowley, have returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Perdue of Peterborough, spent Sunday with relatives here.

Miss Margaret Woolerd of Peterborough, who has been visiting in the vicinity has returned home.

A WONDERFUL SHOT.

HAMILTON, Feb. 3.—Capt. Cornelius, physical director at the Collegiate Institute, made a statement regarding the remarkable shooting of T. E. Hayhurst, a son of T. H. Hayhurst, Queen's prizeman. Mr. Hayhurst in a recent shoot for a gold medal, was required to shoot at ten targets, and to put ten shots on each, with a possible total of 70 points. His total was 69.5, which Capt. Cornelius says is, according to information from headquarters, the highest score ever made by a Dominion marksman.

LAKEFIELD NEWS

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 3.—Mrs. Wm. Edwards of Peterborough, spent the week end in the village.

Mrs. H. Morse and family left on Tuesday for Toronto, where they will reside in future.

Mr. W. E. Hartshorn of Peterborough was in the village on Monday on business.

Mrs. Edwards of Sarnia and Mrs. T. E. Finlay, of Norwood, spent Tuesday in the village with friends.

Mr. Seigal of Toronto, who has been visiting in the village, returned to Toronoto on Tuesday.

Mrs. H. J. Sutton is visiting friends in Toronto.

Vestry Meeting.

The following sidesmen were elected at the annual vestry meeting of St. John's church, held on Monday evening last: Messrs. H. G. Fitzgerald, Trude Waldon, Thomas Watson, J. C. Strickland, Wm. Watson, J. F. Lillicrap

The rector appointed the following to act with them: Messrs. B. Marling, Trude Leggott, A. Hope, A. E. Dawson, Richard James and Milford Hampton.

Special Meeting.

The special meeting held in the lecture room of the Methodist church under the auspices of the Woman's Missionary Society was a great success. There was a splendid atendance of the members and members of the sister societies who were cordially invited. About one hundred and fifty ladies were present.

The occasion was the fortieth birthday of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist church and there were forty new members in the Lakefield branch this year.

There was a splendid programme, which was as follows:

Hymn.
Prayer.
Hymn.
Roll call—To which seventy-nve answered.
Paper—Work of the local branch by Miss Jory.
Hymn.
Paper—General Work Throughout Canada. by Mrs, Leonard.
Duet — Mesdames McMillan and Spence.
Recitation—Misses Letta Nixon and Merle Crawford.
Solo, with violin obligato — Mrs. Allan Hunter.
Reading—Mrs. J. H. Sherin.
Solo—Mrs. McMillan.
Address—Rev. S. F. Dixon.
Benediction.

After the Benediction a social half hour was spent and all the ladies had a pleasant time. A feature of the tea hour was the presence on the table of the birthday cake with its forty candles.

Mrs. Simpson moved a vote of thanks to the ladies of the W.M.S. for their kind invitation to the sister societies, and Mrs. C. S. Tanner seconded the motion.

It was an occasion which marks another epoch not only in the missionary societies but in the community life of our village.

As alleged incendiary fire destroyed twelve Pullman and seven freight cars and other property in Chicago, amounting to a loss of over $450,000.

ANOTHER ESTIMATING CONTEST, BUT THIS TIME ON ELECTION

EVERY VOTER IN THE RIDING HAS AN OPPORTUNITY—ESTIMATES MUST BE IN BY ONE O'CLOCK MONDAY NOON, ELECTION DAY. READ THIS ONE.

The Examiner has been offered the idea by one of its readers in East City, which it is glad to put into effect, inasmuch as it might stimulate a greater interest on the part of some of the citiezns, in both the City and Rural Districts, to go to the polls on election day than they have evinced in the past, although it would seem that with five candidates in the field no one would be without an invitation.

We offer three prizes to be given to those on the Voters' List, who send in before Monday noon, one o'clock. (Election Day), the nearest correct estimates to the total number of votes that will be cast in the riding for all the combined candidates. The prizes will be as follows:

Nearest Correct Estimate $10.00
Second Nearest Correct Estimate 5.00
Third Nearest Correct Estimate 2.50

A coupon appears on page two and all estimates must be made on this coupon and reach the Examiner before noon on election day. It costs nothing but the effort of filling in the figures in this coupon. 4d31

NEW BRUNSWICK LEGISLATURE MEETS ABOUT LAST OF FEB.

(Canadian Press.)

ST. JOHN, N.B., Jan. 3.—When the Legislature of the Province of New Brunswick meets at Fredericton under Premier W. E. Foster probably about the last of February there will be a good many new faces before the Speaker. At the general Provincial election last October two Ministers of the Foster Cabinet—Hon. P. J. Veniot and Hon. Mr Murray—fell by the wayside and their places have been taken by Hon. W. D. Mersereau and Hon. Dr. Hetherington, successful candidates, so that the complexion of the executive will be changed. The Opposition will be led by Hon. J. B. M. Baxter.

As far as the Government (Liberal) is concerned, it will have about twenty-three followers in the House —the same number as last session. The opposing benches will be divided between the Conservatives and the Farmers in the probable proportion of fourteen to eleven. Whether these two parties will be able to form a working agreement against the Government is uncertain. During the election campaign there were no candidates more condemnatory of the Liberals than the agrarians, but since that time there have been several signs that they may work with the Government on most issues, on the principle that they may accomplish more for their purposes by supporting Premier Foster than by declaring open war.

The attitude of the Farmers should be fairly well understood after their convention at Fredericton on February 1st, 2nd and 3rd, where, it is expected, they will discuss the Provincial situation and decide what course they should pursue. All over the Province the various agrarian clubs and associations are holding organization meetings and preparing for the big convention.

A good deal of the time of the Legislature is likely to be taken up with the consideration of estimates and expenditures of the Government during the past year. The Conservatives, stumping the country, charged the Foster party with gross extravagance and promised a policy of rigid economy if they were returned, which suggests that the big fight in the House will be on that issue. There are many who suspect that the first division of importance will be in that connection and, if they are right, it may prove rough sledding for the Government for none during the pre-election campaign were so critical on the head of expense as the Farmers. They may join the Opposition on a vote on that issue and make it uncomfortable for the party in power.

Roads policies, crown lands and power concessions promise to afford material for debate in the House. The Conservatives have opposed the Governmental policy in each of these departments, charging costly and poor construction of highways and easy disposal of the resources of the Province.

No fundamental change in the liquor laws of the Province is looked for.

A CASE WHERE DOCTORS AGREE

MEDICAL SCIENCE PRACTICALLY UNANIMOUS AS TO TREATMENT OF COLDS.

Doctors are practically unanimous that the drugs which should be used in the case of colds are aspirin, phenacetine, quinine, salol, caffeine citrate and camphor monobromate. This combiination may safely be trusted in the treatment of colds or a case of grippe and the work it does is quick and effective.

Grip-Fix, a preparation now on sale at all druggistores, is a combination of just the ingredients advised by physicians for effective results. Grip-Fix has a record for relieving a cold in a night and even a case of grippe in forty-eight hours. With a box in the house, Grip-Fix is a full safeguard against any outbreak of colds. Be sure you get the genuine Reid's Grip-Fix with the formula printed on the box. It sells for 35c —a small price for a remedy so effective for colds. (Advt.)

WHAT SIR HENRY DRAYTON FORGOT

The Sir Henry Drayton who spoke in Peterborough last Saturday is the same Sir Henry Drayton who has been travelling about the Dominion of Canada for the past six months as Chairman of the Tariff Commission, a commission supposedly independent, whose duty it is to accept all evidence in an impartial manner, analyse and digest it, and make its findings public when Parliament meets. The Commission is supposed to be absolutely impartial and non-partizan, particularly, during the time this evidence is being taken and the report prepared and it should not under any circumstances permit anything to influence its decisions.

Not so, however, with Sir Henry. Out of the fullness of the heart the mouth speaketh and up to Peterborough he went to air his protectionist views. He compared Canada's taxation with that of Great Britain.

He forgot to mention that Canada was collecting by indirect taxation, that is, Customs, Public Works, which comes direct from the masses, 86¾ per cent. of her taxes, while in Great Britain only 24 per cent. is derived from this source.

He forgot to say that in Canada the rich contribute by direct taxation, that is Income, etc., etc., only 13¼ per cent. of our revenues, while in Great Britain there is collected from this source 76 per cent.

He forgot to say that in Great Britain eleven per cent. only of their total revenue is collected from Customs taxes, while in Canada our revenue derived from Customs taxes amounts to approximately 50 per cent.

He forgot to say that in Great Britain the revenue derived from Customs tax for the year 1018-19 was $11.11 per capita, while in Canada for the same period and from the same tax it amounted to $21 per person.

He forgot to say that during the first four years of the war not one cent was collected in Canada from Incomes, and that during the same period there was collected in Great Britain on Incomes alone over ($3,000,000,000) three billion dollars.

He forgot to say—but what's the use, he really did not forget to say any of these things. He went to Peterborough to carry out the wishes of his masters and deliver an oration, supporting the Big interests of this country. He delivered the message, showed the people of Peterborough how partizan he was and how little he cared for his oath of office to conduct a fair and impartial investigation into the Tariff conditions of this country.

NORTHWESTERN NEWS SERVICE

Output of Coal.

EDMONTON, Alta., Feb. 2.—The total output of Alberta coal mines for 1920 is estimated at 6,650,000 tons, by John S. Stirling, of the Government Mines Branch. This is the largest output in the history of the industry, exceeding the 1919 figures by 1,627,588 tons. An outstanding feature during the year was the marked increase in shipments to both the eastern and western markets.

Final returns from some mines are still lacking, but for the eleven months, to the end of November, Manitoba took 516,198 tons of domestic and steam coal, with an additional 1,161 tons of anthracite, as against a total of 314,290 tons in 1919.

The British Columbia market took 108,430 tons of domestic and steam coal, a gain of nearly 20,000 tons over the preceding year.

Even Ontario furnished an increased market for Alberta fuel. Shipments of 10,688 tons were made to Toronto and other Ontario points, compared with 208 tons the previous year.

Coal and Oil.

CALGARY, Feb. 2.—After a vigil of seventeen days outside the Dominion land office, assisted by two returned veterans in his employ as sentinels, C. H. Stanley, secretary-treasurer of the Elgin Coal Company, of Drumheller, succeeded in landing two valuable pieces of land, a coal lease at Drumheller and an oil lease at Czar.

The period of seventeen days was put in shift of four hours on and eight hours off. "I erected a small hut of beaver board," said Mr. Stanley, "and with the aid of rugs and blankets, managed to hold the fort against all-comers." Attempts were made to get his henchmen to leave him, but despite offers of $800 at one time and $200 another, they stuck to the job.

Grazing Lands.

REGINA, Feb. 2.—A strong recommendation that transfer of grazing leases be carried on in the future in such a manner as to permit organized communities to have first chance to utilize the grazing facilities has been sent to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands, Ottawa, by the Saskatchewan Department of Agriculture.

Centre of Fur Trading.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 2.—An association, with the backing of several of the largest trading posts in the northwest, has been formed here by local business men who hope to make Winnipeg the centre of fur trading for the western world. H. Newdall, who for the past 16 years has been identified with every phase of the Canadian fur business, is the manager of the new company, and is well known by fur shippers.

The first sale will take place the first week in March. A special feature of the sale will be the system of bidding by sealed tender instead of the method of open bidding. By this procedure, it is claimed, buyer and seller alike will have the assurance that they have been fairly treated. Any shipper may place a reserve bid on his consignment.

Land Mark Destroyed.

EDMONTON, Feb. 2.—Fire was responsible recently for the destruction of the second oldest ecclesiastical institution in this part of the Province, when the forty-year-old Catholic church at St. Albert was destroyed.

The church, which was the cathedral for many years, was one of the historical landmarks of the Edmonton district. It was built by the priests and reverend brothers entirely. Some of the finest paintings and carvings that could be seen anywhere were in this old church. For a long time it served the needs of the Catholic people of the whole district.

The paintings around the church and around the altar were particularly beautiful and the two angels, one each side of the high altar are stated to equal anything in the churches of the old land; all were done by the Christian brothers who, coming from Brittany, France and Belgium, were, many of them, master craftsmen.

Military Course Now.

SASKATOON, Feb. 2.—The University of Saskatchewan will have a definite military course for the year 1922, according to an announcement made after a recent conference between President Murray of the University, and Brigadier-General Ormond, O.C., No. 12 district.

One hour each week will be devoted to drill and physical training and one hour to theoretical work. Lectures will be given on military science by officers appointed by the Militia Department, covering the strategy of the Great War, with particular reference to campaigns and engagements in which the Canadians took part.

British Girls Make Good.

REGINA, Feb. 2.—One hundred and sixty-three British girls were brought to Regina last year and sent to positions as household workers in the Province, according to a report submitted to the Local Council of Women. Ninety per cent. have proven satisfactory.

PRINCE OF WALES SEES PRODUCTION OF A NEWSPAPER

FOLLOWS PIECE OF COPY FROM EDITOR'S DESK THROUGH EVERY DEPARTMENT UNTIL PRINTED.

(Associated Press.)

LONDON, Feb. 3.—The Prince of Wales has been initiated into the complexities of modern newspaper production by visiting the offices of The Times and following a piece of copy from an editor's desk through the composing, proof-reading and sterotyping room. Then he pressed the starting button of a mammoth octuple press and saw the article reproduced in print.

The first folded paper which came from the roaring machine was handed the royal visitor who smiled as he saw on the front page a picture of himself with a caption stating that he had started the machinery which printed it.

Throughout his inspection of the many departments of the great newspaper office, the Prince kept up a rapid-fire of questions, which showed his keen interest in the art of newspaper making.

The difference between various kinds of automatic type-setting machines, the amount of time saved by their substitution for the old hand-setting method, why cylindrical moulds of the original type forms are placed on the presses instead of the flat chases of type themselves, the spread of the presses and the length of a roll of newsprint paper were among the points on which the Prince was curious.

He marvelled at the ability of "make-up" men to read type upside down and failed to recognize a three-column "cut" of himself in the form he was endeavoring to read. In the composing room he picked up a slug of type as it came from a linotype machine, but found it too hot to hold.

John Walter, chairman of The Times, and Wickam Stead, editor, served as guides to the Prince. The directors of the newspaper, several departmental heads and a small number of visitors invited for the occasion, were presented to him. With each he chatted a short time, discussing individual avocations, business, sport and travel, in his usual simplicity of manner.

The Prince is the second heir to the throne to visit Printing House Square. In 1863, the late King Edward, then Prince of Wales, made a similar inspection of The Times' plant.

LABOR CONDITIONS ON FARMS REPORTED SOMEWHAT IMPROVED

IN MIDDLESEX FARMERS ARE PICKING UP MEN AT FROM $30 TO $40 A MONTH.

The following is a summary of reports made by the agricultural representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

Although fall wheat has been unduly exposed during the greater part of January, owing to the almost entire absence of snow, no report of definite loss has so far been received. The following comments on the condition of the crop have been received:

Kent: "Wheat has been uncovered practically all along, but it is all right so far."

Middlesex: "Fall wheat has suffered only a little."

York: "Fall wheat seems to be living, and is in fairly good shape."

Kent reports hogs coming into the market in considerable numbers at $14.50 a cwt., but adds that dealers are complaining that many of the animals are too heavy. A carload sold in Essex averaged 300 lbs. Other representatives refer to the tendency of feeders to hold their hogs too long.

Leeds describes the marketing of live stock as being about as usual for the season of the year.

The milk supply is practically normal, and winter prices are prevailing.

Middlesex reports the shipment of a few carloads of horses during the past week.

Hay is scarce in most localities. Prices range from $25 to $35 a ton, largely depending upon ease of delivery to the best markets. Farmers, however, feel secure with a good supply of ensilage and straw on hand.

Kent states that considerable corn has been sold in Merlin for feed at a cent a lb. on the ear.

Renfrew reports dry hardwood for fuel selling at from $10.50 to $12 a cord.

Leeds describes labor conditions as being somewhat improved. Middlesex states that farmers are picking up men at from $30 to $40 a month. Kent reports that a number of men have returned to the country for work at reduced figures.

The open winter also has permitted farmers to do a number of jobs around their property that have been neglected during the year, owing to lack of labor.

Father Dominic, who has been sentenced in Dublin to five year' penal servitude. During the time the late Lord Mayor MacSwiney of Cork was starving himself to death in prison, Father Dominic was his chaplain.

CATHOLIC WOMEN'S LEAGUE.

A New Organization For the Catholic Women of Peterborough.

At a splendidly attended meeting held in St. Alphonsus' Lyceum Sunday last the above society was organized. His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, Monsigneur McCall, Rev. C. J. Phalen, Rev. J. J. O'Brien attended.

Mrs. Kentelton of Toronto, eloquently and comprehensively stated the aims and objects of the League, describing the great work already accomplished in foreign countries. In France, where it originated, and in England and Italy during the war, and rapidly extending from coast to coast in our land it is becoming a nation-wide organization.

So much enthusiasm was evidenced that the three hundred or more ladies present nearly all enrolled as members.

The motto of the League, "For God and Canada," expresses its high ideals and work of the society includes social service, education and national unity.

After definitely explaining the duties of each officer, the following were elected:

Spiritual Adviser—Rt. Rev. M. J. O'Brien.

Pres.—Mrs. V. J. Gallivan.

1st Vice-Pres.—Mrs. G. H. Popham.

2nd Vice-Pres.—Miss M. A. McConnell.

3rd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. V. J. McElderry.

Corresponding Sec'y—Mrs. B. Law.

Recording Sec'y—Miss M. McGrath.

Treasurer—Mrs. D. O. Legendre.

lists of Quebec, "with whom they fram-"ed an unholy alliance in 1910, the "cause of all the trouble in that pro-"vince and since," and said that if they were over in Ireland, they would probably call it the "Black and Tans." The Conservatives for years had been proud to be known as true Tories, but now they appeared to be ashamed of the name, and the Liberals were the same in name now as always, and would continue to be known as Liberals for all time.

The New Leader.

With regard to the new leader, he said: "In Mr. Meighen we have a gen-"tleman of fine ability, of untiring in-"dustry and of high personal charac-"ter," although his conceptions of po-"litics in Canada are entirely at vari-"ance with the democratic principles "of the land in which we live, and, in "the event of his defeat, it would be "advisable for him to go to Mexico, "where they need strong-arm men."

The leaders of the Liberal and Farmer parties, Mr. Mackenzie King and Mr. Crerar also came in for commendation, and Mr. Fielding asserted that while it would be a great thing for Canada if the Liberals held the reins of power, it would not be so bad if the Farmers triumphed, and even if the Tories continue to run the country, "we can stand it. Canada has "stood a good deal." "The misfortune in the case of Mr. Meighen is that his conceptnons of politics are all wrong." An article which Mr. Meighen recently wrote for Maclean's Magazine, giving a summary of his views, began as follows:

"Before discussing the situation to-"day it is well for a word to be said "on the Genesis of the Government "in whose behalf I write," but Mr. Fielding asserted that Mr. Meighen had proceeded to garble his political Scripture by skipping Genesis altogether and coming immediately to Exodus. Mr. Meighen commenced his tale with 1917, but is no account to be given for the period of time between 1911 and 1917 The term of the political moratorium for putting off payment has expired, and Mr. Meighen is bound to give an account for those six years to the people of Canada.

The "Past."

They may say that these things are past and gone, and not worth talking about, but there is a saying that "the "present is only intelligible by refer-"ence to the past," and when we consider the fitness of Mr. Meighen to govern this country, we can only judge of the kind of government we are going to receive from the party in power by the kind of government that party has given us in the past. The Conservatives came into power on two issues: In Quebec, the navy question, and in the rest of the Dominion, the reciprocity bill. A navy for use in Canada in times of peace and for use by the Imperial authorities in time of war, had been decided upon by parties in Parliament. This was opposed by the people of Quebec, and this opposition was increased by the agents of the Conservative organization, who had supported the measure in the House, and when a conscientious member in the Lower Province appealed for advice on this question, a telegram was sent him by Sir George Foster, "Anything to beat Laurier," and the Conservative Whip also telegraphed to congratulate the Quebec party when Sir Wilfrid was defeated.

Act Vindicated.

Now that very Naval Act is supported by them in Parliament, "and the "policy of Sir Wilfrid Laurier is splen-"didly vindicated in the annuals of "Parliament to-day," although it is is a question whether such a policy is advisable in a day of so much scarcity of money and industrial upheaval.

On the question of reciprocity, Mr. Fielding referred to the refusal of Sir Wilfrid Laurier to resort to the "closure," (a sort of Parliamentary gag which will stifle remonstrance, and practically force through a measure desired by the party in power), on the ground that it was an interference with the rights of freedom of debate, and to the subsequent adoption of this measure by the Conservative party, so that, by a mere wave of the hand "of the Prime Minister, they can stop "a debate and carry anything they "like," a principle characerized by the speaker as "Meighenism," and directly opposed to all the ideas of Liberalism. "Time has vindicated the Lib-"erals on the reciprocity question." The very men who won their election by decrying free wheat and free potatoes immediately on coming into power placed free wreat and free potatoes on the list, the men who declared prior to election that if wheat were to be placed on the free list, "the rails "of the C.P.R. would go rusty," and this is another chapter of Genesis excluded from their annals.

Were United.

At the time this issue came up in Canada, the democrats and republicans were strongly united in the American Senate in favor of it, but the agreement was refused and flung back in their faces by the people of Canada, and now, when the Fordney Bill has come up in their Senate, a bill which asks that wheat and potatoes and cattle be marked by higher duties, we find Sir George Foster going down to Washington in the interests of trade, and begging that we be allowed to send these products in free, a proceeding described by a Conservative paper as a "manly plea," "but I say it "is not a manly plea," and it is a moral certainty that these high duties will be imposed by the new Congress in April, and if the farmers of the whole Dominion are shut out from privileges of trade in the United States, don't blame the Americans for it, blame Mr. Meighen and the Tory government in Canada, who formerly denounced the very people they are cringing to today.,

Election Act.

The War Times Election Acf, which discriminated against a great portion of the community, and, with regard to women, only granted them a nation-wide franchise when it had served the purpose for which it was brought into being, was discussed, and the tariff question came under fire also. While the Government claims to have a clear-cut policy on one hand, on the other they have Sir Henry Drayton parading the country, saying: "We "haven't settled anything. We are here "to learn." There is a lot of talk about free trade, but it isn't the Liberals who are doing it. They recognize the fact that there has never been free trade in this country, and, in all probability, there never will be, and the Farmers are not talking about free trade, either. It is the Conservatives who are raising the cry that the Liberals will tear down the factories, "but, I believv that you cannot adjust the fiscal problems of Canada by reference to any one theory," and it is simply a scheme on their part to make a scarecrow of this question, a sort of "the goblins will get you if you "don't watch out."

Represent People.

With reference to the Farmer and Labour elements, Mr. Fielding said, that he would like to see more Labour members come into Parliament, "if "they came as representaives of the "whole community," and the Farmers also. He regarded the path of the farmer and labourer as progress in just the same direction as the Liberal route, and described Mr. Meighen's charge against them of being Bolshevists as "a great injustice." "I deep-"ly regret seeing the farmers and lab-"ourers fighting in Peterborough. We "want stability of government, a gov-"ernment to put down disorders and "maintain law and order. This govern-"ment is past praying for." "Nobody "expects them to win and they don't "expect to win themselves. The public "sentiment is against them and they "know it."

Public Sentiment.

Great efforts are being made to steer public sentiment. They foretell ruin and destruction of industries and would like to claim as their own the fifteen years of Liberal government with splendid record of widespread prosperity, an era which might well be described as "Canada's golden "age." Mr. Fielding quoted from an article by Sir Thomas White on the situation in Canada, when the Liberals held the reins of power, enumerating the prosperous economic and agricultural conditions, the heavy savings deposits and increase of immigration from the United States during the fifteen years of the Liberal power. The case was cited of the Conservative who predicted "blue ruin" for a certain factory in a small city. Coming back after the election was over and seeing a card outside the entrance, he considered all his expectations justified, but instead of the "Closed" sign he expected, the notice read, "Men Wanted," and "Men Wanted' was the cry in Canada during the fifteen years of Liberal governmnet, an era of blessed peace and blessed prosperity, the "golden era" of Canada, and which will be revived if the Liberals come into power again. "Workmen, don't "be scared by the bogey of free trade "raised by the Tory government, but "give to Canada a new page of peace "and progress and prosperity."

RESULTS LEAVE NOTHING LACKING

The results obtained from taking VITAL, the great long tested blood and nerve tonic, have always proven highly gratifying. Getting right down to the root of most ailments VITAL so completely nourishes the organs of the body, their proper functioning is but a logical result.

Thousands of anemic, bloodless women, veritable "bundles" of nerves, have been nourished back to perfect health, able to fulfil their life's responsibilities, through the use of VITAL. Likewise, prematurely aged men have been rejuvenated, restrengthened and restored to youthful health. Vital can be secured at all druggists, price 50 cts.

HON. CHARLES MURPHY'S ADDRESS.

In times past, it has been my good fortune to enjoy the acquaintance and friendship of the representatives who come from Peterborough to the Senate and the House of Commons, said Hon. Charles Murphy. I have very pleasant recollections, indeed, of your former fellow-citizens, the late Senator Cox and the late Honorable J. R. Stratton. I also had constant and intimate intercourse with your present energetic townsman, Mr. R. R. Hall, during his term of Parliamentary service in the House of Commons. And in speaking of your representatives, I must not omit to mention Mr. Burnham, with whom my relations have always been of the most cordial character. In fact, I think Mr. Burnham would bear me out in the statement that, except on matters of party politics, he and I managed to find a greater number of subjects upon which we could agree than those upon which we disagreed.

The Liberal Candidate.

In the present contest it is a peculiar pleasure for me to come here and support the candidature of my old friend, Mr. George Gordon. As his fellow citizens, you know Mr. Gordon better than I do; and I am sure that I voice the opinions of all here present, even of those who may be Mr. Gordon's political opponents, when I say that he has always measured up to the highest standards of good citizenship, and that he enjoys, in marked degree, the confidence and the esteem of those who know him best, and with whom he shares the burdens, as well as the pleasures and the hopes of this progressive community.

The Issue.

In an attempt to becloud the issue raised by Mr. Burnham's resignation, and to mislead the electors of this riding, Premier Meighen and his friends have striven hard to make it appear that the tariff and not the question of responsible government is the issue in this campaign. Against this pretence on the part of the government, Liberal speakers have protested vigorously and often, and they have presented the logic of facts to prove that the real issue in this campaign is the one created by Mr. Burnham when the resigned as your represenative. Now, let us see what Mr. Burnham said on that topic. Here is his statement as I find it in his published election address:

Mr. Burnham has defined the isue —the real issue—and you will observe that he never mentions the Tariff at all. He says—and says truly— that the issue raised by his resignation is that the Meighen Government have no mandate from the Canadian people to administer the affairs of this country. And in making that statement he is borne out not only by the present and former members of the Government whose speeches in 1917 were quoted to you by Mr. King and Mr. Lapointe, when they addressed you some ten days ago, but he is also corroborated by another important witness from within the fold of the Conservative party.

The Hon. Robt. Rogers points out that the present Government was elected on a war-time franchise Act, and that that Act is no longer in existence. Therefore, says Mr. Rogers in effect, the war-time Franchise Act under which it was brought into existence having disappeared, the Government which by that Act attained office for a single and a temporary purpose, should, now that that purpose has been accomplished, also disappear. And there is no apologist for the Government, either within, or without, this riding, who can successfully refute Mr. Rogers' argument.

Criminal and Judge.

What an impudent and shallow dodge it is on the part of the Government and its supporters to pretend otherwise. How shallow and impudent that dodge is may be brought home to you by a very simple illustration.

Suppose a criminal who had been guilty of chicken-stealing, wife beating and murder were before the court, and, having elected to be tried by a judge he were to tell such judge that of the three charges against him he had selected chicken-stealing as the only one on which he would be tried. What do you think the judge would say to him? The judge would tell him that he would not be allowed to seelct the charge on which he would be tried, that he would be tried on all three charges—and that if he was found guilty of the last one, namely, murder, the others would not matter, for he would be hanged for that.

The Government Position.

That is precisely the position the Government is in before the electors of West Peterborough. Mr. Meighen says that his Government is the successor of the Borden Government. Therefore, his Government is responsible for all the sins of the Borden Government. But, says Mr. Meighen to his judges, the electors of West Peterborough: "We're not going to let "you try us for our sins. We will let "you try us on the tariff, which isn't "ready yet, and on nothing else."

Drayton Vs. Meighen.

Did anybody ever before hear such impudence? It would be bad enough if the Government were in the position that they had a new tariff ready for submission to the public; but the fact is that they have no such tariff at the present time, and that they will not have one until the Commission which travelled all over Canada during several months of last year hearing witnesses and taking evidence, has had time to sift and weigh the enormous mass of conflicting testimony that was presented to it, and has afterwards made its report to the Government. That work has not yet been done, and the Chairman of the Tariff Commission, Sir Henry Drayton, the Minister of Finance in the Meighen Administration, speaking no later than Wednesday last, in the City of Toronto, told the Canadian Shoe Manufacturers' Association that he could not make any announcement about the tariff for the very good reason that he had not yet been able to make up his mind, and that, consequently, no decision had yet been arrived at. And yet, in the face of such a specific announcement as that on the part of the member of the Cabinet whose duty it is to frame and present a tariff, Premier Meighen and other members of the Government pretend that their tariff policy is actually before the electors of this constituency in this contest. Could anything be more ridiculous or shameless, and could a greater affront be offered to an intelligent body of people? However, you have a practical way to resent that affront and that is by going to the polls on Monday next, and marking your ballots for the Liberal candidate, Mr. George Gordon.

Taxes.

Talking about the tariff reminds me of taxes; and taxes remind me of some of the worst bungling of which the Government has been guilty.

Let me again draw your attention to the fact that Mr. Meighen says his Government is the successor of the Borden Government, and, therefore, the Meighen Government is responsible for the sins of the Borden Government.

Now there is no feature of their administration which illustrates their partiality for the Big Intedests, and their indifference to the interest of the wage-earner, better than their policy with regard to the imposition of taxes. They seek to excuse themselves on the ground that the rates imposed in connection with the Excess Profits Tax and the Income Tax have been as high, if not higher, than those imposed by any other country. But what they are careful not to show is that the results obtained are not at all comparable to those obtained in other countries with less population than ours. In point of fact, the opportunity to obtain a large return for the benefit of the public during the war ws let go by, and those who profitted financially by the war have, in the majority of cases, been allowed to retain the wealth that they amassed during that period.

Senator Schaffner's Speech.

Last session, this subject was dealt with by Senator Schaffner, who was a supporter of the Government in the House of Commons at Ottawa before he became one of their supporters in the Senate. Speaking in the Senate on the 4th of March 1st, Senator Schaffner alleged that from the beginning of the war until the end of the fiscal year of 1919, the Government had mulcted the war-made wealth of the country, for Income Tax and Excess Profits Taxes in such an insignificant amount that it was scarcely sufficient to defray the expenses of the war for three months. Then he compared this result with what had been done in New Zealand, a country with only one-eighth of the population of Canada. According to Senator Schaffner ,the New Zealand Income Tax, which in 1914 amount, roughly, to $2,770,000, and increase in 1916 to $28,000,000, and that during the four years of the war New Zealand, with a population of a little over 1,000,000 people, colected in Income Taxes a total of nearly $55,000,000.

Senator Schaffner went on to show that on the basis of population, Canada, during the four years of the war "should have collected on income, or "other taxes on wealth, a total of "$472,000,000." As a mater of fact, he said, the Borden Government, during these years, collected nothing in income taxes, and on war profits it collected only the insignificant sum of $33,777,000, or over $20,000,000 less than New Zealand, which had only one-eighth of our population, and very few war orders, because of its situation and the scarcity of ships.

Then Senator Schaffner gave some interesting figures by way of comparison between Canada and Australia. During the first 3 years of the operation of the Income Tax in Australia, the Commonwealth collected $84,701,000. The population of Australia, according to the census of 1917, was 4,935,311, including Aborigines, or about five-eighths that of Canada. In the corresponding three years, Canada, on the basis of her population, and in proportion to Australia's proceeds, should have collected $135,522,000. Again, Senator Schafner repeated the fact that the Borden Government collected nothing at all in income taxes during these 3 years, and only $33,777,000 in Business Profits Taxes, or $50,000,000 less than Australia, which had only five-eights of our population.

Senator Schaffner's argument based on the figures that he submitted to the Senate was that in view of what New Zealand and Australia had done, Canada could have, and would have done as well, if the Borden Government had been as progressive, business-like and impartial as the Governments of New Zealand and Australia. And his final shot at the Government of which he is a supporter, was this: "In the matter of taxing the "Big Interests I say the Government "has fallen down."

Mr. Buchanan's Speech.

It is a singular thing that while Senator Schaffner was submitting proof to the Senate that the Borden Government had been recreant to its trust, another supporter of the Government was at the same time, and almost at the same hour, making a similar charge against it in the House of Commons.

Speaking from his place on the Government side of the House on the 4th day of March, Mr. W. A. Buchanan, the member for Lethbridge, in referring to the Income Tax, said:

"I feel that the tax has not been "efficiently administered up to now "and that we are not getting from it "the amount of revenue we should. I "believe there are people who are ev-"ading the tax. I have only recently "received communications intimating "that some people are boasting that "they have not paid the tax, while "some of their neighbors paid it. . . .

"I have no sympathy with any man "who evades paying the taxes im-"posed in this country.'

Curious Legislation.

In view of the statement made by Mr. Buchanan on his responsibility as a member of the House of Commons, I am sure you'll agree with me that it would be almost impossible to conceive how a more serious charge could be made against the Government by one of its own supporters. Moreover, I would naturally expect that after such a charge had been made the Government would get busy and proceed to take action against those who were evading the tax, or who were making false returns as to the amounts that they should pay. But the Government did nothing of the kind. Instead of safeguarding the public interest by punishing the Tax-dodgers and collecting the taxes which Mr. Buchanan charged they had failed to collect, the Government later amended the Act, and judicial interpretation of the amendment so made, as well as of other Government amendments to the same act, has been to the effect that law-breakers have been favored rather than punished. It is by conduct such as this, whereby the tax-dodger and the violator of the law is protected, that the Government commends itself to the Profiteers and the Big Interests, whose plundering of the common people of this country was partially exposed by the Board of Commerce and who fear further exposure if Mr. Gordon be sent to strengthen the ranks of the Opposition at Ottawa. Surely that ought to be one of the strongest reasons why Mr. Gordon should receive the support and the votes of the honest men and women of this riding who pay their taxes and respect the law.

The Luxury Tax.

Just to show you that the cases I have cited are not isloated cases, but that they are typical of the Government's incapacity and hopeless blundering with regard to taxation in general, let me refer briefly to the Luxury Tax and the Excess Profits Tax.

At the very moment of introducing the Luxury Tax Bill in the House of Commns, the Government gave evidence of their half-baked ideas on the subject of foreshadowing changes in their own measure. Even when these had been made, the Bill aroused a storm of protest as soon as it was was put in operations. The 200,000 Retail Merchants of Canada took the lead in denouncing the measure. They directed public ridicule against the provisions of an Act which made an alarm clock a luxury subject to the tax, while declaring that a $1,000 oil painting was not a luxury and was exempt from the tax; and they held up to public derision the provisions of an Act which enabled the wife of the profiteers to purchase a $25.00 veil or a $100.00 comforter free from the Tax because these were not luxuries, while the wife of the laborer with little girls to send to school, was compelled to pay a tax of 10 p.c. on a yard of ribbon to tie up the children's bon was a luxury. The storm of prohair, because, under the Act, the ribtest against this Luxury Tax grew into a gale; the gale blew into a hurricane, and after an army of people had been appointed to collect the tax, and after wholesalers and retailers had been mulcted on goods, licenses, stamps, and metal perforators for canceling the stamps, the Luxury Tax, bereft of all its friends, was thrown over board by the Government.

WHY NO GENERAL ELECTION

Why this Government with a mandate from nobody refuses to go to the country, and what part I took in the G. T. R. deal when the proper time came, will be apparent from the following. As recorded on page 1728 Hansard, Vol. 2, 1919, Second Session, (to be seen at the Peterborough Public Library), Mr. Campbell, M.P., moved:

"12. Notwithstanding anything contained in this Bill the value of the four per cent. stock of the Grand Trunk amounting to twelve milion five hundred thousand pounds (.$62,000,000) shall be submitted to arbitration."

On p. 1739 appears my vote supporting this resolution which was voted down by the Government. The arbitrators' hands were tied. It was the whole G.T.R. deal in a nutshell.

Sec. 5 of the Bill as amended, read:

"The present guaranteed stock and the new guaranteed stock, or any part theerof, may be called in or redeemed by the Government at par . . . . " Why at par?

Extract from Mr. Cahill's speech: "In the book furnished us by the Government, it is shown that for 1918 no dividends were paid on the guaranteed stock, none on the first preference, none on the second preference, none on the common stock." And yet Sec. 5 says, "at par"!

As I have repeatedly said, I notified Mr. Meighen that I would even be a candidate in support of the government if he would recognize my right to demand an appeal to the People. But that would have settled too many things. At no time have I in any way compromised my right to demand that the people be given a chance to say what they want.

There is now no Conservative party in Parliament, hence if elected I will sit on the cross-benches as an independent. This Government declines to be responsible to any party or any People. It is just a little tea-party of its own. The People just pay the taxes. That is to be their sole privilege apparently.

There are two planks in the Farmers' platform which beyond all doubt would ruin the Ontario farmer. One is the removal of the Canadian duty on foodstuffs. Foodstuffs as demanded by the American farmer are to bear a high duty going into the United States, but this platform plank would allow United States' foodstuffs to come into Canada free. This would result in the flooding of Canada with the American farmers' products, and in the further decrease of the Canadian dollar's value. This plank might have had some reason in it before the present American farmers' demand for a high tariff against the Canadian farmers' products, but to adopt it now is for Canadian agriculture to commit deliberate suicide. The other plank is that of the land tax, which may suit an almost purely agricultural country like the Middle West, but in Ontario it would at once throw all unused lands on the market and reduce the value of all used or cultivated farm lands accordingly. These two planks, with direct taxation into the bargain, will, in my opinion, utterly and immediately ruin the Ontario farmer. Come to my meeting in Victoria Hall, Wednesday evening next.

Those Nasty Little Pimples

That Come On The Face

Are Caused By Bad Blood

Many an otherwise beautiful and attractive face is sadly marred by the unsightly pimples and various other skin diseases caused wholly by bad blood.

Many a cheek and brow cast in the mould of beauty have been sadly defaced, their attractiveness lost, and the possessor of the "pimply face" rendered unhappy for years.

Their presence is a source of embarrassment to those afflicted as well as pain and regret to their friends.

There is an effectual remedy for these facial defects and that is Burdock Blood Bitters, the old reliable medicine that has been on the market for over 40 years.

It drives out all the impurities from the blood and leaves the complexion clear and healthy.

Mrs. James Williams, Waterford, Ont., writes: "My face was covered with pimples for nearly a year. I used different kinds of remedies to get rid of them and finally thought there was no relief. A friend dropped in one day and told me that I should try Burdock Blood Bitters. I did so and used three bottles and found the pimples were all disappearing from my face, and now I have a clear complexion again.'

And then in the fact of the millions that had been wasted in connection with putting it into operation and in administering it, Sir Henry Drayton cooly ignored what he had told the House of Commons about the tax as a source of revenue, and he gave out an official statement to the effect that the Luxury Tax had not been intended to raise revenue, but that it had been introduced merely for the purpose of teaching the people to practice economy. Whatever economy it may have taught the public in other directions it did not induce them to economize in their hostility towards the Government, and I leave it to you to say whether, in all your experience, you have ever heard of a Government and a Minister cutting such sorry figues as do the present Government and the Minister of Finance in connection with this Luxury Tax.

The Excise Profits Tax.

Neither is their position any better with regard to the Excess Profits Tax. It also was heralded as a splendid piece of legislation, designed to bring relief to the country from the financing burdens under which it labors, but no later than Wednesday of last week, when Sir Henry Drayton was speaking to the Canadian Shoe Manufacturers' Association at Toronto, he calmly told them that the Excess Profits Tax "was not a well worked out system," and that it "was born in haste.' This latter observation applies, of course, only to the provisions of the measure, and not to the time when it was introduced. There was no haste shown by the Government in taxing wealth in Canada. While New Zealand began taxing wealth in 1914, the Canadian Government only began to collect the Excess Profits Tax in the fiscal year of 1917, and the Income Tax in that of 1918. Under both heads we had collected down to the end of 1919 only $76,000,000, while New Zealand, with 1-8 our population, had collected $92,638,855. On the basis of population we should have collected 8 times that amount, or $740,000,000. The extent to which we fell short of that amount is eloquent of the Government's concern for the Big Interests and for their favorites to whom the huge war orders were given.

Now, in view of the way in which the Government's whole policy of taxation has been condemned in the Senate by their supporter, Senator Schaffner, in the House of Commons, by their supporters, Mr. W. A. Buchanan, in public, by the Retailers and Consumers of Canada, and, finally, by Sir Henry Drayton himself, is it not reasonable for me to assert that the present administration, as the successor to the Borden Government, has forfeited the confidence of the people of this country, and is, therefore, not entitled to the support of the electors of this riding? That, I submit, is the only logical conclusion you can come to when you look at the evidence furnished by the Government and its own supporters.

N.W.M. Police—More Waste.

While I have shown you that money has been recklessly and needlessly thrown away by the Government in connection with its whole taxation policy—"born in haste," as Sir Henry Drayton said—there are other features of its administration involving extravagance, and waste, on an even greater scale. Let me illustrate that by a reference to the North West Mounted Police Force, whose headquarters have been transferred to Ottawa, where they have been merged with the Dominion Police under the name of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Police at Labour Congress.

So that there may be no doubt as to the use the Government will make of their new police force whenever the chance offers, let me recall a few happenings within the past six months.

In the month of September last, the Dominion Trades and Labour Congress held its annual convention at Windsor, Ontario. Premier Meighen was invited to address the gathering, and he accepted the invitation. In due course, he attended the convention, and made his first appearance among the Labour men, accompanied by a posse of red-coated mounted police, who, according to the newspapers, ranged themselves along the back of the hall.

The press of the country made note of the incident and the despatches sent out from Windsor stated that when the Premier entered the building with his red-coated police bodyguard, there was an air of deep interest in that part of the hall where the delegates were massed. No wonder. The question the delegates asked themselves is the one that is shaping itself in your minds—What were the mounted police doing there? No reason that I have ever seen has been given for their presence at that meeting. Then, why did Premier Meighen have them there? Was it to create the impression that they were necessary for his personal safety while he was among the Labour delegates? If it was not that, then did he intend the presence of the red-coated mounted police as a gentle hint to the Labour men of what was in store for those who would talk collective bargaining in the future or who might advocate a strike as a remedy for legitimate Labour grievances? In the absence of information, it is impossible to say, but it is interesting to note what followed.

Tom Moore's Speech.

Speaking before the Montreal Canadian Club on the 22nd of November last, Mr. Tom Moore, president of the Dominion Trade and Labour Council, was reported to have said:

"That with low wages and unemployment, he knew no country outside of Russia more liable to revolutionary movements than Canada with its employing classes generally one generation old, made up of enterprising men, and the employed class largely composed of adventurous immigrants, who could easily be stirred to trouble should conditions become too bad."

As I have not seen any disclaimer of the statements attributed to Mr. Moore in the report from which I have just quoted, it is fair to assume that his language was correctly repeated in the newspapers. That being so, it is also fair to comment on his statements.

In the first place, these statements are either correct or incorrect. Personally, I do not believe them. I do not believe that even if the conditions mentioned by Mr. Moore exist, that Canada is more liable to revolutionary movements than any other country outside of Russia. Neither do I believe Mr. Moore's other statement that in Canada the employed class is largely composed of adventurous immigrants, who could easily be stirred to trouble. In fact, I am certain that right here in the City of Peterborough, the employees engaged in your industries furnish a complete refutation of Mr. Moore's description of the employees as a class. And I am equally certain that your wage-earners would say that Mr. Moore's language does grave injustice to their class as a whole. That being the case you may naturally ask, "Why did Mr. Moore speak in the way he is reported to have spoken?" Frankly, I do not know, unless it was to give the Government an excuse for using the mounted police to quell imaginary revolutions that these "adventurous immigrants" whom you know as peaceable, law-abiding citizens, might be accused of starting.

Liberals and Labour.

Now this may be the Tory idea of dealing with Labour, but it is not the way in which Labour has been treated by the Liberal party in Canada. The Liberal Government of which I was a member was the first Government to give official recognition to the dignity and importance of Labour by establishing as a separate branch of the Government, the Department of Labour. Then the same Government went farther, and gave a still higher status to Labour in the public life of this country by creating a portfolio of Labour and by appointing a Minister to fill it. In Parliament, the Liberals have advocated the appointment of representatives of Labour on permanent Boards and Commissions like the Board of Railway Commissioners and the Board of the Canadian National Railway. Then the Labour policy adopted at the National Liberal Convention in 1919 is designed to help in securing the adoption of the more important principles for which organized Labour has long struggled. And finally, at the same convention, the men and the women who were there representing the Liberal party of Canada selected as the leader of that party the man who had been the first Minister of Labour in the Dominion—the Hon. Mackenzie King. So that towards Labour the Liberal attitude has always been friendly and helpful, and it therefore affords ground for co-operation between Labour and Liberalism, if in the ranks of Labour the desire exists to keep the forces of progress from being divided, and to restore democratic government in this country.

Liberal and Farmers.

As the Liberal party is now, and has always been, and will always be, a National party, it is stating a mere truism to say that its attitude towards the farmers has been the same as its attitude towards Labour. In this connection it may be well to recall a few facts in our political history that have a bearing on this by-election.

The first of these facts that seems to be generally forgotten is that there never was a Farmers' party while the Liberals were in power. From 1874 to 1878, during the Mackenzie regime, there was no Farmers' party. From 1896 to 1911, during the Laurier regime, there was no Farmers' party. Why? Because the legislation given the Farmers by the Liberals was satisfactory, and there was, on that account, no reason for the existence of a Farmers' party.

I want that to sink into your minds. I want it to remain there. And I want you to use it with your friends—particularly with those who say that as far as the Farmers are concerned, there is no difference between the two old parties.

Now, it is of equal significance that the only Farmers' parties that we have had in this country grew up under Tory administrations. There were the patrons of industry, who represented the farmers, under Tory rule, before 1896, and there are the U. F. O and the Grain Growers, who came into existence after 1911—the year the Liberals went out of office. It is not an accident that produced these results. They were brought about by Tory legislation, which was inimical to the Farmers' interests, and against which the Farmers protested in vain. And it was because of this state of things that the patrons of industry were formed in the first instance, and that, to-day, we have what is generally referred to as the Farmers' party—these organizations being, in turn, an expression of rural Canada's protest against the alliance between Toryism and the big interests.

Under Liberal rule, from 1896 to 1911, and because of the general prosperity of the country, the Patrons of Industry ceased to exist as a separate organization, and from 1911 down to 1917, a period of six years, during which there were no Farmers, as such, in Parliament, the battle of the Farmers was fought by the Liberal party and by the Liberal party alone. And so, Mr. Chairman, having regard to the record, I submit that in this election, apart from any question of gratitude or obligation, identity of interests, and a regard for practical results, should enjoin co-operation on the part of the Farmers with the Liberals.

Anti-American Campaign.

Before concluding, I would like to say a few words about a matter that is of interest far beyond the confines of this constituency.

To a Canadian, one of the most regrettable features of the Government campaign in this election is the anti-American crusade that has been carried on by some of the friends and supporters of the present administration. While such tactics are not new, surely the time ought to have arrived when they would not only prove unsuccessful, but when they ought to call down upon the heads of those who employ them the condemnation of all good citizens, irrespective of party.

What is the excuse that is now given for this kind of campaign? The only one that I have seen advanced is that the Americans are erecting a tariff barrier against certain Canadian products, and, therefore, that it is quite proper to work up an anti-American sentiment in Canada on this account. Now, let us examine for a moment what right the advocates of this kind of a campaign have to adopt it as a method of political warfare. They are the same people who in 1911 conducted a crusade against the Liberal Government of that day, under a banner bearing the slogan, "No truck or trade with the Yankees"; they are the same people who, when the recent East Elgin by-election was in progress sent into that riding pamphlets by wholesale, in which it was sought to rouse hostility against the Americans by stating that the tariff policy of the Liberal party and that of the Farmers' party were pro-American tariffs, and that, just as the Canadian electors in 1917 had to answer the question, "Who would the Kaiser vote for?" so the electors of East Elgin would have to answer the question, "For which tariff would the Americans vote?" The electors of East Elgin gave their answer, but it was not the one for which the fomentors of international strife had bargained.

In view of their anti-American tactics, how could our political opponents complain if the Americans should retaliate and meet them at their own game? If that were to happen, these disturbers of international peace would have no right to complain, but, as a matter of fact, it has not happened, and it is not likely to happen.

The Fordney Emergency Tariff Bill, against which all this Governmental railing has taken place, has not only not been adopted, but it has actually been talked out at one stage in the Senate, and reputable journalists in the United States assert that the bill is not to be taken seriously, and that it has no chance of becoming law. In view of this, and in view also of their "No truck or trade with the Yankees" record, how can the friends and supporters of the present Government at Ottawa justify their present appeals to anti-American prejudice? They cannot do so; and in the best interests of the Dominion, these appeals should stop.

But it is not only from the domestic point of view that this conduct of our opponents is reprehensible, and deserving of the strongest possible censure. It is to be even more strongly condemned when one looks at it from the standpoint of international relations as between Great Britain and the United States. For the past two weeks, the cables have informed us that, owing to the complexities of her world-wide relations, Great Britain is about to send Lord Chalmers, the Permanent Secretary of the British Treasury, to the United States for the purpose of obtaining a postponement of the payment of the British debt to the United States until 1936 and 1947. This debt that reached the enormous sum of four billions two hundred and seventy-seven millions of dollars, was said by the cables to be one of the subjects that Sir Auckland Geddes, the British Ambassador at Washington, had gone to Paris to discuss there with Mr. Lloyd George, as well as the question of general disarmament. And it is at a time when such tremendous and delicate questions as these are under discussion between representatives of Great Britain and the United States that the ultra-loyalists who support the Meighen Government choose to launch an anti-American campaign in the contest that is now in progress in this riding. I feel sure, sir, that I have only to point out the wickedness of such a policy to an audience in this city to make certain that it will be roundly condemned when you go to the polls to mark your ballots on Monday next.

Union of Anti-Government Forces.

No doubt, some of those who are here, as well as others who are not at this meeting, intend to vote for the U.F.O. candidate, or for the Labour candidate, or for Mr. Burnham. Such is, of course, their privilege, but before they exercise it, I would ask them to consider their duty from the point of view that they are all opposed to the Government, and on that account they all desire to defeat the Government candidate. However, if they split up their votes between three candidates they will be taking the course most likely to defeat what they each have in view. On the other hand, if they co-operate they will be certain to attain the object they are all aiming at.

For that reason, I cannot too strongly impress upon the electors who are opposed to the present Government that the only certain way to defeat the Government candidate is to vote for Mr. Gordon, who is admittedly the Government's strongest opponent, said Mr. Murphy in conclusion.

"DOES THE WORK," STATES FOREMAN

TORONTO CITIZEN DECLARES TANLAC WAS THE BEST INVESTMENT HE EVER MADE.

"Tanlac has them all beat it certainly does the work' said James Brace of 172 Hampton Ave. Toronto, Ont., foreman for the Christie Brown Bakery.

"Six years is a long time for a man to suffer with stomach trouble, but that is exactly what I did. I underwent agonies from indigestion, every thing I ate soured and formed gas that gave me awful pains through the chest. I didn't care to eat anything and just forced down enough to keep alive.

"I had to give up eating all heavy foods and didnt dare to eat cabbage, potatoes or even eggs. If it hadn't been for my wife I probably would have indigestion yet, but she persuaded me to try Tanlac. I think the little money this medicine cost me was the best investment I ever made in my life.

"I am like a new man now and my appetite is so good that I can eat meats, cabbage, potatoes and just anything I want and never have a particle of trouble afterwards. Tanlac is wonderful, I have never known another medicine like it. I never miss a chance to recommend it as the best of all medicines and my wife thinks so too."

Tanlac is sold by The Warne Drug Company Ltd.

URIC ACID IN MEAT BRINGS RHEUMATISM

Says a Little Salts in water may save you from dread attack.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat less meat, but drink plenty of good water.

Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

AT THE ALLEN

Few pictures have revealed the manner in which restless and complaining patients in sanatoriums are diplomatically treated better than "A Voice in the Dark," a Goldwyn mystery film. One striking instance may be cited: an elderly woman cripple, constantly complaining of her inability to sleep, is relieved immediately by carefully measured doses of plain water and sugar. She saw the doctor write out the prescription, so she knew she was getting medicine. "A Voice in the Dark" comes to the Allen Theatre for two days, commencing Friday.

THEDA BARA COMING IN NEW PRODUCTIO

Dreams will come true at the Regent Theatre on Thursday when William Fox will present Theda Bara in "Lure of Ambition," a Theda Bara super-production. The dreams are those of Olga Dolan, the central figure of the picture, played by Miss Bara.

Olga Dolan dreams of greatness and seems about to rise above her environment through the love of Cyril Ralston. But cruel disillusionment changes Olga from a trusting girl to a woman of the world fired by ruthless ambition. Through a series of dramatic events Olga finally reaches the summit of social ambition.

Through the action of the story centres round the role of Olga Dolan an exceptionally fine cast of players is seen in support of Miss Bara. Among them are Thurlow Bergen, William B. Davidson, Amelia Gardner, Ida Waterman, Dan Mason, Robert Payton Gibbs, Dorothy Drake, Peggy Parr and Tammany Young. Edmund Lawrence directed the picture from an original story of which he is co-author with Julia Burnham.

National Progressive Party

Not a Class Movement. A Chance for City and Country to Unite for a Good Government.

J. C. CAMPBELL,
Candidate of the National Progressive Party.

IT HAS BEEN CHARGED that the National Progressive Party represents a class movement This is not true. It is true that farmers as a class are supporting the movement but they have invited the residents of towns and cities to unite with them in carrying the platform of the party into effect. The only movement now which can make it a class movement would be the residents of the towns and cities to refuse their cooperation. Next Monday will afford the citizens of Peterboro a chance to show that they are in favor of this big new movement for good government.

Liberals and the Farmers

At last night's mass meeting in the Opera House, Hon. Charles Murphy made a statement which has been made frequently during this campaign, to the effect that there never was a farmers' movement while the Liberals were in power. This is moonshine.

It is true that the farmers' movement sprang up before the election of 1896, while a Conservative Government was in power. The Liberals at that time professed to be in favour of lower tariffs. As a party they distinctly pledged themselves to substantial all-round reductions in the tariff. The Farmers' Organizations, which at that time were powerful in Ontario, gave their support to the party and placed it in power. Then came the Great Betrayal. The Liberal Party went back on all its pledges. It practically swallowed the Conservative platform in full. It maintained it for 15 years. By that action the party gave a blow to its prestige and integrity from which it is still suffering.

The action of the then Liberal Government killed the Farmers' Movement in Ontario. The movement went down rapidly from 1896. To some extent the farmers felt their own leaders had betrayed them. In 1903, however, while the Liberals at Ottawa were in their zenith of their power, the farmers' movement sprang up in Western Canada. It grew rapidly and spread over all three prairie provinces. Western farmers had lost faith in both of the old political parties. They developed a big, new platform of their own. They sent many memorials to the Liberal Government at Ottawa, asking it to fulfil its party pledges. All these were cast aside, as if they were of no consequence.

The Great Farmers Delegation

In 1910 a delegation of 1,000 farmers from Western Canada electrified the country by hiring special trains and visiting Ottawa in a body. They waited on Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the then Premier of Canada, and asked him for certain distinct tariff concessions. These he treated lightly. Later, he tried to again gain the support of the farmers by introducing the measure of Reciprocity. At the same time the great protected interests were assured that they had nothing to fear, as the Liberal Government had no intention of lowering the tariff as far as they were conecrned.

After the Liberals were defeated on this measure, and went into the cold shades of opposition, they again made great professions of favoring a lower tariff, but it was too late. They had lost the confidence of those engaged in the farmers' movement. The action of the Liberal candidate in this by-election, and of the Liberal leader, who have both refused to support in this by-election the main planks endorsed by the Liberal convention in 1919, is another indication that the party has not changed its ways. Out of this record of the past has grown a conviction among scores of thousands of people in Canada, living in our cities, as well as in our country districts, that neither of the old political parties can be depended upon to do anything effective in the way of curbing the power of the trusts and the combines. Thus there has been launched a National Progressive Party, which represents a union of city and country people, to introduce a government by the people for the people.

The Prohibition Issue

In emphasizing the prohibition issue in this campaign the National Progressive Party is emphasizing a plank that has always been in its platform. Most of the provinces have passed all the legislation in their power to curb the liquor evil. Ontario is being thwarted in the enforcement of its Act by the failure of the Dominion Government to give the Temperance Movement the necessary support. Even if the Referendum Act is carried in the Spring, it has been announced that the liquor interests will immediately fight its enforcement in the Courts. Thus it is absolutely imperative that the men we elect to Parliament shall be sympathetic with the Temperance Movement. That is why this question has been projected into this campaign. Campbell is the only candidate in this by-election who has pledged himself to fight the liquor interests. That is why people who believe in temperance should vote for him.

If you want to break the power of the combines and the trusts. If you want to see the high cost of living greatly reduced. If you want to see temperance reform carried to its final victory by the adoption of proper Dominion legislation, If you want to unite with farmers in giving the country a proper, economical efficient government.

SOX PLAYERS WILL BE SHOWN NO MERCY

TRIAL COMING OFF WITHIN SIXTY DAYS—"HAPPL" FELSCH SURRENDERS.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—Oscar ("Happy") Felsch, one of the eight indicated White Sox baseball players, made a quiet visit to Chicago, when he called at the Criminal Court Building and attended to a little matter of giving bond for $10,000 to guarantee his appearance for trial.

It was the first time, so far as is known, that the once sparkling outfielder has been in the city since the big blow-up and exposure last fall of crookedness on the Sox team. Immediately following the confessions of Cicotte, Williams and Jackson Felsch left the city, and, after staying a few days at his home in Milwaukee, he departed for Fox Lake, Wis., where he has been secluded ever since. Felsch never confesstd to the Grand Jury, but was said to have confessed to a newspaper man that he got $5,000 out of the gamblers, and ran it up to $15,000 by betting on Cincinnati.

A Chicago woman, a Mrs. Quirk, signed Felsch's bond and scheduled property worth $25,000. There were two charges against the diamond star, $5,000 being required in cash. One was obtaining money by a confidence game and the other was on conspiracy to defraud.

The trials of the players may be called within sixty days, according to a statement to-day by State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe. When confronted with a story published last week in a New York paper, saying it wasn't likely the players ever would be tried and that the indictments were being pigeon-holed, Judge Crowe denied emphatically that such was the case.

It had been arranged that she should have prominent roles in alternate Mermaid Comedies, and with this understanding appeared in the first, "A Fresh Start," which scored such a laugh record. But when Lloyd Hamilton came along with "Duck Inn," second of the series, which will be seen at the Allen Theatre Friday and Saturday, she declared that none but the fair blonde would do and so she was allowed to work "out of her turn." Then she asked for her vacation. "Nonsense," replied Director Jack White. She thought it was a joke until she learned that "Nonsense" is the title of the third Mermaid, and now she is busy at work

DUFFUS BOYS AND IROQUOIS TIED

The Duffus Devils and the Iroquois clashed again on Mark street rink last night in their biggest battle, but neither team could score the final goal. The Devils held the lead all through the game with a score of 2-0, and it was really after time when the Iroquois scored their two goals. O'Toole refereed the game, but did not seem to give satisfaction.

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 3.—A procession of the unemployed, estimated to number 48,000, carrying flags, left the City Hall Square at one o'clock this afternoon, marching towards the Parliament Buildings and the King's Palace, demanding work.

NEW ZEALAND TO PROHIBIT CRIME FILM EXHIBITION

MOVIES DEPICTING ROBBERY, MURDER AND SUICIDE TO BE BANNED

(Canadian Press.)

WELLINGTON, N.Z., Feb. 3.—The New Zealand Government, in a proclamation, has ordered that no motion picture film depicting thieving, robbery, murder, or suicide shall be permitted to be shown in the Dominion of New Zealand after the 1st of May next. Importers of films have been thrown into consternation by the order.

FRANCE WON'T RELAX DEMAND

BRIAND SAYS GERMANY MUST PAY TO THE LIMIT.

(Canadian Press).

PARIS, Feb. 3.—France still intends to see that Germany is made to pay her debt in full, if her economic condition permits of such payment, remier Briand informed the Chamber of Deputies to-day, in presenting the declaration of his Ministry on the reparations question.

"The French Government," said the Premier, in reviewing the decisions reached at Paris, "has in no wise renounced the purpose of collecting the entire debt due from Germany, if she recovers her economic prosperity."

"The decisions of the Supreme Council," M. Briand explained, "meant payment by Germany to the limit of her economic capacity, the principal measure towards which is the development of her exportatons."

INDOOR CARNIVAL SPLENDID SUCCESS

YOUNG PEOPLE OF OTHER ANGLICAN CHURCHES ENTERTAINED BY ST. JOHN'S A.Y.P.A.

Last evening the A.Y.P.A. of St. Luke's, All Saints', and St. George's Churches were the guests of St. John's Branch of the A.Y.P.A. at an indoor carnival in St. John's Schoolhouse. Over 100 people attended this most enjoyable event. The evening was spent in games, refreshments and dancing. Many quaint, varied and beautiful costumes were worn. Rev. Dr. Blagrave extended a very hearty welcome to the different branches.

Prizes were awarded to Miss G. Crowe, Miss B. Massey-Cook, Mr. K. Brown and Mr. R. Moore.

INCREASE IN REVENUE TAX

LUXURY TAX FELL OFF AT THE LAST.

Returns of the local Inland Revenue Department for the month of January announced to-day, were $32,519.46, as compared with $32,22949, in December. There was an increase of several hundred dollars over December although since the luxury tax was abolished in the middle of November it was believed the returns would show a decline. Mr. W. H. Buller stated to-day that in its last days the luxury tax was not bringing in much revenue and the sales tax of one and two per cent .now at the base of manufacturing was proving very satisfactory.

"Y" GIRLS HEARD THE CANDIDATES.

The meeting at the Y.W.C.A. last night was largely attended, the young ladies present listening with great interest to Mr. Thos. Tooms, M.P.P., on behalf of Mr. McMurray; Mr. Joseph Wearing, for Mr. Gordon; Rev. Mr. McConnachie, for Mr. Campbell, and Colonel Mulloy, for Mr. Denne. A lively scene ensued when Rev. Mr. McConnachie interrupted Mr. Wearing, objecting to his speaking so strenuously in favour of Mr. Gordon. Colonel Mulloy poured oil on the troubled waters by stating that every speaker had the same chance to speak for his candidate.

No, Herman, even when a friend urgently requests you to point out his faults don't do it if you value his friendship.

KEMEL WILL NOT ENTER PARLEYS

WILL ATTEMPT TO FORCE ALLIES TO RECOGNIZE HIS GOVERNMENT.

(Canadian Press).

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 3.—Mustaph Kemal Pasha, leader of the Turkish Nationalists, appears definitely determined not to treat with the Allies for the present, but to await the result of the Bolshevik campaigns, and also possibly to strike a blow himself to increase the strength of his position with the hope of forcing the Allies into recognition of the Nationalists.

MR. TOOMS WILL NOT HAVE VOTE

NAME WAS STRUCK OFF VOTERS LIST.

The name of Thomas Tooms, M.P.P., is not on the voters' list in West Peterboro and from the present state of affairs, Mr. Tooms told the Examiner to-day that it did not seem as if he would be able to use his franchise on Monday next much as he would like to assist Mr. McMurray.

He said that when the voters' lists were being prepared he enquired if his name was on the list. He was informed that as he had lived in Brown ton when the Provincial election was on he would be on the lists there. This seemed reasonable to Mr. Tooms and all was secure until last Saturday night when the revisions were being concluded at Brownton, he decided to make sure and he states, that the registrar Mr. J. Forester had struck off his name also the name of his wife and daughter. Mr. Forster said he knew he had moved and he couldn't put his name down. Not only did the registrar strike his name off but he had struck off numerous others, said Mr. Tooms.

Mr. Tooms appealed to Judge E. C. S. Huycke, chief revision officer and he was informed that Mr. Forster's actions were arbitrary and the registrar had possibly left himself open to prosecution yet he could see no possible way Mr. Tooms could vote on Monday.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Tooms sent the following telegram to Ottawa:—

Col. O. M. Biggar,
Chief Election Officer
Parliament Buildings,
Ottawa.

At Peterborough a Rural Registrar took upon himself to cross off names of legitimate voters from the list because they had changed their residence, he is not sure of this but calculates they had moved. These people were informed that if their names were upon the Provincial List 1919 election they have a vote in this elections. Yet this registrar a "Mr. Forester takes upon himself to disenfranchise about 100 people. Is there no redress for myself and these people? We claim our right as Canadian citizens. Please answer immedately.

T. TOOMS, M.L.A.,

At 4.15 he received the following reply.

"Section 63 of the Dominion Elections Act prescribes that any person residing in rural polling divisions whose name is not on the voters' list may vote on polling day if properly vouched for and when the necessary oaths have been taken. This provision should remove your difficulties.

O. M. BIGGAR.

"But it doesn't" says the Provincial member. He does not reside in a "rural polling division" and he does not believe he would be allowed to vote. Mr. Tooms was indignant at the registrar's action and he with other labour men was to-day considering entering action against the registrar.

NO END TO THE BARGAINS

THE PRUNING KNIFE GOES DEEPER AND DEEPER AT THE BOTNICK SALE.

The bewildering price reductions offered at the Botnick Bros.' sale is gripping the home buyer of ready-to-wear clothing for women and men, far and near. No regard is paid to the original cost price of goods. For instance, the regular price of ladies pullover sweaters is marked at $1.00. A month ago they were reduced to $3.00, and to-day the price is still further reduced to only $1.98. And so on, all the way through the large $30,000 stock. It's a case of raising the ready cash before stocktaking by mowing down the stock to a condition that will enable the firm to prepare for a fresh start in the spring.

KICKED HIS AUNT.

LINDSAY, Feb. 3.—A resident of the South Ward was fined, in the Police Court here, $10.20, for kicking his aunt. The woman came to town recently with her children on a visit, and the trouble arose over the little ones being taken by the Children's Aid Society, and placed in the Shelter.

LABOUR AT ENNISMORE.

Labour received an open welcome at Ennismore yesterday, and the Parish Hall was crowded for the meeting last night. Mr. G. Flood, of Ennismore, was chairman. The speakers were Thomas Tooms, M.L.A.; Joseph Marks, of Toronto; T. Lane, President of the Trade Council, and the candidate, Mr. McMurray. The meeting ran till eleven o'clock, and it was nearly twelve before the Labour men finally got away from the enraptured farmers. The meeting closed with cheers for Mr. McMurray and the singing of the National Anthem. Mrs. Singer, of Toronto, addresses a meeting in May's Schoolhouse to-night.

SPORTING NEWS, VIEWS AND GOSSIP

FAST AND HARD-CHECKING DE LAVAL TEAM STOP SPEEDY C.G.E. TOOLROOM

HAMILTONS DEFEAT BANKERS AND ARE NOW TIED WITH C.G.E. FOR FIRST HALF HONORS.

Running true to form and fulfilling all advance notices, the City Hockey League last night served up a bill of the great winter game that kept seven hundred fans in a state of wild excitement from bell to bell. Hamilton's defeated the Bankers by a score of 3 to 2, leading at the half by 2 to 1. The blow also fell on C.G.E. Toolroom, De Laval turning the Toolmakers back with a 3 to 2 count. De Laval were leading half-way home by 3 to 1.

Hamilton's and C.G.E. are now tied for first honours of the first half of the schedule, and will play a sudden death game to decide a winner. The League will probably use two nights next week, one for the play-off, the other for the opening games of the second half. Games in the curling bonspiel will be played at Brock Street Rink next week, but the curlers may be through in time to permit the Hamilton's-C.G.E. game being played on Wednesday night.

Foley's Foot Gashed.

It was not a rose-strewn path, victor and vanquished trod last night. All four teams were eager to win, and there were times when playing rules were disregarded in the effort to break up dangerous-looking plays. Referee Walter Jackson had a big job, and he handled two difficult games well. Hostile demonstrations were staged at intervals with the referee as the victim, but if any blame is to be handed out, it might be presented to the players. The League will do its part by issuing warnings to certain players, who are showing too much "pep" with the hickory.

Hamilton's victory was not without cost to the team, as Eddie Foley sustained a bad gash in his foot. The injury was not discovered until the team went to the dressing-room at half-time. A doctor was called, and Foley could not resume play. His services will likely be lost to the team for next week.

Hamilton's Open Fast.

Hamilton's opened their battle against Bankers with speed and combination that swept everything before them. The Westerners looked immense, and after a minute of play, in which Foley and Gamey Graham rushed the puck towards Legros, Graham shot the rubber into the nets. On top of the face-off, another combined play gave the rubber to Graham, and again he scored. It was great hockey. Hamilton's continued their mad pace until it told on them, and Bankers gradually came to life. A series of penalties followed, Kennealley, Thirnbeck, LeBar and Gamey Graham doing time. Bankers got in some nice shots against Murray, the latter blocking nicely. Jack Gillespie was playing a strong game for Bankers. Harry Thornton found difficulty in handling the puck. Tudhope and Thirnbeck rushed well, but systematic play was lacking. Just before the end of the half Tudhope went along the boards alone, and, getting in close on Murray, beat him with a high corner shot.

Thirnbeck, with a speedy shot from the side, evened the count for Bankers early in the second half. The score came after Gillespie and Dickson had failed to tally from plays that looked promising. Bankers kept Hamilton's on the jump in this period, and Gillespie, particularly, delighted the fans with his hard and clever work. Gamey Graham batted in a score from a scrimmage, giving Hamilton's a lead of one, and this they held. The period was filled with high-class hockey, the Westerners showing to advantage by their combination play, and the Bankers going it individually.

The teams:

Bankers—Goal, Legros; defence, Tudhope and Kennealley; forwards, Thirnbeck, Thornton and Gillespie. Subs., Park and Dickson.

Hamilton's—Goal, Murray; defence, LeBar and Evans; forward, Gamey Graham, Collins and Foley. Subs., F. Graham and Kennealley.

C.G.E. on the Defensive.

De Laval didn't lose any time in going after the Toolroom in the second game, and play opened with the former forcing C. G. E. on the defence. De Laval were getting in close. When the Toolmakers did get away they were accomplishing something as De Laval were skating fast and checking hard. Three shots in a row were sent at Bergoine, but the youngster stood up well, taking everything like a veteran. Two of the shots were at his feet. Abbie Rose let loose a couple of fierce shots. It was a lucky thing that De Laval watched Rose last night, for he has developed a shot that, given half a chance, is sure to find the nets. It was Jack Murray that opened the scoring, with Ranger going with him, and the hosts behind the De Laval team made the most of it. Sheehan was showing up well, and rushing nicely, but he was watched closely. C. G. E. got in a couple of shots, on which De Laval seemed to have the breaks in the luck. Ranger beat Butcher from a scrimmage. C.G.E. were having the time of their lives to get away from their hard-checking opponents. Besides showing great speed, De Laval also had weight. Sheehan was chased from the fray, and C.G.E. took advantage of his absence. Barrie gave Bergoine a hard shot, the puck went into the corner; out again it was shot, in front of the nets, and Bartley, accepting an open chance, slipped the disc into the nets. Jimmie McMartin got it back with a hard shot from well out before the half ended.

De Laval Hang on Hard.

C.G.E. came along better after the rest. They always do. But De Laval also were strong, and Butcher was kept quite busy. The Toolmakers were up against it, and every spurt they attempted found the other crowd hanging on hard. Finally Mickey Williams got through with a nice rush and landed the rubber behind Bergoine, when the goaler had little chance to clear. De Laval had a great chance to score when Campbell and Lipsett worked the rubber to Butcher, the shot landing against Butcher's pads. He relieved nicely. C.G.E. fought back hard to tie it up as the end approached.

The teams:

De Laval—Goal, Bergoine; defence, Murray and Sheehan; forwards, Campbell, Ranger and Hambly. Subs., Lipsett and McMartin.

C.G.E.—Goal, Butcher; defence, Halpin and Helson; forwards, Barrie, Rose and Bartley. Subs., Williams and Dugan.

BELL TELEPHONE BOWLING LEAGUE

On Monday evening last the Generators and Sideblocks started off the second period of the Bell Telephone Inter-Department League, the Sideblocks taking three straights from the Generators. The game was pulled off without any striking sensations. The main feature of the game was Spike's special delivery, when Spike, acting the part of the contortionist, showed the audience how it was possible for a player on No. 2 to make a perfect strike on No. 3.

"THE BOY"

One of the many odd features of London's greatest musical comedy success "The Boy," which is scheduled for presentation at the Grand on Saturday, is found in the fact that its original production in farce comedy form changed the history of the English-speaking stage. It was written by an obscure English actor, A. W. Pinero, and played under the name of "The Magistrate." It success was so pronounced that it was soon played wherever the English language is spoken, a new school of dramatic writing sprang into being. Pinero was lured from the stage to the field of letters to become one of the most prolific and popular playwrights in the world and to amass fame and fortune. Yes, the subject of these lines is Sir Arthur Wing Pinero, and he is deriving handsome royalties to-day from the musical comedy version of "The Magistrate" now known as "The Boy," A. S. Byron will be seen in the principal role of the heavyweight magistrate, Marie Tilworth as "Joy," Gene Layman as "Magistrate Burridge," Mabelle Mignon, London's well-known musical comedy favorite, as "Diana," Cosmo Bellew, brother of the famous English actor, Kyrle Bellew, as "Colonel Bagot," Lillian Lee Anderson as "Mrs. Meebles," Donald Archer as "Albany Pope," Clyde Dilson as "Hughie."

ASHBURNHAM WON FROM ST. JAMES'

Last night the Ashburnham Boy Scouts were again successful in defeating the St. James' Scouts. The game was played on the Sacred Heart rink and was quite snappy.

Owing to a broken skate strap one of the East City's defence boys hod to retire to goal.

The score stood: Ashburnham 8, St. James 1.

The Ashburnhams lined up as follows: centre Hudson, left wing Vinette, right wing Williams, right defence Lawse, left defence Smith, goal Saunders.

THE NEW LIGHT-SIX ORIGINAL COST
In making your original investment in this car, you receive the benefit of the manufacturing savings estimated at 20% to 25%, made possible by complete manufacture in the new modern $20,000,000 Studebaker LIGHT-SIX plants, because—
(a) the price includes but one manufacturing profit on castings, forgings, stampings, motor, axles, transmission, frame, body, top, etc.
(b) the amount of overhead expenses included in the price is very small.
(c) excess weight is eliminated without sacrifice of durability or quality. The shipping weight of the car, 2500 pounds, is distributed equally over the four wheels.
OPERATING SAVINGS
In operating this car, you receive the benefit of the economic advantages arising from its superb design, skillful manufacture, excess safety factors, and high quality, because—
(a) it will go from 12 to 15 thousand miles on the standard 32 x 4 cord tires.
(b) it will go from 21 to 26 miles on a gallon of gasoline.
(c) it will render from 8 to 10 years of satisfactory service.

Fresh Experts Rushed In to Reinforce the Meighen Machine

There's been a shake-up already at the Meighen headquarters in the old Oriental Hotel, and as a result we have a new calamity-howler working the Meighen propaganda machine.

The tide of public opinion is running so strongly against the so-called National Liberal and Conservative Party that a distress call was sent to Ottawa for reinforcements.

So the special tariff storm troops landed in Peterborough this week for a last clamorous effort to divert the attention of the Electors from the Meighen usurpers.

One of the newcomers is the private secretary of the Honourable Arthur Meighen, and another is a distinguished reporter of the Ottawa Journal.

Like Mrs. Partington, they are trying to sweep back the flood of ballots with which West Peterborough will engulf the so-called National Liberal and Conservative Government next Monday.

Where the Honourable Arthur Meighen failed, his private secretary, no less, takes up the task. The office-boy is held in Ottawa as a last reserve.

Meanwhile, the experts who have been vainly grinding out tariff propaganda have apparently been pushed into one of the corners at the Oriental Hotel.

A Whole Corps of Failures

However, they should take comfort from the realisation that their failure to obscure the real issue in this bye-election and to deceive the Electors has been no less pronounced than that of the distinguished orators of the Department of Circumlocution, improvised for this campaign, including Mr. Meighen, Sir George Foster, Sir Henry Drayton, the Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Stevens, Tolmie, Sutherland, and the rest of the crowd who fulminated upon the tariff in a combined but abortive attempt to shake the confidence of the people in G. N. Gordon, the Liberal candidate.

But their nervous, over-anxious efforts simply deepened suspicion in their motives and in their evasive campaign, the while strengthening G. N. GORDON, THE LIBERAL CANDIDATE, BY THEIR CONCERTED ATTACKS UPON HIM.

So the "Meighen Calliope" has been hurriedly refitted for the grand finale and fanfare on the tariff.

The imported journalist opens up with scare-heads and a maze of challenges and questions cleverly designed to side-track the Electors from the issue of representative government to that stale herring Mr. Meighen dragged in several weeks ago.

We hear in stentorian tones the statement that G. N. GORDON, THE LIBERAL CANDIDATE, is a Free-trader.

This Ottawa journalist has been told that A LARGE NUMBER OF THE STAUNCHEST SUPPORTERS OF G. N. GORDON ARE WORKINGMEN; so this stranger of an honoured profession debases his talents in the service of the Meighen usurpers, and joins hands with certain manufacturers—W. R. BREYFOGLE IS NOT ONE OF THEM—in a campaign to intimidate employees into voting for

They are all Saying:

Gordon Is The Man

the so-called National Liberal and Conservative Government.

JUDGE THE TARIFF PROPAGANDA AND THE MEIGHEN GOVERNMENT BY ITS FRIENDS AND ADVOCATES.

However, the ballot is secret, and freemen will not be coerced when they are casting their votes.

This audacious scheme to cast up a tariff screen between the Electors and the wilful set who have thrust themselves as a Government upon the people must not succeed. ....

The Tariff is Not an Issue

Talented journalists and orators will get a hearing on the Tariff WHENEVER IT BECOMES A POLITICAL ISSUE.

But it has no place in this election.

G. N. GORDON GAVE HIS WORD TO THE PEOPLE IN ANSWER TO THIS SAME PROPAGANDA OF THE PROFITEERS TWO WEEKS AGO.

And Mackenzie King declared that in so far as the Liberals were concerned, no changes in the tariff would be put into effect without the consent of the people.

The Liberal Party keeps its word.

The issue in 1911 is the Liberal Party's guarantee of good faith.

The imported journalist who has been rushed into the breach for the Meighen Machine makes only one statement opposite to the issue in this election.

Public Opinion Against Meighenism

Here it is: "The contention that the Government has no mandate from the country is supported neither by constitutional precedent nor by the opinion of the public." .....

That bifurcated statement is offered to the Electors of this Riding as a fact. ..From one alleged fact know all.

In West Peterborough alone, PUBLIC OPINION IS SO SOLIDLY AGAINST THE MEIGHEN GOVERNMENT THAT THEY HAD TO HUSTLE THIS OTTAWA JOURNALIST IN AS A LAST HOPE.

Prominent newspapers from Vancouver all the way East are denouncing the Meighen Government.

Near home, such leading papers as the Toronto Globe and the Toronto Star, both of which supported the Union Government, assert that the so-called National Liberal and Conservative Government has no mandate from the people.

Trades Councils and other associations have made similar declarations and demands.

But enough. The clever Ottawa journalist's method is an open book to the Electors of West Peterborough.

Like the displaced electioneering experts, he, too, TAKES HIS CUE FROM THE HONOURABLE ARTHUR MEIGHEN, and evading the issue in this campaign—the restoration of representative and responsible Government—he plays up the tariff in the hope of deceiving some and of frightening other Electors into voting for the so-called National Liberal and Conservative Government.

THE LIBERALS OF WEST PETERBOROUGH WILL NOT BE DECEIVED.

And Christ Himself doth rule.

Day after day, we think what he is doing
In those bright realms of air
Year after year his tender steps pursuing,
Behold he's grown more fair.

LABOR "CZAR" FOUND GUILTY OF EXTORTING

ROBERT P. BRINDELL, WHO RULED BUILDING TRADES IN NEW YORK, CONVICTED IN SCANDAL PROBE.

FACES 15 YEAR TERM

(Canadian Press.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 4. — Robt. P. Brindell, President of the Building Trades Council, was found guilty of extortion last night before Justice McAvoy in the extraordinary term of the Supreme Court. The jury was out an hour and 20 minutes. The "czar" of the Building Trades, ruling over the destinies of 115,000 artisans and laborers was tried on a charge of extorting $5,000 from Max Aronson for calling off a strike on a building Aronson had under construction.

Brindell was remanded to the Tombs. He will remain there until Tuesday morning, when sentence will be pronounced and preliminary motions for a new trial will be made. The Labor leader faces a maximum term of 15 years in prison.

The revelations of how Brindell became a dominating Labor factor in the building industry in New York city, dictating to the largest firms in the country, began on October 20, 1920, when the Lockwood Committee opened its sessions in the City Hall.

For weeks witness after witness went on the stand, testifying of vast sums of money paid to Brindell because they feared he would use his power to call strikes on their operations or because they wanted him to call off strikes he had set in motion.

Brindell obtained his power partly because of his domination of the walking delegates of building trades unions, who were faithful to him because he obtained positions for them for the term of three years at $75 a week. He controlled the building situation from the ground up. He smashed the old-line American Federation of Labour House-wreckers' Union, known as the Zaranko organization, driving some of the men to take out "privilege-to-work" cards for the payment of $10 a week each.

Transactions Numerous.

Aronson was erecting a twelve-story building on West 36th street, when the work was tied up and Brindell forced him to pay $5,000 before the strike was called off. During the trial there were nine different cash transactions to which witnesses swore. The largest was $32,000, paid by Hugh Robertson of Todd, Irons & Robertson, who said he paid the money, part of $50,000 that he had promised for "strike insurance," knowing he was buying the Labor leader's power.

SUB DISASTER MYSTERY YET

SINKING OF K-5 OFF LAND'S END TWO WEEKS AGO NOT CLEARED UP YET—ALL LOST.

RUMORS DISCOUNTED

(Canadian Press).

LONDON, Feb. 4.—The enquiry by the Admiralty into the loss of Submarine K5, which sank with all hands off Land's End a fortnight ago, has failed to clear up the mystery which surrounded the cause of the sinking, as there were no survivors and the wreckage gave no clue, but reports, originating in Dublin, attributing the disaster to a new electrically-controlled projectile from Irish Sea craft were ridiculed to-day by Admiralty officials as "fantastic."

"Numbers of Governments would like to have a sea fighting contrivance capable of performances claimed for this Irish hush plane," was the comment of one of the Admiralty officials, who pointed out that the sinking had occurred more than a hundred miles off the Scilly Islands.

BUSINESS PROFIT TAX RENEWAL NOT LIKELY, BELIEVED

IF RENEWED WILL PROBABLY BE ONLY IN A MODIFIED FORM.

Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Feb. 4.—The announcement that the Excess Profits Tax is to be withdrawn in Great Britain will no doubt result in renewed agitation here for the non-renewal of Canada's Business Profits Tax.

Since the end of the war there have been many representations(from the business interests that the tax should be dropped. The main arguments used were similar to those employed in Great Britain that the tax hindered the expansion of industries and had an adverse influence on the investment of money in business entrprses.

Technically the Business Profits Tax expired with the end of last year. It has latterly been renewed from year to year, and business interests represented here are confident that the tax will not be renewed in the coming Budget, or, if renewed, it will be in a modified form.

REPORT OF TREASURER SHOWS CONCLUSION OF PROSPEROUS YEAR.

The financial statement of Treasurer Mabel Patterson for the Peter Robinson Chapter, I.O.D.E., shows the Order to be in a flourishing condition, and its funds to have been commendably disbursed.

The receipts from February 1 to September 30, 1920, totalled $1,859.38, from which substantial donations were made to the Armenian Fund, a cot in the Muskoka Hospital, to the Serbian Relief.

The receipts from October 1 to February 1, 1921, were $969.50, which were, after expenses, distributed to various worthy causes, including the Muskoka Hospital, Senana Bible Mission, Navy League, War Veterans, Salvation Army, War Memorial, Chinese Famine Fund.

The balance on hand is $192.27.

WHO CAN VOTE NEXT MONDAY

SEVERAL ELECTION OFFICERS DISQUALIFIED BUT NOT ALL—RULES REGARDING INDIANS.

THE POLLING HOURS

According to the Dominion Elections Act those who are disqualified to vote in the coming by-elections are returning officers and election clerks, but not deputy returning officers, registrars, poll clerks, or constables. Persons employed in the capacity of counsel, attorney, solicitor, agent or clerk to any other person in connection with the election is also disqualified.

Indians with the requirements for voting, but who are ordinarily resident on an Indian reservation are not entitled to vote. However an Indian in this category may vote if he served in the naval, military or air forces of Canada in the late war. There are numerous Indians at Curve Lake and Reserve who therefore will vote on Monday.

The polls will be open from six o'clock in the morning until six o'clock at night.

TO CONFER ON UNEMPLOYMENT

HON. WALTER ROLLO TELLS LABOR REPRESENTATIVES ONTARIO TO CALL CONFERENCE OF PROVINCIAL PREMIERS.

(Canadian Press)

TORONTO, Feb. 4.—Hon. W. R. Rollo this morning told a deputation from the Toronto and District Trades and Labor Council that the Ontario Government proposed to take the initiative in calling a conference of provincial premiers for the purpose of considering the old age pension question and also the best means of dealing with the unemployment situation.

TORONTO GUNMEN WOUND OFFICER

DISCOVERED AT REAR OF DRUG STORE, BURGLARS SHOOT.

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Feb. 4.—In a gun battle with two burglars at the rear of a drug store in the northern suburbs of the city early this morning Constable Thomas Forbes was shot twice in the leg. The gunmen escaped, leaving the victim lying in a lane. Forbes was inspecting the back lane and came upon the two men as they stood at the back door of the store. The men immediately opened fire and although wounded, the constable returned the fire, sending five shots after the men. It is not known whether any took effect.

LONDON HAY LOWEST IN ABOUT TWO YEARS

SELLS AT $20 A TON AS AGAINST $35 YAEAR AGO.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 4. — Hay prices on the local market were the lowest in two years, the highest grade being quoted at twenty dollars per ton. One year ago the same quality was selling readily at $35 to $38 per ton. With large supplies still on hand the farmers expect a still further slump in prices.

BATTLE GROWS HOTTER AS IT DRAWS TO END

INTENSITY IN CAMPAIGNS OF ALL PARTIES INCREASES WITH BUT TWO DAYS LEFT—SEVERAL MEETINGS.

Mackenzie King, the Liberal Leader, received rousing welcomes at Ennismore and Bridgenorth last night, where he addressed two packed meetings.

The Parish Hall at Ennismore was so crowded that many were unable to gain admittance.

In the Foresters' Hall, Bridgenorth, the Liberal Leader emphasised the importance of co-operation in opposing the Meighen Government. He said the Liberal Party stood not for race, class, or creed, but was based on the broad principles of broad legislation to meet world conditions.

G. N. Gordon received a hearty reception following a brief address, in which he outlined the principles at stake.

Hon. Charles Murphy, ex-Secretary of State, denounced the Federal Government is reactionary, and appealed for the election of Mr. Gordon as a move in the overthrow of a Government which, he said, did not stand for the rule of the people.

F. D. Kerr reviewed Union Government. He said Liberals and Conservatives alike united to elect Union Government for the duration of the war. Now that the war is ended, the Government has refused to come to the people for endorsation. The election of Mr. Gordon would be a reminder that governments cannot flout the will of the people, he said.

Mrs. Telford sang several solo numbers between addresses.

Ennismore Meeting.

Mackenzie King, Hon. Charles Murphy, and R. R. Hall spoke in Ennismore, and asked for unison in order to defeat the Meighen clique at Ottawa. Both Mr. King and Mr. Murphy pointed out that the Meighen Government desired to postpone the election until after the census was taken, and until after the redistribution of the constituencies in Canada took place. Mr. King stated that according to the votes polled during the election of 1917, fourteen rural constituencies with a total vote polled of only 50,167 votes, elected 14 members to the Dominion House. The city of Toronto, with over 50,000 votel polled, only elected five members to Parliament. With a redistribution bill in the hands of the Government that was opposed to the farmers, it could, by passing Act of Parliament, give the advantage to the cities and take it away from the rural ridings.

R. R. Hall, e-M.P., also spoke briefly. He pointed out that the farmers in West Peterborough could not possibly poll more than one-quarter of the votes; that the people in the city had no choice or say as to who the U.F.O. candidate should be. Hence the Farmer candidate in this election was handicapped in the city in asking voters to vote for him, when the city voter was made to understand that under the rules of its organisation he had no say in the choice of the candidate. Mr. Gordon was chosen as the Liberal candidate at a convention, to which every opponent of the Government was invited to attend. The choice of him as a candidate was the free choice of all opponents of the Government living in both the city and the country.

The Liberal Leader will address a meeting in Centreville to-night.

Lieut.-Col. O'Flynn, of Belleville. Mr. Gordon, and Dan. O'Connell, of Toronto, will address a second meeting at Young's Point.

Held a Rally.

A meeting in the interests of Mr. Thomas McMurray, the Labour candidate, will be held in the G.W.V.A. Hall to-night.

Peter Heenan, M.L.A. for Kenora, W. A. Crockett, M.L.A. for West Wentworth, John Bruce, organiser of the Steam Fitters' and Plumbers' Union, and John Nible, organiser of the Electrical and Iron Workers, of Toronto, will speak. Mr. McMurray and Thomas Tooms will also speak.

Dr. Hugh Stevenson, M.L.A. for London, and Sergt.-Major McNamara, M.L.A., of Toronto, will arrive on OTONABEE WATER.

(Overheard after the Burns anniversary banquet recently held in Peterborough):

Sandy: Ach, Donald, man, there was a wale o'Scots at the Bur-r-r-rns dinner; but ah wis shocked tae hear twa Scots wi' a strong German accent!

Donald: Hoot, man, Sandy, I didna think oor Otonabee water wis sae bad as a' that. We maun scoot on wi the Filtration Plant before worse happens! Eh, whit?

HANNA STANDS FIRM; MEN ARE OUT FOR GOOD

WILL REFUSE TO REINSTATE MEN DISCHARGED FOR PARTICIPATION IN POLITICS—MEN ARE OBDURATE.

ARE TO "STAND PAT"

(Canadian Pres.)

TORONTO, Feb. 4.— President D. B. Hanna of the Canadian National Railways, who returned yesterday to the city after spending some time in Ottawa, still refused to discuss the award of the Boards of Conciliation which recently investigated the "no politics" order of the President.

"There are three reports and I have not studied them all," said the President. "First there is a unanimous report, secondy a majority report and thirdly a minority report."

"I want to say, though, that the executive management of the railway had nothing to do with the findings as embodied in the reports," he added. He was asked whether Mr. James Higgins, who was discharged after running as a Labor candidate in the Northeast Toronto by-election, would be reinstated as well as two other employees of the railway who had taken part in politics, Mr. Hanna stated that as far as the discharged employees were concerned their cases remained unchanged.

Could Resort to Strike.

As an award of the Conciliation Board is not compulsory, local interest is centred on Mr. James Higgins who has not been reinstated as yet. The employees of the C.N.Rys. are at liberty to strike and the strike could not be called illegal. "I believe," said Mr. Higgins, "that the difficulty will be overcome without resorting to the extreme measures of a strike. Although a strike is quite in order I do not think it will become necessary," added Mr. Higgins. "I was only in temporary employment of the C.N.Rys., just as Sir Thomas White, who is sitting on the Grand Trunk Arbitration Board and who still retains his seat in the House of Commons," he said.

Men Will "Stand Pat."

"Future action will be considered by the C.N.Rys. Co-operative Committee if the railway does not accept the awards of the Conciliation Board," said President Mosher of the Canadian Railway Brotherhood yesterday.

"I have no doubt that the employees of the C.N.Rys. will stand pat on their rights to accept nominations and be elected to legislative bodies, either in the Provincial or Federal Houses,' he added.

"If President Hanna reinstates the men, I believe that the whole matter will be ratisfactorily adjusted," he concluded.

A RECITAL

The second of Miss Palmer's monthly musical evenings took place Wednesday night in the Conservatory, and proved very interesting to students and friends. In many cases considerable improvement showed itself nerves were held better under control, and many of the students played with more confidence and ease than they did at their first appearance. The benefits of these monthly performances in public are invaluable to the young players, and foster a very healthy rivalry and corps d'esprit. Miss Palmer conducted a small orchestra at the beginning of the evening. The young people followed the beat quite creditably and kept well together. In the middle of the programme, Miss Palmer spoke for a few minutes on the subject of "Position", showing by illustration how the violin came to be held in such a position ,and the hygienic and technical reasons why it should be so held. It was interesting to the parents to know how things should be done so that they could assist their children and call attention to their faults when they were playing at home. Those taking part in this month's programme were:

Stewart Widids, Charles Liebers Kathie Taylor Emmit McGarrity Walter Thorne, Harold Peace, Dorothy Fine, Leonard Grime, Robert Cormack, Arnold Spencer, Roy Rome, Winnie Evans.

MINISTERIAL CRISIS.

(Canadian Press.)

ATHENS, Feb. 4—A ministerial crisis appears imminent as a result of the serious difference between Premier Rhallis and War Minister Gounaris, as to who shall head the Greek delegation to the forthcoming conference in London on Near East questions. The Premier threatens to resign unless he is designated as chairman of the delegation.

RUM-RUNNING AT NIAGARA

SMALL BOATS PLYING REGULARLY BELOW THE WHIRLPOOL IN THE NIAGARA RIVER.

FOUR UNDER ARREST

(Canadian Press)

ST. CATHARINES, Feb. 4.—Charges of violating the Ontario Temperance Act, it is understood will be laid against four prominent farmers of Niagara Township as a result of an investigation conducted by license officials in that district. Smuggling is being carried on between the Canadians and Americans it is stated and evidence has been obtained regarding the operations. Considerable rum running, it is alleged, has been carried on below the whirlpool in the Niagara River, small boats plying regularly throughout the winter from the Canadian to the American side. The open season has permitted this class of navigation.

NEW GAS LAWS FOR PROVINCE ARE PROBABLE

CONFERENCE THIS MORNING TO RESULT IN LEGISLATION VESTING CONTROL IN GAS REFEREE

WILL FIX GAS RATES

(Canadian Press)

TORONTO, Feb. 4.—Premier Drury and Hon. W. E. Raney this morning received a deputation representing the Natural Gas Association, the Municipal Gas Consumers Association and the Sarnia Gas Company. They discussed the form and scope of legislation to solve existing natural gas difficulties. As a result of the conference it is likely that during the present session the government will introduce a bill for a new Natural Gas act, having for its objects the consideration of the Domestic use of natural gas and encouragment of search for new sources of supply. The bill will probably provide for the appointment of a gas referee, who will have power to review the acts of the Gas Commissioner. Rate fixing owers will be vested solely in the gas referee.

PRESENTATION TO REV. C. J. PHALEN

CELEBRATES TWENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY IN PRIESTHOOD.

The Christian Mothers of St. Peter's Cathedral held a most successful social evening in honour of Rev. C. J. Phalen's 25th anniversary in the priesthood. About 200 attended, including Rev. Monsignor McColl, Rev. Father Doyle, Rev. Father Galvin, and Rev. Father Costello.

The banquet hall presented a brilliant scene with its elegant table decorations, daffodils, candelebra, and silver, and after dainty refreshments were served, the president, Mrs. Coughlin read a short address appropriate to the occasion, and on behalf of the Christian Mothers, presented Rev. Father Phalen with a handsome Club bag.

In reply Rev. Father Phalen thanked the ladies and all present, and expressed his appreciation of their kindness and delighted those present in his usual entertaining manner.

Short speeches were then made by the clergy present and the evening closed with a splendid musical number by the Misses Blanid and Florence Giroux, accompanied on the violin by Mr. Herbert Giroux.

DEMAND RELEASE OF LABOR GROUP NOW IMPRISONED

MATTER REFERRED TO THE DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE, PREMIER SAYS.

(Canadian Press)

WINNIPEG, Feb. 4. — Premier Meighen, in reply to a request that the Labour members of the Provincial Legislature imprisoned on charges of seditious conspiracy, be released in time for the opening of the House, states that the matter has been referred to the Department of Justice for action.

If the Federal Government does not release the men, the Labour group in the Legislature, it is stated, intends to place a resolution before the House calling for the support of all members in a petition to be forwarded to the Federal authorities for the release of the men.

COMB SAGE TEA IN FADED OR GRAY HAIR

If Mixed With Sulphur It Darkens so Naturally Nobody Can Tell.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural colour and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural colour and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.

QUEER DOINGS

(Canadian Press.)

First of His Tribe.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 3.—Tony Tommy, chief of the Florida Seminoles, who still wear the garb of their forefathers, is first of his tribe to buy and operate his own automobile. After a course of instruction at a garage, the chief now rolls into town each week from his village near Fort Launderdale, at the wheel of his machine, but with a pair of horn-rim glasses as his only other concession to the ways of the pale faces.

Take to the Streets.

WASHINBTON, Feb. 3.—The president and even senators and representatives might have to take to the streets to enjoy cigar, cigarette or a pipe as an aid to statesmenlike reflection, if a bill offered by Senator Smoot, becomes a law. It forbids smoking in Government departments or any "independent establishment of the Government" as a fire protection measure.

Will Accept Money.

NEWARK, N.J., Feb. 3.—Michael Devaney, member of the U.S. Olympic track team, will accept money for running without having his amateur status uestioned by the A.A.U. He has been appointed truant officer by the Belleville (N.J.) Board of Education. His predecessor used an automobile in his work and resigned because of differences over gasoline bills.

Thirty Citizens.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Thirsty citizens who buy bottles labelled "champagne" only to discover the contents to be "kickless" cider, have no legal redress. District Attorney Laskey has ruled. Mr. Laskey says that any man who purchases champagne these days is a violator under the Volstead Act and the law could not be invoked to aid in its own violation.

Swallowed the Evidence.

RICHMOND, W. Va., Feb. 3.—A police plot to capture an alleged bootlegger failed recently when Mrs. Mollie Richardson chewed up and swallowed the evidence, a marked $5.00 bill. The three officers on the job sent a "spotter" in with the bill to purchase a pint of liquor but reported later that they had only succeeded in losing the money.

Convicts Hard to Please.

OSSINING, N.Y., Feb. 3.—James Blanche, chef extraordinaire, having failed to please the death house inmates at Sing Sing with his "cooked to the Queen's taste" dishes, has quit the job. He used to serve in the cuisino of a New York hotel, and has a few days of a two years' sentence remaining. "Their remarks hurt my pride," he said. 'I'll soon be out of here and back on a job where my art will be appreciated."

Distinctively Individual.

HACKENSACK, N.J., Feb. 3.—Determined to be distinctively individual, New Jersey's mosquitoes have started breeding already in preparation for an early spring drive on their usual objective, human anatomy. Dry goods merchants predict a good season for mosquito netting.

Date Pudding.

Chop fine half a pound of suet and two cups of dates that have been pitted. Add a cup of flour, half a cup of sugar, a little cinnamon, cloves and allspice, a cup of soft bread crumbs a cup of milk, one egg, a teaspoon of baking powder and a little salt. Steam two hours in small moulds and fill three-quarters full. Serve with a hard sauce.

TO COMMUNICATE WITH MARS

SCIENCE INTERESTED

Impossible for Man to Travel to Mars in Shell.

Wireless experts the world over are watching with interest the preparations now being made by Alexander Foster Humphrey, the Pittsburg inventor, to communicate with the planet Mars. Ever since Marconi, Lodge, Schiaparelli, Lowell and other distinguished scientists expressed conviction that Mars has been projecting signals and messages which the earth has been at a loss to interpret or even acknowledge, various costly and gigantic engineering schemes have been advanced to transmit an answering signal across the 35,000,000 miles of space which separates that planet from this earth.

Compared with some of these proposals, Inventor Humphrey's plan is simplicity itself. It involves the construction of a cannon 377 feet in length and firing five projectiles all contained in one shell. The first shell explodes at an altitude of 100 miles with sufficient force to send the remaining four shells forward with renewed velocity. The last three shells, Mr. Humphreys estimates, will explode at an altitude of 3,000 miles with three distinct vibratory flashes which, if observable by the Martians, as intended, may be interpreted by them as the earth's answer to the mysterious three-dot signal received here last January, presumably from Mars itself.

In the early part of last January commercial wireless stations at New York, London, San Francisco, Hongkong and elsewhere reported the receipt of certain strange, undecipherable signals. The only character at all recognizable was a three-dot unit resembling the Morse letter S. Comparison of the records at the two stations, thousands of miles apart, revealed that the signals were heard simultaneously and with equal power, and that the messages, if such they were, had a regularity of form which dismissed the natural explanation that the signals were of a static or meteoric origin. The queer impulses were characterized by the wavelength of 100,000 meters, which is extraordinary, and the stations received them only because they happened to be tuned to that length at the time. Ordinarily for commercial work the length wave does not exceed 24,000 meters.

Guglielmo Marconi, the wireless wizard, gave it as his opinion that the signals originated at some point outside the earth and might signify efforts on the part of the inhabitants of Mars or Venus to communicate with us. Others held that wireless messages could not pass over the vast space of 35,000,000 miles between earth and Mars, and that there could be no life on any other planet but this. Many, however, held that there might be life on Venus if not on Mars. Dr. Charles G. Abbot, director of the atmospherical observatory of the Smithsonian Institution, is a supporter of the latter theory. He has stated that Mars' temperature is as much as 100 degrees lower than that of the earth, making it difficult to believe that creatures of the carbon-and-water constituency could exist there. On the other hand, he says, the temperature of Venus is about 180 degrees, because of its proximity to the sun. And since this temperature is tempered by a perpetual cloak of clouds which overhangs Venus, he believes human habitation possible on that planet.

Meanwhile, scientific workers want to answer at once the strange signals—or at least to send some test signals of their own. For this purpose a number of interesting suggestions have been put forth. Among them are plans to install immense wireless apparatus with which to flash return signals. Others would make use of the light-ray theory by constructing a large number of powerful searchlights, blending them in one huge glare. Sir Oliver Lodge, the British scientist, proposes a geometrical figure of gigantic size to be laid upon the surface of the Sahara desert, made of a dead black or light-absorbant material. Geometry, he argues, is a science of the universe, and such a figure would be both visible and intelligible to the Martians, and would perhaps induce them to attempt an answering signal.

Light Signals.

"My plan," says Mr. Humphrey of Pittsburg, "would be to pass a signal shell beyond the earth-screening atmosphere and far up into the pure ether, where the shell would emit three separate balls or masses of highly illuminating and combustible matter which would burn to a predetermined time or a period of, say, 10 to 15 minutes' duration. These widely separated balls or rays would correspond to the three-dot unit received by the Marconi wireless stations.

"The plan would be to fire these shells once every 24 hours and at a certain time each day for a period of three days, and so on for a month or so. The strict regularity of these signals would no doubt attract attention upon Mars and they would attribute it to human agency. Also the three-dot unit would correspond to one of their own or Venus' wireless signals. To accomplish this purpose I have planned a monster gun or cannon of special design to meet requirements. The shell may be called a vacuum bottle, multiple shell.

"The gun would be 377 feet long and would weigh perhaps 45,000 tons without mountings. In the drawing I have made it has a bore of 5 feet 10 inches and throws a shell 27 feet 5 inches in length. The main charge of smokeless powder is ten tons, with four auxiliary charges of one ton each, or, in all, 14 tons for one discharge.

"Ordnance makers know that the length of the gun is automatically set by the strength of the tube of steel. If the cannon is too long its own weight would depress its muzzle and tend to make it curve. Therefore, it is obvious that to have its muzzle held up, adequate supports of some kind must be provided. This I have done by means of huge girders.

"Another peculiarity of the cannon I have designed is that there is no perceptible atmospheric pressure upon the nose of the shell as it passes through the cannon's bore. This atmospheric pressure is always reckoned with in other ordnance. Arithmatists know that when a shell passes through the bore of a gun it compresses the air before it and therefore creates a great amount of resistance to its passage.

"In my cannon a state of vacuum exists in the bore. After the explosive charges and shell are placed in position a cap is inserted in the muzzle of the gun which closes the bore. The air is then exhausted by means of tubing and the power house plant. The gun is now ready to be discharged. If the cap were placed in the muzzle and the air were not exhausted, the gun would burst. The cap contains a safety plug also. As the shell passes through the muzzle it easily ruptures the vacuum cap and passes up.

"To keep up a tremendous pressure on the shell's base as it passes through the bore, there are five distinct explosions in its rear. When the primary charge of ten tons is ignited it causes the shell to move forward and as the shell does this each of the four auxiliary one-tone charges is ignited in succession by the flame or burning gas in the rear of the shell.

"The shell acts as a cork in front of the burning gasses and as it passes beyond the auxiliary charges, the burning gasses explode all four charges. The projectile therefore receives five distinct impulses the vacuum in the bore could be termed another making in all six impulses instead of one as is usual in the ordinary piece of ordnance.

"Now, in reference to the shell itself. Its velocity would have become so great that as it passed through the atmosphere it would perhaps become over-heated and the secondary and signal shells would prematurely explode. To overcome this condition the shell as a whole is covered with an outer casing with a vacuum between it and the shell's actual body. By the time belt, 100 miles or so away. The first shell explodes and projects upward the secondary and signal shells. The outer casing then is no longer necessary. Later on, at a predetermined time, the secondary shell explodes and again the signal shell explodes and again the signal shell is projected farther upward. At its extreme height the signal shell ejects the three balls of combustible material, spreading them out so that they may be distinctly seen in the light ray interpretation of the wireless three-dot unit.

Launching the Projectile.

"A projectile launched from a gun, if given enough impetus, would pass up through the earth's atmospheric girdle and far into the ether, but no human being would be able to travel in it for the simple reason that a certain condition exists which would make this impossible. When the gun is fired what artillerists call the 'set-back' occurs in the projectile or shell, and this applies to any loose body in the interior, which would be hurled with terrific force to the base and remain there until the shell or projectile had come to rest. At that instant the body would be hurried forward with the same terrific force toward the nose of the shell. If it were really to happen that a man-carrying projectile or shell should land upon Mars and the Martians were to open the shell, the condition of the body within would be so gruesome that the Martians would conceive us to be of such an odd shape and construction as to belong to the jellyfish order. This is not a pleasant thought, but it is based on facts."

Science is so deeply interested and takes the subject so seriously that the French Academy of Science has offered a prize of $20,000 for the most suitable means of making a sign to a heavenly body and receiving an answer.

What the exact cost of a gun such as he describes would be the inventor does not know. It probably would cost $500,000 to build the first one. So delicate would its mechanism be that only the finest machining could be permitted on it. And the projectiles alone, weighing an unbelievable number of tons, would have to be placed in the gun by hoisting machinery. Mr. Humphrey has made allowances for use of a huge electric crane to do this work.

Mr. Humphrey is certain that the gun he has designed is feasible and that there is no chance for a slip-up in its action, elaborate as it seems. Mechanics alone, he points out, assure him that after the first explosion the burning gas will ignite the other four charges, and that the shell will pass through the bore at just the proper pace to receive the full impulse of each at the right second. By means of the vacuum tube he makes a 377-foot tube equal that of the ordinary 900 or 1,000-foot one. And his plan to return the three-dot signal with its counterpart in the light rays is being favorably received by other scientists of the country.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 4TH, 1921.

THE UNEMPLOYMENT SITUATION.

The unemployment situation in Peterborough, although still good compared with many other industrial centres, is not improving—in fact the number of workless men is on the increase, slightly but steadily. Not only are conditions slack in a number of the factories, but the almost complete shutting down of municipal work has had its effect upon the situation, and for the next month at least there is little hope of improvement. However, there is cause for rejoicing in the mild weather, which has reduced the fuel bill to a level much lower than was anticipated, and in the fact that the peak of the unemployment period has been passed. It should be the aim of the city authorities to prepare their programme of work to be carried out in the spring so that it can be launched as soon as it is practicable, for in some of the industries conditions may be slack for some little time, and the employees of such concerns will necessarily have to find other work. If the municipal programme is inaugurated as soon as the weather permits, the situation might be materially improved. Peterborough has escaped very luckily on the whole, and although the next few weeks may find the conditions at their worst, the coming of spring should see a turn for the better if the city authorities and the other employees of labour will do their part.

REFORESTATION.

Mr. R. R. Hall, Liberal member for Parry Sound, told the Legislature some plain facts about the plundering of the timber resources of the province and of the need of reforestation. All the governments that have been in power in Ontario had been alike in their neglect of this most important duty. "Literally murdered" was the expression used by the member for Parry Sound in his description of the pilaging of Ontario's forest wealth. Mr. Hall's warning was not any more vigorous than it was needed. Too much latitude has been given the lumber companies in this province; they have been allowed to do almost what they liked with the timber limits and their methods have been criminally wasteful and careless. Even to-day, Mr. Hall complains that some companies are taking out timber that does not measure more than five inches across the stump. It is too late to save many of the limits, but there should be a closer supervision of the forests that we have left, and above all the Provincial government should concern itself with a whole-hearted and sincere effort to inaugurate a policy of reforestation before it is too late. The problem has been talked about for years; it is to be hoped that action will soon take the place of debate. The need is urgent, and the response should be immediate.

THE EXPRESS RATES.

The general public will find scant cause for rejoicing in the decision of the Board of Railway Commissions to allow the Canadian Express Companies to increase their rates 35 per cent. on first class articles, 25 per cent. on second class and 20 per cent. on commodity rates, including principally cream, fish and fruit. The action of the Railway Commissioners is a blow to the hopes of a speedy reduction in the cost of living, for the increases authorized by the decision will ultimately and inevitably have to be paid by the consumer. There is no question but that the business world will meet the new rates by charging more for their goods. Trade of all kinds in all parts of the country will be affected by the increase and the public, as always, will be the victims, for the difference between the new and the old rates will be simply passed on to the consumer. How there can be hope of a reduction in the cost of many necessities in the face of this large increase in express rates is beyond the comprehension of the average citizen—even if Hon. F. B. Carvell and the railway and express companies are satisfied. The announcement of the new rates is sorry news for the country generally.

MADE IN GERMANY.

The announcement that the German-made film, "Passion," advertised for a Toronto theatre, will not be shown because of the protests of many different organizations, will be welcome news, and the fate of the attempt to foist German films upon the people of Ontario will discourage any further effort to open the doors to pictures of enemy manufacture. The Board of Censors has been given an opportunity to judge public opinion in stance that they do not want German-of them are brought to the attention of the Board they will undoubtedly be rejected.

The people have shown in this in-made films. They should be consistent, films. They should be consistent, however, and treat other articles of German manufacture in the same way. It is claimed that German toys have been coming into Canada in large quantities; the people who objected to the showing of a German moving picture should be equally reluctant to accept German toys. In Lindsay the other evening a pile of mouth organs was noticed in a window and the legend "Made in Germany" could be clearly read on each of the instruments. The same reason that led to the protest against the Ger-that led to the protest against the German film should be equally potent in the case of other goods made in Hunland.

THE HUN REPARATIONS

A settlement seems to have been arrived at by the Entente Allies as to the amount which the Huns must pay in reparations; it is apparently 400,000,000,000 gold marks, and has to be paid by annual payments spread over a term of 42 years. Great as this sum is it by no means represents what the Huns ought to pay for voluntarily and designedly, bringing the ghastly war upon the world in the mad desire to become its masters. But the point is not so much what they ought to pay, but what is the amount which they can pay without being ruined. It is evident that they must be left the means with which they can work in order to pay.

The point which will strike most people pobably about the matter is that the payment is spread over a term of years, and they will regard this not merely as necessary for the reason already given, but because the annual payments will be made not only by the present generation of Huns but by the one which is growing up, and thus should form a constant reminder of the wickedness, the waste and the folly of war. Whether this will be the lesson which will be learned, however, is a matter of doubt. Judging from the manner in which some of the Hun newspapers discuss the terms there would not appear to be a very good chance of it. One of the papers says: "All Germany can do is with a shrug of the shoulders to refuse to pay such or similar sums, and leave it to the Allies to come themselves and take their booty when they want it." The use of the word "booty" is an indication of the manner in which some of the Huns, it may be the majority of them, regard the war. It was simply a fight for spoils, and the conqueror was to seize the booty. There is no sign of any repentance for the horrors which they brought upon the world with all the awful sacrifices of precious lives, no desire shown to make reparation as far as possible for these, no sense of shame, no wish to remove the stain which the treachery and the barbarities have left upon their name, no feeling to become recognized among the decent nations of the world, but only the cunning which seeks to find out how cheaply they can get off. The Entente Allies, however, have made up their minds that they shall pay as much as they can be justly made to, and this in time may have a sobering effect upon them.

So far as Canada is concerned it would not seem that she would get any very large proportion of her war debt, but that is a matter about which it is not safe to say anything at present. It may turn out more satisfactorily than some people seem to think, and the Dominion Government can be trusted to look after her interests, while it is certain that Great Britain will pay the greatest attention to her claims. There is also the suspicion that the Huns are carrying on their old game of deceit and bluff; that they have a great deal more money "tucked away" than they say they have; that their plea of poverty is false; and that therefore when they see the exact terms which the Entente Allies are determined, and have the means to make them pay, they will settle down to work to pay them as quickly as possible. They could take a lesson from the manner in which the French paid the huge war indemnity which Bismarck imposed upon them after the war of 1870. — Kingston Standard.

What Sir Thomas White Said About The Laurier Administration in Budget Speech

Peterboro Industries Didn't Curl Up and Die During Fifteen Years of Liberal Regime

During ten years of the Laurier-Fielding administration the product of Canadian factories increased from 481 millions to more than a billion dollars, and the population of the City of Peterborough increased from 11,000 to 18,000.

As a witness to the prosperity of the Laurier-Fieldig period, we call Sir Thomas White, the financial expert of the Borden Government, now resigned. This is what he said in his first Budget speech on 13th March, 1912:

AFTER FIFTEEN LIBERAL YEARS.

"It will, as I have said before, be gratifying to all that the material prosperity with which we have been so highly favoured still continues to be our portion. Despite the serious vicissitudes through which the Western wheat crop has passed, and the unusual heat experienced in the Province of Ontario during the past summer, the field crops of Canada show a bountiful yield, and with the high prices prevailing for practically all its products, the great basic industry of agriculture continues in a flourishing condition. Our coast fisheries, notably the Atlantic, have enjoyed a good catch and high prices. Our manufacturers are thriving and new industries are springing up throughout the whole Dominion. Railway construction, especially in the West, proceeds apace, preparing a way for settlement in districts not yet opened up and for trade with other markets than we now enjoy.

GENERAL PROSPERITY.

"Our increased bank deposits, clearings, and circulation, the amount of public and private buildings evidenced in municipal and business structures, extensions to manufacturing plants and residences in almost every part of the country, all attest that the general prosperity of Canada at the present time is very great.

A LAND OF HOPE.

"Our Dominion continues to be the land of hope and promise to the home-seeker. During the last year, as before shown, our immigration from Europe and the United States reached an average of nearly a thousand a day, bringing their capital, their intelligence, their energy to assist in the great task of developing the resources of Canada and building up her nationality. Much has been said in the past, with which I am in accord, as to the selection of immigration as far as possible with an eye to the quality and character of our future citizenship. Notwithstanding the large stream of immigration, labour conditions are good and extreme poverty, from any reason other than incapacity or direct misfortune, is hardly known.

"Under the favourable conditions which I have described, and with every prospect of their continuance, the future of Canada looks bright indeed. In the enjoyment of peace, plenty, and prosperity her energetic, loyal, and patriotic people look forward with hope and expectation to an ever great and greater future."

TARIFF OUT OF POLITICS.

Industry enjoyed not only prosperity, but stability and freedom from disturbance. The tariff was practically out of politics. Manufacturers enjoyed a rest from politics. They were free to attend to their business. They did not feel obliged to jump into every bye-election for fear their business would be disturbed. They were not worried even over general elections. The tariff was not an issue in the general election of 1900, of 1904, or of 1908. Laurier and Fielding and their colleagues were not always dragging industry into party politics, as Meighen and his colleagues are doing.

If industry wants prosperity and peace—as in the Golden Age between 1896 and 1911—it should break away from the Meighen Alliance.

The Electors Massing Behind Denne

Closing Up The Ranks Uniting on Mr. Denne

Against the frantic campaign of abuse, hysteria, and personalities being waged to save G. N. Gordon from a too ignominious rout, all upholders of the Protectionist policy are now uniting to administer the Free-trade fanatics a decisive, crushing defeat. Just as in 1911 Canadians stood solidly against an assault upon their national prosperity engineered on foreign soil, so to-day the Electors of West Peterborough are massing into line to safeguard the interests of their community. From every Ward in the City, from every Polling Division in the Country, comes word to-day of a swing toward Denne that promises to leave the assailants of Protection submerged by an avalanche of votes.

Make the majority decisive!

Let the Electors administer such a crushing rebuke to men like G. N. Gordon that never again will the interests and prosperity of Peterborough be attacked behind a smoke-screen of calumny and abuse.

If the solid vote of believers in the National Policy is polled for Mr. Denne—and there are evidences that it will be—his triumph will be so absolute and certain as to have a salutary effect upon those who, as Free-traders, Radicals, Apostles of Unrest, and Promoters of Dissatisfaction, are menacing the foundations of National Unity and Prosperity in this Country.

The eyes of all Canadians are upon this Constituency. Let us show them that the old Riding of West Peterborough stands where it stood in 1911—yes, and in 1917—that the Citizens of this Constituency have not been carried off their feet by appeals to prejudice; that they are on the side of staple government, four-square against everything that strikes at Canadian development and prosperity.

It is now but a matter of majority. Denne is assured of a majority; let us go after a certain plurality. He is assured of election. Let the aim be to give him more votes than all his opponents combined. That can be effected if all those who stand for the Protective Principle and against Free-trade will only stand together.

Let the Liberal Protectionist, the Labour Protectionist, and the Farmer Protectionist close up their ranks, and the majority for Denne will be overwhelming.

The Swing is on. Roll up more Votes for Denne than for all the others combined.

CAN HE BE FOOLED?

Govt. and Returned Men Another Calumny Nailed

The latest calumny being circulated by the enemies of the Government is that it has been recreant in its duty to Returned Soldiers, and that its re-establishment plans have been few, and failures. Do those who make such assertions know:

(1)—That the Government has placed 20,000 returned men on land, expending $80,000,000 in the process, and that this is the greatest soldier land settlement policy in existence anywhere in the world?

(2)—That Canadian war gratuities were the highest paid by any country, and twice as high as those paid by most countries?

(3)—That the gratuities paid by the great, rich United States were infinitely smaller than Canada's, and that the United States has not yet even begun a soldier land settlement policy?

(4)—That the Government's Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment have given vocational training to tens of thousands of returned men, that it has found employment for tens of thousands more; and that representatives of other nations have declared it to be the model for all the world?

(5)—That the Canadian pensions are the highest paid by any of the nations which engaged in the war?

(6)—That the Government at present is seeing to it that no disabled returned man shall suffer want?

The foregoing is not merely electioneering rhetoric. It is simply based upon the following official statement of facts:

—SUMMARY—

OF ACHIEVEMENTS OF GOVERNMENT AGENCIES IN RESPECT TO THE WAR AND DEMOBILIZATION.

Beaten In a Fair Debate Mr. Gordon Now Whines

With crushing defeat staring him in the face Mr. G. Gordon whines that he is the victim of unfair propaganda. In his chagrin and disappointment he resorts to vituperation and abuse.

We have no personal feelings against Mr. Gordon. We are merely sorry that he was foolish enough and weak enough to array himself on the side of a policy clearly hostile to the interests of this riding and this country; and we have no apology to make for our campaign against him on that score.

We are content to compare the campaign we have waged with that which Mr. Gordon and his friends have conducted behind a smoke-screen of defamation and abuse.

We have not indulged in personalities or abuse; we have rested our case on official, ascertainable facts, have invited the electors to check our statements, and in no single case has Mr. Gordon been able to successfully challenge or refute a single statement that we have made.

Let the electors of Peterborough reflect what this means. The Government brought Canada through a titanic war. It has demobilized half a million soldiers, has been the trustee of two billions of the people's money, and has carried out policies and reforms on a scale undreamt of in pre-war days.

Despite all that, despite the huge amount of taxes that have been disbursed, Mr. Gordon, with all his malice, with all his desire to injure the Government, with all the imported orators that have been at his command, HAS BEEN UNABLE TO UTTER A SOLITARY CONCRETE CHARGE AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT'S HONESTY.

That, surely, is something which the electors of Peterborough should remember.

And, if honesty in public life be worth while, if our professions of desire for public morality be sincere, then surely we ought to uphold the hand of that Government whose record for integrity is unique in our parliamentary annals, whose conduct of public affairs has been worthy of the nation's trust.

BUDS ON TREES ARE IN BLOOM

GRASSHOPPERS ALSO FROLIC ON HILLSIDE--REMARKABLE WEATHER CONDITIONS IN OXFORD COUNTY.

PORTLAND, Maine., Feb. 4.—Candlemas reports received here state that grasshoppers are being caught in Oxford County fields. A J. Raffe, of Dixfield, reported that last Saturday he found several of the insects frolicking on a sunny hillside. To support his statement he enclosed in an envelope two of the hoppers which apparently expired in transit. Another corresondent sent from a nearby farm a fruit tree branch on which buds had begun to open.

In contrast with last year's conditions when ten foot snow banks were common sights and seven feet of snow fell within as many weeks, the weather bureau reports show a total snow fall of two inches in January this year and an aggregate temperature more than 300 degrees warmer than last January.

Prophets who put faith in the ground hog said that the abnormal condition bids fair to continue as there appeared to be small likelihood hood that the little animal would see its shadow to-day.

LIGHT CANADIAN CARS FAVORED IN ENGLAND

The British are turning their attention to the mass production of automobiles according to a report just received from one of the leading authorities in London, England. An increased demand for the low-priced American cars has forced the situation and several firms have already commenced producing a low-priced, attractive car, while many other leading companies have completed their plans and intend to get into line with the American producers immediately after the New Year.

According to the majority of the experts the Great War brought about the change. British officers and men observed the usefulness of low-priced Canadian and American cars in the morasses of Flanders and on the broken roads of Northern France. Since their return to civilian life they have endeavored to purchase similar types. At the present time there are hundreds of Fords, McLaughlins, Overlands and other American cars throughout the British Isles and France and in business circles the demand is increasing daily.

Leaders in the War Department and the Admiralty claim that low-priced Canadian and American Motor Transport was an outstanding feature of the transport departments in every field of hostilities and the Treasury Department coincides with this view.

A recent despatch from Asiatic, Turkey to the British War office reads as follows: "Our troops are accompanied with three lorries and ten Fords." Throughout Britain there are no derisive remarks concerning the proverbial "Tin Lizzie." Light weight Canadian cars are peculiarly adapted to the British highways and by-laws with their small lanes, steep hills and dangerous corners.

Manufacturers of mass production in England much more than here have found their chief competition in foot and motor bicycles. There are more than 20,000,000 bicycles in the British Isles and in this field the manufacturers have little or no competition. High prices for gasoline and railroad transportation have increased the use of the bicycle and at present it is used in every walk of life by young and old. Even in the crowded streets of London one sees thousands of persons going to their offices on bicycles.

Apparently a change of great importance is at hand in the British automobile industry. The outlook is that many manufacturers will turn their attention to the low priced cars. Several of the leading companies in England declare that the demand for high-priced cars to be shipped to the United States has been on the increase since the termination of hostilities.—The National Automobile Magazine of Canada.

WHEN YOU WAKE UP DRINK GLASS OF HOT WATER

Wash poisons and toxins from system before putting food into stomach.

Says Inside-bathing makes anyone look and feel clean, sweet and refreshed.

Wash yourself on the inside befo breakfast like you do on the outsid This is vastly more important becau the skin pores do not absorb impur ties into the blood, causing illnes while the bowel pores do.

For every ounce of food and drin taken into the stomach, nearly a ounce of waste material must b carried out of the body. If this wast material is not eliminated day by da it quickly ferments and generate poisons, gases and toxins which ar absorbed or sucked into the bloo stream, through the lymph duct which should suck only nourishmen to sustain the body.

A splendid health measure is t drink, before breakfast each day, glass of real hot water with a tea spoonful of limestone phosphate in i which is a harmless way to was these poisons, gases and toxins fro the stomach, liver, kidneys an bowels; thus cleansing, sweetenin and freshening the entire alimentar canal before putting more food int the stomach.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs but very little at the dru store but is sufficient to make anyon an enthusiast on inside-bathing. Me and women who are accustomed t wake up with a dull, aching head o have furred tongue, bad taste, nast breath, sallow complexion, others wh have bilious attacks, acid stomach o constipation are assured of pro nounced improvement in both healt and appearance shortly.

Most people are more than sat sfied with their misfortunes, but no with their fortunes.

Look Out for Rhoorbacks

Mr. Gordon's campaign policy of wilful misrepresentation and bluff, it is hinted, is to be terminated with a last attack delivered as unfairly as his other statements have been.

The object of this reported climax to unfairness will be, it is said, more brazen (if that be possible) than anything yet attempted, Mr. Gordon realizing that time will not permit of reply and refutation.

We therefore take this opportunity of warning the electors against such tactics—an old disreputable game of desperate electioneers. As fair-minded, intelligent electors we merely ask you to judge of any of Mr. Gordon's eleventh-hour statements in the light of the utter unreliability which have characterized his assertions throughout the whole of this campaign.

PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS BURNED 5 YEARS AGO

OTTAWA, Feb. 4.—Five years ago at 8.55 o'clock last night the Dominion Parliament Buildings were destroyed by fire which originated from an unknown cause in the Parliamentary reading room and caused the death of six persons and injury to many others. The night of February 3, 1916, has been indelibly recorded in the history of the Capital as one of the most tragic disastrous periods. The burning, which took place at a time when Germany was waging a barbaric war against the Allies, drew a thrill of indignation from the entire country and many rumors of Hun plotters being in the city and responsible for the destruction of the famous legislative hall were rife.

Thrilling and terrible were some of the experiences encountered by those in the Buildings when the fatal conflagration started. At the time a debate on fish was under way with about two dozen members in the Commons Chamber. Cool and courageous acts marked the deaths of those who died in the execution of their duties, while heroism was shown by every member connected with the buildings. Soldiers of the 77th Battalion called out to assist in the work of fighting the fire endured bitter hardships owing to the severe weather, while many were injured when a section or the structure collapsed.

To-day finds the historic Parliament Hill adorned with another magnificent building, which has risen phoenixlike from the ashes of the old where in the destiny of the Dominion may be fashioned.

Armour Major E. D. Huycke.

The following will be requested to be the patron and vice-patrons: His Hon. the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, Hon. E. C. Drury, Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Hon. Peter Smith M. P. P.; L. H. Irving, and the officers commanding military districts Nos. 1, 2 and 3

AUDIENCES QUICK TO GUESS CLIMAX

Few Movie Plots Clever Enough to Keep Up Element of Suspense

Of all the elements of play-writing that of surprise is perhaps the most effective and at the same time the most difficult of attainment, according to experts. In "A Voice in the Dark," a Goldwyn picture, which comes to Allen Theatre for two days, commencing to-day, the story of the play semis to move forward logically toward a certain cimax. Then at the last minute it swerves in an unsuspected direction—springing the big surprise.

To heighten this surprise feature, Director Frank Lloyd advised that no photograph be shown revealing the outcome of the plot in advance. No hint as to the identity of the culprit in the murder mystery involved is given until the last few yards of film. Any one of four persons might have committed the crime

"A Voice in the Dark" is one of the few pictures in which the surprise is really a surprise for the average movie audience is quick to divine "what's coming next."

TAKE CARE OF THAT COUGH

Some people get a nasty cough and don't pay much attention to it, saying, "Oh, it will wear away in a short time," but while it may wear off, serious injury may have been done to the lungs and respiratory organs by the prolonged, harsh, racking coughing.

On the first sign of a cough or cold get a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. It will stop that nasty, troublesome cough, ease the tightness across the chest, and loosen the phlegm.

Mrs. Wm. Earnshaw, Apsley, Ont., writes:—"Last winter I caught a bad cold, had a sore throat and a terrible hacking cough that I could not get rid of. I could not sleep at night. I tried quite a few remedies, but they did not do me much good until I got Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. By the time I had taken two bottles, my cough was all gone. I feel that "Dr. Wood's" has no equal."

When you get Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, you are not experimenting with new and untried remedy, but one that has a reputation extending over thirty years.

Put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 35c and 60c. a bottle, manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

LETTER FROM HON. A. T. CRERAR

Thousands of electors in West Peterborough have been eager to hear Hon. T. A. Crerar, the leader of the National Progressive Party, in order that they might have a chance to compare him with Hon. Mr. Meighen and Hon. Mackenzie King, the leaders of the other two big political parties, both of whom have appeared recently in Peterborough. It is now definitely announced that Hon. Mr. Crerar will not be able to appear here as he has found it necessary to attend a Provincial convention in Saskatchewan this week, at which his leadership has again been endorsed.

Hon. Mr. Crerar has sent letter to Mr. J. C. Campbell, the candidate of his party in this by-election, giving his views on some of the issues in this campaign. As he has consented to its publication in The Examiner, it is herewith reproduced, as follows:

Winnipeg, 28th, Jan., 1921.

J. Corbett Campbell, Esq.,
Peterborough, Ontario.

Dear Mr. Campbell,—It is a matter of very much regret to me that I am unable to accept the invitation of your committee to go to Peterborough and assist you in the election now taking place, because of other engagements I find necessary to keep.

There are many evidences to-day that the Canadian people are tired of the old political order, under which selfish interests influenced governments to their own advantage at the expense of the public. If you are elected in the present contest it will mean that the electors of Peterborough have made their position clear to the rest of Canada upon this vital matter.

From newspaper reports I notice the class cry is being levelled against you, and some of your opponents are endeavoring to throw wool in the eyes of the Peterborough electors and so mislead them by the foolish charge that you and those who support you are seeking only your own selfish interests. The fine record of the Drury Government in Ontario is the best reply to these baseless charges. As a fact there is no portion of our people to-day that have a saner, healthier out-look upon national affairs than the farmers of the Dominion. The tariff proposals in the platform you are advocating are not designed to benefit farmers alone. The best evidence of this is that it contains provisions for taking the duties off foodstuffs. These proposals are based on the principle, that the soundest permanent prosperity for Canada as a whole lines along the line of developing our natural resources, the chief of which is agriculture. If agriculture is prospering the country is prosperous; if it stagnates the country suffers. Our fiscal policy, based on the principle of protection, for forty years, has developed artificial industries that have given no guarantee of wages or of employment to those engaged in them; and the claim that protection has brought prosperity and plenty to the land is belied to-day by the thousands that are out of employment in the Dominion, and by the bread lines that are even now forming in many of our cities. In no way can a reduction in the cost of living be more effectively brought about than by a reduction in the tariff. Under our tariff system in the past many manufacturers have been enabled to exploit the Canadian people, in the absence of the competition they have enjoyed through protection. Millions of dollars worth of watered stock, worthless when it was issued, has attained a tangible value of millions, and in addition has paid handsome dividends. This has been taken out of the pockets of the Canadian people, taken out by the system that protected the manufacturer while he exploited his home market. Cheaper clothing, cheaper boots and shoes and cheaper food are surely of as much interest to the wage-earners in the city as they are to the dwellers in the country. The only hope for Canada is to increase our foreign trade, and to do that, we must make the channels of trade as easy as possible. Only by this means can we attain to prosperity. The surest guarantee of making a decent living that the wage-earners of Peterborough have, is in creating a national prosperity in Canada from one end to the other, and this, in a permanent and enduring way, cannot be soundly established under a fiscal system that makes it difficult for people to sell what they produce and adds to the cost of what they buy. While the new National Progressive Party holds definite tariff views it does not propose, and never has proposed, that the tariff should be destroyed utterly with one blow. But we do propose as our goal the elimination of protection as a principle in our fiscal policy, and we propose to reach that goal by steady but certain steps that will enable our Canadian manufacturers to adjust themselves to it.

Much interest is being taken throughout Canada in your contest, and I trust as a few months ago the electors of East Elgin served notice that they stood for new methods in the public life of the Dominion the electors of Peterborough will, when polling day comes, do the same.

With best wishes for your success, I am,

Yours sincerely,
T. A. CRERAR.

ANOTHER ESTIMATING CONTEST, BUT THIS TIME ON ELECTION

EVERY VOTER IN THE RIDING HAS AN OPPORTUNITY— ESTIMATES MUST BE IN BY ONE O'CLOCK MONDAY NOON, ELECTION DAY. READ THIS ONE.

The Examiner has been offered the idea by one of its readers in East City, which it is glad to put into effect, inasmuch as it might stimulate a greater interest on the part of some of the citiezns, in both the City and Rural Districts, to go to the polls on election day than they have evinced in the past, although it would seem that with five candidates in the field no one would be without an invitation.

We offer three prizes to be given to those on the Voters' List, who send in before Monday noon, one o'clock, (Election Day), the nearest correct estimates to the total number of votes that will be cast in the riding for all the combined candidates. The prizes will be as follows:

Nearest Correct Estimate $10.00
Second Nearest Correct Estimate 5.00
Third Nearest Correct Estimate 2.50

A coupon appears on page two and all estimates must be made on this coupon and reach the Examiner before noon on election day. It costs nothing but the effort of filling in the figures in this coupon. 4d31

Vote for GORDON

You wouldn't want to leave your home on Monday morning next, knowing you were going to vote for a loser. That is why you should Vote for Gordon.

WHY NO GENERAL ELECTION

Why this Government with a mandate from nobody refuses to go to the country, and what part I took in the G. T. R. deal when the proper time came, will be apparent from the following. As recorded on page 1728 Hansard, Vol. 2, 1919, Second Session, (to be seen at the Peterborough Public Library), Mr. Campbell, M.P., moved:

"12. Notwithstanding anything contained in this Bill the value of the four per cent. stock of the Grand Trunk amounting to twelve milion five hundred thousand pounds ($62,000,000) shall be submitted to arbitration."

On p. 1739 appears my vote supporting this resolution which was voted down by the Government. The arbitrators' hands were tied. It was the whole G.T.R. deal in a nutshell.

Sec. 5 of the Bill as amended, read:

"The present guaranteed stock and the new guaranteed stock, or any part theerof, may be called in or redeemed by the Government at par . . . ." Why at par?

Extract from Mr. Cahill's speech: "In the book furnished us by the Government, it is shown that for 1918 no dividends were paid on the guaranteed stock, none on the first preference, none on the second preference, none on the common stock." And yet Sec. 5 says, "at par"!

As I have repeatedly said, I notified Mr. Meighen that I would even be a candidate in support of the government if he would recognize my right to demand an appeal to the People. But that would have settled too many things. At no time have I in any way compromised my right to demand that the people be given a chance to say what they want.

There is now no Conservative party in Parliament, hence if elected I will sit on the cross-benches as an independent. This Government declines to be responsible to any party or any People. It is just a little tea-party of its own. The People just pay the taxes. That is to be their sole privilege apparently.

There are two planks in the Farmers' platform which beyond all doubt would ruin the Ontario farmer. One is the removal of the Canadian duty on foodstuffs. Foodstuffs as demanded by the American farmer are to bear a high duty going into the United States, but this platform plank would allow United States' foodstuffs to come into Canada free. This would result in the flooding of Canada with the American farmers' products, and in the further decrease of the Canadian dollar's value. This plank might have had some reason in it before the present American farmers' demand for a high tariff against the Canadian farmers' products, but to adopt it now is for Canadian agriculture to commit deliberate suicide. The other plank is that of the land tax, which may suit an almost purely agricultural country like the Middle West, but in Ontario it would at once throw all unused lands on the market and reduce the value of all used or cultivated farm lands accordingly. These two planks, with direct taxation into the bargain, will, in my opinion, utterly and immediately ruin the Ontario farmer. Come to my meeting in Victoria Hall, Wednesday evening next.

A RIGHTEOUS PARISH.

A clergyman who had recently taken charge of the parish was warned by a kindly lady that he was making a mistake in assuming in his sermons that the people of St. Stephen's were sinners.

"When you have been here longer, doctor, you will learn what good people they are."

"Are there any sinners among them, madam?" he asked gravely.

The reply was unflinching: "At least not among the pewholders."

NEW ELEMENTS IN NOVA SCOTIA HOUSE ASSEMBLY

(Canadian Press.)

HALIFAX, Feb. 3.—Oil paintings of Joseph Howe and W. H. Johnstone which flank the Speaker in the Nova Scotia House or Assembly, will stare down on a legislative gathering inclusive of new elements when Lieut. Governor MacCallum Grant opens the Provincial Legislature probably early in March. The time-honored system of Liberal Government and Conservative opposition, which Premier George H. Murray has been accustomed to since he took his seat in the House twenty-four years ago, received a jolt at the Provincial election last July and, although the Murray Government is still as firmly established as ever with a clear majority of seventeen votes over its opponents, and in this respect, the charge, amounting to the loss of four seats, is practically negligible, the opposition shows a surprising modification in composition. Dr Benjamin LeBlanc of Richmond and H. W. Corning from Yarmouth are the remnant of a once powerful Conservative group and the rest of the opposing benches will be occupied by six Farmers and five Labor members, most of whom have never sat in the House before.

The Probable Leader.

W. H. Corning of Chegoggin, Independent Conservative, is looked upon as the probable leader of the Opposition. Mr. Corning set in the local House from 1911 to 1916 and acquired a bit of parliamentary experience not unnecessary to the chief of a small and possibly unstable group.

The out-and-out Farmers who will oppose the Government are Robert L. Smith and Harry L. Taggart of Colchester, Gilbert Nelson Allen and Daniel George Mackenzie of Cumberland, John A. MacDonald of Hants and Angus MacGillivray of Antigonish. H. L. Taggart, probably the youngest of the farmer group, is described as a bright young man and a good speaker, and if he manages politics as well as he does his big farm at Belmont, his supporters have great hopes of him. D. G. Mackenzie, the eldest of the agrarians, besides making his farm at Malagash pay dividends, has been engaged in the business of selling farm implements and further gained experience of men and things as a mail clerk in his younger days.

Labor Groups.

The Labor group includes five new M.L.A.'s—Daniel W. Morrison, returned soldier representative; Arthur H. Richardson, pilot in Sydney harbor and member of the Sydney Trades and Labor Council; Forman Way, machine shop foreman in Sydney; Joseph Steel, representative of Sydney Labor, and Archibald Terris, Springhill miner.

Ten members bring new parliamentary material to the Government side of the House—Clarence Anderson, of Guysboro, merchant; John B. Douglas, of Halifax, merchant; Adam Burris, of Upper Musquodoboit, farmer; John Alex. MacDonald, of Upper Dyke Village, farmer; Aubrey H. Sperry, of Petit Riviere, merchant; J. Wolsford MacDonald, of Pictou, lawyer; George S. McLean, of Liverpool, lumberman; Dr. John MacDonald, of St. Peter's; A. Gladstone Buchanan, of Neil's Harbor, merchant, and Dr. A. R. Melanson, of Eel Brook.

John B. Douglas, president of the Provincial Liberal Association and well known in civic circles in Halifax, s probably the most outstandng Governmental acquisition. Major J. Welsford MacDonald, M.C., of Pictou, formerly Provincial president of the G.W.V.A., is widely known throughout Nova Scotia. He is a son of E. M. MacDonald, ex-M.P. for Pictou.

Probable Legislation.

When asked to indicate the probable course of legislation at the comino session of the House of Assembly, for the Canadian Press, Premier Murray said: "Everyone knows the country is here and we are all poor."

While it is generally agreed that little new legislation involving the expenditure of large sums of money is contemplated and for this reason the programme is somewhat in doubt, there are straws which point the way to definite legislative action.

Perhaps the most important of these is the investigation proceeding at present, under a Royal Commission, of the administration of the Highways Act in Nova Scotia. Whatever may be the outcome of this investigation it is agreed that the circumstances leading up to its institution and its subsequent progress will form the subject for lengthy debate and possible amendment to the existing highways legislation. Indeed many are of the belief that the activities of the members on both sides of the House will centre about the question of highways throughout the approaching session.

It is also taken for granted that the referendum held on the question of liquor importation in October, which resulted in an overwhelming defeat for the wet forces, will provoke legislation looking to the further curtailment of the distribution of intoxicants by a re-definition of the privileges of the licensed liquor vendors.

Legislation designed to augment the revenues of the Province may also be anticipated.

TOOK COAL FROM TRACK TWO WOMEN WERE FINED

OSHAWA, Feb. 3.—Two women, Alexandra Choban and Telka Latocgi, were each fined $10.00 and costs, $18.50 in all, in t he Police Court here. They were also given a warning that a second offence would mean a straight jail sentence. One woman, Mrs. Chobin, being unable to pay the fine, went to jail for 30 days.

One woman stated in defence of her crime that she had ordered coal and when it did not come she went out on the track and picked some up. The value of the coal she stole was $2.00. The other woman, Mrs. Chobin, said she had nothing else in the house and she too went out on the track and picked up some coal, valued at $1.50.

OIL WILL PLAY IMPORTANT ROLE

WARSAW.—(By Mail).—Oil products are near the head of the list of the ready assets which will enable the reborn nation of Poland to regain financial stability during the next few years. Though perhaps outstripped in total value by other natural resources, such as coal, or industries such as the textile trade, oil is relatively more important in the ways and means considerations of the immediate future.

Fields Not Ruined by Bolshevists.

Fortunately for Poland, the oil fields of Galicia were not exposed to the ravages of the Bolshevists during the past summer as were the eastern provinces of the nation. During the early years of the war, however, when the Austrians and Russians fought back and forth over Galicia, the oil properties were damaged during the course of the fighting, but were never subjected to an organized or malicious destruction, except for the burning of several large reservoirs by the Russians during their retreat in 1916.

Annual Output On Increase.

Though production fell off severely during the first three years of the war due to the presence of armed forces, the output has increased each year since 1916. The production for the year 1920 will not reach the high mark of 1909, when the greatest one-year output was obtained, but it will considerably exceed the records of the past six years.

Complete statistics on the 1920 output have not yet been compiled, but reliable estimates place the production at 10,000,000 barrels as compared with a production of 13,940,000 in 1909.

Foreign capital is needed in the development of new fields, which, according to official surveys, offer considerable quantities of high grade oils. The Polish producers are working on such narrow margins of capital that they are at present unable to tie up the money they have available in long-time investments, whereas the low rate of exchange makes it an inexpensive matter for capital from outside nations to strike out in new directions in Galicia.

The existence of a market near at hand, both in Poland and in the neighboring states, simplifies the Polish oil problem to one of production. No money or time need be used in the development of a market, as Poland's neighbor states have demands for oil in far greater quantities than Poland can now supply.

WAGE REDUCTIONS

The American Locomotive Company has announced a reduction in wages at its Schnectady and other plants amounting to 15 per cent. for all piece and day work, to become effective on the first of March. The Pickands & Mather Company and the Hanna Ore Company have announced a wage cut of 15 per cent. effective Feb. 1, while the employees of the Inland Steel Company have voted to accept the wage reduction of from 17 to 29 per cent., recently announced by that company. The failure on the part of the employees to accept the cut has delayed the resumption o operations at the Indiana Harbo plant of this company. It is reported from Union town that the Scottdale plant of the United States Cas Iron Pipe & Foundry Company has resumed after a shut down of month and on a new wage scale which is $1 a day lower than the on formerly in force.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

BEATTY ADDRESSES ENGINEERS; TRACES RAILWAY HISTORY

EXTOLS PART ENGINEERS HAVE PLAYED IN DEVELOPMENT OF ARTERIES OF COMMERCE AND INTERCOURSE.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Feb. 3.—At the banquet held last night under the auspices of the Engineering Institute of Canada, Mr. J. M. R. Fairbairn, Chief Engineer of the C.P.R. and the newly-elected President of the Institute, presided, and the guest of honor was Mr. E. W. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

There were over five hundred engineers present from all parts of the Dominion, from the Pacific to the Atlantic.

The President, Mr. Fairbairn, said that railways are often spoken of as the arteries of a country. These veins through which the streams of commerce flow throughout the land, carrying raw materials to the manufacturing districts, and distributing finished products to the farthest centres of population. They have, however, another most important function as well, in that they make possible freedom of intercourse between the peoples in various parts of any country, encouraging and fostering a knowledge and understanding of one another which, without railway communication, would be an impossibility. It has been part of our business, as engineers to explore for, locate, construct and finally maintain the railways of our native land, and in this way we have some claim to consider ourselves as the pathfinders of commerce, modern civilization and that political unity which has united the component parts of this great Dominion from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Following the engineers, who construct a railway and its equipment, come the men who maintain and operate it, those who sell its one great, and I may say, valuable product. Transportation, as well as those who collect its funds, pay its debts, purchase its supplies, keep its accounts and a host of others, well of whom serve the great organization, which, though divided into so many departments, having so many and varied duties, has on other other hand, heads to all these departments, subsidiary lines, steamers, telegraphs, express service, and the like. These again are responsible to vice-presidents, whose various functions, no matter how important, ultimately culminate in the one directing head of every railway, the president, the man who carries responsibility for the whole enterprise and who forms the one connecting link between the owners and their property.

Mr. E. W. Beatty, in reply to the toast, said:

"The best of gratitude which the big Canadian systems owe to the engineering profession is difficult to estimate accurately. In fact, any estimate would almost be as inaccurate as some of your own which I have been fortunate enough to see, but the fact is that the Canadian Pacific would never have pierced the mountains without the assistance of engineers of the highest skill and none of the larger facilities which have since been provided would have been possible had not your profession numbered among its membership men of conspicuous ability and even genius.

In order to ensure the proper development of territory tributary to the companies lines, irrigation works of great magnitude were undertaken adjacent to Calgary and Lethbridge. The original location and final construction of these projects had been the work entirely of Canadian engineers. But as they were entirely new in character in Canada and were, in fact, originated by the undertakings themselves, experts in irrigation engineering from the United States and Great Britain were consulted, In every case however, these experts confirmed the opinion of, and recommendations of the Canadian engineers. The largest of the enterprises was an irrigation attempted east of Calgary, which involved engineering features which have attracted considerable attention among your profession. They included a large dam and diversion weir across the Bow river. A large dam at Bassano of a length of two miles and the remarkable structure of the Brooks aqueduct, all reinforced concrete throughout its two miles in length. The construction of these sytsems involved the completion of over 5,000 miles of canals and ditches serving a total area of approximately 750,000 acres of irrigable land and represented in construction and maintenance an expenditure of over $15 million.

Some years ago in order to reduce curvature and grades and eliminate four and one half miles of expensive snow sheds, it became necessary to penetrate the Selkirks under Mount Macdonald, 85 miles west of Field, at a point 5,690 feet below the peak the work was carried on under the supervision of Canadian engineer with an exactitude that speaks highly of their skill. The tunnel is five miles in length, 29 feet wide, with a maximum height of 24 feet. The method of construction was interesting and unique. The work was started in 1914 and the completed tunnel put in operation in 1916. The total time of construction being two and a half years and the total cost $6,500,000.

I might mention two almost equally interesting but different types of construction which were undertaken by Canadain engineers for the company. The re-building of the St. Lawrence bridge in 1911, having a length of 3,657 feet and two main spans over the navigable channel of 410 feet long and 60 feet above the water level. At the time of the construction of the original bridge it was considered one of the most graceful and professionally notable in the world and its reconstruction was due to the use of heavy locomotives. Here again the method of construction by reason of the local conditions was original. The reconstruction took three years, during which time not a single passenger train was delayed and no serious accident reported. The total weight of steel was twenty-eight and a half million pounds, and the total cost $2,000,000.

The third interesting undertaking was the construction of the Lethbridge viaduct, a steel trestle of 67 spans of steel towers and concrete sub-structure. Its lnegth is slightly over a mile and height over two-thirds of its length. It is unique in two features, in that its height is nearly twice the height of the Royal Bank building at the corner of King and Yonge streets, and that its construction eliminated over five miles of distance, many degrees of curvature and twenty wooden bridges aggregating three miles in length, some of them over 100 feet high. The weight of steel used in nts construction was 12,000 tons and the cost approximately one million and a half.

The development of this country is bound to put upon you the responsibility for the solving of many problems. The influx of population which will be great, and I hope will be accompanied by the proper supervision which will prevent the admission of undesirables, because by race or religion or some other disqualification they are prevented from mixing with our own people and becoming in time Canadian citizens in every sense of the word, is bound to provoke a situation which will require the utmost wisdom in dealing with it. Municipal and Provincial authorities wil, no doubt, require to take steps to anticipate some of the difficulties that will undoubtedly arise from the rapid increase of our population and particularly the problem of housing. We in Montreal already find the problem acute, having seen a population of 500,000 in 1910 grow to 900,000 in 1921 and the effect of overcrowding conditions particularly on the younger generation occasions natural concern.

Thos. H. Wells, of London, who has lived there for the last 50 years, died aged 74 years.

MADE IN CANADA

EACH NEW TEST PROVES THE POWERS OF TANLAC

Statement of Frank Crossman Typical of What Is Being Accomplished Here by Master Medicine

The gratifying results being obtained from the use of Tanlac is further evidenced in the case of Frank Crossman, of 20 Park street, Hamilton, Ont. Mr. Crossman is a well known clerk for the Steel Company of Canada, and is also a veteran of the recent world war.

"I have already told lots of others about the wonderful good Tanlac has done me," he continued, "and I'm only too glad to give the medicine my public endorsement. While serving overseas in France I received a wound in the abdomen and was down in the hospital for five months. When I returned home I was weak and rundown, and although my wound had healed my stomach was all out of order. I had no appetite and gas formed in such quantities it pressed against my heart and made breathing very difficult for me. I also suffered a great deal from constipation, headaches and biliousness. My nerves were all upset and at night I was restless and wakeful.

"I kept seeing Tanlac so highly recommended I started taking it, and on the second bottle I noticed my appetite began to pick up. My food did me more good and my whole system seemed to be building up. Well, sir, the third bottle found me greatly improved in every way and feeling more like I ought to be. In all I have taken six bottles of Tanlac and it has fixed me up so fine I want to let others know what a great medicine it is."

Tanlac is sold by The Warne Drug Company, Ltd.

TORPID LIVER

FOR OVER 4 MONTHS

The duty of the liver is to prepare the secrete bile and serve as a filter to the blood, cleansing it of all impurities and poisons.

When the liver becomes laxy, slow or torpid it is not working properly, and does not supply sufficient bile to thoroughly act on the bowels and carry off the waste products of the system, hence the bowels become clogged up, the bile gets into the blood, constipation sets in and liver troubles follow.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills quickly remove the secretions, clear away the waste and effete matter by acting directly on the liver, and making the bile pass through the bowels instead of allowing it to get into the blood, and cause so many troubles.

Mrs. Alice Mehill, Napanee, Ont., writes:—"I was very badly run down, and had a torpid liver for four months. I tried several remedies, but got no relief. One day my husband brought me home a vial of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and before I had used half of it I was much better. I only used two vials, and I am a different person to-day. I can safely recommend Laxa-Liver Pills to any one troubled with liver trouble."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c. a vial at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

RENTS DROP THIRTEEN AND THIRD PER CENT.

WORCESTER, Mass., Feb. 4.—The first definite move for cutting rent prices in Worcester came to-day when the Norton Company announced that beginning to-day the rents for their 92 cottage houses in Norton village will be 13 1-2 per cent lower than the existing rate. The present price is $25 a month, or $300 a year.

These Sweater Coats are well knit and some have roll collars, and on others, the sailor collar is shown. Obtainable in saxe blue, myrtle green and rose.

Dainty Voile Blouses at $2.95

The voile is the English quality and the style of some is slip-over and others button-fronts. They are trimmed with fine lace and embroidery, and you have choice of three-quarter or long sleeves. See Window.

Every Piece of Furniture in Our Large Stock Is Reduced During February

Every Piece of It Was Made in Canada

Moreover, it was well made.

The elegance of the designs, the selectness of the woods and the dozen or more things that go to make up good workmanship are present in this assemblage.

It will stand comparison with any furniture, foreign or domestic, at similar prices.

When It Is Sold We Will Go to the Canadian Makers and Buy More.

And we will not be able to replace dozens and dozens of the pieces to sell at as low prices as we offer them for now.

None Of It Can Be Replaced To Sell For Less—Some Of It We Cannot Buy at All.

We have gone about it in a whole-hearted way and been liberal with the reductions and the magnitude of the sale is as great as the stock itself.

You will find the sale price is marked on a yellow ticket and the regular price on a white one. There has been no marking up and then marking down—all the marking has been downward.

You are at liberty to walk about unaccompanied and inspect the goods and compare the prices, if you desire.

Some Spring Model Serge Dresses at $10.95

Here is a value that is well worth while. The material is serge and the color is navy blue. No one will object to either. The Skirts and Bodices are embroidered with self and contrasting colors. They are made on straight lines, round neck, string belt, long sleeves, and some are tailored and trimmed with buttons.

$4.95 Tub Silk Blouses at $3.25

These Blouses are made of 6½ mumme weight Japanese silk. You have choice of two styles—one has a convertible collar that will button closely around the neck; the other has a low neck that rolls away nicely from the throat. Both are trimmed with tuckings and hemstitchings and pearl buttons.

$13.95 O. S. Size Top Skirts of Serge at $10

The serge is no mean quality and the styles are varied. Some have gored fronts and gathered backs and smart pockets, and belts and some have inverted pleats set in panel style. Obtainable in either navy blue or black.

$4.50 Taffetine Petticoats at $2.69

These Petticoats come in large sizes and have gored fronts and gathered backs. The waist bands are elastic, the flounce is eleven inches deep and is tucked and arranged with an extra pleating at the bottom. Obtainable in all lengths.

Women's $5.49 Flannelette Night Gowns at $3.75

The flannelette is a lovely, soft quality and is pure white. The yoke is double and the neck is V shaped and finished with silk braid. You will like the generous way they are cut and fitted, according to waist measurement. Some are touched with pink or blue finishing braid.

$4.95 "Barmon" House Dresses, $3.19

They are made of a worthy quality of percale in check and stripe patterns. The collars are the close-up, convertible kind; the sleeves are long; the Skirt portion is finished with a four-inch hem and a tuck that can be let down in case of shrinkage; adjustable waist band. The colors are light.

Saturday Is Remnant Day at Turnbull's

We have just completed our Stocktaking and for Saturday we have gathered together all of the Remnants of this Season's Merchandise, which have been left over after a busy season of selling. They are all small quantities, some not numbering more than half a dozen or a dozen of any one article in the lot but they are all seasonable goods and marked at a price which is ridiculously low. (Watch for the Yellow Price Tickets on Saturday).

THE J.C. Turnbull CO. LTD

"HOOP-LA" AT THE GRAND

"Hoop-La," the Belmont Club minstrel show, presented by the John B. Roger Producing Co., rehearsed and staged under the personal direction of Mr. I. M. Ward, and prepared for public consumption in the short time of ten days, left the hundreds of people who witnessed its opening performance glad that Peterborough possessed the necessary talent and material to present such a show and that they were privileged to see it. The achievement of the Belmont Minstrels is a noteworthy one. The Belmont Minstrels came, saw and conquered in their new vehicle, and to-night's repeat performance should not be missed by those who appreciate a minstrel show that combines color, wit, beauty and snap.

Hoop-La it might be explained, is a ship, not a game, or the name of a new temperance drink, and its commander is Captain Crockett, whose part is well interpreted by Mr. R. G. Langford. Other characters who feature in the show are King Poo Poo of the cannibals, who is a visitor on board with his tribe, played by Mr. T. Holyman, the cannibal queen, Queen Ma Gollygoose splendidly taken by Miss Greta Lebarr, and Annabelle Crockett, the captain's daughter. Miss Martha Kirn played the role of the daughter. The first scene is on board the good ship and a splendid background is given for numerous spicy musical numbers. Mention might be made of "Chil Bean," faultlessly interpreted and sung by Mr. Walter Fitzgerald, "Springtime" by Mr. Walter Evans, who is a pleasing tenor, and the popular "My Little Bimbo" by Norman Lang. The Belmont Club quartette, composed of Messrs. Staples, Snelgrove, Frazer and Evans, were heard to advantage in "Good Night Angeline," which, however, did not appeal to the house as "Wonderful Mother O' Mine," splendidly sung by them in the third part.

Miss Kirn pleased the audience with a solo dance and Mr. N. C. Staples and the yeomanettes sang "I've Got the Blues For My Old Kentucky Home" in good voice. "Underneath Hawaiian Skies" by Mr. L. Frazer and "You Aint Heard Nothin' Yet" by the ever popular black face Vernon Morpet were both splendid numbers. The first part was considerably enhanced by the two inimitable blackface comedians, Vernon Morphet and George Wesley, who had untold new jokes, and the best of the old ones. Norman Laing and Frazer A. Skinner, King's Counsellors, were a joke producing element and were responsible for roars of merriment.

The second part was featured by Miss Edith Price in a dance, "The Stolen Gypsy," Miss Hazel Davidson in excellent impersonations, syncopated melody the Belmont Harmony Four and Barnham and Baled Hay side-show. The Ragtime Wedding, with A. Darling, the blushing bride, Leon Frazer the bashful groom, and R. G. Langford as chaplain was a decidedly likable, laughable number. Laing and Frazer were seen in a number featuring "Um-hum" and an Egyptian Travesty was well produced. Harold Snelgrove and the girls were particularly good in "Down Melody Lane," and the grand finale, "Let's All Be Good Pals Together" closed the show with just the snap that was required. The rest of the cast, who all carry their parts well, but can only be given collective commendation for lack of space are:

Sailors—Messrs. W. W. Evans, N. C. Staples, H. J. Snelgrove, M. M. Wood, L. Frazer, A. Darling, H. W. Jobbit, Jos. Batten, F. D. Gerald, F. H. Jobbit, C. H. Stuart, W. E. Fanning.

Yeomanettes—Misses Hazel Henry, Kathleen Cuffe, Wilhemine Kemp, Daisy Stocker, Pearl Burnham, Alberta McDonald.

"I Feel as Tho' I Could Not Drag Thru the Day's Work" is the complaint of many a woman in the household, office or factory.

After suffering pain, feeling nervous, dizzy, weak and dragged-down by weaknesses of her sex—with eyes sunken, black circles and pale cheeks—such a woman is quickly restored to health by the Favorite Prescription of Dr. Pierce. Changed, too, in looks, for after taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the skin becomes clear, the eyes brighter, the cheeks plump. It is purely vegetable and contains no alcohol.

Druggists sell it in tablets or liquid, or send Doctor Pierce, at Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N.Y., 10 cents for trial package.

BARRIE, ONTARIO.—"I was suffering from a run-down system some time ago, was unfit to perform my daily duties, and was advised to try Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I tried it, took two bottles, and was restored to my natural strength. I cannot praise Doctor Pierce's medicines too highly, and will be willing to write to anyone sending a stamped envelope." —MRS. PEACE PARLEY IN NORTHERN BALKANS

RUMANIA ADVISED BY BRITAIN TO ENTER NEGOTIATIONS WITH SOVIETS.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Feb. 4.—Roumania has been advised by the British government to enter peace negotiations with Soviet Russia, says a wireless despatch received here from Moscow to-day. Great Britain, the despatch adds, has offered her services as mediator. tI is asserted Roumania has requested the Soviet government to send delegates to Riga todraw up the programme for the forthcoming peace negotiations.

CLOTHES CAUGHT IN SHAFT, WERE TORN OFF

OAKWOOD, Feb. 4. — A serious accident was narrowly averted here while Jesse Gorrill and his sons were cutting feed in the barn. Walter, the youngest son who was oiling the gasoline engine had his clothing caught in the shaft. He had the presence of mind to stop the engine, or he would in all probability have been seriously hurt. His clothes were all torn off, but he escaped with being burned and bruised, which was almost miraculous, as bee was being drawn over the shaft when released.

Try Magnesia For Stomach Troubles

It Neutralizies Stomach Acidity, Prevents Food Fermentation, Sour Gassy Stomachs and Acid Indigestion.

Doubtless, if you are a sufferer from indigestion, you have already tried pepsin, bismuth, soda, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and you know these things will not cure your trouble—in some cases do not even give relief.

But before giving up hope and deciding you are a chronic dyspeptic just try the effect of a little bisurated magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate, oxide or milk, but the pure bisurated magnesia which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powdered or tablet form. Take a teaspoonful of the powder or two compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach, which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn, and the bloated or heavy lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat.

You will find that, provided you take a little bisurated magnesia immediately after a meal, you can eat almost anything and enjoy it without any danger of pain or discomfort to follow and moreover the continued use of the bisurated magnesia cannot injure the stomach in any way so long as there are any symptoms of acid indigestion.

CHEESE FACTORIES ARE LINING UP

The cooperative system of selling cheese which was launched last year for the first time, apears to be making rapid progress throughout the vince. This week the patrons of the Norwood cheese factory, which last year was the second largest on the Peterboro cheese board, decided to ship their cheese next summer to the cooperative sales in Montreal.

Last Tuesday evening, at a meetin gheld of Kingston, by the patrons of the Glenburnie Cheese and Butter Factory, at which representatives of six factories were present, a resolution was carried unanimously in favour of their cheese all being sold at the cooperative sales next season.

The head office of the United Dairymen Cooperative Limited, is in Peterboro, Mr. H. B. Cowan, the secretary, informs the Examiner that reports are being received every few days, of factories which are passing resolutions in favor of cooperative selling next season. Factories in the Marmora and Tweed districts have recently so decided, as well as other factories in a number of other counties in Eastern Ontario. Mr. Cowan states that he believes that the sales of cheese by the cooperative method next season will run into millions of dollars. An organizer has been engaged recently who is giving all his time to visiting factories, and to organizing locals of the company. This company did $1,013,700 worth of business in the first six months of its operation last year. This was more than the big United Farmers' Cooperative Company of oTronto, did in its third full year of business. It would appearf rom this that the Peterboro Company is going to become a very influential factor soon in connection with the dairy interests of the province.

BALANCE OF WINTER PROBABLY MILD.

NEW YORK, February 4. — A man who knows cold weather when he sees it, holds out no new hope to the coal profiteers for the balance of this winter.

Sir Ernest Shackleton, the famous Arctic explorer, arriving from England on the Aquitania, gave it as his opinion that the balance of the winter is to be as mild as it has been thus far.

"The ice in the North Atlantic is loose," said the explorer. "The northernmost parts of Norway, Sweden and Siberia are also having a mild winter and the peaks of Spitzbergen are not even covered with snow.

"As far as I can see the mild winter which the whole world is experiencing, will continue. My own observations lead me to this conclusion."

EFFICIENCY EXPERTS TO PROVE COSTLY

OTTAWA, Feb. 4. — It is estimated that before the last is seen of the Giffenhagen firm, the experiment of introducing the American idea of "system" in the Civil Service Department, will have cost the country close upon $200,000. In addition to the ten monthly payments of $10,000 to the firm, there has been a very large expense incurred through the fact that all help needed by the firm in the course of its investigations, as well as the travelling and other expenses, was a charge upon the Government.

FARM HOUSE BURNED IN BELMONT TOWNSHIP

The farm house belonging to How Kitchener, last fall is a heavy loser ated in Belmont, south-east of Havelock, and occupied by Albert Laughlin, was completely destroyed by fire on Monday noon, when the building caught fire from overheated stovepipes, and very few of the contents were saved. No insurance was carried on the contents and Mr. Laughlin, who was cutting wood for Mrs. Thos. Taylor of town, and who came from iKtchener last fall is a heavy loser. Insurance of $500 was carried on the building.

SIMPLE PHOSPHATE REAL BUILDER OF STRENGTH AND NERVE FORCE, SAYS NEW YORK PHYSICIAN.

"Common sense as well as experience should teach those who suffer from nervousness and weakness that the most logical thing to do is to put into their systems the substance that is lacking, and that is pure organic phosphate, Bitro-Phosphate' says Dr. Joseph Harrigan. McDermid & Jury or any good druggist can supply genuine Bitro-Phosphate at reasonable cost.

BASKET BALL AT Y.M.C.A. GYM

A keenly contested game of Basket Ball was played on the Y. M. C. A. Gymnasium on Wednesday evening. The local Collegiate Institute team emerged victors over the Young Men's Club of the Y.M.C.A. with a score of 36 to 33. The game was featured by close checking on both sides and in all respects the teams were pretty well matched —the edge on combination play going to the Collegiate.

Considering the fast play a surprisingly light penalty list was shown on the Score Book, only the minor fouls consistent with the excitement of the occasion in evidence. Green and Young assisted materially in chalking up the points for the Collegiate. The honors for the Young Men's Class were divided between Doughty and Hardill. Kirn was right on the job as a defence man and added further to his laurels by making two baskets from back of centre. Only efficient work by the defence of the Young Men's Class prevented a greater difference in the total number of points.

"THE BOY"

"The Boy," the musical version of Sir Arthur Wing Pinero's famous comedy, "The Magistrate," will play an engagement at the Grand on Saturday. The English play is said to have been reproduced bodily and intact, without one situation discarded or a funny line deleted, this having been accomplished by Fred Thompson, who made the adaptation. The lyrics are by Adrian Ross and Percy Greenbank, the music by Lionel Monckton nad Howard Talbot, the composers of "The Chinese Honeymoon," "The Orchid," "A Runaway Girl" and other popular works. "The Boy," was produced in England and ran for two years at the Adelphi, London, and this production has been duplicated at Pinero's desire, the Canadian Company having been rehearsed by the late Wybert Stamford, who put on the London production, with the technical staff responsible for the the original.

The clever comedian A. S. Byron, Marie Dilworth, Mabelle Mignon, Cosmo Bellew, Lillian Anderson, Donald Archer, Gene Laymon, and other musical comedy favorites will be seen here.

ADVANCE POLL TO BE OPEN TO-NIGHT

FIRST VOTES POLLED IN ELECTION LAST EVENING.

An advance poll was established in the City Council Chambers by Deputy eRturning Officer Fred Hall last night and was open between seven and ten o'clock. This advance poll is held to accommodate those who for various reasons will not be able to vote in this riding on Monday next and it will be open to-night and to-morrow night. Mr. Hall stated, to-day that there were only a few voted last night but he anticipates a considerable vote on Saturday night. Voting at an advance poll is similar to any other poll but a person can only vote after complying with several conditions.

All Ready.

All except a few of the country polling stations have received their ballot boxes and paraphernalia for the taking of the vote on Monday.

The deputy returning officers have been installed and the voters lists have been sent out.

The printed voters' list now complete for the city were received by the Returning Officer Sheriff J. A. Hall to-day from Judge Huycke revising officer and will be distributed to the deputy returning officers at once.

READ SPEECH FROM THRONE FROM THE SENATE CHAMBER

FIRST OF MEIGHEN ADMINISTRATION WILL HAVE FEATURES OF PECULIAR INTEREST— WHOLE TARIFF WILL BE THROWN INTO ARENA.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Feb. 4.—Parliament opens on Monday (Feb. 14) with the pomp and circumstance of pre-war days. Last year, owing to the condition of the Senate Chamber, the House of Commons was utilized for the opening ceremony. This session, the Speech from the Throne will be read in the Senate chamber itself, members of the House standing meanwhile at the bar. Since prorogation much work has been done in the new Parliament buildings. With the exception of furnishings, the Commons Chamber has been completed. The temporary ceiling has given place to decorations of gold leaf and blue. The Hall of Fame is in a considerably unfinished conditions, with the exception of the end near the library entrance; and in the Senate, a good deal of elaborate carving and other decorative work remains to be done. Yet with all the drawbacks of an unfinished building, the ceremony promises to lack nothing in display.

The first of the Meighen administration, the session will have features of peculiar interest. Some familiar figures will no longer be in their accustomed places. Sir Robert Borden, who led the House through the years of war, will move from his old place near the head of the table and Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen will occupy the Prime Minister's chair. Hon. N. W. Rowell, who sat on Sir Roebrt's left will also move down the House. Hon. Martin Burrell has left the parliamentary arena and his seat will probably be occupied by Hon. Rupert Wigmore. Rt. Hon. A. L. Sifton has succumbed to illness from which he suffered so long. Since last session, also Lieut.-Col. McLeod who sat on the Government side and Joseph Gladu who supported the Opposition have passed on to the majority. There will too be three new faces—the successful candidates in Yale, B.C., East Elgin and West Peterborough.

The Tariff revision will be paramount among Government business to be submitted during the session. The Government proposals in this regard are not expected to be drastic. They will be based essentialy on the protection and encouragement of home industries; the securing of adequate revenues; development of inter-Imperial trade and of Canadian national resources. Since last session, a committee of Cabinet, headed by Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance, has toured the country and collected evidence. The committee has since been busy in the preparation of its recommendations for the Cabinet. The Government will eventually make its proposals known to the House in the budget speech.

With the whole tariff thus thrown into the arena, the budget debate may be expected this year to be long and result probably in some close divisions. Throughout the session, in fact, there is liklihood of keen fighting.

It will be the fifth session of the thirteenth parliament of Canada.

BATTLE GROWS HOTTER

Saturday to address a meeting in the G.W.V.A., Hall at 3 p.m.

Agrarian Rally.

Labour levelled its guns at the Government and Liberals alike at the meeting last night in May's Schoolhouse, North Monaghan.

Thomas McMurray, the Labour candidate, told his audience of sixty that it was time the people ruled themselves. He said the Meighen Government had a mandate from no one, and was hanging on to the reins of government until the last moment.

Thomas Tooms, M.L.A., charged the Liberal Party with stealing the Labour platform.

Mrs. Singer, president of the Mothers' Pension Board, Toronto, told of the work being accomplished by the Board.

Farmer Programme.

J. C. Campbell, Farmer candidate, will address two meetings in the city to-night.

To-morrow night a meeting in the interests of the U.F.O. candidate will be held at Ennismore.

To-night, besides the candidate, A. W. Roebuck of Toronto, A. A Powers, president of the Farmers' Co-operative Company, and Mrs. A. W. Becker of Toronto will speak.

The Ennismore meeting will be addressed by I. H. Halbert, M.P. for North Ontario, and J. J. Morrison, secretary of the Farmers' movement in Ontario.

The national Liberal and Conservative Party are holding the last meeting of their campaign at Bridgenorth to-night. The speakers will be Col. James Arthur, M.P., of Parry Sound, Mr. H. Stephens, M.P., of Vancouver, and Lt.-Col. Mulloy and Rolanu Denne, the Government candidate, will also speak.

To-morrow night a rally of the workers will be held in the Hunter Street headquarters, and the campaign will be wound up with this rally, which is expected to be a rousing one.

Healthy Young Womanhood

THE wise mother will watch carefully that the growing girl has regular daily elimination for upon that all health depends. If she complains of headache, biliousness, loss of appetite or sleep you may suspect constipation. Give a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, and by morning she will be well. It is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, and the full formula is on the package. When you see how wonderfully it acts you will in the future avoid drastic calomel and castor oil even if disguised in sugar-coated pills. A sixty-cent bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin lasts months.

If you would like to test Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin free of charge before buying it in the regular way of your druggist, send your name and address to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 19 Front St., Bridgeburg, Ont., and a free trial bottle will be sent you promptly, postpaid.

It's just as well to remember that 's always well to be just.

RUMORED REDUCTIONS IN RAW SUGAR STILL TO BE SUBSTANTIATED

(Special to the Examiner)

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Raw Sugar continued fairly steady on the basis of 3 1-2 cents cost freight for Cubas. There are rumors of further price-cutting but they cannot be substantiated. Buyers continue to operate extensively despite the narrow market now prevailing in refined sugar, with the talk of the Government establishing a minimum price for Cuba raws to be sold, evidently gaining some headway.

Voice Of The People

To the Editor:

Garnet Innis is circulating certain misleading and untrue statements concerning me, with regard to a law suit I had for him in 1915, against the Anglo-American Insurance Company. Some $500.00 was recovered in a settlement and this was garnisheed by creditors of Mr. Innis, and attached.

His Honour, Judge Huycke, apportioned the amount among the creditors who garnisheed the money and an order was made for payment out of court to the various creditors of the sum recovered from the Insurance Company, and I was allowed by an Order of the Judge, my costs out of the fund in court.

Mr. Innis' malice has been indicated for some years since, as City Solicitor, I prosecuted him on April 14th, 1917, for a breach of the Ontario Temperance Act, when he was fined $300.00 and costs, which he paid to the Treasury of the City of Peterborough.

In the same month I prosecuted his brother, who was fined on two occasions $300 each for breaches of the Ontario Temperance Act, and since then Innis has been circulating all sorts of stories and rumors, and is now circulating a leaflet falsely stating that I did not account for his moneys, and trying to help Mr. Denne's campaign with this underground and dishonest method.

TO BEAUTIFY COMPLEXION

All You Need is Stuart's Calcium Wafers to Clear the Skin of Pimples, Rash, Blackheads and Such Local Skin Eruptions.

The calcium sulfide in Stuart's Calcium Wafers is natures contribution to skin health. It is the substance that seeks the skin, assists in its activity to prevent stagnant pores to stimulate circulation and divert impurities from finding lodgment in the skin texture. It sweeps its way through the bowels, removing wastes that otherwise may be absorbed into the circulation and thus try to escape through the skin. Use these wafers regularly for a few days and notice how the skin clears, how pimples, blackheads and such skin eruptions are removed. They simply cannot remain. Their redness and itching disappear. Proper food and Stuart's Calcium Wafers will surely take the place of all your creams and lotions and you won't need your powder puff. Get a 60-cent box of Stuart's Calcium Wafers to-day at any drug store and join the ever-growing throng of American complexion beauties.

HEAVY SENTENCE IMPOSED ON OFFENDERS IN IRELAND

(Canadian Press.)

BELFAST, Feb. 4.—Sentences of six years' penal servitude each were imposed to-day upon the eight men who were arrested in October last when discovered on the Kingstown mail boat wearing Irish Volunteer uniforms on their way to attend the funeral in London of Lord Mayor MacSweney of Cork. The sentences, however, were made three years actually in each case, three years being remitted. The three men who were found with revolvers at a recent Kingston dance, were sentenced to ten years in prison, of which five years were remitted.

All things that are supposed to come to him who waits are subject to change in price without notice.

FLOUR MARKET IS DEMORALIZED, DUE TO PRICE SLASH

MANY MILLS IN NEW YORK MARKET QLOTE BELOW COST.

(Special to the Examiner)

NEW YORK Feb. 4.—The flour market seems to be pretty well demoralized on account of price-cutting There is a general disposition on the part of buyers to look around for bargains and some mills which are searching for business quite eagerly are quoting below the cost of production. There are evidences in the market that considerable export business is being done in flour at low prices and it is reported that sales during the last few days have been about 125,000 barrels to go to Central Europe.

There Must Be a Tax

No matter who is elected, Canada must pay its way.

¶ No Luxury Tax on Furs now. But a new tax may be applied before this month is out, as Parliament meets on the 14th February, and, as announced, a new tax is under consideration—another gain to present buyers.

¶ Fur prices will be increased 10%, possibly 20%, on March 1st, owing to the marked advances during the past few weeks on all Raw Fur skins. The world is short on Raw Fur stock—something which cannot be increased artificially.

¶ We announced on Jan. 1st "that in order to keep factory working full time and at full wages, we would reduce Furs to 'pre-war prices,' save and except labor costs—that Raw Fur prices were advancing from the low level they had touched, and would increase costs materially later on."

¶ Our predictions have been fully verified, so that this announcement of increased prices after March 1st has been found necessary.

¶ No Fur House in Canada cut prices as low as we have, and this has resulted in our being able to keep workpeople fully employed, as the public have appreciated our prices and our efforts in this connection. So we are going to continue these conditions during February by maintaining our Low Pre-War Sale Prices to the End of this month only—after that, advanced prices.

¶ Every one needing Choice Furs now or for next season will save money buying this month, as furs will be much higher next season.

High Tariffs Destroy Industries

They Encourage Combines Which Crush Out the Small Plants. What the Census Figures Show. How the Public Suffers.

J. C. CAMPBELL,
Candidate of the National Progressive Party.

THE CENSUS FIGURES OF CANADA prove that the high Canadian tariff, instead of building up industries in Canada, as is commonly supposed, has been the means of destroying thousands of small plants and of throwing tens of thousands of working men out of employment. The figures given below show what has been taking place in some of our most highly protected industries. The explanation of this condition is simple. As soon as the protected interests get the tariff where they want it, (which is the point at which it keeps goods in their line from other countries from entering Canada) the big Canadian industries begin to combine to destroy their smaller competitors. Often they do this by under-selling their competitors until they have driven them out of business, when they recruit themselves by advancing prices to the highest point permitted by the tariff. In some cases, they have been known to pay smaller competitors to simply close their plants, and stop manufacturing. In other cases, like the cement combine, the canners' combine, and other amalgamations, the various concerns form a combine, water their stock, reduce their production, dismiss thousands of their employees, and charge the public all the traffic will bear.

How Protection Destroys Industries

Take a look at the following figures furnished by the Dominion Census Bureau. The industries represented have all been highly protected. The figures show the number of factories in Canada, in 1891, with their number of employees, and the number of factories in Canada, in 1917, with their number of employees. Bear in mind that 1917 was a war year, when in a number of these lines, the factories were working on war orders. Here they are:

	1891			1917.
No. of Manufacturers	No. of Factories.	No. of Employees	No. of Manufacturers	No. of Factories.	No. of Employees
Carpets	537	915	Carpets	5	551
Boots and Shoes	5,398	18,041	Boots and Shoes	185	13,013
Carriages and Waggons	3,336	9,056	Carriages and Waggons	758	3,915
Furniture	1,286	7,180	Furniture	247	8,483
Tanneries and leather finishers	802	4,287	Tanneries and Leather Finishers	136	4,128
Harness and Saddlers	1,567	3,188	Harness and Saddlers	485	2,030
Woollen Goods	377	7,156	Woollen Goods	80	5,456

Bear in mind that the foregoing figures were taken from the census figures of Canada and that the figures for 1917 included all establishments in Canada, irrespective of their size. Thus small plants, no matter how small their output, have been included as well as large plants. Bear in mind that those were highly protected industries. Do those figures not prove that high protection destroys industries, causes unemployment, and advances prices to the common people?

Combines and Trusts in Canada

During the past fifteen years a very large number of combines, mergers and trusts have been formed in Canada. The Monetary Times of Toronto, has shown that in one period of four years, 56 industrial mergers were negotiated. The total authorized capitalization of these mergers was $456,939,266. The 56 amalgamations absorbed 248 individual companies. Some of these combines have earned profits of over 300%.

The National-Progressive Party believes that one of the best methods of dealing with combines and trusts of this character is by making a substantial all round reduction in the protective tariff. It believes that this can be done without injuring any legitimate Canadian manufacturing establishment.

Canadian People Are Highly Taxed

In one year recently 8,000,000 people of Canada paid in customs taxes $147,000,000. This is an average tax per head, including children, of $18.45, or of $92.25 for a family of five. The same year, the 110,000,000 people of the United States paid in customs taxes, $221,659,066. This is less than double the taxes paid by the people of Canada, although the population of the United States is 12 or 13 times as large. The average charge per head to the people of the United States, was $2.11, or $10.55 for a family of five. Do you wonder that the people of Canada have been complaining about the high cost of living?

The Prohibition Issue

Do not forget the prohibition issue. The National Progressive Party has been charged with dragging this issue into this campaign. Naturally the other parties do not like to face it. The fact is the National Progressive Party has always stood for the most complete measure of prohibition possible. It aims to save the boys and girls of Ontario from the evil of this traffic, and it is pledged to suppress it. It is the only party that is.

If you want to lift the burden of high prices off the common people. If you want to break the power of the combines and trusts. If you want to save our boys and girls from the evils of the liquor traffic.

Meighenism Reduces Canada to Level Of Mexico

The garbled quotation of Mr. Fielding's reference to Mr. Meighen, which appeared in the intensive advertising of the imported Meighen Press Agent in yesterday's Examiner, is an example of the duplicity that is typical of the propaganda issuing from the Government's machine.

"Meighen, a man of splendid character and unquestionable integrity," is the excerpt culled by the Meighen Press Agent from Mr. Fielding's address.

What Mr. Fielding did say was as follows: "In Mr. Meighen we have a gentleman of fine ability, of untiring industry, and of high personal character, although his conception of politics in Canada are entirely at variance with the democratic principles of the land in which we live, and, in the event of his defeat, it would be advisable for him to go to Mexico, where they need strong-arm men."

In Mexico, until quite recently, political revolutions were epidemic, and were effected by armed force.

The Meighen revolution in Canada last July was just as complete as anything Mexico ever witnessed.

The Meighen Revolution

The Union Government dissolved, and the so-called National Liberal and Conservative Government seized control of the administration over night.

The usurpers impudently introduced themselves under a new name, a new Premier, and a new Party.

Sir Robert Borden, elected as the leader of the Union Government, retired.

The secret manitpulators of the bloodless revolution in July set up Arthur Meighen as Prime Minister, in utter contempt of the constitution and of the rights of the Canadian people.

Without the consent of the electorate, and without even consulting them, the Meighen usurpers changed the policy upon which the Union Government was elected.

The mandate given the Union Government by Conservatives and Liberals in 1917 was the winning of the war.

Who knows what the policy of the Meighen Government is? Policies are determined finally by the people, but the so-called National Liberal and Conservative Government was begotten not only without a mandate from the people, but even without their knowledge.

They are all Saying:

Gordon Is The Man

And lastly, the Meighen usurpers announced the formation of a new party—the National Liberal and Conservative Party.

A veritable midsummer night's dream become a reality; only, this dream of the Meighen-Calder cabal persists as a nightmare to the democratic people of Canada.

What Do They Represent

West Peterborough knows no National Liberal and Conservative Party.

True, there is a political faction that nominated a candidate for the Meighen machine, but it is an ephemeral thing that will be swept into oblivion on Monday.

Such is Meighenism. A sinister influence trying to disguise itself behind the high sounding name of National Liberal and Conservative Party.

Canada to-day has a Government that changed its Prime Minister, most of its Cabinet, its policy, and its name, and is still clinging to office.

This is the issue before the electors of West Peterborough on Monday.

This issue was created by the Meighen usurpers, and the Liberal Party, true to its traditions, had the first right to take up the challenge.

In their candidate, G. N. GORDON, they offer the electors a potential representative, who has demonstrated his fighting spirit and his fitness for Parliamentary responsibility.

He is supported by all classes of this community, with the exception of two groups—the Profiteers and the Radicals.

Liberalism Stands For Moderation

Thoughtful citizens who desire the restoration of unity and harmony that were the fruits of the fifteen years' administration of Sir Wilfred Laurier, the Hon. William S. Fielding, and the other illustrious members of "The Cabinet of the Talents," should vote for G. N. GORDON.

He is the candidate of the party of Moderation; the party whose atmosphere has never been congenial to Plutocrats and Profiteers on the one hand, or the extreme Radicals on the other hand.

The Liberal Party takes the middle course upon which all progressive groups can find common ground. Equal opportunity for every citizen, special Privilege for none. These are fundamentals of Liberalism.

ELECT G. N. GORDON AS THE OPPONENT OF PROFITEERS AND USURPERS.

Liberal PublicityCommittee

GORDON IS THE MAN to break up that combination of hyphenated big interests politicians that have ensconsed themselves in Canada's nine million dollar Parliament Buildings in Ottawa.*

The trinity in the dug-out are mindful of the pending calamity. The gumshoe squad is speeding up the old broken-down Government machine in the Oriental Hotel, but it will take more support than the big interests can provide to save them. The people want responsible government and they are going to say so on Monday. Supporters of the Government candidate will have a chance to say it with flowers. Advt.

Nine Years Have Elapsed Since Present Electorate Has Had Chance to Vote Under Normal Conditions

Premier Meighen Owes His Position Not to the Electors of Canada But to Small Clique of Party Politicians.

The Liberal Party is constitutional, constructive, and conciliatory. First constitutional. It is a party which gained responsible government for Canada. It was the action of George Brown which made Confederation a practical question. He gave up a party advantage and joined hands with his opponents in order to bring about the Federal system, under which Canada is now governed. By this, the Maritime or Atlantic Provinces were added to old Canada, which composed only the region now known as Ontario and Quebec. He was a strong advocate of uniting the Western Prairie Provinces with Canada. So it is largely through his constructive statesmanship that Canada now extends from ocean to ocean.

Then in the Provincial field Oliver Mowat was the greatest of Provincial Prime Ministers, standing firmly for Provincial rights. Both Brown and Mowat were members of the Coalition formed to carry out confederation but they did not cling to office after that object was obtained. That is how they differ from such men as Guthrie and Ballantyne. To-day the Liberal Party shows its respect for the Constitution by demanding a general election so that we may have a Parliament and Government truly representing the present electorate of Canada. We have not now such a Parliament or Government. The present House of Commons was elected upon war issues; the soldiers under the stress and danger of war had no opportunity to consider any of the Canadian questions now to be decided. The last general election held under normal conditions was in 1911. Since then, more than nine years, nearly the maximum life of two Parliaments have elapsed, since this great new electorate has arisen, consisting of all the women voters, and most of the men who fought in the Great War. The women could not vote in 1911, most of the soldiers were then too young to vote. All these electors are now practically disfranchised. They have never had an opportunity to express their opinion and sentiments by their votes.

The present Premier of Canada, Hon. Arthur Meighen, owes his position not to the electors of Canada but to the small clique of party politicians. The people in 1917 voted for Sir Robert Borden and a Union Government in the faith that it was an non-party government in which both parties would be represented as nearly equally as possible. That Union Government has disappeared. It has lost its Prime Minister, Sir Robert Borden, Minister of Finance, Sir Thomas White, Minister of Public Works, Mr. Frank Carvell, Minister of Agriculture, Mr. A. T. Crerar, President of the Council, Mr. N. W. Rowell, Minister of Militia, General Newburn.

It has also lost Mr. Martin Burell and Mr. A. K. Maclean. It is not the Government for which the electors voted in 1917. Without even a pretence of consulting the electors a new Premier has been chosen. The Union Government has given place to a thing of shreds and patches supported by a party under the strange name of the National Liberal and Conservative Party. Not even the rank and file of the Conservative Party were consulted as to these changes. They are autocratic changes made by a clique who do not represent the people. By way of contrast the Liberal leader was chosen and the Liberal platform adopted in an open, free, democratic, representative convention. The Liberal Party is a constructive party. Before leaders took office in 1896; depression and despondency prevailed in the country. The results of the last census had been disappointing; population was growing slowly. Our vast stretches of fertile land in the West were going begging, in a short time all was changed; emigrants poured in, the settlement of the West proceeded rapidly and Western Canada became one of the granaries of the world. The population of Canada increased about as much in ten years of Liberal administration as the previous thirty years. Eastern towns shared in the general prosperity. Manufacturing industry, as well as agricultural, flourished as never before. It was Canada's golden age.

The Liberal Tariff policy is a constructive policy. Its aim is to broaden the base of industry and by judicious reductions of taxation to relieve the consumer and also to encourage industry by removing or lessening taxes on the instrumgnts of production and thus reducing the cost of production.

The Liberal Party is the historic party of conciliation and unity. It cherishes the memory of Sir Wilfred Laurier, who devoted his life to these aims. It is a broad-minded, open-minded party with no prejudice of class, creed, race or religion. It stands for a united and harmonious Canada. Unity and progress are are its watchwords.

LIBERAL PUBLICITY COMMITTEE.

POINTS OUT NEED REFORESTATION

ROBSON BLACK DEMONSTRATES HUGE ANNUAL CONSUMPTION OF PULPWOOD.

The imperative need for a policy of reforestation in Ontario if the timber crop is to be perpetual, was emphasized to the members of the Kiwanis Club, Toronto, by Robson Black, a former Toronto newspaperman. He stated that there are two ways to look at a forest ,one from the standpoint of a poet or sentimentalist, and the other from that of a pulpwood manufacturer. The poet and the sentimentalist have done little in the work of reforestation and of recent years the manufacturer and business man have taken hold of the problem.

To demonstrate the amount of pulpwood used by the newspapers of the United States and Canada, and which is largely obtained in Canada, Mr. Black stated that the annual consumption was equal to a pile four feet high that stretched across Canada from Halifax to Vancouver three times. The Sunday issue of a certain New York paper takes the entire crop of spruce on 15 acres in Northern Ontario.

"Unless we maintain the raw material," he said in conclusion, "and arrest quickly the present rapid decline of the forests east of the Rockies, we automatically kick out the props from every pulp, paper and lumber industry in the country and also from the industries depending on the lumbering industry. Only one-third of the forests of 75 years ago in Ontario exist to-day and we cannot foretell what will happen within the next fifty years if we remove this irreplacable asset.

IF MEIGHEN HAS A TARIFF POLICY DRAYTON HAS NOT

CONTRADICTORY STATEMENTS OF GOVERNMENT LEADERS LEAVE A CONFUSED IMPRESSION UPON THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBOROUGH.

Mr. Meighen says that his Government is the successor of the Borden Government. Therefore his Government is responsible for all the sins of the Borden Government. But, says Mr. Meighen to his judges, the electors of West Peterboro: "We're "not going to let you try us for "our sins. We will let you try "us on the tariff, which isn't "ready yet, and on nothing else."

HAVE NO TARIFF POLICY.

Did anyone ever before hear such impudence? It would be bad enough if the Government were in the position that they had a new tariff ready for submission to the public; but the fact is that they have no such tariff at the present time, and that they will not have one until the Commismission which travelled all over Canada during several months of last year hearing witnesses and taking evidence, has had time to sift and weigh the enormous mass of conflicting testimony that was presented to it, and has afterwards made its report to the Government.

NO DECISION ARRIVED AT.

That work has not yet been done, and the Chairman of the Tariff Commission, Sir Henry Drayton, the Minister of Finance in the Meighen Administration, speaking no later than Wednesday last, in the City of Toronto, told the Canadian Shoe Manufacturers' Association that he could not make any announcement about the tariff for the very good reason that he had not yet been able to make up his mind, and that, consequently, no decision had yet been arrived at.

EMPTY PRETENSIONS.

And yet, in the face of such a specific annoucement as that on the part of the member of the Cabinet, whose duty it is to frame and present a tariff, Premier Meighen and other members of the Government pretend that their tariff policy is actually before the electors of this constituency in this contest. Could anything be more ridiculous or shameless, and could a greater affront be offered to an intelligent body of people? However, you have a practical way to resent that affront and that is by going to the polls on Monday next, and marking your ballots for the Liberal candidate, Mr. George Gordon.—(Hon. Charles Murphy.)

ROBERT HICKS WRITES OF SCOTCH HOSPITALITY

IS WITH CANADIAN CURLERS IN SCOTLAND—IMPRESSIONS OF EDINBURGH.

The following letter received by Mr. F. M. Field, K.C., of Cobourg, from Mr. Robert Hicks, of Peterborough, now with the Canadian curlers in Scotland, will be found of interest to many of the Examiner's readers:

"Dear Mr. Field,—Arrived safely in the good old City of Edinburgh on the 8th inst., and I can assure you every minute has been to me of the most pleasant enjoyment. The hospitality of the Scottish people exceeds even our wildest dreams, and will be long remembered by every member of the team.

"My impression of Edinburgh will long linger with me. The architecture of this beautiful city to me reflects the character of the Scottish people, with its large stone walls and substantial buildings that all appear to have been carefully placed for the admiration and pleasure of the sightseer. Yesterday the Canadian team visited the church of the late Rev. Dr. Kerr, who was Captain of the last Scottish team to visit Canada; in a quaint little village about 30 miles from Edinburgh; after service, which was assisted by the present chaplain of the Royal Caledonia Curling Club, successor to Rev. Dr. Kerr in that honoured position, we placed a wreath on the grave of the honoured man, and I can assure you it was a solemn moment, but apparently a very proud one for the people who attend that historic church, where they and their forefathers have worshipped for over 300 years. All along the route of our drive of about 60 miles we were greeted by the people most cordially.

"It has been necessary for me to lay off to-night in order to write a dozen letters I have promised before leaving Canada, and if you find some difficulty following it I will not be surprised.

"Now about curling. I have spent 8 hours each day curling—or getting ready to curl—and have only missed one game, and we usually have two each day with the different provinces and a banquet after each; the banquets take two hours each, so you may know that this trip is no place for a lazy man or a man with a weak stomach, as these Scotch people wine and dine you until the hospitality runs out of your ears. The first game we played we were down 41 shots; we won the next by 41 shots, and have won all games since, but I may say these are only the provinces and when we get into the trial games we will be up against a selection of the good ones, and I am sure it will be hard to beat them.

"We go to Manchester next Sunday or Saturday night for five games, and returned here Friday, 28th, and finish here Saturday, Feb. 5. With best wishes for a good curling season in Cobourg. Sincerely,

"Robt. Hicks.

THIS TRUNK TRAVELLED AROUND SEVEN YEARS

YORK, Pa., Feb. 4.—Astray in Europe for seven years, a trunk belonging to A. B Farquhar, a York manufacturer, is home today. It was lost in 1914 while Mr. Farquhar, was travelling in Bulgaria. Among its other adventures, a trace showed that it has been through a shipwreck in the Black Sea. Its contents were intact.

It is currently rumored that owing to the advance of lumber the price of board will also be raised.

Glad Tidings From the Home of

Neill Footwear

Again let us emphasize that our stock has been gone through and re-marked at replacement prices.

Our prices are now based on present-day costs regardless of what the goods cost us when purchased. Of course this means a positive reduction. Certain lines are perhaps more greatly affected than others, but any purchaser of a NEILL SHOE is now reaping a genuine benefit.

Just now, especially, there may be had, while they last, a few styles at even less than manufacturer's present-day cost. It is assuredly a good time to buy.

You will go a long way before you will find a larger or more up-to-date Travelling Goods Department. Not only is our stock of Baggage complete, but attractive prices are marked on our Trunks, Bags and Suit Cases.

VOL. XLIX. NO 31 — PETERBOROUGH, MONDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1921 — PRICE THREE CENTS

CONCESSIONS IN VIEW FOR IRISH PEACE

REPORTED GOVERNMENT WILL OFFER FISCAL AUTONOMY-RELEASE OF POLITICAL PRISONERS AND GENERAL AM, NESTY.

PARLEYS IN PROGRESS

(Canadian Press.)

DUBLIN, Feb. 7.—Interesting rumors are circulating here with regard to fresh efforts the government is reported to be making to effect a settlement with Southern Ireland. The belief is growing that an important development, now in process of incubation, may come to light when Parliament convenes. According to one report the government is trying to bring the Ulster leaders into line with a well formulated scheme to persuade the south to accept the partition provided for in the Home Rule Act and the work under it.

This version of the reputed plans has it that the prize to be offered for acceptance is the grant of full fiscal autonomy to both sections of Ireland. This would be coupled, so far as the south is concerned, with an offer to release political prisoners and to grant amnesty to Irish Republicans generally, including the Republican Army and even men "on the run." Negotiations to this end are now proceeding, ing, it is said, between the Premier and Sir Edward Carson, on the outcome of which depends whether the plan will be formally announced. Other concessions are said to be contemplated, particularly with regard to the amount of taxes payable to Great Britain under the new Act.

PETERBOROUGH MALE VOICE CHOIR PRACTICE.

The attention of the members of the Peterborough Male Voice Choir is directed to the change of place of practice to-morrow night. Through the kindness of the officials of Trinity Methodist Church the Reid Street Hall has been placed at the disposal of the Choir, and here the members are asked to meet at 8 o'clock to-morrow night for the weekly practice. Please be on time, and bring music.

The practice last Tuesday in the J. M. Greene Music Room was very well attended, and splendid work was accomplished. The different pieces are being whipped into shape, more especially now along the lines of expression and enunciation. The spirit of the choristers is admirable, each succeeding week showing a marked improvement all around, compared with the previous week.

The date of the concert has been practically settled, and will be announced shortly—and will be held in the Grand Opera House. Many citizens are looking forward to this event, and will, no doubt, be repaid when they hear the initial performance of this young aggregation.

In addition to the choristers, one or two artists of merit and distinction will assist the choir, the whole combining to make the concert at the end of March one of unusual quality.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Feb. 7.—The Telegraph states this morning that Lord Desborough will be offered, and is expected to accept, the Governor-Generalship of Canada in sucression to the Duke of Devonshire.

Lord Desborough is sixty-six years old, and one of the most prominent of English sportsmen, having won distinction in nearly every branch. He paid a visit to Canada last autumn, when he made many friends.

FAVOURS BRITISH BAN ON CANADIAN CATTLE.

LONDON, Feb. 5. — Lord Crewe, writing in The Times, argues in favour of the importation embargo in force in Great Britain against Canadian cattle because of the special need for keeping the British Isles as a cattle-breeding country. He assures Canada that it suffers no disability beyond that which it has been considered necessary to impose on everyone else.

"LEST WE FORGET" FEBRUARY 7, 1915

Six years ago, February 7, 1915, the 2nd Canadian Battalion, of which the Peterborough contingent formed a part, left Salisbury Plain, for France. This was the unit which participated in the heavy fighting about Ypres the following spring and whose heavy losses at Langemarck and St. Julien first brought the war home with startling seriousness to Peterborough. Among the fallen were Major George W. Bennett in this engagement.

Describing the departure from Salisbury, Lt.-Col. Joseph Mills, of this city, a veteran of that contingent, said: "The weather was the worst of that memorable winter. It rained in torrents the day the contingent left Salisbury Plain, and towards night it turned bitterly cold."

KEMALISTS ENTER EAST CONFERENCE

RECONSIDER DECISION AND DELEGATES LEAVE MONDAY FOR LONDON.

(Canadian Press.)

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 7.—Indications that Mustapha Kemal Pasha and other Turkish Nationalist leaders had reconsidered their refusal not to participate in the Near East conference in London was given in a despatch received here yesterday from Angora.

It was said that the Turkish Nationalist delegates would leave Angora on Monday for London, travelling by way of Adalia and Brindisi.

51 SMALLPOX CASES, ONLY ONE VACCINATION

MEDICAL HEALTH OFFICER TELLS OF INDIFFERENCE TO DISEASE IN WESTBORO,

OTTAWA, Feb. 7.—Many cases of smallpox were being concealed in the Westboro district, either through ignorance of the symptoms, or through carelessness, Westboro Ratepayers' Association was informed by Dr. J. S. Nelson, health officer of the district. Dr. Nelson stated that he had caught one child attending school with its face broken out.

To date, there were 51 cases of smallpox in the district, 37 now being under treatment. Of the 51 cases only one had ever been vaccinated.

Dr. Nelson stated that the people were altogether disinterested in the epidemic and did not aid the medical authorities in stamping out the disease. Anti-vaccination propaganda was being spread around and was responsible for people opposing vaccination. This propaganda was erroneous, said the doctor, who carefully explained how the vaccine was obtained.

Bake the bacon; it is a great improvemente over the frying method and does away with the smoke.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGES LAID AGAINST FAED

DOCTOR WHO GAVE WRONG DRUG IN CASE OF TORONTO WOMEN REMANDED ON $5,000 BAIL

ALLEGE CARLESSNESS

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Feb. 7.—Dr. Percival Faed, against whom a coroner's jury returned a verdict of gross carelessness in connection with the deaths of two women who died as a result of treatment with a drug, was remanded this morning on a charge of manslaughter on five thousand dollars bail.

ROBBED CARNEGIE COTTAGE, ALLEGED

CHANDOS MAN AND HIS WIFE REMANDED IN COUNTY POLICE COURT.

James Johnston of Chandos township, was charged before Magistrate O. A. Langley in County Police Court this morning with breaking into the summer home of Andrew Carnegie, of Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, on Loon Lake during the month of December, and he and his wife, Eva Johnston, are jointly charged with the same offence during January. This Mr. Carnegie, it might be explained, is not the famous millionaire and philanthropist. In all High County Constable Moore states that three or four hundred dollars' worth of goods were taken from the cottage. A considerable part of the goods are now at his home and they include blankets, bedding, shirts, dress goods, hardware, fishingtackle, a rifle and other articles. The Johnstons reside with Joseph Laplante and Mr. Moore in his evidence, taken at the preliminary hearing to-day, stated that he found the goods at their home. He had staements from the man nad wife confessing to the thefts, and witnessed by Reeve Scott and the constable at Apsley.

Both cases were committed for trial by Magistrate Langley on Mr. F. D. Kerr, who appeared for the defendants, waiving summary trial. No evidence was taken in the defence at the preliminary hearing.

TO STOP BOND ROBBERIES.

New Clearing House Will Eliminate Need For Carrying Them.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Liberty bond robberies, in the financial district, which have totalled more than a million dollars in the last year, are expected to be practically eliminated as a result of the stock exchange clearing corporation handling those securities, it was announced here.

This plan, which will be effective February 15, will do away with much of the carrying of Liberty bonds through the streets.

QUARREL ENDS IN MURDER BY AN AGED MAN

DERRICK TENNANT SHOT AND KILLED ROBERT WOODS AND THEN ATTEMPTED SUICIDE BY CUTTING THROAT.

SLAYER IN HOSPITAL

(Canadian Press.)

BROCKVILLE, Feb. 7.—As a result of a quarrel Derrick Tennant, aged seventy-seven, shot and killed Robert Woods, aged 45, in his house at Caintown, Leeds County, at seven this morning. Woods and his wife went to Tennant's farm last year on the understanding that they were to keep Tennant, who is a bachelor, for the rest of his life. It is alleged that the two men have frequently quarrelled and the disagreement culminated in tragedy this morning. Tennant used a shot gun the victim dying shortly afterwards, Tennant then attempted to cut his throat but was prevented from doing so. He is being brought to the Ontario hospital here.

TRADING SLOW; DEMAND LIGHT

FIRST SALE OF STOCK ON MARKET THIS MORNING 17 MINUTES AFTER OPENING.

(United Press.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Trading was slow in getting under way on the New York Stock Exchange today. The first sale of U.S. Steel took place seventeen minutes after the opening. The price on that stock was 81 7-8, unchanged from Saturday's close.

The usual leaders were ignored for a time at the start, but there was a demand for some specialties which were firm to higher.

Reading was a feature of the early trade, first preferred opening at 55, up 3-4, and second preferred made a new high shortly afterward with sales at 56. General Asphalt was 1-4 up at 65 1-2 and soon rose to 67, an advance of 4 points over the low of last week.

Mexican Pet. was unchanged at 136 1-2. Studebaker was 1-2 off at 56 1-2. Baldwin Loco. was unchanged at 88, and Atlantic Gulf was 1 1-8 up at 65 1-4.

Opening quotations included:

Sinclair 23, unchanged; General Asphalt, 65 1-2, up 1-4; Brooklyn Transit, 14 1-4, up 1-4; Mexican Pet., 156 1-2, unchanged; Sears Roebuck, 87 3-4, up 5-8; Northern Pac., 84 1-2, up 1-8; American Tel. & Tel., 99 3-4, unchanged; Studebaker, 56 1-2, off 1-2; General Motors, 14 1-2, unchanged; Reading, 83 1-4, up 1-4; Bethlehem B., 55 1-2, off 1-8; Baldwin, 88, unchanged; Atlantic Gulf, 65 1-4, up 1 1-8; U.S. Rubber, 69 1-8, up 1-2; U.S. Steel opened at 81 7-8, unchanged.

The market continued quiet in later trading with small price changes in either direction. Steels stocks were steady.

Weakness came into the market later, Reading re-acting from 84 to 82 3-4 and First Prf. dropping from the early 55 to 51 1-2. Industrials also showed the weakness which affected the market last week. Equipments and some of the oils were heavily sold.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Foreign exchange opened firm to-day with demand sterling 3.83 1-2, francs, .0700; lire, .0161; marks, .0159; Canadian dollars, .8887.

APPEAL IN O.T.A. CASES FAVORED

MINORITY REPORT PRESENTED BY LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE.

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Feb. 7.—Eleven members of the committee appointed by the Ontario Legislature to investigate the workings of the Ontario Temperance Act and to suggest amendments, signed a minority report favouring the right of the defendant in an O.T.A. case to have the right of appeal from the decision of the Magistrate.

The minority report will be tabled in the Legislature this afternoon.

Those signing the report are J. C. Tolmie, H. H. Dewart, J. E. Thompson, C. F. Swayze, G. S. Henry, Thomas Marshall, Peter Seena, F. W. Hay, J. A. Pinard, George Ecclestone, and Forbes Godfrey.

The report reads in part:

"The defendant may appeal to the Judge of the County District in which a conviction has been made, upon notice of appeal to the Crown or District Attorney within ten days after such conviction, and upon depositing the sum of one hundred dollars as security of costs."

Girl of Five Years Drowns in Otonabee River Off Inverlea

LAYS CRIMES TO VANITY OF WOMEN

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.— Handcuffed to a detective and informed that he had just been indicted with Mrs. Rosa Schmertz for murder in the first degree, Robert Brown, confessed slayer of Israel Turk, East Broadway druggist, volunteered some advice to the authorities yesterday on curbing crime waves.

"Keep women from wearing sables and other expensive furs and jewelry, and take temptation out of the way of down and out men," he said, "and you will be doing a whole lot to stop crime. I could give Commissioner Enright a few good tips. I could tell him that the woman who parades her expensive finery around may be exciting the envy of women, but she is tempting men."

HEAVY VOTE WAS POLLED AFTER NOON

VOTE WAS SLOW GETTING OUT IN THE MORNING, BUT NOON SAW A RUSH ON THE POLLING STATIONS.

TRAFFIC WAS HEAVY

Dullness and machine-like efficiency marked the polling to-day. The vote was slow in getting out this morning and at one division in which there are 203 votes only 71 were polled before noon. The rush, however, came during the noon hour and up until about 3 o'clock, when approximately a third of the total vote was polled.

The traffic was heavy and almost every available automobile in the riding was commandeered by the campaign managers. Some found it necessary to import cars from as far away as Lindsay and a number of ancient, horse-drawn vehicles put in an appearance. The unpleasant weather increased the utility of the political jitney system.

Opening the polls at 6 o'clock in the city was apparently unnecesary, as at several stations no votes were polled before 7 o'clock and at most of the others only one or two put in an appearance before then.

A small army of scrutineers was out.

The polls remain open until 6 o'clock this evening and it is likely that an exceptionaly heavy vote will be polled.

To-night the results will be pubished hourly by The Examiner in an election extra along with feature stories of the campaign and the general situation.

ALLEGED SLAYER OF DOCTOR BEEN TAKEN BY POLICE

WILFRED M'HARG ATTEMPTED TO DRAW REVOLVER WHEN ARRESTED.

(Canadian Press.)

HAMILTON, Feb. 7.—Wilfred McHarg alias Wilson was arrested at Vienna, Ontario, early this morning by a squad of detectives, and charged with the murder of Dr. E. J. Whitworth, the Binbrook veterinary surgeon, on 23rd December last.

It is alleged that McHarg was the man ho did the shooting.

Provincial Inspector Miller declares that the prisoner attempted to pull a revolver when arrested ,but was prevented by the detectives.

Clarence Spaulding, the fourth man alleged to be implicated in the murder, was arrested here to-day. The fifth man is being sought by the police.

ENID PAKENHAM BROKE THROUGH ICE AND BODY HAS NOT YET BEEN FOUND—BOY COMPANION SAVED BY IRIS PAYNE.

BODY IN MIDSTREAM?

A five year old girl was drowned in the Otonabee River at Inverlea Park at 2:30 on Saturday afternoon.

The girl's four-year-old boy companion was saved from a watery grave by Iris Payne, the twelve-year-old daughter of Charles F. Payne, 7 Smith street.

The body of the victim, Enid Pakenham, daughter of Gilbert Pakenham, 737 Water street, is still being sought by the parents and neighbors. The ice in the vicinity of the location where it is believed that she went down has been cut away but no trace of the body has yet been found. Attempts to locate the body with a loaf of bread loaded with mercury, up to noon to-day, had proved fruitless. It is now believed that the body has been carried out into mid-channel under the ice.

Enid Pakenham, with Leslie Hoyland, four years old, 739 Water street, was playing on the ice inside the cement wall which runs parallel to the shore at the park. The ice cracked, the wagon disappeared, and with it its two youthful occupants. Residents of the neighborhood later said three men stood on the bridge and told how they argued the best way to save the children at the time they disappeared under the ice.

Iris Payne, who was crossing the park at the time, rushed to the scene when she saw the wagon disappear. She rushed into the icy water to her neck and pulled out Leslie Hoyland. Unaware that Enid Pakenham was in the water she gave the rescued boy a sound cuffing over the ears which brought him to. She ordered him home and then announced to the crowd which had already gathered, that she was going home to get in bed to avoid a cold. It was not until the three men on the bridge remarked that another was still in the water, that a search was made for Enid Pakenham.

Saturday afternoon, all day Sunday and to-day the parents of the drowned child and neighbors searched vainly for the body.

CHINESE NEW YEAR TO-DAY

The fact that to-day (February 7) is election day is not what makes this day the most important to the Chinese colony of Peterboro; it is the fact that this day is the Chinese New Year. To-day the Celestials in this city are rejoicing and the patrons of the Chinese restaurants and laundries need not wonder why the usually bland faces of the proprietors are all smiles to-day. All over the six continents the Chinese are rejoicing in the advent of the New Year—a year that promises to hold much that is good for the Chinese as it does to the other nationalities.

This is the beginning of the Chinese year 4662. In China it is a day of celebration but in Peterboro the event can only be marked in a quiet way.

Last night in the Paris Cafe ten or twelve Chinese gathered and the event was celebrated with an impromptu banquet, speeches and recollections of the home land across the Pacific.

THE GRIFFENHAGEN ORDER NOT AVAILABLE TO PUBLIC

OTTAWA, Feb. 7.—Details of the order-in-council dismissing the Griffenhagen firm which had been under contract to re-organize some of the Government departments, have not been made public, but the order is very brief and is merely in the nature of a notification to the firm concerned that their services will be dispensed with at the end of two months. A supplementary memorandum of council will be issued shortly giving further details and setting forth all the facts of the case.

DR. ALLEN would like physicians to take note that because their patients have Pyorrhoea, it is in most cases very unwise to advise extraction. A great many perfectly good teeth are being extracted these days, thus greatly injuring powers of mastication, which is necessary to good health. Pyorrhoea is quite curable. Results are very gratifying. Consultation free. Electrical apparatus used in examination. — 158 Charlotte Street, corner George Street.

THE HOME CIRCLE

THE CALL OF MOTHER.

You are tired to-night. You expected this morning to have an easy day, but you have answered to the call of mother until the sun is set and its departing glory almost makes you long for the beyond. Now there are the children to be put to bed. Your limited circumstances may not permit you to have a nurse, but remember, you cannot keep them with you long and your patient service will be richly rewarded. Go lovingly, prayerfully; you know not when the last time may come. Death wounds deeply, even if we have been kind to our friends. Comb the golden tangle carefully, smooth the pillow and straighten the little dream-dress and laying your cheek close by your little darling's, listen to "Now I lay me," and then wait patiently for the ruby lips to slowly ask God for some wished for toy. Kiss a fond good night. In short, lock the door of the day gently and leave the child heart-happy. Let none of the shadows that come with riper years slant athwart the youthful threshhold of the soul. The weary foot that rocks the cradle may be lulling a future president or governor. Rock on fond mother; sing your lullaby. God has use for the frail humanity that smiles in its infant dreaming. Never let discontent enter your happy home. Keep a cheerful tone and a helpful hand and answer the call of mother.

Doubtless thousands of young people, and not a small number of older ones, wish every day of their lives that they could learn the secret of fascinating others by means of their graceful, exquisite manner. The secret is an open one. It is easy to learn that it lies all neglected by the wayside, while they who would give their dearest treasure to find it pass unknowingly.

It is only this: Fill your heart with good will toward everybody and then practice at all times the best manners you know, particularly at home. If you begin at home, this charming manner will, so to speak, get settled on you and never leave you. Be just as polite to your sister as you would to your best girl. Strive to gain the good will of mother, father, and brothers, and sisters, and children, exactly as you strive to gain good will abroad.

Suppose you are given to the habit of profanity. You enter into conversation with a man who never swears, or in other words a gentleman. By and by you begin to see that he is the superior man. Your own remarks have a tame, flat, feeble sound to your ears. Your cheeks begin to burn with a sense of your friend's excellence. Your pert little drama sounds coarse and drops out of your sentences, ashamed to remain in the company of good, honest, English words, until you discover that you are carrying on your part of the conversation without swearing. You feel easier, your intellectual stature increases by a foot.

It is a great pity that a girl should ever think of marriage as a refuge, a means of support or as the main object of life. Such an attitude is bound to weaken character. A girl's ideal should not be marriage, but womanhood, as a man's ideal should not be marriage, but manhood. We do not talk of educating our boys to be husbands and fathers; we train them to be brave, true, pure and gentlemen, honest and active and industrious, knowing that such a man cannot fail to make a good husband and father. So it is with the girls. Train them to be earnest and independent, teach them to be self-supporting, make them accurate and responsible in money matters, as delicate and refined in their financial sense as they are in their modesty. In other words, train them to be womanly women, and they will make the best wives and mothers the world has ever known.

It is her own fault if a woman is unloved and neglected. That is a harsh statement to make, but it is a fact. Mortal man is a weakling who can no more resist kindness than a rose can resist the sun. It is a weak, helpless woman's duty to make herself attractive and pretty in the very face of discouragement. Call it hypocrisy, tact, finesse, or by any other term, but she must turn in the edges and make allies instead of antagonists of the people about her. Spotless neatness, becoming feminine attire, truth, kindness, cheerfulness, love, and the loyalty that restrains her from speaking ill of her neighbors will make many a woman lovely, even though she lacks beauty.

DRINK MORE WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less meat and take Salts for Backache or Bladder trouble.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

BELGIUM RECLAIMING WAR-SCARRED FARMS

Leasehold System Is Put Into Force to Aid Small Farmers.

BRUSSELS, Feb. 27.—Slowly but surely the battle-worn farms of Flanders are coming into their own again. Government is offering special favorable terms for the leasing of land for agricultural purposes, with a view to helping in this branch of national reconstruction. Scattered up and down Flanders are numerous farmlets which a couple of years ago were little else than shell-ploughed wastes and eeries of the carrion crow.

Quietly but effectively the Belgian small holder is coming back to his farm; and the department of agriculture is affording as much help as red tape and bureaucracy will admit.

Lease Farms for First Time.

There were no leased farms in Belgium before the war. Every small holder owned his land outright. Under the revised system of leasehold farms, the government has instituted special facilities to enable ruined farmers to rent land. These impoverished people could never after their heavy war losses hope to buy their allotment.

These small agricuturists, who have to work terribly hard to get a living out of the ungrateful soil, usually work a few acres on their own account, or, maybe, they are assisted by members of their family, and perhaps, in the busy season, by one or two, or more, hired hands.

Give Practical Training.

With a determination to develop agriculture, the authorities subsidize a number of practical courses of training in the various branches of farm work. Local agricultural clubs and farmers' societies are chosen for carrying out this task of technical education. Certified teachers in farming are paid for giving public lectures and demonstrations in agriculture and horticulture. The government colleges at Gembloux and other places are excellenty organized. Apart from this college training, there are also public free lectures, to which even the humblest have easy access, and which are often held on Sunday or other "off" days.

A RAW, SORE THROAT

Eases Quickly When You Apply a Little Musterole.

And Musterole won't blister like the old-fashioned mustard plaster. Just spread it on with your fingers. It penetrates to the sore spot with a gentle tingle, loosens the congestion and draws out the soreness and pain.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment made with oil of mustard. It is fine for quick relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsilitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds on the chest. Nothing like Musterole for croupy children. Keep it handy for instant use.

BRITISH COLUMBIA AND ONT. EXCHANGE SPAWN

JAMES WOOD BROUGHT SALMON AND IS TAKING BACK FIVE MILLION WHITE FISH AND CARP.

Mr. James Wood, of Vancouver, who has been visiting his sister, Mrs. R. H. Bickell, of Smith, left on Saturday for his home. He is taking back five million white fish and carp spawn from the Ontario Fisheries Department to the British Columbia Fisheries Department at Port Alverni, B.C., of which he is an official.

Mr. Wood brought to Ontario half a million salmon spawn, which he delivered at Belleville, to be deposited in the Bay of Quinte.

Mrs. Wood, who accompanied him on the Eastern trip, is remaining here with friends for several months.

After the "Flu"

Four Children Had

Whooping Cough

Whooping Cough, although specially a disease of childhood, is by no means confined to that period, but may occur at any time of life. It is one of the most dangerous diseases of infancy, and yearly causes more deaths than scarlet fever, typhoid or diphtheria, and is more common in female than male children.

Whooping Cough starts with sneezing, watering of the eyes irritation of the throat, feverishness and cough.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is highly recommended by mothers everywhere for the relief of this trouble as it helps to clear the clogged-up air passages of the mucous and phlegm that has collected, and in this way bring on the 'whoop', which brings the so-much-sought for relief and heals and soothes the lungs.

Mrs. J. M. Rouse, Imperial, Sask., writes:— "After the 'flu', last fall, my four chidren took whooping cough and one of them developed bronchitis. After using two or three bottles of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup they were greatly relieved of their nasty coughs. It is an especially good remedy for children, and is so nice they take it readily, and ask for more."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is 35c and 60c a bottle at all dealers. Put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

"THE BOY."

It is a long time since Peterborough has enjoyed a musical comedy more heartily than the London success, "The Boy," which was enjoyed by the two large audiences which saw it at the Grand on Saturday. Founded on Sir Arthur Wing Pinero's famous farce, "The Magistrate," and fitted with a tuneful musical score by Lionel Moncton and Howard Talbot, "The Boy" is a feast of fun and melody, in which the interest never flags for a moment. It was splendidly presented by a large and clever cast, headed by A. S. Byron as the magistrate and Clyde Dilson as the boy. Mr. Byron proved a very entertaining comedian, who got the last portion of fun out of a part that was full of fun as an egg is full of meat. His work in the ast act was a masterpiece, and throughout he was fully equal to the demands made upon his fun-producing talents. Mr. Dilson not only did some clever acting in the title role, but he displayed a pleasing voice in his song numbers, his solo "Swinging Doors" and his duet "I AM So Young and You Are So Beatuiful," with Miss Dilworth, being among the gems of the gems of the production. Miss Mabelle Mignon, who has just arrived from England, where she appeared in "The Lilac Domino," "Fiddlers Three" and other successes, was a prominent member of the cast as "Diana," in which she scored a pronounced hit. She has a pleasing personality and a sweet, true soprano voice, which she used to great advantage in her two songs, "Making Hay" and "Little Miss Melody." Saturday's audiences wished that more numbers had fallen to Miss Mignon's lot. Miss Marie Dilworth was a charming soubrette, and the other roles were well looked after, a clever bit being contributed by J. S. Murray as Mr. Honeyball, chief clerk of the Bromley street police court.

"The Boy" was a success from curtain to curtain.

CARUSO PLANS TRIP TO HIS NATIVE LAND.

In Effort to Insure Restoration of the "Golden Voice."

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Enrico Caruso will leave for Italy in the spring in a final effort to insure restoration of the "golden voice."

Within three weeks the famous tenor will be able to leave his apartment in the Hotel Vanderbilt, where he has been confined since he contracted pleurisy on Christmas Day, and go to Atlantic City to build up his strength for the sea voyage.

Bruno Ziratto, his private secretary, explained to the United Press that Caruso is delaying his departure for his native land until spring to avoid a possible rough trip.

Ziratto said that Caruso is now able to be about his apartments, but has not been outdoors because of the inclement weather.

KINGSTON MAN HANGS HIMSELF IN BARN.

KINGSTON, Ont., Feb. 7.—In a fit of despondency over ill-health, Robert Walker, aged 55, hanged himself Saturday in his barn. His sister-in-law missed him from the house, and on making an investigation found his lifeless body hanging in the barn.

C.G.E. TO REPORT A RECORD SEASON TO SHAREHOLDERS

SENATOR NICHOLS REVIEWS SUCCESSFUL HISTORY OF COMPANY.

IS DROPPING DETAILS

Some outline as to the satisfactory conditions that will be embodied in the annual statement of the Canadian General Electric Company at the end of March were given to The Financial Post by Senator Frederick Nichols. Business to date fully warrants the statement that the year ending 31st March will go on record as by far the best year which the industry has enjoyed. Orders in hand and prospects for 1921 are equally encouraging, and the company looks forward with high confidence to the next twelve months

The annual meeting of this company comes due during the last week in March. No immediate or important changes are expected either in the directorate or policy of the company. It is rumoured, however, that the Senator will in the near future allot some of the less important routine duties of management to others and confine his activities more generally to the work appertaining to his office as president.

Throughout the long thirty-two years of his association with the company, Senator Nichols has maintained a policy of personal control of all details, large and small. The present large business of the company makes such a policy almost impossible, and at the same time more than ever requires that Senator Nichols' time be free for his presidential duties.

In view of the past and prospective growth of the electrical industry in Canada, the company has adopted a policy of preparation. Large extensions have been made to the plant and equipment, notably the electrical equipment works on Wallace Avenue, Toronto, which is probably the equal of any in the world. Large additions have pust been completed at Peterborough works, which have increased the machine shop to nearly one-half mile in length. These two factories are being equipped with the latest and most efficient machines and tools.

The new warehouse building on King Street, Toronto, adjoining the executive offices, has been completed and occupied. In area and equipment these are probably the best for the purpose on the continent.

A Canadian Enterprise.

Viewing the company from the standpoint of Canadian enterprise and national interest, Senator Nichols added:

"It is a matter of pride to know that this successful position and healthy growth has been achieved entirely by Canadians and principally with Canadian capital and there is no reason why it should not so continue Some few shareholders reside in England where at one tim a rather large proportion of the stock was held. At present the proportion of English shareholders has been largely reduced owing to causes arising out of the war. A considerable amount of stock from British interests has been offered on the market and has all been absorbed in Canada To my mind this fact speaks volumns for th strength and growth of Canada and the confidence of her business men in the country's industries.

American Optimism.

"On my recent trip to the States, I observed a feeling of returning optimism and less pessimism than on my previous visits. Probably the outstanding feature is the wonderful change that has occurred in regard to feeling in the United States about Canadian resources and achievements. I am prepared to say that those whose opinion are worth respecting give this country a perhaps fuller share and greater need of praise than our natural modesty can readily assimilate.

The reasons which were given me by large and representative American business men to account for their feeling of optimism is that the forced liquidation of all commodities has been about accomplished. Very large stocks have been disposed of almost regardless of cost Warehouse shelves have in large measure been depleted, and the natural result of these sales has been to discharge large financial obligations and in an effective measure make available the monetary resources of the country. The stocks thus depleted have not been replenished and it is agreed that a natural demand must soon follow. While these buying orders will not be as full as during the inflated period, they must be large, originating from a buying public of 110 millions of people. A normal, healthy business should there fore be expected with an increase in employment offerings, always provided that labor will view the situation in the reasonable light of actualities.

"Recent developments have taught business men caution and it is therefore believed that return to good times will come gradually and not as hastily as the period of depression fell upon us. That an upward trend has already commenced is the opinion of those I come in contact with and whose opinions I value."

A Friend of the Family

Over fifty years ago a young physician practiced widely in Pennsylvania and became famous for his uniform success in the curing of disease. This was Dr. R. V. Pierce, who afterwards established himself in Buffalo, N. Y., and placed one of his prescriptions, which he called "Golden Medical Discovery," in the drug stores in the United States and Canada, so that the public could easily obtain this remarkable tonic, corrective, and blood-maker. Dr. Pierce manufactured this "Discovery" from roots and barks without alcohol—a corrective remedy, the ingredients of which nature had put in the fields and forests, for keeping us healthy. Introduce pure red blood into the system, and health is assured. When you feel run-down, out of sorts, blue and despondent try the energizing influence of this reliable tonic. You can obtain Golden Medical Discovery in tablet or liquid form at all drug stores, or send 10c for a trial package to Dr. Pierce's Laboratory in Buffalo, N. Y.

STUDENTS GIVE BLOOD TO ANAEMIC PATIENT.

LONDON, Feb. 7.—Ten students at the Western University Medical School offered to submit to a transfusion of their blood to that of a patient at Victoria Hospital.

The patient is without friends or relatives and is suffering from anaemia. His physician stated the circumstances before a class of medical students at the university and appealed to any who might desire to help to announce their intentions. Ten immediately responded, and their blood tests are being taken.

CORONER'S VERDICT SHOULD BE ACTED ON.

TORONTO, Feb. 7.—Regarding the deaths of Miss Monica Kenney and Mrs. E. Bond, Deputy Attorney-General Bayly said on Saturday: "I have indicated to the Crown-Attorney that, in my opinion, definite action should be taken in respect to Dr. Faed, in view of the jury's verdict and the evidence that came out at the inques."

Voice Of The People

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Sir,—By inserting the words ("The National Liberal and Conservative Party") The National Liberal and Conservative Publicity Committee, have tried in their roorbach of Saturday night (too late to be replied to) to make it appear that I spoke in the House of Commons approvingly of the party which I am opposing. It is hardly necessary to remind your readers that the National Liberal and Conservative party was neither born nor named till long after the session had closed and the members had gone home. I was in Peterborough and resigned from Peterborough when the creation of the new Party and new Government were announced. Such are the methods of the Calder machine.

POLICE THINK DUEL WAS WELL PLANNED.

Bridgeport, Conn., Fight With Knives Ends in Death of Foreigner.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Feb. 7.—A duel with knives believed by the police to have been carefully planned, resulted in the death here of Giovanni Dirosa, 29, a shoemaker of this city, who was one of the duelists. The police arrived on the scene of the duel, a clump of woods in the northern section of the city, a few minutes after the fight ended. They found Dirosa dying. His opponent had fled.

Later, at least three men who had witnessed the combat from a distance, described it to the police. Two of the witnesses, thinking it was a first fight, continued on their way, but Peter Marsonick saw Dirosa fall, and investigated. He found the man dying many wounds. Two knives lay besi him on the ground.

According to reports, the duel wa fairly fought. The victor was n identified.

EDUCATIONAL DISPUTES.

In Ontario as in other provinces throughout the Dominion, differences between school boards and teachers are constantly causing difficulty and there is no available means of adjusting salary disputes and other problems. A solution offered by Hon. Geo. P. Smith, Minister of Education for Alberta, seems worthy of consideration by the Ontario government. The Albertan Minister proposes the appointment of a Provincial Board of Conciliation for the settlement of all disputes. The Board is to consist of three members, one chosen by the Government from six names submitted by the teachers, the second chosen by the Government from six names submitted by the trustees and the third, independent of the other groups. The commission will be paid by the Government and will travel from place to place as its services may be required. There is much in this plan that will commend it as a business-like and effective way of disposing of educational troubles. The question of teachers' salaries is one of vital importance and a commission of this kind would afford an equitable way of adjusting difficulties with a minimum of confusion or bickering. Hon. R. H. Grant would be well advised in considering the plan brought forward by his western contemporary.

IMPROVING THE MOVIES.

New Zealand has taken the first decisive step in the crusade for better moving pictures, in its decision to bar all films showing deeds of violence and crime. By the producers this action may be considered drastic, but if they want to show their wares in New Zealand they will have to adjust themselves to the new conditions, which are likely to be repeated in other countries in the near future, for the influence of the motion picture and the necessity of raising the standard of the fims are just beginning to be appreciated. Mary Roberts Rinehart says that the moving picture is the greatest single agent for good or evil in the country, and that it reaches audiences greater than the united church or the united press. "Its influence on public morale is unbounded and on private morality enormous. In the present disturbed, after-war conditions it can, without obvious propaganda, be a national stabilizer. It can and should give us love, clean melodrama and high adventure. But it must also show the fallacy of evil and the value of happiness, normality and decency.' Mrs. Rinehart's conception of the power of the film seems to be that of the New Zealand authorities, and they have grappled with the problem in no half-hearted manner. Their example may be followed elsewhere and should prove a warning to the producers that better things are expected on the silver sheet.

GETTING THE RETURNS.

The Examiner hopes to give the people of Peterborough a rapid and complete service in connection with the election returns by means of extras printed hourly after the polls close, the method having been decided upon as the most satisfactory way of giving wide publicity to the details for which every one will be eagerly waiting to-night. In addition, information as to the state of the polls will be cheerfully supplied over the telephone to any one who inquires. The Examiner in this connection would ask its friends to be considerate and to make their questions brief and to the point. There will be hundreds of queries and the telephone facilities will be further taxed by the phoning of returns from the different polling sub-divisions, so that the public can greatly facilitate the providing of a satisfactory service by confining their questions to the main issue. Don't bother asking about the Government's majority in the House, or what "Tooms got in Ennismore in 1919?' or "What was Burnham's majority in North Monaghn in 1917?" or other questions of that kind. The Examiner extras will give much information along those lines and it will be impossible to answer such queries over the telephone. Please remember that there are thousands of people besides yourself interested in the election, and be as brief as possible when talking over the 'phone. By doing so you will help the Examiner, and everybody else.

A GRATIFYING REPORT.

The annual statement of the Mutual Life of Canada, which appears on another page, must be gratifying to the directors and officers of the company, and will doubtless be received by the policyholders from coast to coast with the deepest satisfaction.

Although the year 1919 excelled all its predecessors, yet every department of the company's operations in 1920 shows a marked increase over that of the previous year. In income, assets, new assurances, surplus earned, total surplus and assurances in force, the year 1920 was a phenomenal success.

During the later months the company had increased its assurances in force to $200,000,000, and at the close of the year the figures stood at over $206,000,000. To protect these obligations, the company has accumulated assets of nearly $42,000,000, a sum which the surplus shows exceeds by $5,000,000 the amount necessary to guarantee the payment of all policies.

The success of a life insurance company depends largely on its investments and it is noteworthy that while the reserves have been calculated on a 3% and 3½% basis, the company has earned interest at the rate of 6.41%.

The excess interest, as well as all other profits, becomes the property of the policy holders of the company, and is used to reduce premiums, to increase the insurance, or is payable in cash.

The Mutual of Canada, as most of our readers are aware, is unique in that it is the only example of a company which has been established and conducted in Canada on a strictly co-operative basis. This means that all the policy holders of the company share equitably in its prosperity, and the experience of the company during the year 1920 was such that, in spite of the heavy strain put on its resources during the last six years, the directors felt justified in increasing the dividends for 1921 by 50% over those paid in 1920.

Altogether the 51st year has proven to be in every way the banner year in the long history of Canada's Only Mutual," and we congratulate the directors, officers and policy holders of the company on the splendid results achieved. Mr. W. Henry Irvine is the district manager for the Central Ontario agency of the company while Mr. Albert C. Gray is the agent for Peterboro.

IN THE SPAN OF A LIFE.

The death on Tuesday of Toronto's oldest man removes the last of three centenarians about whom much had been written. Joseph Mantell was born near London, England, in 1810. Louis Bouvier, the second oldest citizen, died within a week of him, and "Grandma" Beaver passed away less than a year ago. Within the span of these lives the world has seen progress such has marked no other century.

When Mantell was born electro-magnetic action was unknown. The telegraph was in its infancy, inventors reaching out after the development of a principle which was but little understood. Gas used for lighting purposes to a limited extent for some years, was yet to be introduced generally throughout London. A manufactory or two had been warmed by steam, but the use of steam as a motive power was just being realized. A steamboat had appeared on the Hudson in 1807. Henry Bell's "Comet" steamed up the Clyde when Joseph Mantell was a toddler of two. The London Times achieved the triumph of printing by steam when he was four. Wedgwood, who is called the first photographer, was writing his papers for scientific journals. Dayuerre, whose experiments marked a further advance, was still fourteen years in the future. Upright pianos were looked upon as a wonderful invention. The Battle of Waterloo was yet to be fought. When Joseph Manfell was five, less than 200,000 men engaged in what was then a world-shaking conflict.

Even in 1838, when Mantell came to Canada, the pioneer war steamers were being completed in England. The first mails were carried by rail in that year. The Royal William, a Canadian vessel, the first ship to steam all the way across the Atlantic, had made the voyage only five years earlier. There were, of course, no street railways in Canada. This countrys first passenger railway, operated by a locomotive (the Champlain and St. Lawrence) antedated the arrival of Mantell by only one year. The hanging of Lount and Matthews is "ancient history" to the present generation, but it coincided, with his coming. The first telegraph line in America (from Washington to Baltimore) was not to be operated until six years later. Mr. Mantell was a comparatively "old resident" he had been here 28 years—when cable communication was established across the Atlantic.

The things which have come into common use even since he attained old age are such as to revolutionize the manner of living. The time which people spend nowadays in motor cars, in movie theatres, in listening to the phonograph or pianola, in telephoning, in riding on electric tramways—it was all spent in other ways when Mantell had reached the allotted span. The X-ray, the incandescent light, the vacuum sweeper, a thousand and one things which are so ocmmon to-day as to be taken as a matter of course, were all new when Mantell was old. It is little wonder that the aged folk of the present century have been a bit amazed at the pace of modern invention, a bit bemused at the onrush of life's complexities.—The Star Weekly.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

For four candidates to-night the Examiner extra will not make very enjoyable reading.

Many a scrutineer will be an advocate of the eight-hour day after to-day's experience.

The silent vote means those which goes to the unsuccessful candidates.

All Canada will have an ear to the ground to-night for news of the by-election.

Mr. MacBride, M.P.P., may be a group of one in the Legislature, but it is evidently a group that will be heard from early and often.

Now the election over, what about those Sunday cars.

"How's the elections going?" will be one bromide that will be withdrawn from circuation after to-day.

SOCIAL WELFARE.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

The chief trouble with this world is that too many people view their own importance through a magnifying glass.

Anyone can laugh at Trouble from a safe distance, but it's a rare mortal who can laugh in Trouble's face.

Much has been written about the difference between the optimist and the pessimist, says the Backyard Cynic, but the cold facts are that one wears rose-coloured glasses and the other smoked glasses.

If the coming session of the Dominion Parliament develops anything akin to the ructions in the Provincial Legislature, the telegraph editor will be assured of at least two feature stories every day.

The young lady next door has been reading George Ade. Commenting on his latest "Fable in Slang," whose moral is "For parlour use the Vague Generality is a Life-saver," she says that she has observed that her gentlemen callers always revert to generalities when mother appears.

Several polling clerks have reported that their chief difficulty to-day was the women voters, some of whom took nearly half an hour to cast their ballots, while the crowd waited behind them. Probably they were exercising their woman's prerogative of changing their minds to the limit.

"1921 will reward fighters," is the optimistic slogan of The Chicago Tribune. With approximately a cool half-million dangling for the winner of the much-heralded and much-postponed Dempsey-Carpentier fight, The Tribune is not far out in its forecast for the New Year.

But to return to the subject of the delay in the polling caused by the women voters. It really seems a more plausible conclusion that instead of exercising their women's prerogative they were for the last time figuring out how the male memebrs of their families would vote in order that with woman's innate obduracy they could discount the men's votes.

A relief officer who has been studying marital unhappiness says that 90 per cent. of unfaithful husbands are blue-eyed, and that married unhapniness seldom develops before the age of 30. What a shock to the girls who have been believing that "blue eyes were true eyes," and to the practical-minded who resignedly have been waiting until they were thirty to take the leap.

NATION NEEDS SERVICES MILNER

(Canadian Press.)

London, Feb. 8.—In discussing the resignation of Lord Milner from the Colonial Office, the Times hopes he will not withdraw wholly from public work, declaring that the nation has need of his great and varied experience, his staesman-like qualities, and his clear mind and firm will. The Times proceeds to say that there has been far less discontent with Colonial Office methods among the Dominions and Crown Colonies since Lord Milner has been Secretary, and noting that his departure from that office has been assumed somewhat prematurely to herald the approach of great changes in that "not too popular' Department, the paper continues:

We trust that the Government will take no hasty steps in the transformation of the Colonial Office, for there are many reasons why the utmost caution should be observed. It is no secret that the self-governing Dominions have grown impatient of Colonial Office control, and a scheme is afoot to transfer their relations with the Imperial authorities to the supervision of a new Dominions Department, which, it is suggested, might be placed under the Lord President of the Council the story of strained intercourse between the Dominions and the Colonial Office is long and rather bitter, and it is beyond question that in the past the Dominion Governments have had much to complain of. Recently Lord Milner's administration, which has been conducted with a better knowledge of the point of view of the Dominions, has served as an emollient; but it is expected that the proposed change will still be pressed. Our view is that nothing should be done at present. It is imperative to wait until the next meeting of the Imperial Cabinet, when the desires of the Dominions can be more clearly ascertained. From the home side it may be urged that this is not a time to tinker with departmental reconstruction, for the Government have many other and more important problems awaiting settlement. We are inclined to reserve judgment upon the main issue, but may express the general principle that we are reluctant to see the creation of new Departments of any sort. Such new Departments invariably mean more expenditure, and our bureaucracy is already far too complex and too costly.

The passion of the Government for making new Departments is insatiable, and will have to be curbed. Meanwhile the best thing to do with the Colonial Office is to leave it alone until the financial situation is clearer, and the taxpayers must not allow themselves to be deluded by deft Ministerial explanations purporting to show that by shuffling the Estimates two Departments can be maintained for the cost of one.

Success has made a fool of many an otherwise sensible man.

THE RIVER OF EDEN

The great river the confluence of the Tigris and Euphrates, in its hundred odd miles of course, has seen strange sights these past few years writes a British naval officer.

For many centuries have its broad waters been given up to the Arab dhows and mahailas, floating comfortably down with the swift current or being laboriously towed up stream to a muscular crew strung out on the bank.

They are still here, but in every reach of the winding river they pass, or are passed, by magnificient ocean-going steamers of every description of a dozen nationalities.

Basrah or Bassorah which may be remembered by some as the birthplace of Sinbad of Arabian Nights fame, was, in 1914, a miserable little place, over-ridden by the Turk, and possessing few compensations for its terrible climate—there is a difference of 80 degrees between a winter morning and a summer mid-day.

Now we have a considerable town and there, 60 miles from the sea, are a couple of miles of ships ahead of each other at anchor, and all attended by hordes of swathy Persians, unloading cargo every hour of the twenty-four, and every day of the seven.

Many are the happy memories of Basrah. Coming up river after a few weeks of solitary patrol in Persian Gulf how eagerly we watched for the first indication of the tall iron masts of the wireless station. Half an hour after and we should be picking our way amongst the crowded shipping to our appointed anchorage. How pleasant and full of life it seemed.

The Water Highway.

The Basrah highway for business and pleasure is th river and there are scores of motor launches on the move. A large and commodious one, named after a Scottish County, is taking a party of convalescents for a little fresh air and scenery. There is the Port Hospital officer going down to board an incoming ship, followed by the "steam bus" of the senior naval officer's ship, on the quest for mails.

Many are the Arabs who take their evening leisure on the river but it would take more than the innovation of motor boats to deprive them of their habitual calm.

The next is a very spick and span affair with deep wicker chairs for the accommodation of its passengers, and here, in company with two officers, are some Red Cross sisters. Hastily we reach for a telescope. Sisters—first white women we have seen for 2 months! A glimpse of pretty, laughing faces, and they are gone. Perhaps we shall see them coming back; but already it is growing dusk A bugle rings out "Sunset," and the ensigns of H. M. Ships are slowly hauled down, in exact time, to disappear as the last note sounds.

The silence of the night is unbroken, but at daybreak our winch is clattering round, the anchor is weighed and secured, and we turn our faces to the open sea again Our course for the next few hours is to us a well-known waterway and at every turn we look for familiar objects—little huts among the palm trees with the family all turned out to watch our progress; the regular succession of creeks out to facilitate the gathering of the date harvest; very little animal or bird life in evidence and always, always date palms.

The Work of the Turk Visible

About thirty miles down on the left bank, we are joined by the Karun River, a river navigable for about 1000 miles to Ahwaz, famous in these days for its oil wells. At the junction of the rivers in Mohammerah,- a small town of interest, but not of much importance. In fact the place of note is about a mile away, the Sheik of Mohammerah's palace, an enormous place fronting the river, where his yacht lies at anchor, ready to take him and his suite on expeditions of business or pleasure.

Near here can be seen the masts and funnels of ships sunk by the wily and retreating Turk in an endeavour to block his channel to our forces. They are an interesting relic, but leave their object rather unfulfilled.

All this time we were watching Persia on our port, and Arabia on our starboard side. There is not much to choose between them so far; but, further on, the date palms of Arabia begin to thin out, while Persia has hers closely planted all the way.

Abadan now appears on the left bank. Here are the refineries for the oil brought by pipe from Ahwaz, and the inhabitants live all the time in a sickly, smelly atmosphere. There are always a few oil-carrying ships here, useful, but not graceful craft, with always an enormous smoke stack set well in the stern.

Au Revoir, But Not Good-bye

And so we go on, the waters widening out slightly, till at last Fao is sighted. Passing its signal station with a message of regard, the confining banks of the river are left behind, the ship gives a little preparatory heave and we are at sea again, and in a few hours are thinking sadly of the tranquil waters left astern.

Our farewell trip from Basrah was made on the best possible day.

On New Year's Day we weighed anchor for the last time. "Good-bye and good luck" came to us from all sides "Good-bye, and hope you will soon be on the way home too" we answered. The long pennant at th mainmast had told its tale.

As the screw began to revolve, we started to make plans for home and the future, and it is only now that my thoughts begin to return to the familiar waterway where we were grilled by the sun and the hot winds off the desert, tortured by the myriads flies in one season, and chilled to the bone and wet through in the other.

Would I like to go back did you ask? Would I like——? I'm going back!

ENTERPRISING VILLAGE.

The Woodville Council has in hand a project for the betterment of the fire-fighting appliances of the village and which it is proposed to submit to the villagers in the near future when details have been worked out. The proposal is to procure a modern chemical engine, erect a fire hall and employ a permanent fire chief. The absolutely unprotected condition of the village from fire has become a subject of much thought and the new Council will deal with it.

Peanuts and wheat eaten together in some form, even in a dessert, reduces the amount of meat needed.

Assurance Company of Canada

WATERLOO, ONTARIO

Fifty-First Annual Statement

A few significant features of the annual statement presented to the policyholders at the annual meeting February 3rd, 1921, are given in the following condensed summary.

	1919	1920	Increase
Income	$ 8,583,404.00	$ 10,124,171.00	$ 1,540,767.00
Assets	38,020,949.00	42,847,277.00	4,826,328.00
New Assurances	40,625,656.00	47,008,024.00	6,382,368.00
Surplus Earned	1,302,801.00	1,657,104.00	354,303.00
Total Surplus Fund	4,540,536.00	5,018,680.00	478,144.00
Assurances in Force	170,706,305.00	206,627,728.00	35,921,423.00

Prosperity. The characteristic virtues and qualities of Progressiveness, Economy, Efficiency and Financial Strength again find demonstration in the figures of the fifty-first annual statement, and disclose a year of marked prosperity.

The Jubilee. The Company celebrated its jubilee by establishing a new record in the expansion of its business. The new assurances, acquired without any undue effort, amounted to $47,000,000, placing the total business in force beyond the two hundred million mark.

Investments. The opportunities offered for the investment of funds at very remunerative rates enabled the Company to invest its surplus funds in a way that will prove of great advantage to the policyholders over a long period of years. In 1920 the Company's investments showed the handsome average interest rate earned of 6.41%.

Surplus Earnings. The prosperity the Company enjoyed is best reflected in the surplus earnings of the year, which show an advance over the preceding year of $354,303, being an increase of 27%. This represents earnings of $38.67 for every $1,000.00 of total assets.

Increased Dividends to Policyholders. The rapid recovery shown by the statement of the year's operations from the effects of the war and the influenza epidemic is very gratifying, enabling, as it does, an increase in the distribution of dividends to policyholders in the current year of about 50% in excess of last year.

COMPARATIVE STATEMENT

Year	Income	Assets	Paid to Policyholders	Business in Force
1870	$ 4,956.00	$ 6,216.00		$ 500,000.00
1880	88,691.00	225,605.00	$ 26,681.00	3,064,884.00
1890	489,858.00	1,696,076.00	176,151.00	13,710,800.00
1900	1,164,875.00	5,165,493.00	424,815.00	29,518,625.00
1910	3,020,996.00	16,279,562.00	804,759.00	64,855,279.00
1920	10,124,171.00	42,847,277.00	3,667,522.00	206,627,728.00

A copy of the detailed report will be mailed to every policyholder in due course.

Moving a mountain with a teaspoon

Moving a mountain with a teaspoon may be possible, but the method is not to be recommended.
Establishing Provincial or Dominion-wide demand for one's goods may be possible without newspaper advertising, but again the method is not to be recommended. You can prove this for yourself by asking the first twenty persons you meet such questions as:

What brand of collars do you wear?	What tobacco?
What kind of shaving soap do you use?	What razor?
What breakfast food?	What cigars?
What tea?	What mustard?
What cocoa?	What sugar?
What coffee?	What shoes?
What underwear?	What motor car?
What chewing gum?	What tires?
	What brand of anything?

Irrespective of location, the answers will reveal the names of products advertised in daily newspapers. This condition is not accidental. It is the result of ambition and vision and courage—particularly courage—upon the part of the manufacturers. Daily newspaper advertising is not a venture to be undertaken lightly—but once started and persisted in, it will return Dividends of Demand that no power on earth can forestall.

If you are not quite sure how to go about Daily Newspaper Advertising, write to us and we will advise you.

OTONABEE CHAPTER ANNUAL MEETING

The sixth annual meeting of the Otonabee Chapter I.O.D.E., was held in the Y. W. C. A. on Wednesday afternoon last. There was a very good attendance of members, each showing new and added interest in the work of the order.

Reports of the work done during the year were presented and the election of officesr then took place, Mrs. Stinson, Mrs. Yenney and Miss Denison acting as scrutineers for the ballots.

While the ballots were being counted afternoon tea was served. The refreshment committee was assisted by Miss Rennie, of Toronto, and Miss Huycke, Miss Cressman, Miss Knox, members of the Peter Robinson Chapter, .O.D.E.

The retiring Regent, Mrs. Huycke, was then presented by Miss English, in the name of the Chapter, with a bunch of Kilarney roses, Miss Archer making a few remarks of appreciation and kindly thoughts for the work done by Mrs. Huycke during the past year.

Officers Elected.

Secretary's Report.

During the past year there have been held four executive, one special and nine general meetings, and the average attendance has been 21.

Five new members have been added to our roll and one resigned from the order. We now have a paid up membership of 70.

Our committee have worked most faithfully throughout the entire year. The refreshment committee deserve special mention for the quiet and capable manner in which they cheerfully responded to the many calls for work. Also the entertaining committee who have done most enthusiastic and excellent service.

During the year several functions have been held by which we have raised money to pay our part of the War Memorial and donate to other work.

In March a St. Patrick's tea and musicale at Mrs. Huycke's was held; and in April a card party was held at Mrs. Sandersons'. At the motor show held during the same month we had charge of a booth where "hot dogs" and scones were sold for the benefit of the Health Association. A Community Dance was held on June 3rd which proved a great success. On July 12th we had a booth at the exhibition grounds, where ice cream, chocolate and cold drinks were sold, but on account of too much competition this did not prove a success financially.

A rummage sale in October was a good producer of revenue. In November Mrs. Aylmer again offered the use of her home for tea, sale and card party. This event proved one of the most enjoyable events of our year—both socially and financially — although the event was held on the day which had the worst snowstorm this year.

We wish to extend our thanks to all those outside the Chapter who have in any way helped us to make our undertakings a success, as well as to our faithful workers.

During the year we have paid up our War Memorial, contributed to Woman's Council, entertainment of Delegates, Armenian Fund, Health Association, Navy League, and supported French orphan girl.

The Echoes Secretary has aroused many members to a new interest in our official organ, Echoes; and the Chapter have decided to place the magazine in the Public Libary.

Every member has grown interested in the workings of the War Memorial Committee and the work done by the I. O. D. E., throughout the Dominion. Indeed so much has been shown that during the year it has been found necessary to appoint an Educational Secretary that we might know more about this work Mrs Sutton has most ably filled this position and the short time she has been in office has put many plans of work before us.

We have to thank her for a very delightful talk given by Mr. Dobbin at our November meeting. His subject was "Historic Points in and about Peterborough". We hope, later to put tablets on some of the places he mentioned which will be of interest for future generations and historical societies.

During the year we have affiliated with Local Council of Women.

In closing my report am glad to say our coming year shows every symptom of being a very bright one as the members all show revived interest in the work and have most heartily responded to every call for help through out the year.

In these trying times we have much work to do which is just as important as war work was. If we would have our country prosperous and better we must each do our share to make and keep it so. This can only be done by cooperation and team work therefore on behalf of our incoming officers and executive would beg your hearty support and aid in whatever work they suggest.

Let us not forget I.O.D.E. also mean I Owe Duty Empire and our badge which we so proudly wear, (and rightly so) stands for much. Patriotism shown by the Majesty of the Crown. United action among ourselves; for is not the seven pointed star to represent the seven divisions of the Empire bound together by the Garter? Also the star being white must mean purity and the flag placed in the centre of it, that we all unite to keep our Empire the best place in the world.

Our work is great, humanity calls our aid in so many ways we cannot falter now. Let us put forward an extra effort this year and thus earn for ourselves the satisfaction that ever comes from work well done.

Respectfully submitted,
MAE W. SEELS,
Secretary.

SECRETS OF WONDERFUL NEW PHONO REVEALED AT HEINTZMAN'S

For anyone who desires to become more closely acquainted with the construction of modern phonographs, the exhibit being shown at Heintzman Hall, Royal Bank Building, Hunter street, this week, commencing on on Monday, is wonderfully interesting.

The instrument being demonstrated is the Brunswick — "All Phonographs in one." The remarkable way in which this phonograph has captured public favor is due to certain exclusive constructional features which all combine to produce a pronounced tonal superiority and unique versatility.

One of these important features is the all-wood Oval Horn—constructed entirely from choice woods without nails or metal in any other form.

Another is the Ultona, a scientifically designed tone arm at which plays each make the precise needle, corre The owner of a Brunsw any make of record—inclu wick records, without tak thing off or putting anythi

Still another exclusive fe the Brunswick is the 4-spri motor. It is absolutely noise plays 27 minutes on one windi springs are so arranged that two of these were to break the would keep on running.

These features and a grea others will be most interestin monstrated during "Brunsw at Heintzman Hall. A exhibit will be well wo anyone—especially for ready own a phonograp any too familiar with working.

BRIDE PINCUSHIONS ARE THE LATEST FAD.

The newest conceit for the dressing table is a bride pincushion and th pretty little affairs are used for favors at bridesmaid luncheons. pincushion is made of shirred white ribbons and is partly covered with lace ruffle that forms the bride's skirt. The tiny doll with airy dra of tull makes a dainty ornament for the boundoir.

TELEPHONE TANGLE

HAMILTON. — Amusing as telephone tangles may be on the stage they have nothing on some of those which occur in every-day life. S. L. Landers, secretary of the local Cemetery Board, is the latest to narrate a laughable telephone incident. Called to the telephone one day a beseeching feminine voice stole into the official's ear:

"Could you let me have a lower for four o'clock to-morrow?" begged the lady.

"Is it for an adult or a child?" asked Mr. Landers, with his thoughts wandering to the eight and six-feet lower and upper graves, which may be obtained in the one plot.

"For myself," replied the questioner blithely.

"I don't think you want one up here," Mr. Landers informed the lady.

"Isn't that the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railroad?"

The answer came: "You are now connected with the cemetery."

It is presumed that the young lady, at once deciding that she yearned for no closer connection with the "lower" there, promptly made a personal trip to the ticket office, vowing there and then that telephone conversations were never satisfactory.

WILSON VETOES BILL TO STOP RECRUITING.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—President Wilson has votoed the joint resolution directing the United States War Department to stop army recruiting until the force is reduced to 175,000 men.

Returning the measure to the house, Mr. Wilson said he was "unable to see in the condition of the world at large, or in the needs of the United States, any change" that would justify a restriction upon the minimum enlisted strength of 280,000 men provided for in the recently enacted army reorganization bill.

AUSTRALIAN WOOL DOWN.

(Special Cable.)

LONDON, Feb. 7.—At the opening day of the wool sale at Auckland, N. Z., 8,500 bales were offered and 2,500 cross breds fetched 4 pence for coarse and 6 pence for medium, with super at 8 1-2 pence. Lower classes were greasy and generally neglected. Lambs wool greasy was quite neglected.

At Sydney the best merinos sold on a par with middle November prices. Medium descriptions were in better demand. Broken and pieces were in good demand at improved rates. Burry wasty and tender wools were unsaleable. Japanese and Americans were the chief operators for medium descriptions. The continent was a fair buyer but Yorkshire was not buying. No scoured descriptions were offered and a few fine cross breds were sold to local manufacturers. Up to the present 18,000 bales have been offered and 14,000 sold. The series terminates on Tuesday.

At Wanganui, N.Z., 5,494 bales were offered and 871 sold. There was a good attendance but competition was very poor. American was not operating. Compared with Jan. 8, fleece wool was 1 pence to 2 pence and cross bred lambs 3 pence to 4 pence lower.

THE FARMER OF THE FUTURE

OTTAWA. — The farmer of the future must be a mechanic rather than a day labourer, remarks D. D. Gray, Superintendent of the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa in the December number of the Agricultural Gazette of Canada. This of course must not be taken in a literal sense, but rather as suggesting that the future agriculturist must combine with a multitude of other things he requires to know a greater knowledge of mechanics than he has formerly had. Accepting this suggestion as his text, Mr. Gray tells of records that have been kept at the Central Farm on the cost of operating three makes of tractors. The cost of operating the [redacted] tractor is shown to be greater [redacted] cost of operating the larger, that is in regard to horse-power. The cost of discing with the smaller is shown to be less due to greater speed possible than with the greater. The cost of ploughing with the smaller is more than with the larger. The lighter machine burned gasoline at a cost of 45 cents per gallon and the heavier machine, kerosene at 28½ cents per gallon. Cylinder oil cost 85 cents per gallon.

Wall Papers and Kindred Goods to Brighten the Home and Make It a Better Place to Live In

To make a long journey in easy stages is the most restful way to travel, and we cannot help thinking that to do spring house-cleaning a little at a time, easy stages so to speak, requires less vigor and is not so fatiguing as the whirlwind campaign that tries to accomplish everything in a few brief days and fills the air with sounds of the carpet beater, flying feathers and soaring columns of dust and leaves in its wake tired, weary people who have over-exerted themselves.

THIS YEAR WE HAVE OUR STOCKS IN EARLY and the woman who wishes to conduct her spring house-cleaning and home beautifying campaign in a systematic way can commence now if she wishes, and it's not a bad idea to do so, for this is more or less of a slack season for the usually busy paper-hangers and painters.

People Will Stop on a Cold Morning or a Hot Day to Look at a Thermometer To See How Cold or How Hot It Is—

And they have speedometers in their cars to tell them how fast or how slow they are travelling.

Yet they know whether the weather is cold or warm, whether the car is travelling fast or slow, but they like to know EXACTLY how many degrees or how many miles per hour.

People know we have a store here and what we sell, but we publish advertisements to let them know EXACTLY what we are doing and the quality and prices of the goods we are selling.

A Fine Variety of Beautifully Patterned and Artistically Colored Spring WALL PAPERS

We have sold a lot of them already, but still have a complete range of all the patterns. They are selling so early in the year and so rapidly because of two reasons. One is that many people have decided to do their papering RIGHT NOW before the paper-hangers have more than they can do. The other is that these papers have taken the fancy of those who have seen them.

Washable Sanitary Papers, in an extensive selection of qualities, colourings, and Patterns. Priced from 35c to 60c a Roll.

SOVIET COLLAPSE IS IMMINENT.

(Special to the Examiner by Cross Atlantic Newspaper Service.)

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 7. — All the news reaching here from Russia indicates the impending collapse of the Bolshevik Government. Differences of opinion between Lenin and his associates have brought about a wide break. He believes that the only hope of his government is to pacify the labour classes, and he is throwing to them sops such as free car fare on railway trains and boats, and free use of the wireless. But it is necessary to secure passes the day before travelling and the passes are not issued if real money travellers are in any number. Lenin's associates insist that all should pay for their transportation.

Lenin himself is in retirement just now as the result of a nervous breakdown. It came just after an attempt had been made on his life, when he was walking down the streets of Moscow. The experience completely unnerved him and he has been unable to care for the affairs of state since. The Red armies have also got out of control of Trotzky. Mutinies are the order of the day. Troops recently concentrated in large numbers on the border of Rathenia, have been withdrawn and scattered among various garrisons and armies, because they refused to obey orders.

The Chinese mercenaries are the only forces upon which Lenin and Trotski can surely depend.

NEW FIELD IN HOSPITAL TREATMENT

OTTAWA, —The Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment has for some months past, been operating a Psychopathic hospital at Westminster, near London, Ontario. In this hospital the Department has provided the most approved and up-to-date methods of treatment for former members of the Forces suffering from mental diseases, ranging from those who merely require long periods of observation, to those who are violently insane.

A short time ago, a deputation of well known neurologists, psychiatrists and representatives of veterans' associations visited the hospital in order to study the situation. Among these were Dr. C. K. Clarke, Medical Director, Canadian National Committee fo Mental Hygene.

In a statement issued by Dr. Clarke, he says:—

"Why should civilians not receive just as good care and advanced treatment? At this institution notable things are being accomplished, new ideals are being established, and everything possible is being done to place the care and treatment of the nervous and mental diseased on a scientific and humane basis. The war has brought to the surface the fact that the hard and fast lines heretofore laid down by neurologists and psychiatrists, in regar to certain types of nervous and mentally handicapper pesons, were much too narrow and artificial. Neuro-psychiatry, as known to-day is practically a new field It would be difficult to imagine a better equipped hospital from the standpoint of cleanliness, good housekeeping and management, and, while the buildings are substantial and well constructed nothing has been expended on useless ornamentation.

"The S.C.R. has recognized the important fact that in dealing with patients of the types admitted to Westminster, it is essential that the staff must, not only be sufficient in number but properly qualified to do the work assigned to them efficiently and intelligently. It is not a case of so many patients, so many crude ward attendents, but rather an organization assigned to deal with each individual in a way likely to produce the best results in his case. Such an organization is expensive, but not more so than that of a general hospital, where it is taken for granted that a patient must receive every assistance than can reasonably be provided to ensure his recovery. The curse of most mental hospitals has been the fact that they have only too frequently been allowed to degenerate into nothing better than custodial institutions, simply because the cry of economy has thwarted medical staffs that would be efficient if given opportunity, in their efforts to rise to standards demanded in general hospitals. In connection with this point it is interesting to study the composition of the Westminster staff.

"The moot point in regard to the organization of the Westminister Hospital is one much discussed by neurologists and psychiatrists, and refers to the type of patient to be admitted there, some asserting that it must be detrimental to associate nervous cases with distinctly mental ones. It is a difficult question to decide, but the visit disarmed much of the criticism, it being so evident that the patients in the institution were being benefited, and were in every instance, happy and content. Even the 'chronic kickers' refused to register a complaint, and spoke of the kind treatment received on every hand."

Dr. Clarke then referred to the excellence of the staff and the interest shown by its members, the nineteen nurses, all with overseas training, social service work, the eighteen members of the occupational staff, sixteen trained ward aides and sixty-three medical orderlies, who have been thoroughly instructed in routine ward work, hydrotheapy, the method of taking care of excited patients, acute cases and those who are intent on committing suicide and others, bringing the total number up to 192.

It is the aim of the Department of S. C. R., that this hospital, and the hospital at Ste. Anne de Bellevue, which is operated along the same lines, shall set the pace to all others of a similar nature in Canada and beyond. The total number of insane patients undergoing treatment is 867, a reduction of 81 from the number in May, 1920.

WEALTHY INDIAN PRINCE

(special to the Examiner by Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service.)

LONDON, Feb. 7. — The Gaekwar of Baroda, one of the richest of Indian Princes, who was educated in this country, is in negotiations for three English country estates of a value of more than a half million dollars. It is believed that he plans to remove to England to live.

He gave the government two and a half million dollars for airplanes during the war and six thousand dollars a month from January 1916 to the end of the war.

GOVERNMENT LIABLE.

(Cross-Atlantic News Service.)

LONDON, Feb. 7. — The government stands liable for a tremendous sum as the result of its guarantee to the railroads last year. Final figures are not yet available, but the deficit in operation in November was over 20 million pounds, or nearly four million dollars, which added to the guarantee makes the Government's liability for the month nearly five million pounds. For eight months the liability is over twenty-five million pounds.

Now I have ... and am quite regular unless I ... on my feet from early morning until late at night. I keep house and do all my own work without any trouble. I have recommended the Compound to several friends." — Mrs. EMILY BEECROFT, 269 Victoria Ave. N., Hamilton, Ontario.

For forty years women have been telling how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored their health when suffering with female ills. This accounts for the enormous demand for it from coast to coast. If you are troubled with any ailment peculiar to women why don't you try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? It is made from native roots and herbs and contains no narcotics or harmful drugs.

For special advice women are asked to write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of forty years experience is at your service.

CHURCH SERVICES AT MARK STREET

Communion service was very largely attended on Sabbath morning at Mark Street Church, and the music was good.

The subject of the morning sermon was, "Wounded by the Hand of Friendship," and was an exposition of the text found in Zechariah XIII., 6: "What are these woonds in thine hands?" The following is a synopsis of the sermon:

The Frst Sin on Record.

The first sin was committed by the devil, when as an angel of light he rebelled against the authority of God, martialed his glittering hosts, suffered eternal defeat and was hurled, with his followers, into the "lake of fire, prepared for the devil and his angels." The character of this sin was bold and brazan, but it was open and defiant, and the conflict was open warfare.

The Sin of Adam.

The sin of Adam, committed amid the light, and glory, and purity of paradise, with no taint in his pure spirit, which would respond to a temptation from without, was mysterious and awful; but it lacked any element of guile on the part of the first human sinner.

David's sin was deep, and dark, and treacherous as hell, for he smiles in the face of Uriah as he bathes his hands in the blood of murder, and bespatters the soul of a king in the filth of adultery. This sin of King David is of the same type as that which wounded the hands of Jesus in the "house of his friends."

Who Inflicted These Wounds?

We are not told who it was that wounded the matchless hands, but we know where the deed was done. The wounding was not done in the house of an enemy. When the Good Samaritan found the bleeding form of the wounded man on the road between Jerusalem and Jericho, the crime was laid at the door of robbers and murderers. When the blow falls in the darkness, or the dagger drinks blood in the night, we naturally look about for the lurking place of an assassin. It is difficult to conceive of your friend being wounded in your house. But this very thing is true. I lift up the hand of Him who is the common friend and brother of the race. The hand that bestows the richest blessings on all mankind; and as it touches my own palm, it leaves a crimson stain. My own hand is tinged with blood. What is the meaning of this? As we put this question to Jesus Himself He answers, with the soft light of love in his wondrous eyes, "These with which I was wounded in the house of my friends." Have the hands of the Son of God been pierced a second time in your house or mine? Have we by weakness or faithlessness or indifference caused these wounds?

Wounded by the Hand of Friendship.

Jesus was wounded in a friend's house. But what is a friend, and what do we mean by friendship? Cicero says "Friendship is the only thing in the world on the utility of which all mankind are agreed." It is as necessary as fire, water, or the air we breathe. When friendship is unfaithful it is the cause of the deepest bitterness and sorrow. A false friend is sharper than an adder's tooth. It is sweet to repose in some dear friend, but bitter as death to have your trust betrayed. Fidelity is absolutely necessary in a true friend. We have no pleasure in men unless they stand by us faithfully. Your name and reputation are as safe in the keeping of a true friend as his own. He will guard your honour and your person with his life. You are as safe in his home as you would be in your own. True friendship abides till death, and protects its object till the last. Love that does not protect its object is false as hell.

Wounds Not Inflicted by Enemies.

Our Lord does not tell us that He was wounded by enemies. It was in the house of His friends He suffered. Jesus expects a blow over the heart from the fist of the devil, but not from his friends. How strange that He is wounded by us, who profess for Him undying friendship. When we were poor and sinful and sick he came to our help. He stood between our shivering soul and the flaming sword of divine justice, receiving the glittering steel into His own noble heart. Yet we wound the hands that pull us from the fire.

The Sick Eagle on the Rock.

A friend gave a gentleman in Scotland an eagle, and he confined the bird until it was sick. Going out one day to look at the eagle, he found it a pitiful sight, with drooping wings and film-covered eyes. "It is a pity," said he, "that this bird of freedom should die here. I will set it free." He took it out, placed it on a rock, and then lay down to watch what would happen. Presently he saw it lift its head, open its eyes, and look. That eagle's eye saw something in the upper air which that man could not see. Its ears heard something which the man could not hear. Then he saw a speck in the sky, and that speck grew larger, and presently he became aware of another eagle. It was coming nearer. Then down it swept with a scream of exultation, and passed over the sick eagle, fanning it with its mighty wings. Passing over the sick bird again and again, it so manoeuvred as to lift the weak one on its broad pinions until the sick eagle gathered strength from contact with the messenger from the sky. Then it spread its own wings and soared away into the blue depths beyond, cheered by the master bird.

So Jesus comes down from the glory of heaven, finds us poor and weak and sick. He puts us into contact with himself, lifts us with His wounded hands, and bears us away through the upper air to our native fields of light. Let us be careful of our daily life, lest we wound our dearest friend. To-morrow by your ballot you will send your representative to Parliament. Will you put Jesus in to govern your life? He will not canvass for your vote.

It must be awfully nice to be so rich that you can afford to grumble about the enormous taxes you pay.

The man who dwells in people's memories has to pay exorbitant rent.

MRS. SYLVIA FOSTER, Buffalo, N. Y., who says she wishes she could go into every home and tell how Tanlac completely restored her health after she had lost all hope of ever being well again.

"They had given up all hope of my ever being well again but thanks to Tanlac I am feeling as well now as I ever felt in my life and I only wish I had time to go to every home and tell every sick person about this grand medicine.

"A year ago last January I had a severe attack of influenza which left me in a terribly weakened condition and my appetite was so poor that I ate little more than enough to keep body and soul together.

"My heart palpitated so dreadfully at times that it seemed like it had stopped altogether and I would think my time had come. I was so weak that I couldn't go up the steps without holding to the railing. It was impossible for me to do any housework. I was so nervous that I couldn't drink my tea or coffee without spilling it.

"My sleep was restless and broken and I would have smothering spells and would just have to get up and go to the window so I could breathe.

"I finally started taking Tanlac on the advice of a friend and before I had finished taking the second bottle my neighbours could tell I was improving right along. Well, it has only taken five bottles to restore my health completely.

"My appetite is just splendid now, my nerves are strong and steady, my housework is a real pleasure and I can sleep like a child at night. In fact, I never felt better in my life than I do now."

The above remarkable statement was made by Mrs. Sylvia Foster, of 206 Division St., Buffalo, N. Y., a well-known and highly respected resident of that city.

Tanlac is sold by the Warne Drug Company, Limited.

GEORGE STREET CHURCH

Worship is the sustaining of a conscious, definite and friendly relation with God. Thus said Rev. W. Harold Young in opening his concluding sermon of the series on "What Men Live By," namely, work, recreation, reasoning and worship. "Though life may have wealth, pleasure, it will be in vain and in the end unthinkable," declared Mr. Young, "unless there is the conscious, definite and friendly relationship with God."

"Religion seems to be considered by many people to-day as a non-essential. In a certain city of thirty thousand there is only one member of the church to every fifty of the population. In a Canadian city of 175,000 English speaking people who are not members of the Catholic faith, there are considerably less than 40,000 church members, or 135,000 who do not make any profession of worship. Mr. Young refered to a magazine article giving the attitude of the modern girl to religious matters. After discussing politics, education, etc., she was asked for her attitude to God and the church. She replied, "Well, I hardly ever go to church. There are so many other things to attend to I haven't time to be religious and God will just have to understand."

Indifference Increasing

An attitude of indifference to God seems to be sweeping over civilization. People to-day recognize that God is, but when it comes to getting on speaking terms with Him it is a different proposition. "Surely it is worth considering," said Mr. Young, that this attitude toward God may be wrong. Superficially these people seem to get along pretty well. But I want to show that there are times when having a friendly relation with God is a mighty convenient thing."

Three Situations in Life

Mr. Young discussed three situations in life, with which all of us come in contact frequently. The first is the situation of enthrallment, the lack of power to see things as they really are. Every life is again and again under the thrall of prejudice and preconceived ideas of things. How shall we rise above this. Only by seeing things through the eyes of God, by becoming disenthralled through getting down on our knees in prayer.

The second situation is one which meets us nearly every day, that of doubt fear anxiety and dread. How shall we see that the right shall be triumphant and the evil vanquished in the dust? We can do this only when we can reach up through the darkness and put our hand in the hand of God. Then when foes battles and bitternesses of life come up against us we can feel that "God's in His Heaven, all's well with the world" and that he cares for us.

A situation which comes again and again in our lives is when we face the last great reaper, the [illegible] of Death. The only thing which can steady us at that time is the consciousness of a definite relationship with God the Only God who can give us the peace that passeth understanding in that last hour when we face eternity.

Love to Find God.

"Granted all this" continued Mr. Young, "how can we find God?" Mr. Young then enumerated four ways for finding out and touching the hand of God. The first is the law of faith. It is written in The Book, "He that cometh to God must believe that He is and that He is a rewarder of them that diligently seek Him". The situation is hopeless when a man is trying to find God and all the time does not believe in his heart that God is. "Religion is certainly impossible to a man," declared Mr. Young "who is not willing to stake his life on the fact that no matter what scientists say, only we ourselves can reach up and touch God."

A second law for finding God is reverence. There is a habit these day of thinking of God too familiarly. Let us never lose sight of the fact that God is ever with us, a friend and a chum, but that he is also an everlasting God.

Sincerity or whole-heartedness is another factor in finding God. We cannot find God indifferently. We must put all we have and are into the quest, remembering that He is the rewarder of them that diligently seek Him.

Another law for finding God is, to look where He is. We will find Him in the pages of history, in nature, in our own hearts, but most important of all we will find God through the Man of Galilee for He has said, "I am the way, He that cometh to the Father by Me shall in no wise be cast out."

"I came to you to-night" said Mr. Young "and ask you, have you got this relationship with God? You may have everything else in life, but have not this supreme thing? If you want to get the most out of life, live for God. Come to God through Christ and you will find new courage, new hope for every step of the pathway.

"Coward, wayward and weak,
I change with the changing sky;
To-day so eager and brave, to-morrow scarce caring to try.
But He never gives in, so we two shall win!
My Lord and I."

WOMAN ISSUES FRANK STATEMENT

"I had been pale for years, lacked ambition, had no interest in life and generally felt as though I could not drag through one day to another." Then I started taking VITAL, the great blood and nerve remedy. The result was almost miraculous. Within a few days I noted an improvement. Before long color returned to my face, my blood became richer as VITAL gave it nourishment and the light-heartedness and energy I was accustomed to in my youth, returned. To-day "nerves" are no longer a factor in my life."

Such are the testimonials VITAL has earned. If you are in a general run-down condition be wise, do not delay, secure a box of Vital at once. Price, 50 cts a box at all druggists.

DO YOUR DUTY.

Do your duty, little man,
That's the way!
There's some duty in the plan
Of every day.
Every day has some new task
For your hand;
Do it bravely—that's the way
Life grows grand.

"Do your duty" sing the stars,
That so bright
Through the midnight's dusty bars
Shed their light.
"Do your duty" says the sun
High in heaven:
To the dutiful, when tasks are done
Crowns are given.

Crowns of power and crowns of fame;
Crowns of life;
In glory burns the victors name,
After strife.
Do your duty, never swerve—
Smooth or rough—
Until God, who we all serve,
Says "Enough."

—Luella Clark.

Good motherhood calls for a great deal of sacrifice, but it never calls for the sacrifice of a reasonable husband's happiness. The most appreciative and fond fathers like to talk of something sometimes beside "the baby." They like to go places sometimes without the baby. Yet many a good woman fails to understand her husband's feelings in this matter. She humiliates him by accusing him of jealousy of his own children. She forgets that she took the vows of wifehood before she took the duties of motherhood. To be sure she must give her children tender care and attention. Any woman who did not would be a monstrosity. But there are times when her personal presence and advice would mean heaven to her husband while to the children it is no more than they have always had.

Is contentment a state of mind to strive for? It has always been considered so, but isn't it rather a dangerous quality? Doesn't it tend rather toward sluggishness? A cow is a perfect picture of content, but who wants to be a cow? Contentment may be a desirable state of mind for age but never for youth. In our smaller village we see too many who have become contented with themselves and their lot early in life. Don't do it! Never be satisfied with yourself! Never give up the struggle to improve your mind and your position! It is the most effective weapon against old age. As soon as you sit back and begin to take life easy, old age is going to overtake you by leaps and bounds.

Contentment, in the commonly accepted meaning of the term, is not a good trait for anyone. Develop poise and calm judgment, but strive always for higher and better things. Contentment smacks too much of self-satisfaction.

Too many of our young people are waiting for "the golden opportunity." They believe they will recognize it by some psychic wave which will pass over their being. Weak men wait for opportunities, but strong men make them. They seize common occasions and make them great. History is full of such instances—chances which most people would have thought impossible to take. Think of the time when Horatius with two companions held ninety thousand Tuscans at bay until the bridge across the Tiber had been destroyed—when Leonidas at Themopylae checked the mighty march of Xerxes—when for years Napoleon did not lose a single battle in which he was personally engaged—when Sheridan arrived from Winchester just in time to keep the Union retreat from becoming a rout by riding along the lines.

It is true that these men are above the average in daring and clear thinking but it is also true that the obstacles they overcome were above the average. We cannot all be Napoleon, but we do not all have obstacles such as the Alps to cross.

A sculptor at one time made the figure of a man whose face was concealed by hair and which had wings on its feet. He called the figure Opportunity. "The hair over his face," he explained, "is there because people seldom know him when he comes to them. He has wings on his feet because he is soon gone and once gone, cannot be overtaken."

Why wait, young people, for opportunity—make it. Born in a country and in an age when opoortunities abound as never before, why sit with folded hands

"Are you in earnest? Seize this very minute;
What you can do or dream you can, begin it."

IRISH OFFICER KILLED.

(Canadian Press.)

DUBLIN, Feb. 7.—Michael Collins, Adjutant General of the Irish Republican Army," was killed in an ambush at Burgatia last week, in which it was previously reported he had been wounded, according to police authorities here. Collins, police declare, was shot dead while giving instructions to his men in carrying out an ambush.

CHICAGO GRAIN

(United Press)

CHICAGO, Feb. 7. — The wheat market was unsettled to-day. Sentiment among the locals has switched to the dull side of the market and Pit Traders were persistent buyers on all of the dips. Commission houses had wheat for sale on the Bulges. Northwest houses bought wheat against sales in their own market. The buying of the locals was based on the belief that the Grecian order for wheat and flour and would be booked. The big exports from North America last week, 9,714,000 bushels, also was a factor. The better industrial situation reported in Germany increasing the purchasing power of one of our buyers at so favored the constructive side of the market.

Cash wheat premium were one cent higher for hard wheat. The milling demand was decreased United States visible supply decreased 1,657,000 bushels. Advices from Central and Southern Illinois indicate freer marketing of wheat from farms in that territory. This was disappointing to the bulls who liquidated when it was posted and this gave the late market a weak tone. Italy bought 30,000 tons of wheat from India at price said to be equal to $1.67.

The corn market was well supported until mid-day but the posting of the visible supply figures took much courage away from the bulls. An increase of 6,069,000 bushels was shown in stocks at visible supply points and this emphasized the slowness of the demand for corn. Locals were persistent buyers throughout the early part of the session. But they liquated later. Cash corn was a half cent lower relatively. Seaboard reported 150,000 bushels of corn sold to Germany and Holland. Exports of corn this week were 1,633,000 bushels bushels.

Oats simply moved with the other grains. As in the other pits locals bought while commission house sold. Cash basis unchanged. Domestic shipping demand slow.

Provisions were lower. Hedging pressure from packers and liquidation by commission houses were depressing factors.

In 1919 the production of asbestos in Canada amounted to 136,139 tons, having a value of $10,658,946.

Canadian Press.

TORONTO, Febrary 7th. — Hon. Manning Doherty, Minister of Agriculture, to-day will make a statement in the Legislature regarding the efforts made by his department to prevent persons who were not bona fide farmers, from emigrating from the British Isles to Ontario.

"No parties have been brought out to Ontario by the Ontario Department of Agriculture, since last summer, so far as I am aware of," said the Minister to-day.

BROTHER'S DEATH BRINGS ON A STROKE

COBOURG, Feb. 7.—Seized with a paralytic stroke upon hearing of the death of his brother, Richard, Thomas Coffee of Colborne, collapsed on the street, and now lies in a serious condition at the home of his daughter, Mrs. G. McDonald, at East Colborne. The brother had been close companions for the greater part of their lives. Richard Coffee passed away at the home of his daughter at Coe Hill after a short illness. He was a well-known resident of the district. The remains were taken to Colborne for interment.

PILES ARE GENERALLY CAUSED BY CONSTIPATION

There are few if any, complaints more common than hemorrhoids, or piles, as they are commonly called, and scracely any which cause more trouble, annoyance and pain.

Ninety per cent. are troubled with them at some time or other, owing to allowing the bowels to become in a constipated condition.

Piles are classed under three headings i. e. itching, bleeding and protruding, and the excruciating pains which accompany them cause misery which is beyond description.

Ointments and suppositories may help and relieve for a while, but to get rid of them, it is necessary to have a free, easy and natural motion of the bowels, at least once or twice a day, and by doing this the cause will be quickly removed.

HOCKEY GOSSIP

The City Hockey League has been advised by W. A. Hewitt, secretary of the O.H.A. that Fred Waghorne will come to Peterboro to referee the C. G. E.-Hamilton's play off on Wednesday night. The puck will be faced at 8:30 sharp.

Waghorne is confining his activities as referee to the Toronto Hockey League and a report on an important game played at the Arena, says the veteran handled the game splendidly, and quickly put a stop to any attempt at rough work by imposing penalties impartially.

WHAT AUTHORS THINK OF HARRY CAREY

The skill and artistry of Harry Carey in depicting a role require no higher tribute than the fact that every author whose story he has portrayed on the screen has thanked him personally or by letter for his faithful portrait of the character he has drawn.

Peter B. Kyne, famous California novelist, whose best story, 'The Three Godfathers,' was played by Harry Carey in the films under the title of "Marked Men," wrote the Universal star after seeing the picture in San Francisco, acknowledging himself indebted to the actor for his fine interpretation of his story. Eugene Manlove Rhodes, celebrated writer of the great west, has personally thanked Carey every time he filmed one of his stories, and came to Universal City recently with one of his newest novels, "West is West," asking "Cheyenne Harry" to use it on the screen.

H. H. Van Loan, one of the most successful of screen writers, saw a preview of the late Universal production, "Blue Streak McCoy," which he wrote and in which Carey played the leading role, and immediately wired Mr. Carey congratulating him on the manner in which he portrayed the title role.

When Harry Carey recently scored one of his biggest triumphs in "Overland Red," the author, H. H. Knibbs, came to Los Angeles to tell the star what a thrill it afforded him to see the character he created actually living and breathing on the screen. He also brought with him his newest novel, "Sundown Slim," pronounced by everyone even a better story than "Overland Red,' and prevailed upon Carey to produce it on the silversheet. This Mr. Carey has done, and "Sundown Slim" will be presented at the Grand Theatre to-night.

GOLD DIGGERS

Someone found a gold nugget about the size of a fly speck while the Reginald Barker Company were on location near Sonora, filming scenes for the Goldwyn Picture, "The Branding Iron," which comes to the Allen Theatre, to-day and to-morrow.

The resulting stampede for gold nearly disorganized the company. They went about peering fixedly at the ground, and if someone discovered a rain-washed gully, and remarked "There ought to be gold here," it was a signal to drop everything and swarm over the place.

"What would you do if I found a real nugget?" Barbara Castleton asked James Kirkwood. Kirkwood looked at her with beetling frown.

"I'd knock you down and take it away from you!" he said savagely. But neither Miss Castleton nor anyone else found a nugget.

BRITISH SPORTING NOTES

(By Hugh Dryden, Staff Correspondent Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service).

Easily first among topics of interest to the sporting community here is the question, "Where will Dempsey meet Carpentier?" There has been lately a good deal of well-founded hope that the big fight would be brought off in London next July, but now we are not so sure about it. Crowds of rumors are afloat, but the only certainty seems to be a negative one—that the two heavyweight champions will not battle in or near New York. Therefore, say the wise ones, there is but one place in all the world where they could meet with any chance of adequate profit to the promoters and that place is London.

So it came like a bomb-shell in the pugilistic camp when it was declared on good authority that the British Home Office had issued a warning to the potential promoters that the fight will not be permitted in this country. Boxing enthusiasts are dumbfounded. They point out that although $500,000 will leave the country, at the very lowest computation, some 16,000 Americans would visit these shores, and also at the very lowest figure, some 10,000 Frenchmen. The Americans must spend at least $500.00 per head and the Frenchmen at least $250.00, say seven and a half millions, and in the present somewhat parlous condition of the rate of exchange.

"Why should any Government department raise any objection to this relief?" asks a leading boxing writer. "Neither man is a native of the land in which boxing was born. Our sympathies will be unbiassed, and in the words of the pugilist, 'We need the coin.'"

Charles B. Cochran still believes that the world's boxing championship will be decided in England. When the statement was first published that a special building for the contest would be erected just outside London, there were, not unnaturally, murmurs of criticism that this would be the worst form of "luxury building," and that it would be an intolerable scandal to permit it in the present dearth of housing. If the fight takes place here, Mr. Cochran, who has already purchased the necessary wood for the erection of the arena, is credited with a building scheme which has some merits. This is the employment of a certain number of skilled men and a very large proportion of unemployed. Sufficient non-union skilled men are available, so that no trouble on that score is apprehended.

The other day Harry Vardon gave it as his opinion that the success of the American golfers was due to teir close-cropped greens. Now another reason is brought forward by Tom Armour, of Edinburgh, who has just returned from the United States with several ribbed irons, as used by the leading American players, to which he ascribes their wonderful hitting. These super-clubs, which include several ribbed mid-irons, mashies and niblicks, have lines an eighth of an inch wide cut across the face of the club to the depth of an eighth of an inch. These lines are also about an eighth of an inch apart, and the edges are so sharp that, as Armour says, "you can cut your hand if you draw it across the face of the club."

Armour declares that with these clubs there is no need to learn the back-spin shot—the approach which the best British golfers practise so assiduously in order to make the ball stop virtually where it pitches.

"The ribbing puts all the stop on to it if you play a plain shot," he says. "You can stop a full shot within five or six yards of where the ball drops on a green as keen as a skating rink; it is simply a matter of judging the length of flight.

"Chick Evans, Bobbie Jones and Francis Ouimet are all very good at it. Ouimet has one very deadly half-iron shot which flied low and which you would expect to see run 40 or 50 yards when it pitched. But it just gives two kicks and stops within seven or eight yards. It is not the 'push' shot that our best men play. It is the ribbing that produces the effect.

"You can play a shot with pull which ordinarily would make it run a tremendous distance, and stop it in just the same way.

"On some of the less keen greens on which I used a ribbed mashie in the States, the ball not only did not go forward when it pitched; it came back a full half-yard. But it is a very expensive club in its punishment of of the ball. On an average one needs a new ball every three holes. Three 'ribbed' shots and the ball is cut too badly to be of much further service."

Armour says that nine or ten prominent U.S. amateur itend to take part in the British amateur championship at Hoylake in May. Evans, whom he regards as a class by himself in the States, had made up his mind a month or two ago to come over, but, since has had doubts as to his chance of doing so, owing partly to business and partly to health.

Others who told Armour definitely that they were coming included Francis Ouimet (conqueror of Vardon and Ray in the U.S. open championship of 1913), Bobbie Jones, the much-discussed Georgia boy; Perry Adair, another Georgia player almost as good as Jones and only about a year older; Reginald Lewis, of Greenwich, Conn., who took Evans to the 41st hole in this year's championship; J. Wood Platt, the leading Philadelphia player; H. J. Topping, of Greenwich, Conn., and two prominent New York golfers, Van Vleck and Richard Lounsbery.

Several of the best women players in the states, including Miss Alexa Stirling, the champion, are also coming over for the women's championship at Turnberry, Ayrshire, in the first week of June. Armour thinks that Miss Stirling is the one player in the world comparable with Miss Cecil Leitch. "Not, perhaps, quite so long a driver, but a beautiful golfer with her iron clubs and a fine putter. Moreover, she has that temperament which wins matches; it is impossible to flurry her."

Mr. Charles Crump, for 35 years vice-president of the Football Association and a leading personage in the football world for half a century, has just been honored with a dinner and a presentation of a check for £2,000. The occasion was his eightieth birthday.

"The "free air and the open road" stories by H. Herbert Knibbs are so popular in novel form that there is small wonder at their success on the screen. It was Harry Carey who scored a triumph in the first Knibbs story, "Overland Red," some months ago, and now he has found even a more satisfying vehicle in "Sundown Slim," the latest Knibs story in which he is now appearing.

WORK OF DISTRICT NURSE FOR YEAR

MADE 1,577 VISITS—780 OF THESE PAID FOR BY PATIENTS THEMSELVES.

District Nurse, Miss E. Hamilton, has submitted the following report of her general work in the year 1920:

The number of patients visited during the year was one hundred and forty-nine, obstetric 31, medical 100, surgical 18.

These had to be visited once or twice a day, hence the total number of visits made was one thousand five hundred and seventy-seven. Of these seven hundred and eighty were paid for by the patients themselves, the sum collected amounting to $195 (one hundred and ninety-five dollars). Those who were unable to pay were not charged for the nurse's services, but where posible a slight fee has been collected, because it has been found that the work is better appreciated.

The nurse has exceptional opportunities for service to the mothers and families. Many mothers do not know how to give proper care and nourishment to the young children, much as they would like to do so, and this the nurse can teach them. For example, excellent results are being obtained from the teaching in the homes of the home modification of milk.

Sixteen times during the year the nurse was called out at night.

In my report of 1917 I spoke of a little girl three years of age being sent to the Sick Childrens' Hospital by the ladies of the Supervision committee, he child was born with club feet, and consequently would have been a cripple for life. During the past year she was brought home in good health and able to run and play as other children.

Tubercular Work.

During the year there were eighteen patients, twelve of which were new. Nine of these were in the advanced stage when reported and have since died. A number of the other cases have been arrested.

One of the other patients was the father of seven children. He was supplied by the Health Association with milk, eggs and medicine and made as comfortable as possible. His widow was left without any means whatever of support and has had to look for work to keep the family. However, she has made application for the Pension Fund and hopes then to be able to stay home and look after the smaller children.

Another was a mother of eight, who heard what the Association was doing and called in the nurse. She, too, was in the advanced stage and not much could be done but make her comfortable. As her bedroom was hot and close a tent was loaned by the Association. Among the others were a mother of three, a young boy of sixteen, a young girl of eighteen, a boy of seven and a baby seven weeks.

The members of these families have been shown how to avoid infection and been impressed with the three great facts of the disease that it is preventable, curable and communicable. The first essential in dealing with tuberculosis is to build up the body, and that all may be able to do this milk and eggs are supplied by the Association. The number helped can be gathered from the fact that two thousand five hundred quarts of milk and one hundred and fifty dozen eggs have been supplied during the year.

The total number of visits for tubercular patients was five hundred.

The following supplies have been given out: 3 sputum cups, 500 refills, old linen, comforters, blankets.

The following articles have been loaned: 3 air cushions, thermometers, cots, soap stones, coal oil stoves.

GRAND TRUNK ARBITRATION AT AN IMPASS

REFUSAL TO ACCEPT EVIDENCE OF H. H. VAUGHAN CAUSES ANOTHER TEMPORARY STUMBLING BLOCK.

MONTREAL, Feb. 7.—An extraordinary and unexpected tangle caused another temporary impasse this morning in the work of the Grand Trunk Arbitration Commission when it met to hear the decision as to whether the evidence of H. H. Vaughan, expert engineer, regarding the actual physical value of the Grand Trunk property, with its reproduction value, should be admited as evidence.

Sir Walter Cassels, chairman, gave his judgment that such evidence was irrelevant and should not be admitted. In this Sir Thomas White concurred, even more emphatically than the chairman. In equally emphatic terms, Hon. W. H. Taft, representative of the company on the Commission, dissented from the views of his colleagues, expressing the opinion that knowledge of the actual value of the physical assets of the whole system is a running concern with the cost of reproducing it was essential to the work of the Commission in finding out what should be the finding as to the actual value to be allowed by the Government for the preferred and common stock of the Grand Trunk, taken over en bloc. With the Commission two to one, it was decided to decline to admit further expert evidence from Mr. Vaughn. This unexpected denouncement upset the plans of all counsel on the case and adjournment was decided on.

Huge Demonstration Greeted Victorious Liberal Candidate

PANDEMONIUM REIGNED IN LIBERAL COMMITTEE ROOMS AS THE SWING TO GORDON INCREASED—VICTORY CELEBRATION OVERFLOWED TO OPERA HOUSE.

THE VICTORY ADDRESS

Shortly after 7 o'clock last evening the Liberals took their victory as assured. The enthusiasm which had marked the reception of the returns, which steadily swelled G. N. Gordon's majority, broke its bounds when his majority reached 500, with the swing still toward him. "Let's get a band, it's ours," someone shouted, and arrangements were made for a celebration with music.

As the tide turned more pronouncedly toward Gordon, pandemonimum broke loose. The committee rooms were crowded to suffocation and lusty cheers greeted each addition to the Liberal majority. "Where's the Meighen machine now?" someone shouted.

J. J. Hartley, President of the West Peterborough Liberal Association, arrived at 7.40 o'clock and was given an ovation. He led the special round of victory cheers for Gordon.

The arrival of Mr. Gordon was the signal for an uproarious outburst. He was carried shoulder high down the hall to a desk, where in a few brief words he said that he could not express his gratification for the splendid service rendered the cause of responsible government in Canada by the electorate. "I do not count this as a tribute to myself, but as a desire of the people for responsible government," he declared. "We have succeeded in West Peterborough in driving the last spike in the coffin of the Meighen government. (Applause.) The men and women who have worked with us through this election have given unflagging service. My gratitude to them will never be found failing."

Centre ward returns interrupted the address of victory. Another majority for Gordon was registered, and the cheers shook the rafters, if there were any.

"We need a bigger place than this," Mr. Hartley called out.

"The Opera House," shouted the crowd.

In the meantime a torchlight parade, headed by a band, had been organized, and wended its way through the city, the street crowds cheering the victorious candidate on his triumphal way.

The Opera House Meeting.

The Liberals of West Peterboro had their crowded hour of glory last night when they celebrated their election of George N. Gordon over four formidable adversaries in perhaps the most brilliant triumph in the political annals of this riding. From the back wall of the stage to the last row of the top gallery, the Grand Opera House was packed with the cheering, ebullient hosts of Liberalism who acclaimed G. N. Gordon as their victorious leader in a cause which they had recognized as a traditional responsibility. Because the campaign had been strenuous and toilsome and doubtful up to the very last moment, the fruit of success tasted all the sweeter, and the realization that he had borne the brunt of the conflict, won for Mr. Gordon an ovation that has been rarely equalled in this city. He had brought victory again to the Liberal banner in a contest against big odds, and he had sent the name of West Peterboro ringing around the Dominion as the seat of renascent and revitalized Liberalism at a critical time of group divisions in the body politic. These thoughts were in the minds of the vast audience that greeted Mr. Gordon in a tumultuous demonstration as he appeared on the stage of the Grand Opera House where the Honorable Arthur Meighen, Sir George Foster, Sir Henry Drayton and other members of the Government had passed at different periods of the contest. But the lifting oratorical smoke of the campaign revealed G. N. Gordon as the survivor in the radiant flood of the footlights, and the crowd roared their congratulations and their delight in rounds of rousing cheers.

Mr. Gordon Grateful.

Mr. Gordon spoke briefly in reply-

MR. BURNHAM CONGRATULATES VICTOR FIGHT

EXTENDS HEARTY CONGRATULATIONS TO GORDON AND LIBERAL PARTY ON ITS TRIUMPH AT THE POLLS.

WANTS UNITED FRONT

Mr. Burnham said to the Examiner to-day:

"It is to be hoped that the idea at Ottawa of forming a united party of opposites will give way to one with at least the virtue of genuineness and common-sense about it. Liberals of the Liberal wing, whispering to Liberals that 'it's all right' (with a wink), and Conservatives doing likewise, has exploded here at least. The Government tried in vain to get a Liberal to represent it in this election, and then came in full force to condemn Liberal ideas. What has happened to the Conservative party of 1911?

"I congratulate heartily Mr. Gordon and the old Liberal party on their triumph. They were the genuine article, and therefore had the punch. Unless the Conservative National Policy, with a Conservative party and Conservative leadership, soon comes to the rescue of itself, it will go the way of all flesh. As for myself, I had no expenses worth mentioning, no canvass, no conveyances, and no organization. The protest which we furnish ought therefore to be complete. We must have a Dominion-wide Convention. The Examiner has earned the gratitude of everybody by its fairness and efficiency."

BRIGADE BAND FOR PETERBORO

AUTHORIZED BY OTTAWA MILITIA COUNCIL—ORGANIZED HERE AS PART OF ESTABLISHMENT OF C.M.G. BRIGADE.

4TH C. M. G. BRIGADE

Information to this effect has just been received by Major A. P. Miller and in Command of the Brigade, who states that the organization was commenced a week ago last Monday. Band Master Peryer has already secured the full quota of bandsmen, nineteen of whom have already signed up to complete organization. The remainder seven in number have signified their intention of doing so at the next regular practice i.e. Wednesday night.

Major Miller is highly delighted that he has succeeded in securing this Band for Peterborough and proud of the support he has received in the organization of the same, both by the members of the band in question and the citizens of Peterborough.

While in name this will be a new organization within the city the fact remains that nearly if not all its membership will be composed of those who have delighted the ears of its citizens before, instilled the martial spirit into thm during the war and particularly during last summer ministered to their tired and restless feeling good music inspires. It can raise man to the height of ferocity it can act like oil upon the troubled waters Encourage it.

GENERAL ELECTION IN SOUTH AFRICA TO-DAY MOMENTOUS AS BRITISH CONNECTION IS ISSUE AT STAKE

THREE-CORNERED FIGHT

(Canadian Press.)

CARETOWN, Feb. 8. — Voting to select the members of the new House of Assembly, took place to-day throughout the Union of South Africa. This will be one of the most important general elections that has ever taken place in the British Empire, because the South African premier, General Jan C. Smuts has fought his campaign directly on the issues of the continuance of British connection, which has been denounced by his chief opponent, General Heirtzog, the leader of the Nationalist Party.

Five thousand miners in the Rand district have struck and their action on the eve of election came as a thunderbolt. The belief was expressed that the strike was politically a move designed to consolidate the labor ranks. There have been predictions that the laobrites would capture 20 seats in Parliament.

BOARD OF TRADE MEETS TO-NIGHT

SUBJECTS OF PARTICULAR CIVIC INTEREST ARE SLATED FOR DISCUSSION.

Numerous subjects of particular civic interest will be considered at the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Trade, which will convene this evening at 8 o'clock.

The forbidding of questionable amusements of the travelling carnival kind will no doubt be in for a good discussion. The Hamilton Police Commission have already taken action along this line, and Brantford has requested action by the Provincial Government.

The recommendation of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, referring to the installation of red lights above all fire alarm boxes, is a step in the right direction, and should get the support of the meeting

The most debatable question of the evening will likely be the consideration of changing the Municipal Election Day from New Year's Day to the first Monday in December. Hamilton is now considering the subject with the object of making the change to on or before December 1st. Guelph has petitioned the changing of the date to November 1st.

With the concerted action of a number of Ontario Municipalities to obtain legislation, disallowing the granting of exemptions, etc., to new industries, the question arises whether this action would be desirable, owing to the discrimination between the various provinces of the Dominion.

With the above subjects for consideration, the meeting to-night should prove very interesting and educational.

The annual election day of the Board being on March 1st, the Nominating Committee of Five will be elected at this meeting, and five election judges appointed.

A large representative gathering of members is expected and following the resolution passed at the last general meeting all interested citizens will be welcomed.

ALABAMA NIGHT RIDERS ORDER FARM RENTERS TO JOIN UNION

BRIDGEPORT, Ala., Feb. 7.—Masked night riders, with horses covered with white cloth, descended upon a score of non-union farm renters last night and served notice that they "either join the Tenants' Union or leave your farms within ten days." They also called upon land owners and demanded that only union farmers be employed or given shelter.

The demonstration, it is understood was a result of differences arising between land owners and union tenants over requests of the latter for a one-half share in the crops instead of one-third as has heretofore been the basis of land leasing.

CABLES FROM ALL COUNTRY FOR VICTOR

TELEGRAMS OF CONGRATULATION DELUGED GORDON FROM ALL CANADA AND THE UNITED STATES AND OVERSEAS.

LIBERALS AND FRIENDS

Telegrams of congratulation from Liberals and friends from the Atlantic to the Pacific and the United States and England deluged G. N. Gordon last night and this morning.

Following are some of the cables:

I always knew you could do it. Hearty congratulations on achieving a victory of Dominion-wide importance.

CHAS. MURPHY.

W. E. Foster, Premier of New Brunswick:

St. John, N.B., Feb. 8.

G. N. Gordon,
Peterborough.

Accept my heartiest congratulations on your splendid victory.

W. E. FOSTER,
Premier of N.B.

Ernest Lapointe, M.P., Quebec East, regarded as "the coming Laurier":

Quebec, Que., Feb. 8.

G. N. Gordon, M.P.,
Peterborough.

Enthusiastic congratulations to you and all Peterborough friends.

ERNEST LAPOINTE.

Arthur C. Hardy, President Ontario Liberal Executive:

Hurrah for Liberalism! Hearty congratulations to you and wife.

MAY C. CARPENTER.

Toronto, Ont., Feb. 8.

G. N. Gordon,
Peterborough.

Congratulations! I have watched your fight with keen interest and I have only the warmest feelings for your success.

FRED. C. ROBERTS,
of Fred G. Roberts & Co., Ltd.

Cocoa, Fla., Feb. 6.

George N. Gordon,
Peterborough.

We trust that your efforts against political fakery will meet with public approval and your next address will be to the House of Commons, Ottawa. The district needs one of your astute leadership and political prestige to represent them in the new order of things. Win or lose, will say it was a good fight.

PERRY ALEXANDER.

Oshawa, Ont., Feb. 8.

G. N. Gordon, M.P.,
Peterborough.

Congratulations on famous victory. Liberals appreciate its meaning.

W. E. N. SINCLAIR.

Gordon Swept to Victory By Majority of 1273; Denne Is Second and Burnham Third

MR. G. N. GORDON, M.P.-ELECT.

AN ELECTION SEEMS TO BE A CERTAINTY

THE GOVERNMENT IS FACED BY A GENERAL ELECTION AS A RESULT OF THE LIBERAL VICTORY HERE, BELIEVED.

DISSOLUTION INEVITABLE

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 8.—The Government is faced with a general election whether it likes it or not. An early dissolution, voluntary or otherwise, is practically inevitable, as a result of the serious reverse suffered by the Meighen candidate in West Peterborough. No explanation, however ingenious, can brush away the significance of a block of 9,000 votes polled against Roland Denne. The victory of George N. Gordon is not only a victory for Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King and an encouragement to his forces, it is also a notice upon the Government by the electors of West Peterborough that the Union government and its successor have outgrown their welcome.

No intention of an early dissolution on the part of the Government was indicated in the speeches of Government orators during the campaign. Premier Meighen on the contrary, declared that Sir Robert Borden in 1917 had given no pledge or understanding that the constitutional term of the administration would be curtailed. Had Mr. Denne won in Peterborough Premier Meighen would have been justified in sticking to that stand. He could very well have taken the attitude that a general election should be held only after a decennial census and a redistribution of Federal seats.

But the defeat in Peterborough, coming on the heels of that in East Elgin, puts a new phase upon the situation. Premier Meighen may still insist upon disregarding the clear and unmistakable moral of the double reverse. In any case he will give his followers in caucus assembled an opportunity to interpret the moral before reaching any decision. But the fact is that even if the decision is to stay with the ship, that ship is very much in danger of being broken on the rocks during the coming session.

Whether the Government disregards the lesson of Peterborough and Elgin or not makes little difference. The two Opposition parties cannot disregard it, and however unwilling individuals may be to have a house in which they are very comfortable and risk loss of a substanial indemnity it will be the duty of Opposition members to force a dissoution just as soon as sufficient supply has been voted to temporarily carry on the affairs of Government.

The Government in 1917 met its first Parliament with a majority of nearly 80. By a steady process of attrition and defection that majority has now dwindled to a little over 20. Even that is on paper for there are many chronic absentees, many sick men, and many disappointed or disinterested. A more or less snap vote last session almost defeated the Government. Since then Hon. A. K. Maclean has left its ranks. Hon. N. W. Rowell is said to be leaving and there are rumors that Hon. J. A. Calder may also depart. The losses in Elgin and Peterborough

LIBERAL CANDIDATE ROLLED UP BIG MAJORITY AT THE POLLS—DENNE AND BURNHAM CLOSE CONTENDERS FOR SECOND HONORS—CAMPBELL MADE GOOD FIGHT—M'MURRAY STANDS FIFTH.

ONLY ONE POLL REMAINS TO REPORT

With but one small poll in Cavendish to hear from, G. N. Gordon has a majority over Denne, his closest runner-up, of 1273. The total vote for Gordon is 4091, and for Denne 2817. The completion of the returns from the city have boosted Burnham, who stands third with 2582. Campbell is fourth, with 2304, and McMurray fifth with 1102. The remaining poll at Cavendish is so small that it cannot materially affect the standing.

The returns since last night have made no change in the position of the candidates, other than of Burnham and Campbell. Last night Campbell stood third and Burnham fourth, but additional city returns pushed Burnham into third place.

The standing is now as follows:

GORDON	4091
DENNE	2817
BURNHAM	2582
CAMPBELL	2304
McMURRAY	1102

The Government went down to defeat by 7272 votes, the Opposition polling 10,079 votes, and the Government 2817.

The returns, now almost complete, indicate the total vote polled yesterday to be 12,896.

The swing to Gordon was apparent from the first. Division 40, North Monaghan, the first to report, gave Gordon a majority of 4 over Denne, and from then on his plurality climbed steadily upward. Within two hours of the closing of the polls Denne had conceded that he was defeated.

The feature of the vote was the immense pluralities which the rural districts gave to Campbell. The early returns, which were from the city, placed him in the cellar position, but the first returns from the country indicated that he would be a more serious contender than the early returns would lead one to believe. In many rural sections he secured more votes than all the other candidates combined.

Burnham started out well, standing second, but gradually dropped back to third, and then fourth position, as the Farmer plurality continued to swell, leaving him behind. Additional city returns, however, boosted him back to third place.

Denne was behind Gordon from the first, but comparatively the gap between them did not widen materially as the results poured in.

McMuray began in fourth place, but soon slipped back to fifth, due to the poor support which he secured in the country.

An enthusiastic ovation was given the Liberal candidate by his supporters last night. The Liberal committee rooms were filled to suffocation and pandemonium was loosed when it became apparent that a Liberal victory was assured. A street parade led by a band introduced the victor to the street crowds and following this, the Grand Opera House was commandeered. The rally was enhusiastic and a remarkabe tribute to Mr. Gordon. A description of the Opera House meeting is given elsewhere on this page.

When returns had been received from 20 polls last night, Mr. Denne, in a brief address to his supporters, conceded his defeat. He thanked them for their unflagging assistance to the Government cause.

Mr. Burnham went home early last evening and this morning congratulated Mr. Gordon.

At nine o'clock Mr. Campbell conceded the victory to the Liberal candidate. Mr. G. N. Gordon, and in a neat but brief address thanked all for both their whole-hearted personal and financial support. And he asked all to carry away the thought that though the election is lost to them still the vote for the U.F.O. candidate was an exceedingly creditable one indeed, and an assurance that by continued organization, and with a redistributions of electorates, they will in future carry a purely rural constituency in this district, with the city eliminated. Mr. Campbell also tendered in graceful terms, thanks to his many city friends.

In a meeting in the Labour committee rooms, about nine o'clock, several speakers addressed the gathering of Labour men. Mr. Frank Asta, one of the speakers, in his address urged the workers to take their defeat gallantly. "We fought the fight and we fought it clean," he said. He declared The Examiner did not give the Labour candidate a square deal and that The Examiner was a capitalistic organ of the profiteers.

DR. ALLEN would like physicians to take note that because their patients have Pyorrhoea, it is in most cases very unwise to advise extraction. A great many perfectly good teeth are being extracted these days, thus greatly injuring powers of mastication, which is necessary to good health. Pyorrhoea is quite curable. Results are very gratifying. Consultation free. Electrical apparatus used in examination. — 158 Charlotte Street, corner George Street.

BECK'S BOOSTING

It would b interesting to know how much the Province pays for the activities of Sir Adam Beck's official "boosting" bureau. From time to time the press is served with the most fulsome panegyrics from the Hydro office, written upon official Hydro paper and enclosed in official Hydro envelopes. One of the latest sets forth in extraordinary detail that Sir Adam has one and only one note idiosyncracy—the welfare and prosperity of his adopted Province. And, of course, the welfare and prosperity he so longs for can only be attained in one way, and that is by the carrying out of all his Hydro and Hydro-radial projects. If a stranger should read one of these marvellous effusions he could not but conclude that one possessing Sir Adam Beck's super-human talents must be frittering away his time and opportunities in this country. Such wonderful powers should only find fitting scope in the widest fields of the world's finance. And if such self-sacrifices as we are assured he is making for his dear adopted country were made in that wide field, he would leave a name more honored and revered as a public benefactor than George Peabody or Andrew Carnegie. It will be news to many that Sir Adam Beck resigned from a government rather than hold office with those who were not in sympathy with his public spirit, and that twice he refused the Premiership of the Province. The popular impression is that he resigned his portfolio because he was defeated in London, and that the nearest approach he ever had to the Premiership was when an effort was made to get the U. F.O. members-elect to choose him as their leader—a proposition which was declined so unhesitatingly that ever since he has entertained the same kindly sentiments towards the Farmers Party that Potiphar's wife entertained towards Joseph when her advances were rebuked. It is high time that all this talk about Sir Adam Beck's philanthropy and public spiritedness was cut out. This type is not bred with the blood that courses through Sir Adam's veins. The great national characterestic with which he is stamped is "safety first.' The dear public will experience a painful awakening to this fact in the very near future. But by the time they will be putting their hands in their pockets and paying for allowing the public credit to be manipulated by the Beck interests. His Chippewa canal scheme was originaly estimated to cost $8,000,000. The present estimate is that it will cost not less than $60,000,000. The evidence before the Hydro-radial Commission clearly establishes that if Sir Adam Beck had not been pulled up short by the Drury government, the Province would have been plunged into a $56,000,000 unprofitable investment in bankrupt radial railways. The way, however, in which he has muzzled prominent influences which ought to assist in protecting the public from his exploitation, is a mystery which only time will explain. But the explanation will come some say.

GAMBLING AS PROFESSION PUNISHABLE BY DEATH

(Associated Press.)

PEKING, Feb. 8.—Gambling is being severely discouraged in Canton, according to consular dispatches from there. General Ch'en Ch'iung-ming, acting civil governor of Kwangtung, has issued regulations making it an offence punishable by death or 20 to 25 years' imprisonment to engage in gambling as a profession, to maintain a gambling house or to protect the maintenance of such a place.

NEVADA TO REQUIRE 6 MONTHS' RESIDENCE TO START DIVORCE

RENO, Nev., Feb. 7.—An amendment to the Nevada divorce law which provides that every applicant for divorce must have been a resident of the stae for six months preceding commencement of divorce action, was passed by the Assembly of the State Legislature here and now goes to the Governor for signature.

The amendment prohibits the "short term" class of divorce except for bona fide residents of the State.

NOURISHING AND APPETIZING

Good home made bread is the most palatable, wholesome and nourishing food in the world. It is far more economical than any other staple food. If people would eat less meat and other heavy foods they would feel better and help to keep down the cost of living. Bread made in the home with Royal Yeast Cakes is more nourishing and appetizing than any other. Nothing healthier for children and grown ups.

Scientists have discovered that yeast possesses remarkable curative powers due to its richness in vitamines—that by its use the blood is purified and enriched, and the resistive power of the body to disease greatly enhanced. Soak a cake of Royal Yeast for half an hour in a cup of luke-warm water with one teaspoon sugar. Then stir well and strain once or twice through muslin and drink the liquid. BETTER results will be obtained by allowing it to soak over night and drinking half an hour before breakfast. Repeat as often as desired. Send name and address for free booklet entitled "Royal Yeast for Better Health."

PEASANTS STRIPPING VIENNESE OF WEALTH

(Associated Press.)

PARIS, Feb. 8.—The peasants of Austria are rapidly stripping the well-to-do residents of Vienna of their wealth by demanding payment for food in diamonds, jewels or other things of high value, says Red Cross men, who have visited that city. The farmer who suffered more severely than did the city people in the war now are having their innings and are becoming the prosperous, selling produce to the starving Viennese.

Austrian paper money is not always welcome in the country and the peasants demand an exchange of goods through a system of barter with the city residents. This attitude is said to be adding to the growing antagonism between the country worker and the city dweller.

Directors of Government pawnshops estimate that 45 per cent. of the Viennese are living by selling or pawning their valuables, frequently heirlooms. As the cost of living continues to increase, it is considered only a matter of a short time until many of the families who were well-to-do before the war will have nothing more to offer for food.

VISIT NORWAY'S QUEEN.

(Associated Press.)

LONDON, Feb. 8.—Princess Mary is expected to pay a short visit to Christiania early in the spring to stay with her aunt, the Queen of Norway. This will be the first occasion on which the Princess has been seen at a continental court.

FUTURE QUEEN SEES FIRST PICTURE SHOW

PRINCESS JULIANA, ELEVEN YEARS OLD, BEING REARED IN SHELTERED FASHION.

(Associated Press.)

THE HAGUE, Feb. 8.—The little Princess Juliana, only child of Queen Wilhelmina and Prince Consort Henry, who may one day succeed to the throne of the Netherlands, has just been permitted to see her first moving picture show. She is 11 years old and is being reared in the sheltered fashion characteristic of the home life of Queen Wilhelmina.

The little Princess, however, is being trained in music and other arts as well as in the duties of a housekeeper. Her first moving picture show was of the educational type, a South Isle picture.

Queen Wilhelmina rarely appears at fetes, public receptions or patriotic celebrations. In fact, she is seldom seen in public except when walking through the woods or driving in one of her carriages or automobiles. She prefers dignity to display and her residences could hardly be called palaces.

Supporters of the continuation of the present form of government in Holland, a constitutional monarchy, express few apprehensions over the possibility that this form might be changed even to that of a republic, which has been proposed in event that the Princess Juliana should fail to give Holland a male heir to the throne.

Dutch officials say that the House of Orange is deeply rooted in the affections of the Dutch people and there are in the country millions who desire to adhere to the present form of government.

PRESENTATION TO MISS ETTA THORN

On Saturday evening last the many friends of Miss Etta Thorn gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Thorn Otonabee, and presented her with a hall chair and mirror together with the following address

Dear Friend—Your many friends and companions of the Stewart Hall church having learned with regret that your associations with us as organist are about to be broken, wish at this time to congratulate you on the happy event that necessitates the severance of ties that have been so friendly and profitable to our church and we trust pleasant to yourself.

Your years of leadership in the Songs of Praise as organist have been a period of blessing to us all and in recognition of the enjoyable hours together, and your interest and faithfulness to duty, we have planned to tender you this gift as a small tribute of our esteem and affection. We shall all recall with delight the friend ship formed in this church, and we trust that you will carry with you also some memories of good and true friends left behind. As you are not removing far from us, we trust that you will meet with us in the coming years, as opportunity offers, and assure you that our best wishes go with you and our prayers also, that all the joy and blessing that God in his goodness promises to bestow, may surround and ever abide with you in your new and happy home.

Signed on behalf of the Stewart Hall Church.

Miss Thorn made a suitable reply in which she expressed regret at severing her connection with the church. A very pleasant evening followed.

Mrs. Lilian Taylor Tells How Cuticura Healed Her Baby

"Our baby was two weeks old when his face became very red and terribly itchy, and he was fairly crazy rubbing and scratching till the skin broke and bled. He could not sleep, and did nothing but cry. His face looked as though he might be disfigured for life.

"I thought I would give Cuticura Soap and Ointment a trial. I found the free sample so good that I bought more and two cakes of Cuticura Soap and a fifty cent box of Cuticura Ointment healed him." (Signed) Mrs. Lilian M. Taylor, Box 99, Bracebridge, Muskoka, Ont., Dec. 30, '18.

HOME TREATMENT FOR COLD OR GRIPPE

METHOD WHICH WILL RELIEVE A COLD IN A SINGLE NIGHT.

Every reader will be interested in a treatment which, on a record extending over many years, promises relief for even bad colds in a single night.

This remedy, under the name of Grip-Fix, is now sold at all drug stores. It comes in capsule form for convenience in taking, and assuring prompt action. It contains nothing but just the ingredients which are generally prescribed by physicians for colds. It is a safe and reliable remedy, prompt in action, certain as to results.

Keep a box of Grip-Fix in the house so as to start treatment promptly as soon as cold appears. By following the directions even a bad cold can be conquered in a night, and even a case which has developed to the grippe stage in 36 hours.

Be sure to get the genuine Grip-Fix, as there are many substitutes. On sale at all druggists, 35c. per box.

CHINESE ROBBERS NOW EMULATE ROBINHOOD

GRAIN AND CLOTHING STOLEN BUT DISTRIBUTED AMONG THE POOR.

(Associated Press.)

PEKING, Feb. 8.—Looting by robbers and levies by Southern Chihli, says a report by a missionary engaged in famine relief work at Wei-hsien, near the Honan border. The troops with their demands for "contributions" of grain, fodder and clothing are said to be worse affliction than the robbers. The latter are described as emulating Robin Hood in some respects in a recent raid at Fang Chia Ying, eight miles from Wei-hsien, where the homes of the wealthy were invaded.

"As the robbers went from house to house, stores of grain were opened up, chests of clothing broken open and the poor were dressed and fed beyond the style even of better days. Copper coins and small cash were heaped up in the streets and bartered at considerable discount for silver dollars, for, like their distinguished prototype, the Chinese Robin Hoods are not impelled by purely philanthropic impulse, but are after plunder in the most transportable and convertible form. While frankly aiming at the lion's share, they showed some sympathy for those weaker than themselves."

The soldiers, instead of checking the operations of the robbers, are described as having an understanding with them and conniving at furnishing them with ammunition.

"There is first a parley," says the writer; "then the soldiers make an impetuous charge and the brigands retreat. The soldiers dig, at indicated places, and unearth money which has been buried by the brigands. Into the holes in the ground they put ammunition and cover it up. Then the brigands make a counter-attack and the troops retreat leaving the former to recover the buried ammunition."

Not only are the rich being reduced to poverty by the demands of the soldiery, but a large proportion of the middle-class population who might have been able to get through the winter in fast becoming wholly dependent upon public beneficience, it

SELLS HER HAIR TO HELP COUNTRY

HOPES TO ASSIST IN SMALL WAY BRITAIN TIDE OVER HER FINANCIAL DIFFICULTIES.

(Associated Press.)

LONDON, Feb. 8.—An English girl has just set an example of patriotism to her sisters of this or other countries by cutting off and selling her hair and giving the proceeds to the Government to help relieve its financial situation. The girl's name has not been made public.

Her letter announcing her sacrifice as received at a Government office reads:

"To help, even though in a very small way, the country in the present financial difficulties, I have had my hair cut off and have sold it. With the money thus obtained I have bought War Savings Certificates which I have destroyed. The money is thus a direct gift to the country. If this could be published, perhaps many other girls would do as I have done and thousands of people would be encouraged to give up something that would benefit the country financially."

The letter was published, but emulators of the writer's example have not been heard. A reason may be found in a recent decree of hairdressers that "bobbed" locks are no longer fashionable.

Boils So Bad

HAD TO GIVE UP WORK

From the days of Job, up to the present time, boils have been one of the afflictions of the human race.

All the poulticing and lancing you may do will not prevent them from breaking out again.

Boils are simply caused by the bad blood bursting out; and the bad blood must be made pure before the boils will disappear.

Burdock Blood Bitters, which has been on the market for over forty years, is well known as the greatest blood medicine procurable.

It purifies the blood by removing every particle of foul matter from the system, and when this is done the boils vanish, and you should never be troubled again.

Mr. James Fahey, Newport Island, Que., writes:—"I was troubled with boils on my back and neck, so bad that I was obliged to give up work. I tried several remedies, but got no relief. Finally I went to a doctor, and he treated me for several weeks, and all without benefit. At last a friend told me of Burdock Blood Bitters, so I decided to give it a trial. I got three bottles, but before I had taken two the boils were all gone. It is eight months now, and I have had no return of the old trouble, and have never felt so well."

ADOPTS "TRIPLETS"; CALLS THEM HER OWN

ATLANTA WOMAN ALSO CONFESSES GETTING TWINS FROM MATERNITY HOSPITAL.

ATLANTA, Feb. 8.—One of the most amazing stories of mother love that the world has known came to light in Atlanta, when Mrs. F. E. A. South of 23 Weyman avenue confessed that the "triplets" supposedly "born" to her on New Year's Eve were not her own; that twin girls "born" to her four years ago were not her own and that she has reared altogether eleven children whom even her husband believed she bore, when in reality they were all adopted secretly because of her great desire for babies.

Mrs. South's husband, who is a clerk in a grocery store at 129 Decatur street, at first laughed when he was informed of his wife's confession and then was indignant, declaring it was an "infernal lie."

"If she made such a statement, it was because some sinister influence was at work on her," he declared. "They all are my children, and my neighbors will testify to the fact."

While Mrs. South deceived her husband, deceived her children themselves, deceived the newspapers and the public, in fact, deceived everybody but herself and the institutions from which she procured the babies, she has committed no wrong in the eyes of the law.

"I don't like movies, I don't like theatres, I don't like to go out—the greatest thing in my life is children," she declares. "That is why I did it—because I love children and because I wanted to give them the best raising I could, especially the little nameless waifs in the maternity hospitals who have no chance in the world."

Mrs. South declared the reason she deceived her husband with triplets "born" on New Year's Eve, but in reality procured from a maternity hospital, was because the women in charge of the "cradle roll" at St. Paul's Methodist Church, of which she is a member, had agreed to educate as missionaries the first triplets born to a church member.

"I have raised all my children to be good men and women," declared Mrs. South, "and I saw here a chance to have three little ones brought up to go out and teach the Gospel to the heathen."

Mrs. South says she is the daughter of a Methodist minister, now dead, and that her mother is dead also. She is now 52 years old. More than ten years ago, she said, her yearning for children to take the place of her grown up sons and daughters was so overpowering that she hit on the scheme of deceiving her husband with a "fake birth," and she succeeded in fooling him, she said. The plan worked so well that at annual intervals she adopted three more. These four babies she got from institutions, the names of which she would not give. They now range in age from 5 to 13, and live at the South home, in complete ignorance of their true origin.

Four years ago she decided to have twins. She got them from the maternity home of Mrs. Mitchell, on Windsor street, she said. They were boys, but both died. So, two years ago, Mrs. South got two girls from the Windsor street home, which she palmed off as "twins." And then, the last day in December, she procured three little girls from the home to serve as her "triplets."

Mrs. Mitchell, who conducts the home, admitted Mrs. South's statement regarding the "triplets" and "twins." The "triplets," said Mrs. Mitchell, were not really triplets, but were three little girls of three different mothers.

The "birth" of the "triplets" was first announced in the newspapers soon after New Year's. Their pictures were published with Mrs. South's and those of one pair of "twins." Hundreds of people called at the Weyman avenue home to see them. The church people were extremely interested and the Associated Charities, to whom the case was reported on Jan. 11, sent out two loads of coal to help the family.

And then official Atlanta took note of the case. There was revealed the first inkling that the "triplets" might be bogus.

It was noted at the city health office that no certificate of the "triplets'" birth had been turned in. An inspector was sent to the Weyman avenue home, and to him Mrs. South gave the name of a doctor. No such doctor could be found. The inspector was puzzled. He reported his findings to the city health office. An attache of the office, having his suspicions and his own theory about the case, happened to mention it Friday morning to a newspaper reported. "Say," he ended, "why don't you try that maternity home at 22 Windsor street? I'm willing to bet the triplets came from there."

And this proved correct, if the statement of Mrs. Mitchell and Mrs. South's confession are to be believed.

THE HEALTH ASSOCIATION.

If there were any doubts as to the value of the Peterborough Health Association, the report of the district nurse, Miss E. Hamilton, on last year's operations, should cause them to vanish. The report was published in last evening's issue and it is hoped that it was generally read in spite of the excitement over the election. Some comprehension of the scope of the work carried on may be obtained from the fact that during the year Miss Hamilton made 1,577 visits in general cases, visiting in all one hundred and forty-nine peope, while in addition eighteen tubercular patients were looked after, the later cases requiring five hundred visits. To furnish the nourishment required by the tubercular patients the Association supplied during the year 2,500 quartrs of milk and 150 dozen eggs. In addition other supplies were furnished. If the Association did nothing else than care for the tubercular cases that are brought to its attention, its existence would be amply justified. The report is an excellent one and should commend the organization to the hearty support of the whole body of ctizens.

THE NEXT DUTY.

The election is over, the duty imposed upon the voters of West Peterborough by reason of the resignation of Mr. J. H. Burnham has been discharged by the selection of Mr. Gordon as the riding's representative in the House of Commons. The fight has been a keen one, hard fought on all sides, one of the most interesting the constituency has known, but now that the battle is finished it is the duty of citizens generally to bury the hatchet, forget he differences that divided them into different camps for the time being, and unite to work for the best interests of the city, of which all of us, whatever our political affiliations, are so proud. It is a foolish community that will allow a political contest to permanently disintegrate its citizenship, that will permit the scars of an election to remain unhealed. Every voter has the right to his own opinion and to back that opinion by voting for, and if he wishes to, working for the man whose policy represents his views, but when the contest is over and the work and the voting done, the time has come for all to remember their duty to their home city and to realize that however sharply their political opinions may clash during the campaign, there is no necessity for carrying on hostilities after the "cease fire" has sounded. Let us get together again and get down to business after this last month's turmoil and strife.

A SPLENDID YEAR.

The report presented at the annual meeting of the Excelsior Life Insurance Company, Toronto, shows a splendid record in every particular.

Insurance issued and revived amounted to $11,138,242.67, bringing the total insurance in force at the end of the year to $40,574,890.65.

The net premium income increased to $1,283,029.00, and the total income to $1,605,597.52 — a gain of over $200,000.

The assets, which amount to $6,468,457.35, are particularly well selected and distributed, and include over one and a half million dollars of Government and municipal bonds and debentures. The average yield on investments increased during the year to 6.87 per cent.

The mortality was again exceedingly favourable, being only 57 per cent. of the expected, the average for the last twelve years being 52 per cent.

The company is to be congratulated on the addition to its board or directors of the Hon. J. L. Perron, K.C., Minister without portfolio in the Quebec Government, who was elected a policyholders' director. Mr. Perron is one of the leaders of the Montreal bar, and will well represent the company's numerous policyholders in Quebec. His election fills the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Thomas Long, the other members of the old Board of directors being re-elected.

Mr. A. J. McClellan, branch manager for Central Ontario, expects 1921 will be the banner year for the company in his territory.

THE ELECTION.

West Peterborough's famous by-election, in many respects the most remarkable political contest in the history of the riding, is over, and the lifting of the smoke of battle shows George N. Gordon, Liberal candidate, as the constituency's new representative at Ottawa. His victory was clean-cut and decisive for the figures place him approximately 1,300 in advance of Roland Denne, Government candidate, who was second in the list. J. C. Campbell, .UF.O. standard-bearer, J. H. Burnham, Independent Conservative, and Thos. McMurray, representative of labour, follow in that order, the last named being so far out of the race that his deposit is lost.

Mr. Gordon's victory was won in the city, where in almost every poll he had a plurality, and which altogether gave him over 1,100 advantage over the government candidate, who was closely pressed for second place in the urban vote by Mr. Burnham. In the country the old political ties were swept to one side, and the farmers lined up behind the U.F.O. candidate in a manner that surprised many of the political sharps.

The result of the by-election, it must be admitted, by even the most ardent supporter of the government of Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, indicated unmistakably a lack of confidence on the part of the electors in the present administration at Ottawa. Mr. Burnham's preditcion that the vote would be four to one against the Government was practicaly substantiated, for the four opposition candidate polled close to 10,000 votes against the 2,800 recorded for the Meighen nominee.

Under normal conditions, with the opposition vote to be divided among four candidates, it would appear as if the Government candidate could not be defeated. But the aggressiveness of Mr. Gordon's campaign, the energy and enthusiasm that he and his army of workers threw into the fight impresed themselves upon the electorate and they swung to his standard, feeling that his chances were the brightest among the four candidates opposed to the Government. This condition, coupled with the inroads that Mr. Burnham made upon the section of the vote that without him in the field would have gone to support the National Liberal and Conservative party, made Mr. Gordon's victory decisive.

Mr. Denne need not consider his defeat as in any way a personal one; those who voted against him did not do so because they wanted to beat "Rolly" Denne, but because they were opposed to the Government of which he was a nominee. Mr. Denne will not lose friends or the esteem of the people who know him so well because the cause for which he stood was rejected yesterday.

Two features of the voting stand out prominently, the big vote polled by Mr. Burnham and the maner in which the farmers forgot party affiliations and supported their candidate.

Mr. Burnham did nearly as well in the city as did Mr. Denne, a remarkable showing when it is considered that he had no organization, no scrutineers, no committee rooms, no cars, sent out no cards, held but one meeting, and made but one speech during the campaign. His only appeal for support was through the columns of the Examiner, and the fact that he secured over 2,500 votes when opposed by complete organizations such as were at the disposal of the Government and Liberal candidates, is a notable feature of a notable campaign.

The farmers, for the present at least, seem to be through with the old political parties. No other conclusion can be reached from a study of yesterday's vote in the rural sections. In no previous campaign had the old parties paid so much attention to the vote in the townships, and yet their efforts were futile in spite of the fact that Hon. Dr. Tolmie, the Minister of Agriculture, stumped the rural sections on behalf of the Government, and Hon. MacKenzie King carried the message of Liberalism to several townships. The figures show that both these leaders might just as well have stayed in Ottawa so fas as their effect upon the farmers was concerned. In South Monaghan, where Hon. Mr. King adressed a meeting, his candidate only secured 12 votes, while the Farmer nominee had 357. Bridgenorth and Ennismore, both visited by the Liberal leader, gave the U.F.O. candidate majorities of 148 and 39 respectively, while the sections in which Hon. Dr. Tolmie spoke showed similar pluralities for Campbell.

As for the Independent Labour Party they were never a factor in the contest and Mr. McMurray has the distinction of being the only candidate to lose his deposit. Although he nearly doubled the vote polled in the city by the U.F.O. nominee, Mr. McMurray did nothing in the rural sections, failing to get a vote at all in several polling sub-divisions.

THE ADOLESCENT SCHOOL ACT.

At the convention of urban trustees which has just been held in the city of Hamilton, considerable discussion took place over the enforctment of certain sections of the Adolescent School Attendance Act. Dr. J. H. Putnam, the senior inspector for Ottawa, went so far as to assert that, in his opinion, the immediate enforcement of the Act is impossible. The reasons advanced in support of this statement were the prevailing sentiment against force, the economic conditions in the home, the great lack of school accommodation, and the feeling on the part of a great many scholars and parents that schooling ceases to be of benefit after the age of fourteen has been passed.

It would look as if the Department of Education itself recognised that the enforcement of the Act under present conditions is a somewhat difficult proposition. In the memorandum which has been issued for the guidance of the trustees' association some of the difficulties are frankly acknowledged The lack of school accommodation, the withdrawal of help from industries, the economic necessity of contributing to the support of the home, and the failure to appreciate the value of an extended education, both on the part of scholars and parents, are serious factors which must be well weighed. In view of these things, it is said that instructions will be given to the attendance officer "to be somewhat liberal in granting home permits and employment certificates to young persons within the age limits who desire to work. In the case of those who are already engaged in regular work, no pressure will be brought to bear to compel them to return to school." All young persons between the ages of 14 and 16 must be either at work or at school, and all who are at work, whether at home or in gainful employment, will be required to hold the necessary permits or certificates.

The Act comes into force on 1st September next, and section 9, which provides for the part time instruction for young persons at work, comes into operation on 1st September, 1922, and School Boards are expected to be prepared to make the section effective on that date. The only reasonable course is a gradual introduction of the new system, so as to bring about as little disturbance as possible both in industry and domestic arrangements.

The general principle of the Act, which designs to extend the years of study of public school pupils, with a view to increasing their knowledge and efficiency, and a consequent enlargement of their earning capacity and independence, is exceedingly praiseworthy. All expert testimony goes to show that the boy or girl who stays in school until the age of 16 surpasses in earning power those who leave it at 14 years of age.

Dr. Putnam made a strong point when he declared that there should be a very broad interpretation of the courses which the pupils would be required to study during the specified 400 hours per year. Studies not obtainable in the course up to 14 years of age ought to be included, and liberal choices allowed. His suggestion that instruction should be made entirely free cannot be successfully challenged. There is no doubt that these extended courses can be made very valuable if rightly conducted. — Brockville Recorder and Times.

No! When the price of Red Rose Tea was reduced its quality was not changed one particle.

The price of Red Rose Tea is a little more than other teas but the extra quality makes it more economical and more desirable to drink.

JUDGMENT SUSTAINED IN APPELLATE COURT

DEFENDANTS MUST PAY FOR MUSKRATS TAKEN FROM PLAINTIFF'S MARSHES.

The judgment obtained at the last Cobourg Assizes by William Pamment of South Monaghan against John Thompson, South Monaghan trapper, and Thomas Mather, the Otonabee trapper, was before the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of Ontario at Osgoode Hall on Tuesday. It will be remembered that notwithstanding the notices put up by Wm. Pamment across the marshes on his farm, forbidding trapping of muskrats thereon and warnings to the two defendants, they persisted in setting their traps from canoes in "Steamboat Creek" last spring, resulting in Nelson Nurse, who had leased from Pamment the trapping privileges, throwing up his lease. After a two days' trial of the two actions (tried by consent of counsel together) on the 10th and 11th November before the Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, he gave judgment in each case against each defendant for the value of the muskrats taken with full costs on the Supreme Court scale. John Thompson's appeal against that judgment was dismissed with costs as the report below indicates. Messrs. Dumble and Johnston of Peterborough were solicitors for the plaintiff and Mr. F. M. Field, K.C., was counsel at the trial and on the appeal. Messrs. Peck, Kerr & McEldery of Peterborough were solicitors for the defendants and Mr. F. D. Kerr was counsel at trial and appeal.

HAY TOUCHES HIGH PRICES; LITTLE O FIT TO SELL

COBOURG, Feb. 7—Hay has reached a record price in this district selling for $30 a ton at the farmers' barns, and from $32 to $35 on the market. "The trouble is that few of us have any to sell," said one farmer in discussing the high price. "The things that we have for sale are on the toboggan at the present time and we expect will go lower." As a result of all this he gave it as his opinion that farm wages must come down or else "we shall have to do without help we cannot afford to hire."

BROUGHT BACK IN SAME CAR HE ESCAPED IN

KINGSTON, Feb 8—A rather curious bit of irony of fate was in evidence when Hilton, the escaped convict, was met at the station here and brought back to the Portsmouth Penitentiary in the same car in which he made his getaway Joseph Hilton was arrested in Detroit by Inspector Walter Duncan of the Dominion Police.

"FROM HAND TO MOUTH"

By VICTOR REDCLIFFE

There was a peaceful, benevolent smile on the face of John Mayhew as he sat down in the waiting room of a large city depot until his suburban train was ready. The smile was habitual with him, generated by youthful association for years in his business life. Now, he had retired, young as he was, and it was declared that his happy, indulgent spirit was the outcome of conducting an establishment specializing in children's garments.

He had about everything that could conduce to comfort and luxury except a wife. In the race for money he had never had time to choose one. Just now as a young lady of peculiar grace and loveliness regarded him with mute inquiry, his encouraging return glance seemed to inspire her with confidence.

"Will you kindly keep an eye on my suitcase for a few moments?" she inquired timidly. "I have an errand to a store across the road."

"I shall be pleased," nodded Mayhew, and as she arose, followed her with his glance, noting that she was rather poorly dressed, but tracing in her bearing the attributes of a cultured lady. In an idle reverie he attempted to construct mentally the life history of the girl and studied the worn suitcase which suggested long use through the past.

Fifteen minutes went by, and Mayhew began to grow uneasy. His train was called, departed. A second one—an hour went by. His dilemma upset him, quite. What could have detained the young lady? Could there be some trick in leaving him to guard her luggage? He gingerly lifted the suitcase. Something jingled inside, suggesting mechanism. A bomb! Mayhew drew back suspiciously. The depot agent approached and spoke to him, first consulting a slip of paper in his hand and scanning Mayhew closely.

"Did a young lady leave some baggage in your charge about an hour ago?" inquired the station man.

"Why, yes," replied Mayhew, relievedly.

You are described in a telephone message received from a hospital. That must be the satchel referred to. It belongs to a Miss Ava Royston. She was run down by an automobile just outside. Not seriously hurt, but booked for a few days. She requests that the suitcase be sent to her."

"Run down by an automobile!" repeated Mayhew, quite shocked. "Wishes the suitcase? What hospital is it? I will take it to her at once."

A generous impulse moved him as his memory framed that interesting face and he felt censured at having suspected that he was the victim of a scheme.

Within the hour Mayhew was at the hospital. The physician in charge of Miss Royston relieved his anxiety with the statement that his patient was only slightly bruised.

"If you are a friend, you had better see her," he suggested. "The young lady is very much perturbed as to how she shall get word to her father without much alarming him."

Ava Royston reached out an eager hand to clasp that of Mayhew when she realized his thoughtfulness in her behalf. There were tears of gratitude in her lovely eyes.

"To think I left you there in the depot waiting all that time, and missing your train and coming way up here with my suitcase," she began, but Mayhew led the conversation at once to her home and relatives.

"You live at Norton," he said. "That is the next station to mine. Take no care on your mind, Miss Royston. I will see your father and will come here tomorrow, if I may, to see how you are getting along and to attend to any errands you may have left undone."

John Mayhew went to bed later that night feeling that he had done a good day's work. He had located the poor, humble home of the Roylstons, learning that the father was a struggling inventor, and that they had been living from hand to mouth for years. The old genius was engrossed in perfecting a new order of flying machine. Meantime, to keep the wolf from the door, he told Mayhew, he had devised a toy for children, a doll that would walk in quite a natural way. As he produced these his daughter would dress them and take them to the city to sell to the toy dealers. One of these constituted the contents of the suitcase.

When John Mayhew entered the hospital next morning a pleasant sight greeted him. Miss Royston was sitting up in a wheel chair at a table near the cots occupied by two little children. She was gratifying them to a degree of delirious joy as she started one of the walking dolls around the table. It was with the eye of a keen business man that Mayhew examined one of the dolls as to mechanism and selling ability.

Life had a new meaning for him the rest of that week. He saw utility, a value in the pretty toy, and amazed Richard Royston by offering him a goodly sum for control of the patent.

There was no living "hand to mouth" at the Royston home after that. And one day, after a long conversation with Ava, John Mayhew left her home with a happy heart. He had asked her to become his wife and told her to think over the proposal till the next day. There was no need for it. As he left her home, hand to mouth, the lovely Ava blew him a kiss, and he anticipated her formal reply later.

Bitter Leader of Bolshevism

WITH Maxim Litvinoff—assuming that to be his real name—we come down from the divinities to the heroes of Bolshevism. Litvinoff — a hundred per cent. Bolshevist every hour of the twenty-four, as one admirer puts it—has sacrificed more for the cause than anyone else in the way of arrest, the risking of his life in reckless escapades, the baiting of the bourgeoisie in its own strongholds, and in perilous propaganda. The personal aspect of Litvinoff, to say nothing of his vocabulary, is so extraordinary that he would draw a crowd anywhere and that fact makes him a good missionary. He has the misfortune to seem an extremist to his own circle—even to Radek, who once gently reproved Litvinoff, the Naples Avanti says, for being so far in advance of the main body of Bolshevism.

Litvinoff, although a Jew, champions the primitive communism of the early Christians in the days of the apostles. He beholds an enemy of society, the Frankfurter Zeitung fears, in any head that lifts itself even slightly above the level of the mob. His equality and his communism are passions and his oratory looks now and then like epileptic frenzy. He loves Bolshevism because there is nothing more extreme in fact, whatever may be said about theory. He does not live in the shadow, like Lenin. He affects no mystery, after the fashion of Trotzky. Nevertheless he is a lonely figure, whose one kindred spirit is the aristocrat Bucharin, another champion of primitive communism whom Lenin deprecates as too revolutionary for the times.

It would be too difficult now to determine whether his real name is Isaac Kinkelstein, as the Debats suspects, or Mordecai Strauss, as another legend has it. He seems to have been born some forty-five years ago at Bielostok, where his birth was registered as Meyer Vallakh, or Wallach. His father is said to have lived by peddling laces in the streets, by working as a journeyman tailor and by carrying bundles from the railway station when arriving travelers would let him. The little boy began to run barefoot through the streets as soon as he could use his feet. He grew up in an environment provided by a ghetto, and nobody knows, at least the French dailies do not, how he acquired his respectable linguistic accomplishments, his fluent style as a writer of pamphlets, and his ability to sew, to cook and to use tools as well as revolvers. His scholarship is said to have been derived from a rabbi in the Jewish quarter of his native town.

Litvinoff was not much past twenty when he found his place among the higher grades of the revolutionary world. Litvinoff, of course, had to fly and, like Lenin, like Zinovieff, like all the others, he went to Switzerland and thence to France.

With his ample supplies of funds, his buoyant hope for the future of the revolution and his fertility in devising conspiracies, Litvinoff, as he now definitely called himself, made a great hit among the comrades at Paris. That tendency to the flamboyant in costume, observes the Matin, which seems a manifestation of something Oriental in his nature, now asserted itself. He had yellow waistcoats and long rolled collars from which flowed the ends of a vivid red necktie. When he ate he thrust a huge silk handkerchief under his chin. His hats had enormous brims and his shoes took on strange hues like very dark green. He showed great fondness for the pastry at a certain famous but expensive restaurant and he wanted his champagne dry and very cold. His appetite was prodigious. He invited the hungriest comrades to dinner and he paid everybody's bill almost without looking at it.

During his period of exile in Paris, Litvinoff maintained an apartment at Berlin, where he carried on a correspondence with Lenin, then at his home in Moscow. Upon Litvinoff fell the duty of financing these stages of the revolution and his success was as brilliant, says the French newspaper, as it was mysterious. He made flying trips from Paris to Geneva and from Geneva to Berlin, scattering money among the exiled revolutionaries. His career was checked one day when he stepped off a train in Paris by the action of the police, who seized him at the Gare de l'Est. He had in his wallet hundreds of thousands of francs, the proceeds, it is charged, of a series of highway robberies and bank burglaries in places as far apart as Tiflis and Kieff.

Expelled from France, driven out of Germany, Litvinoff, his sources of income evidently dried up, took refuge in England. He was for some few years a clerk in a London bookseller's shop. He took pains at this period to perfect himself in the English language. He married the daughter of a distinguished English critic. However serious the allegations against his personal character, says the Debats, Litvinoff never forfeited his place among the Bolshevists of the inner circle. In the black night of revolution when Tchicherin wrings his hands and even Lenin thinks of packing his valise for Switzerland, Litvinoff seems inspired. It was he who planned the train robbery near Tiflis that set the cause upon its feet with funds from the czar's treasury when bankruptcy seemed inevitable.

The successes of Litvinoff are discounted by his fiascoes, of which the French newspapers make the most. His spectacular collapse was in the capacity of Soviet Ambassador to the Court of St. James', to which post Tchicherin duly appointed him.

Mothers! Keep Syrup Pepsin Handy

An absolute household necessity, a wonderful emergency remedy for constipation. Someone may need it any minute!

ALL in the family look to the mother for guidance and advice in the multitude of little disorders that arise almost daily. Chief of the minor ailments are those that precede or follow constipation. The experienced mother will tell this one to exercise more and that one to cut down on certain binding foods, but when these cautions fail she has to advise medicine.

Modern people are getting away from the notion that simple constipation, a headache, biliousness, colds, feverishness, indigestion, require a drastic, weakening drug. They take a teaspoonful or less of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, which is but a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin. The full formula is on every package. It is a mild, gentle remedy that does not gripe or weaken. The taste is syrupy and pleasant, and as it is free from narcotics and mercurials, mothers have for thirty years past felt safe in giving it to infants. A sixty-cent bottle will last a family months, and it is guaranteed to produce the results claimed or your money will be refunded.

You will find nothing better for disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels than this same Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin. Every member of the family can use it with safety and feel sure of results. Many thousands of families are never without a bottle in the house, and last year over eight million bottles were sold in drug stores, the largest sale of its kind in the world.

These believers in Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin no longer take calomel or castor oil, salt waters, physics or purgatives even if made into a sugar-coated pill, for they have learned that they can get better, safer and more agreeable results with Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin. If you will once bring a sixty-cent bottle into your home and take a teaspoonful the next time you feel constipated you will never thereafter be without it.

Try It FREE

There are heads of families who will want to prove to their own satisfaction that my Laxative Syrup Pepsin is as effective in constipation, as mild and gentle in action, as pleasant-tasting and safe as I claim. Let such write me for a free sample. It will be sent postpaid. Simply say "Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 19 Front Street, Bridgeburg, Ont.: Send a free trial bottle of your Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin to—" and give your name and address. I will see that the rest is attended to promptly.

EIGHT BANDITS ROB BANK OF $40,000

IMPRISON THREE EMPLOYES AND TWO DEPOSITORS IN VAULT AND ESCAPE.

READING, Pa., Feb. 8.—Leaving so many clues that officers were unable to follow all of them, eight men to-day robbed the People's Trust Company at Wyomissing, a fashionable suburb near here, of $40,000 in cash and securities and escaped. They scattered, some in automobiles and others in trains, it is believed. The robbery was carried out in a way that indicated several days of preparation. Before executing their crime they cut the bank's telephone and burglar alarm wires.

A week ago the Reading police were informed that Reading banks were being inspected preliminary to a robbery and all of the fifteen banks were warned. The gang that executed to-day's robbery arrived in Reading on Wednesday and looked over the field. It is believed all the banks were visited. The Wyomissing bank is situated in a big open space on the line between West Reading and Wyomissing boroughs, two miles from the centre of Reading, and has only a small force on duty at noon.

To-day at that time only three employes were on duty, L. P. Leibensperger and Charles Myler, tellers, Agnes Bredbenner bookkeeper. Glen Oliver and Frank Bingaman, depositors, were also in the bank.

Leaving one of their number outside in their auto, a Sedan stolen on Wednesday evening from R. H. Raudenbush, a contractor, seven of the bandits rushed into the bank, presented revolvers and ordered everybody to lie down on the floor. Glass partitions were smashed to avoid delay in getting inside the enclosure. The bandits then began scooping up all the money in sight and putting it into a big bag. Some of them compelled one of the tellers to unlock boxes in the vault and dump out their contents. Then the employes and depositors were locked in the vault, the robbers shutting the door and turning the bolt, but neglecting to set the combination or time lock.

Dr. John Livingood walked into the bank while the bandits were preparing to go. One ordered him to get out and another smashed his glasses, hitting him with the butt of a revolver and taking a twenty-dollar bill from his hand. Then they fled in their car.

Mrs. Mary D. Ridgway, a woman physician who was motoring past the bank, saw the bandits struggling with Dr. Livingood and took their car number, New York 195-596. The bandits pointed revolvers at her driver and compelled him to stop while they gathered speed. Mrs. Ridgway telephoned to the Reading police, and soon city and State police from Wyomissing were at the bank.

When the captives were released from the vault Miss Bredhenner, who had been knocked down by one of the bandits, was suffering from shock. She described all the men as being well dressed and young, wearing caps pulled down over their eyes.

The bandits' automobile was found abandoned at Church and Buttonwood streets, this city. Eight men, strangers, had bought tickets for the 12.20 Reading Railway train for Harrisburg. In the automobile were found envelopes each containing a $50 Liberty bond and eight caps, five with labels ripped out. The three remaining labels were marked Detroit, Chicago and Milwaukee.

GRAHAM BELL'S PIG RETURNED FROM GRAVE

Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, was a busy boy. His fertile brain was seeking expression long before short trousers were abandoned, and one of the outlets was the formation of a club among his boy friends which he dubbed "Society for the Promotion of the Fine Arts," and in which every member gravely called himself and all the others, "professor." Bell decided to elect himself to the chair of anatomy, and cared not at all that surgeory was not generally included in the fine arts. One the night the club met at his house he started the members by appearing in an apron, and with a long butcher knife in his hand. He explained he had secured the body of a small pig and intended to "dissect" it.

The boys, somewhat pale, gathered around the rigid corpse as Bell, drawing a long breath, placed the point against the pig's upturned stomach and pushed. The knife remained rigid for a moment, and then disappeared into the pig with a rush, while from the snout came a long, low moan. There was a mad rush for the door, and it was led by the anatomist. The society died that night. Investigation by older heads showed the noise was merely a release of air pent up in the animal's interior.

NEW YORKERS FLEE AS BON AIR BURNS

Many Lose Valuables in Blaze Which Destroys Augusta Winter Hotel.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Feb. 8.—The Bon Air, among the best known of Southern winter resort hotels, was destroyed by fire which broke out here, the structure being in ashes by 6 a.m. after burning two hours and a half. Only the servants' quarters were left standing.

Most of the 260 patrons were forced to leave the burning structure in scanty attire. Several who were caught on upper floors when the flames barred their exist were rescued by firemen. Many of the patrons threw their valuable possessions out of windows and recovered them later, but the greater part lost all their baggage. Among those who lost most of their personal effects were Judge Robert S. Lovett, president of the Southern Pacific Railroad, and Mrs. Lovett. None of the patrons was injured.

SAGE AND SULPHER DARKENS GRAY HAR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Restore Colour, Gloss and Attractiveness.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural colour and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked, or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, and attractive.

PROFESSOR C. A. CHANT LECTURES AT PETROLEA

PETROLEA, Feb. 7.— Professor C. A. Chant, of the University of Toronto delivered an interesting and popular, though learned, address to a well-filled house in Victoria Hall on Friday evening.It was the third of the series of University Extension lectures secured for Petrolea by the Chamber of Commerce. Lantern slides were used. At the close of the lectures an interesting exchange of opinions took place between the professor and Donald Smith, a farmer from Camlachie, who has made a lifelong study of astronomy and has himself delivered several addresses in this county on the subject. He had driven to Petrolea, a distance of fifteen miles, to learn from the professor still more of his favorite theme.

MOST UNIQUE CAMPAIGN IN PETERBOROUGH'S ELECTION ANNALS DRAWS TO A CLOSE

FEATURED BY UNPRECEDENTED BATTLES OF ORATORICAL ARTILLERY AND PUBLICITY SKIRMISHING, MOST UNIQUE LOCAL CAMPAIGN HAS CLOSED AND VERDICT RENDERED TO-NIGHT.

COMPLETE HISTORY OF THE BYE-ELECTION

The campaign which preceded today's polling was the most unique in the history of the constituency of West Peterborough and one of the most interesting ever staged in Canadian politics. Not only was it remarkable in the extraordinary fecundity of the nominations which resulted in five candidates entering the field but in that it was occasioned by a resignation on the ground that the government held no mandate from the people. As a result the government and the opposition parties threw every ounce of energy into the battle and the electorate witnessed a strenuous political tilt while it basked in the resultant publicity. Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen was right when he said that the eyes of all-Canada were turned on West Peterborough.

Peterborough has had the opportunity of getting a "close-up" of practically all the party leaders and notables and the list of speakers who have taken the stump here during the campaign reads like a political "Who's Who". Recognizing the power of the press the parties did not, however, depend upon the oratorical spell-binders to cary their messages to the electors and the campaign might well be termed a "battle of printer's ink." J. H. Burnham, the Independent Conservative candidate, held but one mass meeting, depending entirely upon the press to fight his campaign. The government and Liberals fought a particularly hard battle by means of publicity and were later joined by the National Progressives. The Labor Party, however, failed to follow suit.

The Origin of the By-Election

The by-election was occasioned by the resignation of J. H. Burnham Member of Parliament for West Peterborough in July last immediately after the resignation of Sir Robert Borden as head of the Union Government and the formation of the new National Liberal and Conservative Government under the leadership of the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen. Mr. Burnham declared that the new government held no mandate and characterized its formation as "buccaneering" and added that the new government had seized a government and two political parties. The Dominion Elections Act provides that six months may elapse between the vacating of a seat and the issuance of the writ for the by-election and in Peterborough's case this was taken full advantage of, the writ coming as a Christmas present to the riding.

Immediately the writ was issued political activity developed, the various parties began conferring, and the rusty party machines which had been scrapped for three years were resurrected, ovehauled and oiled up for the campaign. The farmers had already entered the field by nominating J. S. Campbell of South Monaghan as their candidate at a convention held in the latter part of August. The government supporters called a convention on January 5, and nominated Roland Denne. The following night the Labor Party followed suit and entered Thomas J. McMurray. J. H. Burnham attempted to obtain a nomination from the Conservatives but the West Peterborough Liberal-Conservative association politely turned Mr. Burnham down by publicly calling upon its members to support Mr. Denne. Whereupon Mr. Burnham threatened to issue a writ of mandamus against them to force them to nominate a condidate. The writ, however, did not materialize and Mr. Burnham entered the race as an Independent Conservative. The Liberals were at first doubtful as to whether to enter the tournament but at a meeting held on January 8 enthusiastically decided to tilt a lance and the Liberal convention on the following Wednesday chose G. N. Gordon as the Liberal standard bearer.

The First Gun Fired.

The oratorical thunder was loosed on Monday, January 10 by the government when a mass meeting was held in the Grand Opera House addressed by Premier Meighen and Hon. Hugh Guthrie. The crowds necessitated holding an overflow meeting in Victoria Hall. The Premier nailed the flag of protection to the mast and declared that protection was the issue of the campaign. The major part of his address was devoted to arguments for protection. He defied Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal Leader, or any of his supporters to stand definitely on the tariff. Hon. Mr. Guthrie declared that the government did hold a mandate to power and denied that Sir Robert Borden or any of his supporters to his knowledge had promised or even intimated that the government would resign at the end of the war. Mr. Guthrie amused his audience when replying to an attack made upon him by G. N. Gordon in which he was characterized as a "political renegade," he stated that he would rather be a political renegade than a Liberal like Mr. Gordon. He traced British and Canadian political history in an attempt to prove that there were many similar instances of a government taking power and devoted much of his speech to a justification of the origin of the administration.

Henceforth activity rapidly developed and the campaign was carried into rural districts where political meetings were held almost nightly with botht local talent and imported spell-binders performing.

Second Battery into Action

The second battery of heavy artillery was called into service by the government on January 21 when another large mass meeting was held in the Grand Opera House. The meeting was addressed by Sir George Foster Minister of Trade and Commerce, Lt.-Col. ("Trooper") Mulloy, and F. S. Scott, M.P., South Waterloo. Sir George's power as an orator was as marked as on his last appearance here in 1917. He asked support for the government on the ground that it combined conservatism and liberalism and followed the Premier in standing chiefly on the issue of protection. Like Mr. Guthrie he quoted history to show that the origin of the present government had many recognized precedents. Lt.-Col. Mulloy declared that he was not a politician but a political economist and proceeded to show why the tariff was a necessity. Mr. Scott also based his plea on the tariff.

Liberal Thunder Loosed

The following day, Saturday, Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Leader of the Liberal Party, and Ernest Lapointe, M.P., Quebec East, addressed three meetings, introduced by a bit of stageplay featuring a street parade led by a band. A meeting for visitors to the city was held in the G.W.V.A. Hall in the afternoon and in the evening a mass meeting was held in the Opera House with an overflow meeting in the G.W.V.A. Hall. Over 3,000 people heard the Liberal speakers. Hon. Mr. King denied that the tariff was an issue. He argued that since the government still held a working majority in the House of Commons it could do as it pleased with the tariff despite the verdict of West Peterborough. The real issue, declared the Liberal Leader, was the right of the people to govern themselves. They had not had an opportunity to vote on domestic questions in ten years and a general election was justified. He promised that should the Liberals come into power through the defeat of the government on a vote of confidence in the House they would first go to the people. Mr. Lapointe and Mr. Gordon took the same stand as their leader and called upon all progressive elements to rally about the Liberal banner and thus ensure the election of an opposition candidate.

Progressives Enter the City

On January 28 the National Progressive party opened its campaign with a big meeting in the Opera House, addressed by R. W. E. Burnaby, President of the U. F. O., Miss Pearl Petrie, of Otonabee, Rev. E. E. Watson, M.P., and the candidate, J. C. Campbell. All assailed the old parties on the ground that they were either striving to hold onto power or gain it. Various governmental reforms and prohibition were advocated and a low tariff with necessities on the free list favored. No drastic interference with the tariff was promised for five years.

The Tariff Again

The following night Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance, H. M. Mowat, M.P., Toronto, and H. H. Stevens, M.P., Vancouver, addressed a mass meeting in the government interests in the Opera House. The tariff was again described as the only issue and Sir Henry presented the revenue side of the case.

Labor Machine Running

In the meantime the Labor party had its campaign under way and a number of meetings were held in the G.W.V.A. Hall. At the first of these John Bruce, labor leader, and Mrs Singer, of Toronto, spoke. The methods and aims of the old parties were attacked and a plea was made for labor to elect a man to look after its own interests. Moderate protection was favored. Later meetings were addressed by the Provincial Labor Leader, A. Halcrow, M.P.P., W. F. O'Connor, K.C., and Mr. Homouth, M.P.P.

"The Man of Mystery"

The feature was the support Mr. O'Connor gave to Labor. He had from the first been the "man of mystery" in the campaign. Keeping the electors in suspense by his vacillation as to the possibility of his entering the arena he at last decided not to become a candidate. He had stated that his purpose was to bring his tariff policy which favored a high tariff reciprocity by which the Canadian tariff would be kept on a parity with that of the United States, before the people and test it. On deciding to keep out of the race he announced his intention of supporting the Labor candidate. Whereupon the Liberal Publicity Committee charged him with being the real Lead of the government organization and alleged that his purpose in supporting labor was to swing votes from the Liberal candidate. Mr. O'Connor made no direct reply to the charges but stated that though he was a personal friend of Hon. Arthur Meighen and would like to support his government the government would not have him for a supporter.

On February 2 the last heavy guns were called into action in the city. The Liberals brought in Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance in the Laurier Cabinet, and Hon. Charles Murphy, Secretary of State under Laurier. Mr. Burnham held his only meeting the same night in Victoria Hall, running opposition to the big Liberal gathering a block distant, and both meetings were filled to the doors.

Veteran Liberals Enter Fight

The veteran Liberal statemen scathingly arraigned the Meighen government and Mr. Gordon accepted the challenge of the Government publicity committee to definitely state his stand on the tariff. He declared that he favored an "untaxed dinner table" and a low tariff on agricultural implements in order to lower the cost of living but that otherwise he stood for a moderate tariff which would keep the wheels of industry turning. Hon. Mr. Fielding, despite the fact that it was his first appearance on a political platform in some time, roused his audience to enthusiasm. He cited a long list of men who had resigned because they believed the government's mandate was at an end and stated that the tariff was not an issue as the government by sending the Tariff Commission through the country to test public opinion on that subject had shown that it was undecided in its tariff policy. He declared that since Premier Meighen claimed that the genesis of his government was in the Borden government this administration must answer for its predecessor's sins and proceeded to arraign the previous administration. Hon. Mr. Murphy followed much the same line as Mr. Fielding and made a plea for all progressive forces to unite.

Mr. Burnham's Only Meeting

Mr. Burnham at his mteing reiterated that the right of the people to govern themselves was the sole issue. He assailed the "sinister origin of the Meighen government and traced the history of recent Canadian politics to prove this. He promsied that if he were elected his first offical act would be to introduce a resolution in the House of Commons demanding an immediate general election. He also assailed the government on the clause in the act providing for the absorption of the Grand Trunk Railway by the government system which, according to him, bound the hands of the arbitrators. He, like the Liberal orators, farther down the street enumerated the men who had resigned from the government because they believed that it had no mandate to power. Both meetings were marked by an exchange of compliments Hon. Mr. Fielding speaking highly of Mr. Burnham and Mr. Burnham referring to Mr. Fielding as a strong "patriot and statesman."

The Agrarian Campaign

The campaign in the rural districts was particularly strenuous. The National Progressives toured the riding with J. J. Morrison, Secretary of the U.F.O., A. A. Powers president of the U.F.O. Co-Operative Stores, and others of their leaders. The government brought Hon. Dr. F. S. Tolmie, Minister of Agriculture, here for a three-days' journey through the highways and by-ways and a number of lesser lights. The Liberals closed their campaign in the country by bringing back Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, who with Hon. Charles Murphy, spent the closing days of the campaign addressing two meetings a day in the little red school houses. Labor brought in its leaders and also conducted a vigorous stumping tour of agarin West Peterborough.

To-night will produce the verdict of the electors but any attempt at forecasting that verdict is useless. The vote will be split along lines widely divergent from those of previous elections here due to the fact that there are five candidates in the field, some of them standing on almost identical platforms and four of them concentrating their efforts on defeating the fifth.

Alberta Legislature will convene February 15.

THIEVES SET UP SILK MILL.

Rob Scranton Plants of $250,000 in Machinery and Materials.

SCRANTON, Pa., Feb. 8.—Efforts are being made to round up a number of men, most of them at one time employes of the Derry Silk Company, who are said to have taken a sufficient amount of machinery from nine plants operated by the company in this section to allow them to equip a complete mill in an old factory building on Capouse avenue.

The thieves also carried away a large amount of raw silk from the Derby plant. The value of the goods stolen is placed at $250,000.

The plant in the Capouse avenue building, set up with machinery alleged to have been stolen from the Derby plant, was virtually ready for operation.

The Dread Pyorrhea Begins With Bleeding Gums

Pyorrhea's infecting germs cause many ills. Medical science has proven this.

Diseased conditions, which not long ago doctors were unable to trace to a cause, are now known often to be the result of Pyorrhea germs that breed in pockets about the teeth. Rheumatism, anaemia, nervous disorders and other diseases have been traced in many cases to this Pyorrhea infection.

Don't let Pyorrhea work its wicked will on your body. Visit your dentist frequently for tooth and gum inspection.

And watch your gums yourself. Pyorrhea, which afflicts four out of five people over forty, begins with tender and bleeding gums; then the gums recede, the teeth decay, loosen and fall out, or must be extracted to rid the system of poisons generated at their base.

Forhan's For the Gums will prevent Pyorrhea—or check its progress, if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's keeps the gums hard and healthy—the teeth white and clean. Start using it today. If gum-shrinkage has already set in, use Forhan's according to directions and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

STUDENTS GIVE BLOOD TO ANAEMIC PATIENT.

LONDON, Feb. 7.—Ten students at the Western University Medical School offered to submit to a transfusion of their blood to that of a patient at Victoria Hospital.

The patient is without friends or relatives and is suffering from anaemia. His physician stated the circumstances before a class of medical students at the university and appealed to any who might desire to help to announce their intentions. Ten immediately responded, and their blood tests are being taken.

A Grateful Mother Speaks in Favor of Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets

Mrs. C. E. Earl, Toronto, says:

I am pleased to inform you that our boy, Eddie, has been completely cured of Bladder Trouble through using Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets. He is now 14 years old and has not been able to retain his urine which caused us a great deal of worry and trouble. We tried different doctors and medicines but never received any help until your agent called and advised us to try your Tablets. After treating with them for a few weeks they have completely cured him. I would advise mothers who have children afflicted in this way to give them a trial. I will consider it a pleasure to explain his case more fully on request.

Should you or any of your children be afflicted in a similar way we are confident they would produce similar results. Don't fail to give them a trial—for sale at WARNE'S DRUG STORE, Peterborough. Price 25c, 50c and $1 per box.

THE FIRST ELECTION WITH MORE THAN 2 CANDIDATES HERE SINCE CONFEDERATION

PREVIOUS CONTESTS SAW A BITTERNESS OF FEELING NOT APPROACHED BY PRESENT-DAY ELECTIONS—COMPLETE HISTORY OF ELECTIONS HERE SINCE CONFEDERATION.

FIRST PUBLISHED REVIEW OF LOCAL POLITICS

(By F. H. Dobbin)

The unique position in which the West Riding of Peterborough finds itself in the present political complication is without precedent or anything like it, in the activities of any Dominion campaign since the initial contest following Confederation. The first Parliament opened in November, 1867, with the Conservatives in power. Dissolved on July 8th, 1872. In all there has been thirteen contests in the Riding, including the contest of 1917.

It may be of interest to recall the several contests, with any incident that marked the occasion, and being not so far removed from the days of open voting, there were many. The present election is the first time in which more than two candidates go to the polls. Third and fourth men, if such cropped up, were switched or pursuaded to give up the ambition to participate. It was the day of personal patronage, in the early contests, and offers of positions and reward silenced endeavor. Party feeling ran high. Candidates and their friends were reckless as to the statements and influences. The press teemed with assertions some of which were absolutely libellous. Flysheets and hand bills spread information that was a corker to read and had no doubt some effect in the line indicated to belittle the other fellow and beat him out at the poll.

The complexion of the political field has altered mightily. The registered vote is an uncertain element. The vote of the women, now to be felt for the second time clouds all prophecy. And with the five candidates in the field there was little to snub to. It was a case of Hobson's choice. The bttting was debilitated. Too blamed uncertain.

Those who wish to keep the record of political contests might clip this article from the paper and preserve it. It is the first time that the facts, in successive order, local facts, have been given to the public.

1867. Nominations, Aug. 26. Polling, two days, September 2nd and 3rd. Candidates, Charles Perry, Cons., John Gordon, Ref. Majority for Perry, 30. The poll, Perry, 682, Gordon, 652. It will be seen that the whole voting strength of the Riding, as brought to the polls was only 1334. As the contests come on in future years, the development of the vote is illustrated by the figures.

1872. Nominations Aug. 10. Polling Aug. 29th. Not a long interval. Candidates, William Cluxton, Cons., John Bertram, Ref. The result a majority of 40 for Bertram. But there were mistakes made in the good old days, just as that which ensued last week over the mis-addressed cheque of one candidate now before the electorate. The returning officer, acting on legal advice, afterward declared Mr. Cluxton elected, Mr. Bertram having failed to comply with the demand made on him at the time of his nomination for his qualification paper.

1874. Nomination Dec. 3. Polling, Jan. 5. Candidates, W. H. Scott, Cons., and John Bertram, Ref. Bertram elected by a majority of 92. This contest developed about as much bitterness as was well for any constituency to have about the place at one time. The campaign was short, active and ferocious.

1878. Nomination Sept.-10. Polling Sept. 17. Candidates, George Hilliard, Cons., John Bertram, Ref. Hilliard's majority, 197. The poll, Hilliard, 1071, Bertram, 874. This election returned to power Sir John A. Macdonald and the Protection Policy had its birth and came into operation. Known as "The N.P."

1882. Nomination, June 13. Polling, June 20. Candidates, George Hilliard, Cons., John J. Lundy, Ref. Sheriff Hall, Ret. officer. Majority for Hilliard, 158. The poll, Hilliard, 1035. Lundy, 877.

1887. Nomination, Feb. 15. Polling, Feb. 22. Candidates, James Stevenson, Cont., George A. Cox, Ref. Majority for Stevenson, 22. The Poll, Stevenson's majorities, 196. Cox's majorities 174. This election was, probably, the most acrimonious and virile of any of the contests. Every effort and subterfuge was tried out to win. Tales of the using of money were rife and it is generally admitted that the contest cost each of the candidates over $25,000.00. All that organization could do was done. Help was lavishly rewarded. No stone left unturned to beat out the other fellow. It was many years before the riding fully recovered its equanimity.

But the reformers were not satisfied with the result, and claimed a re-count. This was held on March 31st, before the County Judge. Seven votes were lost to Stevenson as the result. The re-count gives the votes as cast and summed up, as follows: Stevenson, 1280. Cox, 1264. Majority for Stevenson, 16. A curious feature developed during the scrutiny of the ballots. One was found written across the back, "Geo. Webber." Similar to the endorsement on a cheque or note. This ballot was counted out.

1891. Nominations, Feb. 26. Polling, March 5. Sheriff Hall, Returning Officer. Candidates, James Stevenson, Cons., Richard Hall, Ref. Stevenson's majority, 235. The poll, Stevenson, 1447, Hall, 1215.

1896. Nominations, June 16. Polling, June 23. R. A. Morrow, Returning Officer. Candidates, James Kendrey, Cons. Richard Hall, Ref. Robert Newman, Ind. (McCarthyite). Kendrey's majority, 319. The poll, Kenry, 1485, Hall, 1166, Newman, 622. This contest was the first and only three-cornered fight that happened in the constituency. Conditions and influences outside the straight party tickets were introduced, and accounted for the third candidate.

1900. Nominations, Oct. 31. Polling, Nov. 7. Sheriff Hall, returning Officer. Candidates, James Kendry, Lib.-Cons. J. H. McClellan, Ref. Kendry's majority, 351. The poll, Kendry, 1750. McClellan, 1399.

1904. Nominations, Oct. 28. Polling Nov. 3. Sheriff Hall, Returning Officer. Candidates James Kendry, Lib.-Cons., R. R. Hall, Ref. Hall's majority, 187. The poll, Hall, 2467. Kendry, 2280.

1908. Nominations, Oct. 18. Polling, Oct. 26. Sheriff Hall, Returning Officer. Candidates, J. R. Stratton, Ref., J. H. Burnham, Lib.-Cons. Stratton's majority, 333. The poll, Stratton, 2851. Burnham, 2518.

1911. Nominations, Sept. 14. Polling, Sept. 21. Sheriff Hall, Returning Officer. Candidates, J. H. Burnham, Lib.-Cons. J. R. Stratton, Ref. Burnham's majority, 42. The poll, Burnham, 2944. Stratton, 2902.

1917. Nominations, Dec. 10. Polling Dec. 17. Candidates, J. H. Burnham, (Lib.-Cons.) Union. R. R. Hall, Ref. Burnham's majority, 2850. The poll, Burnham, 5221, Hall, 2971.

"RED" ORGAN SAYS SOVIET CALL NEGOTIATIONS OFF

LONDON, Feb. 7.—The Moscow newspaper Investia, official organ of the Soviet, is quoted in an Exchange Telegraph despatch from Berlin today as stating that the Anglo-Russian trade negotiations have been broken off. The break, it is declared, was over Great Britain's demands that the Soviet Government should carry on no propaganda in Persia or Afghanistan. The newspaper is quoted as adding that Russia's acceptance of these demands would be equivalent to recognition of British sphere of influence in these countries.

JUDGE ALLOWS MAJOR TO WHEEL HIM IN A PERAMBULATOR

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Major "Cyclone" Harry C. Miller will be a very frequent visitor at the home of his wife, Mrs. Edna Grace Miller, at Richmond Hill, if he takes advantage of all the privileges that were granted to him in an order handed down here by Justice Faber in the Queens County Supreme Court. A little over a week ago the Major won a decision from Justice Faber in the action for a separation brought against him by his wife after she had discovered letters written to her husband by Maude Bigg, daughter of Major Sir Thomas Bigg, of England, whom the Major met in France. Justice Faber allowed Mrs. Miller to keep the letters.

Then Major Miller applied for permission for Leonard E. Miller, their son, two and a half years old, to spend half his time with him and half with Mrs. Miller. This is the child whom Mrs. Miller said her husband called a "red head" when he saw him the first time on his return from France. The Major testified that he was so happy when he received the news of his birth in France that he let the whole camp know about it, that he was given a reception, and that after that he won the name of "Happy Old Man."

In the decision handed down yesterday Justice Faber decided that Major Miller could have the custody of his son every Saturday from 3 to 5 o'clock; every Sunday from 9 to 10 o'clock and every holiday from 9 to 12 o'clock, and that he could take the child out in a perambulator on days when the weather was suitable. For the privilege of seeing his son, Major Miller is required to pay his wife $10 a week for his maintenance. The Major said that he would avail himself of all the privileges granted by the court and he will give his son a good time.

IMPROVEMENT IN THE MOTOR INDUSTRY

OSHAWA, Feb. 8.—Improvement in the automobile industry in Oshawa still continues, with the result that quite a number of men who were laid off a few months ago are back at work in the various works. Every married man who was laid off is now employed again, the General Motors adhering to the splendid policy of taking baack their former employees first as business improves.

In the Oldsmobile plant there is increased activity so that the plant is again running about normal. This is due to the popularity and fine reception given by the buying public to the new four-cylinder Oldsmobile car recently placed upon the market.

FRENCH JUDGES HINT MORE PAY

POLITELY SUGGEST THEY SHOULD AT LEAST GET EQUIVALENT OF TELEGRAPHERS' SALARIES.

(Associated Press.)

PARIS, Feb. 8.—Judges of many of the French Courts, including some of the higher tribunals, are hinting that they would like to have their pay raised at least to the equivalent of telegraph operators, warehouse watchmen, and junior army officers. Their friends point out that the salaries of many of the magistrates are less than those of even ordinarily skilled workmen.

The newspapers have taken up the campaign in their behalf, and are urging that they be granted allowances to enable them to live at least decently. Some of the judges have told publicly that their colleagues without private incomes have to sell their personal property accumulated in better days or do clerical work at home to eke out a living.

French judges are paid from 500 francs a month (now tuivalent to about $35.00) up to 812 francs (now equivalent to about $58.00) for the presiding judge of the higher tribunals.

UNDER INDICTMENT FOR KILLING ELEVEN

HENRI DESIRE LANDRU GETS ANOTHER POSTPONEMENT OF TRIAL.

(Associated Press).

PARIS, Feb. 8. — Henri Desire Landru, under indictment charged with the murder of eleven women to whom at various times he had promised marriage, and whose trial before the French Assizes had been set for 1st March, has succeeded in obtaining another postponement of his trial. Landru has been in jail for two years, and recently was sentenced to five years in jail and subsequent deportation for swindling.

Under French law, a man accused of crime has the right to take cognisance of the dossier in his case before facing the jury. He may make a fight upon the legality of any of the documents being submitted to the jury.

The dossier in Landru's case includes 7,000 documents, all of which have to be copied, as the Public Prosecutor does not trust the originals in the hands of the accused. The work of copying the documents will occupy more than a month.

Landru has informed the Court that he will require several weeks in which to study the documents, as he intends to challenge all of them as irrelevant.

Landru caused considerable worry and annoyance to Judge Bonin while the latter was investigating the case, and now that it has been turned over to the Prosecutor of the Republic, he has adopted the same tactics.

To one of the assistants of the Prosecutor who approached him with procrastination saying that French justice has other things to look after than the Landru case, the alleged Gambais Bluebeard replied:

"Then why don't you let me go. I am perfectly willing." Then he added: "How I miss Judge Bonin. At least, he was a gentleman."

A HOME-MADE GRAY HAIR REMEDY

You Can Make a Better Gray Hair Remedy Than You Can Buy.

Gray, streaked or faded hair is not only unbecoming, but unnecessary.

Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Orlex Compound and 1-4 ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost, or the druggist will put it up for you. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It is easy to use, does not colour the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

FREAK ACTION OF WIND IN MAKING SNOWBALS.

(Associated Press)

AVON, N.Y., Feb. 8.—When Peter Finigin went out to do the chores one morning recently he was mystied by the sight of a large number of huge snowballs scattered over his farm. On the 20-acre field there were hundreds of them ranging in size from 6 to 18 inches in diameter. Leading up to each snowball was a streak of bare ground showing the distance it had travelled in forming.

Mr. Finigin and neighbours who gathered to study the odd spectacle, decided that the wind, which had blown a gale the night before, had whipped up small particles of "good packing" snow and started them down the field, some of the particles gathering up additional snow until balls had been formed that were too heavy for the wind to move further. All the paths of the snowballs were in the same general direction that the wind had been blowing.

To record the unusual freak of the wind and snow, Mr. Finigin sent for the correspondent of a Buffalo newspaper, who counted more than 1,000 snowballs of more than 10 inches in diameter.

BARTER BETWEEN BRITISH AND DANISH BUSINESS MEN.

(Associated Press.)

LONDON, Feb. 8.—An attempt is being made to establish a system of barter, or exchange of goods, between British and Danish business concerns, so as to eliminate the difficulties arising from the uncertainties of exchange rates.

At the invitation of the Danish Minister of Commerce, a party of British business men, headed by Sir Charles Sykes, a member of Parliament, has gone to Copenhagen to inaugurate the proposed barter.

Sir Charles, who is a prominent figure in the Yorkshire woollen trade, and was Wool Controller during the war, has advocated the bartering system as the best possible solution of the present industrial troubles in this country.

CHINESE WOMEN STILL DOCILE

None of the fever of the Occident yet fires the blood of the women of China, where life still rolls sleepily over their heads.

If they have problems and the vague discontent of the modern woman, no hint of these things is seen through their almond-eyed impassivity.

Their daily routine is reduced to simple fractions. To her man the Chinese woman shows the fidelity of a dog to its master She is proud to raise a large family. She drifts with the tide—never questioning always accepting. She has no servant troubles to worry about no divorce suits, no nerves. Simple acquiescence to the age old order of things as they are is the basic principle of her existence.

Or so it seems to Elsie Ferguson, who is Mrs. Thomas B Clarke Jr. off the stage. She has just returned from a tour of the world. The Chinese women and their strange attitude toward life interested the actress of the stage and the films more than anything she encountered in her travels.

"It takes some time for you to absorb this atmosphere of peace", said Miss Ferguson. "At first you are absolutely bewildered by the noise in the streets and the harsh shrill voices But when you break through the crust you come upon a strange compound of intelligence and placidity. The Chinese really have happy natures. While there is no visible animation about them, there is a great deal of quiet enjoyment and a moderate appreciation of their own ability.

High Intelligence.

"The intelligence of the women is very high. If they could get on a communicatory basis they would be a match for the cleverest of our women Of course, this is only true of the educated classes. The vast majority are household drudges and veritable beasts of burden.

"One sees appalling sights around Peking and Canton. The country would have to be developed greatly before its women as a whole come to realize that they were slaves. They work in the fields. They help to coal ships and even to put up buildings. There is a coolie class that carries huge loads as readily as men With raucous voices they shout epithets at one another and they seem to have certain characteristics of the women of every race, for they are quite ready to scratch and pull each other's hair."

The women of China are also feminine enough to change their fashions once in a decade or so, according to Miss Ferguson. It does not happen often, but when it does there is a mild flutter within the quiet home and mother and all the young debs get in the running as quickly as possible. The more advanced are trying to ape European women now and it is no unusual thing to see their strange little feet in French slippers with high heels. Their walk still shows evidence of the long centuries of bound feet. They progress in an abrupt, stilted fashion and their feet are inordinately small.

A Monotonous Aspect.

"A crowd of Chinese women presents a monotonous aspect" declared Miss Ferguson. "They all look alike and as if they were dressed in uniform. There is an utter absence of color about their costume and the only hint of coquetry is a blossom or pearl stuck artlessly in their hair. This is a pretty custom that has its advantages over our variegated headgear.

Their jewellery is distinctively their own They wear jade principally and a great deal of gold. They are as much addicted to diamonds as are U. S. women, and one frequently sees a pretty Chinese girl with barbaric jade ornaments in her ears and the conventional diamond blazing in her finger.

"The flowing robe they used to wear his given place to a tight little jacket very much like the old-fashioned basque It is slit down the side and has a high collar. There is no embroidery or any hint of color to liven up the dull black material. The sternest censor of dress would delight in the excessive modesty of the Chinese costume No bare backs in the evening, but a repetition of the tight, quaint affair that is worn through the day!"

Men may have two or three wives and as many concubines as they like, but it is a very serious offence for a woman to be unfaithful. The practice of throwing girl babies into the water when born is gradually dying out she said. There are still convents along the river banks, however, where the nuns watch for stray babies floating down and save them ever possible Chinese fathers are extremely tender and affectionate with their children and it is no uncommon sight to see them playing with their youngsters around chairs and tables in the street.

Taking up Law and Medicine

"Women are going into the professions to some extent," said Miss Ferguson. "They are taking up law and medicine—more especially those who have completed their education in the United States. The sciences are claiming a few feminine recruits but the business world is curiously devoid of women. It is still considered a rather radical step for a woman to go out into the world and make a living in her own account."

WORKERS WOULD PAY TO KEEP TIN MINES GOING.

REDRUCH, Cornwall, Eng., Feb. 8.—Workers at the Tincroft Mines have offered to contribute $1,000.00 a month to keep the tin mines there in operation. This action has been taken because the industry is suffering from depression consequent on the fall in the price of tin. The workers in a resolution sent to the directors, express gratitude for keeping the mines going, and promise to do their utmost to increase production.

WHAT EVERY WOMAN OUGHT TO KNOW

THAT DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS MAKE HEALTHY KIDNEYS.

And that healthy Kidneys by straining the impurities out of the blood make for good health all over the body.

Carmichael, Sask., Feb. 7th.—(Special.)—Miss Hazel Mace, a well-known and highly respected resident here is numbered among the many friends Dodd's Kidney Pills have made on the Prairies.

'I have found Dodd's Kidney Pills the best I ever used," she stated, "I woud not use any other kind.

"Yes, you may publish what I say," she concluded. "I only wish it will help other sufferers."

Thousands of women, not only on the Prairies, but all over Canada look on Dodd's Kidney Pills as a friend in need. They are purely a Kidney remedy. By toning up the Kidneys to do their full work of straining the impurities out of the blood they strike right at the root of the disease.

Pure blood coursing through the veins speedily relieves that weariness and weakness so many women know. It brings in their place a health that is the foundation of happiness.

Healthy Kidieys are an absolute necessity if the body is to be healthy. If you haven't used Dodd's Kidney Pills for any kind of Kidney trouble ask your neighbors about them.

WILL NOW VACCINATE DOGS AGAINST RABIES.

(Associated Press.)

PARIS, Feb. 8. — Vaccination of dogs against rabies is to be tested on a large scale by scientists working under the direction of the Society of Practical Veterinary Medicine. It is claimed that in isolated cases dogs have been rendered immune from the disease for two or three years with a serum already developed.

Professor Vallee, in charge of the experiment work, will seek to lengthen the period of immunity and to develop the vaccination into a practical method. Experiments also will be made with the anti-rabies serum of the Pasteur Institute to determine if it can be used for prevention as well as cure.

Voice Of The People

A VALEDICTORY.

Now, that the smoke of battle has cleared away, we wish to thank the readers of this paper for the expressions of appreciation which have come to us daily on the manner in which the Publicity end of Mr. G. N. Gordon's campaign has been conducted.

From the first we decided that as far as we were concerned no attempt at muckraking would be countenanced and that no personal diatribes would be indulged in. We pinned our faith on a straight appeal to a liberty-loving people upon the issue of responsible government, believing that once the public realized fully the infamous usurpation of their rights at Ottawa there would be a pronounced verdict in favour of our cause. The results fully vindicated our position.

It is also a matter of gratification to us that the people of West Peterboro so heartily endorsed the man who was destined to carry the Liberal banner to such glorious victory. We felt that he was "the right man, fighting the right cause, in the right way."

There can be no doubt that this by-election will go down in the history of this Dominion as one of the milestones in the development of constitutional government. The day of government by orders-in-council is past. The people of this country demand that any party in power shall truly represent the majority of the electors, and that legisaltion shall be the expression of the will of the People.

Liberal Publicity Committee.

AVIATION FIRM PLANS SERVICE

EXPECT TO MAKE TRIPS ACROSS THE ATLANTIC.

(Special to The Examiner by Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service).

LONDON, Feb. 8.—A well-known aviation firm is planning the establishment of a regular air service across the Atlantic Ocean to America by the summer of 1922.

Trial trips and all preliminary experimental work will be completed this summer. The operation of the two dirigibles bought by the United States Government on this side, and which are to be flown to America—one from England and one from Italy—is expected to do much to tell just how practicable the plans are.

It is now planned to have the European air terminal near Lisbon, to which point English passengers would be taken by airplane.

Weather reports indicate that aerial conditions favour a trans-Atlantic passage mre than 30 days out of the year.

YOUNG MAN TRIED TO CASH A BOGUS CHEQUE

WOODSTOCK, Feb. 8.—Fred Annol, a local young man, walked into a Woodstock bank and presented a cheque for $9.00 purported to be signed by F. W. Smith, this city. A comparison of signatures aroused the suspicion of the teller and the cheque was found to be bogus. The police immediately took the offender in charge, and he was remanded for a week. Annol is a home boy who has lived in Woodstock for some time.

The CRESSMAN Company Limited

HUGE DEMONSTRATION GREETED CANDIDATE

ing to the enthusiastic greeting. In spite of some unfavorable features of the election, the people of Peterboro had decided and declared for responsible government. It was not that they had elected the man, G. N. Gordon, but that they had exercised part of the machinery of responsible government. The people had shown conclusively that they would not permit this Government to take power without their consent.

The member-elect reviewed some of the features of the campaign, and remarked that the Quaker Oats Company had done all they could to allow the Liberals to get any votes they could in that factory.

"They were not quarreling with us," said Mr. Gordon. "And they manufacture their goods for export to free trade England, where the Quaker Oats Company competes against the world. You have been told that the Quaker Oats factory would shut down if I were elected. I believe that they will go along better than ever now."

"The result of this election has been no personal tribute to me. It has been the voice of the people demanding that they shall govern themselves. And it has been said that the voice the people is the voice of God. To-night they have punished the Meighen Government for cheating the people and for failing to go to the people as they promised to do.

"I wish to say that I am a Peterboro first man. I came as a boy here and now I am reaching middle age. You have known me all these years, and especially for my interest in good civic government. I want to make a promise to you in solemn covenant. I shall respect and guard to the best of my ability, and on all occasions, the sacred rights of the people, and on all occasions protect those who need it most—the common people from whom I sprang, and of whom I am a member. My efforts shall be directed to making this a greater Peterboro. I want you to come to me with any suggestions in order that I may be of service to you. I appeal to you for your cooperation. You have entrusted your talents to me, and I shall return them well kept. I want to serve you so that at the end of my term you will say 'Gordon has been faithful and true to his promises.'"

In conclusion Mr. Gordon thanked all who had supported him throughout the campaign. He particularly mentioned the ladies who had worked all yesterday from six o'clock in the morning until six in the evening giving their whole-hearted assistance that the Liberal cause might prevail and that the Liberal candidate be elected.

Mr. Hartley a Prophet.

John J. Hartley, president of the Liberal Party in the riding, was as gratified as any one in the whole audience. He had predicted on the same stage, he said, that Mr. Gordon would be elected if the Liberals threw their support behind him. Yesterday they had rolled up one of the greatest victories in the Dominion of Canada. All eyes in the Dominion had been on this election, and the Liberals had won. The Government had fancied that the Liberals couldn't win but they possessed in Mr. Gordon a promising young Canadian who was already one of the strongest in Canada.

"As a life-long Liberal and a believer in Liberal principles I am glad to be with you to-night to celebrate the election of our candidate, Mr. G. N. Gordon, as the member for West Peterboro,' said F. D. Kerr, and the crowd cheered as he touched its responsive chord. He said he had been impressed by Mr. Gordon's declaration during the campaign that he would have special consideration for the working man. "A lawyer is in a better position than any man except the laboring man himself to grasp and understand the necessity of legislation which will be in the interest of the entire community.

"I believe Mr. Gordon will be an energetic member. His election shows that the people are behind Mackenzie King in trying to put out of office the Government which has been holding on to power without consulting the people. I congratulate you on the magnificent victory you rolled up. It was not a party victory but a people's victory in the cause of good government.

J. J. Duffus.

Mr. Duffus referred to the exemplary fact that although there had been five candidates in the contest, there had not been one adverse word spoken against the character of any candidate. In 1911, after 15 years of Liberal administration, not one word could be said against the Liberal party. The time has come again when the people seem anxious to have the Liberal party back once more. Mr. Duffus believed that Mr. Gordon would give a good account of himself at Ottawa, and that at the next election he would be returned with an increased majority.

W. T. R. Preston.

'You have sounded the death knell of shall I say—Toryism," Mr. Preston the Liberal candidate in Durham began. "No; because there are many things about the old Conservative Party that I respect. But you have sounded the death knell of the National Liberal and Conservative Party. You have lighted the fires of Liberalism from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and there will be one long peal of joy at the election of G. N. Gordon in West Peterboro. You have shown Mr. Meighen and his associates that the country has no place for them. You have done a greater work for Canada than you know—keep the armour bright—so that when the time comes around for the next election you may be prepared to put Mr. Gordon in again."

Mr. Joseph Wearing.

Mr. Wearing said he disagreed with Mr. Gordon's statement that the election had no personal aspect. The verdict of the people had not only been given on the question at issue but also on the work Mr. Gordon had done for Peterboro, his work as a citizen, and since he had become an alderman.

Mr. Andrew Haydon, secretary of the National Liberal Association, conveyed the thanks of the party and its leader, W. L. Mackenzie King. He thanked all those who had worked and voted for the Liberal candidate, and appealed to the young men to bear their share in promoting the principles of Liberalism. On their shoulders rested the future of this country and the future of the Liberal party. Mr. Haydon urged the young men to assist Mr. Gordon and to make the Liberal party the influence it should be in this riding.

Mr. Gordon in a last word, expressed his appreciation of the splendid assistance given by Mr. Frank Whitehouse as organizer of the men's committee, and of Mrs. Perry. Their work had been invaluable. They had respectively won the warmest cooperation of the men and the women. The Liberals didn't have an imported machine, Mr. Gordon added, but that they had tireless volunteers.

Mr. Whitehouse said that the assistanec of the workers had been a great factor in winning the election. They were inspired by the realization that they had to contend against a professional machine brought from Ottawa.

"Our reward is the election of G. N. Gordon," said Ald. Whitehouse. "All the Peterboro boys were with us, and we were all determined to win."

Ruins of Old Church All That Survives of Klondike Gold Rush City.—The ruined old Russian Church at Lake Bennett, Alaska, which is all that remains of the city of 20,000 people which thrived at the head of the famous Chilkoot Pass during the gold rush of '98. The village, as it was called, was founded in '98, and it was there that the prospectors outfitted and made rafts and canoes for the sail on the Yukon River.

MIDLAND BUSY.

PORT HOPE, Feb. 9.—The Midland Division of the Grand Trunk is exceptionally busy these days hundreds of cars of pulpwood being brought in from the north country. The wood is taken to Cobourg and shipped to Johnsonburg, New York, via the ferry. Owing to a block in the Cobourg yards this week cars were held over here on Barrett's siding.

THRIVING NEW BUSINESS

ELLIOT MFG. CO. HAS QUIETLY DEVELOPED A DOMINION-WIDE DEMAND FOR "ELLICO" YARNS.

It is a rather enlightening subject to residents of Peterborough to discover that a Dominion wide market has been opened up and provided for by a Peterborough concern without any fuss being made over it, or request for aid from the city, which is so often the first thing the people at large know about a new manufactory.

The particular establishment in mind is that lately undertaken and guided to success by T. C. Elliot and oSn, making knitting wool skeins and all kinds of darning wool skeins for which they find a ready and rapidly growing market. Their products are already being distributed from Halifax to Vancouver, and are most favorably received wherever introduced.

Their machines are the result of an idea conceived by a well known local machinist, of which the patent rights were secured by Messrs. Elliot, and they now have enough machine capacity to supply every man, woman and child in the Dominion with darning yarn. The machines incorporate an entirely new principle, are very fast, handling an inconceivable number of yards of darning yarn per day, and yet so simple that an operator becomes thoroughly efficient to handle them in two weeks or less.

Four kinds of mending yarn are being supplied to the trade, from a four-ply worsted for heavy darning to the softest Australian fine blood Merino in all colors. This yarn is grown in Australia and spun in England as there are no machines in Canada fine enough for the purpose.

The interesting features of this business are that it was practically born and brought up in Peterborough.

The rapid growth in the demand for "Ellico" yarns is due to the well organized sales system which thoroughly combs the biggest centres, country-wide. Eight travellers are now maintained on the road, and the phenomenal number and size of orders which flow in regularly, makes the members of the firm very optimistic over the outlook for 1921.

At the present time, even with their highly developed machine capacity, they have a full two months' work ahead of thier factory.

BATTLING TO SAVE AUSTRIA

THE BIGGEST MAN IN FALLEN EMPIRE TO-DAY.

(Special to The Examiner by Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service.)

VIENNA, Feb. 8.— Former New York newspaper reporter, "Billy" Goode, now Sir William Goode, K.B.E., is battling to save Austria from absorption by Germany. Incidentally he is the biggest man in Austria to-day, as chief of the Austrian department of the Reparations Commission. If the Allies should permit German to extend her Empire to the borders of the Adriatic, with frontiers in the rear of Czecho-Slovakia and on the flanks of Hungary, Jugo-Slavia and Italy, an astonished world might well ask who won the war,' he points out. However, the position of the Christian Specialist Government in Austria is becoming more and more critical. At any minute it may come to the end of the rope. Then what? One of three things:

(1) An attempt by the Austrian provinces to join Germany.

(2) The repartition of the provinces among adjoining states, including Germany, in which she would probably get the bulk of the territory.

(3) A Bolshevik reign of terror.

The Vararlberg has already announced its desire to be annexed by Switzerland, the Tyral of Salzburg, and Upper Austria would undoubtedly go any length to unite with Germany. It is common rumor here that Hungarian forces would move on Vienna to prevent its falling into the hands of the Czechs, when Jugo-Slavia under its alliance with Czecho-Slovakia might attack Hungary.

Central Europe would again be aflame with war, from which it might be difficult for the Greater Powers to refrain.

Sir William was born in Newfoundland, the son of a preacher, has had a varied career as a purser of a liner, trooper inan American cavalry regiment, reporter in New York and London, news editor of the London Standard, and finally right hand man to Herbert Hoover.

CLINGS TO ROYALTY

(Associated Press.)

VIENNA, Feb. 8.—The former Emperor Charles of Austria-Hungary, now in exile in Switzerland, clings to his title of royalty, though he is now a ruler without a country.

Acknowledging a message of greeting from a former Hungarian Minister in Budapest, Charles' secretary replied that "His Apostolic Majesty" reciprocated the expressions of good-will "both in his own name and in that of the Queen."

EMPIRE PARTNERSHIP PROPOSALS DISCUSSED BY LORD MILNER

THE INITIAL IMPULSE HAS GOT TO COME FROM THE DOMINIONS THEMSELVES.

(Special to the Examiner by Cross-Atlantic Service)

LONDON, Feb. 7.—"I am quite sure nothing will ever be done to organize an Empire partnership by proposals emanating from Great Britain. The impulse has got to come from the Dominions themselves", said Lord Milner, who retired to-day as Colonial Minister when interviewed. He was discussing how the six Independent Governments can give one another the greatest mutual assistance and most effectively uphold their common interests. When asked concerning the tasks of the Empire of the meeting in London in June, Lord Milner said the nature of the meeting had been misunderstood and confused with the Imperial Conference. "It was always contemplated during the war that there would be a special imperial conference after the war to determine the future constitutional relations of different parts of the Empire. But it has now been decided it is too early to hold such a conference." The people have not been thinking about Imperialism. They are too busily absorbed in their own domestic problems and it needs a good deal of previous thought and discussion before anyone can possibly attempt to determine the future relations of the different parts of the Empire. In the meantime the world is going on and all sorts of things are happening which will affect the future of the Empire regarding which we ought to have a common policy. It is of urgent importance that the Dominions should come to a good understanding on these immediate and practical problems. In the absence of any regular recognized method of consultation, it was agreed to hold a meeting of the premiers of the Empire states in June to deal with the urgent question of common interest which cannot unite.

The meeting is analgous to the Imperial war cabinet. It won't have any executive authority excepting that if the members agreed on any line of policy they would be in a position to carry it out since they command the conference through their several parliaments. "When asked whether the Empire cabinet would be a permanent institution, Lord Milner replied, "It is too early to say but it has been maintained now because it is still a practical necessity."

Lord Milner divulged the fact that it was contemplated to hold the meeting at Ottawa, and Premier Lloyd George was perfectly willing to go there if it was the general desire, but the scheme was found impracticable although it may be carried out on another occasion.

WARSAW NEWS

WARSAW, Feb. 8.—Mrs. Preston, Peterborough, spent a few days last week with Mrs. Geo. Russel.

Miss Myrtle Brown, Peterborough, spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clements.

Mrs. Ellen Brown, Peterborough, spent a few days with her mother, Mrs. G. Clements.

A few people from Warsaw attended the dance in Lakefield on Thursday evening.

Several Warsaw people attended the election meetings in Peterborough last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Miller gave a delightful little party to those of their relatives who lived near Warsaw on Wednesday evening last. It was the first anniversary of their wedding.

Messrs. Calder and Douglas are selling off their stock, preparatory to giving up business about March 1st.

U. F. O. Dance.

The dance given by the U.F.O. in Warsaw Town Hall on Friday evening was a great success. A very large number were present, and all said they enjoyed themselves, and appeared to do so. Dummer and Douro both were well represented. Warsaw Orchestra provided the music. Mr. Wm. Bell was floor manager. Mr. Charles Bowen provided the refreshments.

The regular meeting of the U.F.O. was held on Wednesday evening. Some general business was done.

At the Thursday evening meeting in the Presbyterian Church, Rev. Graham continued the "Life of Christ," dealing with the calling of the disciples and the miracles.

Ice is good and is now being harvested, but it must be drawn on wagons.

"Eyes of the Soul."

Rev. Girard Graham, in the Presbyterian Church, took his subject from 1st. Cor. ii., 9-11: "The eyes of the soul." Science has shown that much of what appears is an unreality; that suggests a reality behind. There is a reality that may be seen with a spiritual insight. No man has seen God; no man ever will, with mortal eyes. God can be seen, and seen only, with a spiritual sight. The Bible is a book of spiritual insight. Some go through life with no eyes but these mortal ones. Their joys and pleasures are only superficial. The love of God and of their fellows is unknown to them. We miss much of beauty and light and understanding if anything happens the eye, and one who is physically blind is to be pitied, but much more is the one who is spiritually blind. He knows nothing of soul joy.

The evening subject was "Lord, Teach Us to Pray." The preacher made it more a study than a sermon. He spoke of the different postures assumed during prayer and their effect. One should be alone with nothing to distract. Christ said, "Enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut the door, pray." The greater one's work, the more necessary is prayer. Prayer is not simply asking, or praising, it includes meditation, listening to God. Every Christian should find at least one-half hour a day for communion with God. The very best time is first thing in the morning, while the mind is clear and alert. Next best is the noon hour. Many business men devote part of the noon hour to private devotions. Third best, after the business of the day is over; and fourth, before retiring. This fourth best has some advantages, as it gives the sub-conscious self thoughts of divine things, and one can awaken peacefully after a peaceful rest. It is desirable to so pray, or commune, that even in the stress and strain of constant work, there is a sub-consciousness of God, so, with the spiritual eyes, do we see God.

In St. Mark's.

After many weeks of no service, there was service in St. Mark's Church on Sunday afternoon. The newly-arrived clergyman met his people at the Vestry meeting on Tuesday of this week, and there will be service on Sunday afternoon, Feb. 20th.

In the Baptist Church Mr. Vose's subject was "Be ye Holy as I am Holy." The ladies again are obliged to postpone their missionary meetings.

AN ELECTION SEEMS TO BE A CERTAINTY

mean a decrease not of two, but of four in the Government majority. A very few more such defeats and the majority would disappear utterly. The process of attrition is steady and deadly and there are no means of repleting the ranks.

There are demands for Cabinet reconstruction, but Cabinet reconstruction means by-elections, and probably further defeats and more attrition. There are nine vacancies in the Senate, but the Government is unable to fill them. For each vacancy there are at least two candidates right in the House of Commons, and the filling of nine vacancies from the ranks of the wearied ones seeking respite from political campaigning would involve the holding of nine by-elections, with more defeats and more attrition. In fact it is safe to predict that the vacant seats in the red chamber will ony be filled on the eve of dissolution and that outsiders need not apply. The fact is that the Government is in a somewhat helpless position.

VALUE OF MEDICAL SCHOOL INSPECTION

BRANTFORD, Feb. 7.—During the past month medical inspection in the public schools resulted in the locaion of 101 cases of infectious diseases among the pupils. There were 559 dental treatments administered, with 285 home visits by the nurses. The school doctor made complete examination of 230 pupils.

DECORATED FOR BRAVERY.

The act of bravery by which Hugh Gallinger, of Brockville, entered a burning building at Coteau Junction on May 3rd last and rescued a child named Marie Laflame from death, was rewarded last week, when in the presence of a large number of associates, Gallinger was decorated with a bronze medal of the Royal Canadian Humane Society. Gallinger was a brakesman on a train passing Coteau Junction on the morning in question, and when the train stopped to investigate the fire he did not hesitate to enter the building and bring the child safely from the second storey and restore her to her mother.

LONDON LABOUR PARTY CENSURES MacBRIDE.

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 7.—The local branch of the Independent Labour Party at a meeting yesterday adopted a resolution moved by Dr. H. A. Stevenson, member of the Ontario Legislature, censuring M. M. MacBride, the member for South Brant, for his action in regard to legislation before the Ontario Legislature.

THE HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

A VACATION FOR MOTHER.

One of our exchanges very sensibly remarks that of all the people in the household, mother is the one who gets no "two weeks off with pay" vacation in the summer. She is also the one who never gets her Saturday afternoons off. Neither does she work on an eight-hour-per-day schedule. And Sunday, when father sits around in his lounging clothes and house slippers, mother gets breakfast, washes the dishes, gets the noon meal, washes the dishes, gets the evening meal, washes the dishes—and does a score and more of other household tasks that always seem to fall to mother's lot.

So, why not a vacation for mother?

Does mother complain because she doesn't have a vacation like the rest of the family? Certainly not! But that is all the greater reason why she should get the vacation!

There are several ways of giving her this vacation. One way is to tell her that, no matter whether she wants to or not, she is to go back to see the home folks for a couple of weeks—and while she is away she is not to worry about how the housework is going or whether the gas bill is paid on the first of the month. Then, a supplementary way is to insist upon her going down town one evening each week — to the theatre. Or, insist upon her eating an occasional meal down to the club or at the restaurant with the family, where she won't have to be worrying about the housework. And there are scores of other ways of getting for mother that vacation which she so justly earns but which she will not receive unless the rest of the family make her take it.

And daughter might give a little aid in this vacation-for-mother propaganda, also. As far as we can discover there is no Federal law, State law or city ordinance which makes it a criminal offence for an eighteen-year-old daughter to wash the dishes twice a day and thus take a little routine work away from mother's hands.

How about that vacation for mother?

Man is naturally a home-loving animal, in fact, most animals are home-loving. And when a man asks a woman to share his life, it is usually taken as a gentle hint that he wants her to make him a home and take a sort of general oversight of his affairs and a special oversight of himself. He likes to know that she does things for him just for the reason that she loves him, and is interested in him and his well-being. He loves his home more if there is some impress of her personality upon it. He likes best the meal she prepares for him. Of course, says very little—perhaps nothing—of all this, being a man.

A true lady is as much a lady washing her dinner dishes, preparing the vegetables for dinner, cleaning lamps and scrubbing floors, as when she is bending over her embroidery frame or easel in the pleasant sitting room. If she is so fortunate as to possess a servant she will use refined language and as gentle a voice in speaking to her as she uses in the reception room entertaining the most cultured among her friends.

The main thing with children is to have them well started with good principles which they will carry through life. Obedience, truth, unselfishness, purity are essentials, and these can all be lovingly cultivated, and will flourish in the right home atmosphere.

The worst tragedies are not enacted on the stage, but in home. The divorce court indicates that. Poverty tragedies in the little street back of us where some actors suffer nobly rather than beg. Tragedies in the big house on the "avenue" gilded prison houses for women, infernos for men, chambers of horrors for children. Breaking hearts, withering hopes, maddening brains, the crowd goes screaming by. No, all the tragedy is not back in the little street. But "when poverty comes in the door? doesn't love fly out the window? No, we've seen too many lovers in overalls and sweethearts in gingham aprons to believe that. When we write a book of fables the first one will begin: "Once upon a time there was a house of poverty. But when the wolf came to the door he turned away for he heard them laughing and singing." Home doesn't consist in things, but of hearts. A woman in a magnificent palace in Nebraska said to us; "The happiest days of my life were spent in a sod house ten miles out yonder on the prairie."

Learn to laugh. A good laugh is better than medicine. Learn how to tell a story. A well-told story is a welcome sunbeam in a sick room. The world is too busy to care for your ills and sorrows. Learn to keep your own troubles to yourself. Learn to stop croaking. If you cannot see any good in the world, keep the bad to yourself. Learn to hide your pains and aches under pleasant smiles. No one cares whether you have the earache, headache, or rheumatism. Don't cry. Tears do well enough in novels but are out of place in real life. Learn to meet your friends with a smile. A good humoured man or woman is always welcome, but the dyspeptic is not wanted anywhere and is a nuisance as well. Above all, give pleasure. You will pass through this world but once. Any good thing therefore, that you can show to any human being, you had better do now; do not defer or neglect it, for you will not pass this way again.

Discouragements and gloominess are things to be avoided like the pestilence; cheerfulness and merriment are qualities to cultivate. Before them annoyances will disappear like dew before the sun. A happy disposition as a fortune in itself.

TARIFF REVISION MAY BE DROPPED

DEFEAT OF GOVERNMENT HERE HAS FAR-REACHING EFFECTS AT OTTAWA.

One thing appears fairly certain, and that is that the promised tariff revision will not be proceeded with. Both in East Elgin and Peterborough the Government insisted upon confining the issue to the tariff and emphasized the need of protection, but in both seats the Liberal carried the urban centres, Aylmer and Peterborough city. As a consequence, Government plans on the tariff will have to be revised.

There is much heart-searching on Parliament Hill to-day. There will be more when the first caucus is held. Old Conservatives have, since the formation of the new party, been insisting on immediate and ruthless Cabinet re-organization, and there is a feeling to-day that the Premier let slip by the psychological moment for doing so, namely, immediately after his appointment as leader.

It is more than probable that early in the session Premier Meighen will face the House and say, "Honorable members here is my supply bill, here is my re-organized cabinet, here is my platform. Let the people express themselves. We shall dissolve."

TORONTO, Feb. 8.—Toronto Conservatives profess to see encouragement for the Meighen government in the result of the Peterborough election. Mr. H. C. Hocken, M.P., stated to-day that the Liberal man a minority victor. "You will notice," he said, "that there was a 5,000 Conservative vote, while the Liberal vote was a little less than 4,000. I think that is very encouraging for Mr. Meighen. If it had been a straight fight I think the Conservative would have been elected."

Mr. A. J. Young, former President of the General Reform Association of Ontario, and member of the Ontario Liberal Executive, points out that the Meighen candidate only polled about 20 per cent. of all the votes cast. He says the result means notice to quit for the Government.

Mr. J. J. Morrison, secretary of the U.F.O., said: "The results were as satisfactory as we expected, and the urban vote augurs well for the new National Progresive Party at the next general election.

ADVANCE IN HYDRO.

The rates charged for power from the High Falls development by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario have been approved as follows: Perth, $41.80 per h.p.; Smith's Falls, $38.22 per h.p.; Carleton Place, $44.95 per h.p. The Commission has authorized a slight increase in the retail rates of one-half cent a kilowatt hour.

Derailment on the C.N.R. Near Vancouver—Several Injured.

VANCOUVER, Feb. 8.— Engineer Johnson was killed and Fireman Middleton and Expressman Holmes injuredas a result of a derailment of a Canadian National Railway passenger train.

Upton Sinclair, author, who, in his new book, makes an indictment of American journalism.

To the Electors of West Peterborough:

I wish to thank those who so faithfully supported me in this campain.

I am under a deep debt of gratitude to the Ladies and Girls who worked so untiringly for my election.

The large crowds of Young Men who volunteered to canvass and to check off the voters' lists gave wonderful service, which I very much appreciate.

I thank all those Independent Voters who have entrusted me with the duty of representing them; and I hope to be of service to Peterborough which will not disappoint my most ardent supporters.

I remain, yours faithfully,

VEGETABLE PRICES DOWN.

Producers Are Only Getting About 25 Cents a Bushel for Potatoes.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—The mild winter has been to a great extent responsible for low returns to producers of fruits and vegetables because of rot and the accumulated costs of storage and extra hauling, the Bureau of Markets said in a report to-night. Prices started low and continued moving downward until "disagreeably close to the vanishing point," the report added. Late winter finds the six months' depression at its lowest, it said, and wholesale prices have found new low levels.

Dealers hold perhaps one-sixth of the potato stocks remaining and the farmers have the rest, the report continued, and at present the potato markets in producing sections are close to demoralization.

"In the West," the report said in discussing the potato situation, "the price paid to growers is down close to feeding value, around 25 cents per bushel, but growers are still selling to some extent because of doubt about the profits of feeding livestock or because they must have a little money. About the top price by the carload for growers is 59 cents in Eastern sections, and nobody very anxious to buy at that. City prices for large lots range from $1 to $1.80 per 100 pounds."

The situation generally is the same, the report added, in the case of cabbage, onions and apples.

PLANNING FOR SPRING.

LINDSAY, Feb. 8. — The mild winter weather is causing the summer resorts to sprout rather early this year. Pleasant Point has already begun to boom and a highly successful season is promised. Two Toronto gentlemen, well known cottagers, were in town on Saturday and gave contracts for two large summer residences to be erected this spring. Extensive improvements in other directions are planned. Remodelling and improving is being carried on on a large scale.

SALARIES RAISED.

Increase to Teachers in Ottawa Averages $200.

OTTAWA, Feb. 8.—A new schedule of salaries for the public school teachers was adopted at a meeting of the board. The new rate provision for an additional expenditure of approximately $40,000.00, making an average increase in salaries to teachers, with three or more years' service, of $200 each. Many of the women teachers will receive increases of as high as $250 and the minimum wage for male teachers goes up from SONG.

I am not sad from Sorrow
Beyond Time's skillful healing,
Who, every day and morrow,
Some cherished pang is stealing
Till tears forego their duty!
I am not sad from Sorrow,
But I am sad from Beauty—
From her my heartache borrow,
Who is herself so sad.
Like one who hath been banished
She speaketh of things vanished,
But, with this half-revealing of glories she once had.
Plants high immortal feeling
That urgeth to pursue
Her swiftly-homing pinion
Unto her lost dominion;
And there, with vision single,
Which her old scholars knew,
Behold her merge and mingle
With utmost Good and True.
Thou, ever homeward turning
Past mortal eye's discerning,
Deny me not some clue—
I have been homesick, too!

A. B. Calder, formerly assistant general passenger agent, has been promoted to the executive staff of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

It will be remembered that Mr. Calder accompanied the Prince of Wales' train across Canada as representative of the president, the arrangements for which he supervised, and that he also was in charge of the Canadian Pacific train for the Imperial Press Conference in a similar capacity. Mr. Calder joined the C. P. R. originally in the construction days when the railway was being pushed out west of Winnipeg. He is the son of Alexander Calder, the railway and steamship agent of Winnipeg.

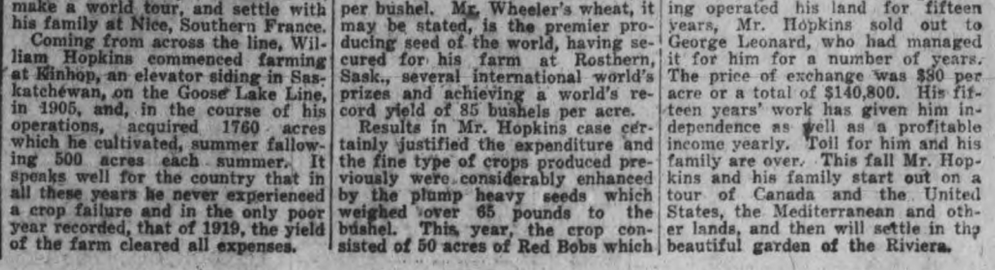
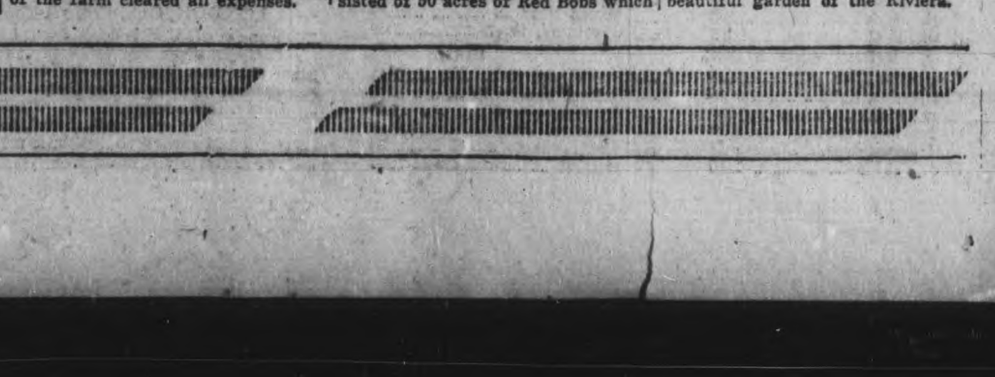
PROFITABLE FARMING





(1) Farmers breaking new ground in western Canada.
(2) Threshing contractors at work in Namaka, Alta.

Just how profitable careful, systematic farming can be made in Western Canada is instanced in the success of a disciple of Seager Wheeler, the wheat wizard of world renown, who has carefully followed in the footsteps of his model until as the result of this year's crop, he finds himself in a position to retire, make a world tour, and settle with his family at Nice, Southern France.

Coming from across the line, William Hopkins commenced farming at Kinhop, an elevator siding in Saskatchewan, on the Goose Lake Line, in 1905, and, in the course of his operations, acquired 1760 acres which he cultivated, summer fallowing 500 acres each summer. It speaks well for the country that in all these years he never experienced a crop failure and in the only poor year recorded, that of 1919, the yield of the farm cleared all expenses.

The Premier Producing Seed.

Three years ago Mr. Hopkins, a zealous student of scientific farming and a stern advocate of selective seed, purchased Red Bobs seed from Seager Wheeler paying $32.50 per bushel for it. A year later he bought a supply of the Kitchener strain from the same source at $10 per bushel. Mr. Wheeler's wheat, it may be stated, is the premier producing seed of the world, having secured for his farm at Rosthern, Sask., several international world's prizes and achieving a world's record yield of 85 bushels per acre.

Results in Mr. Hopkins case certainly justified the expenditure and the fine type of crops produced previously were considerably enhanced by the plump heavy seeds which weighed over 65 pounds to the bushel. This year, the crop consisted of 50 acres of Red Bobs which yielded 45 bushels to the acre and 430 acres of Kitchener which returned 40 bushels from every acre. In contrast, 480 acres seed to Marquis, which owing to circumstances it was found necessary to stubble in, gave a yield of 15 bushels to the acre.

This year, after threshing, having operated his land for fifteen years, Mr. Hopkins sold out to George Leonard, who had managed it for him for a number of years. The price of exchange was $50 per acre or a total of $140,800. His fifteen years' work has given him independence as well as a profitable income yearly. Toil for him and his family are over. This fall Mr. Hopkins and his family start out on a tour of Canada and the United States, the Mediterranean and other lands, and then will settle in the beautiful garden of the Riviera.

ATTEMPTED TO STEAL THE POLL BOOK IN THE FIRST ELECTION CAMPAIGN HERE

EARLY POLITICAL CONTESTS IN PETERBOROUGH MARKED BY VITRIOLIC AND LIBELLOUS ATTACKS WHICH CULMINATED IN PHYSICAL VIOLENCE FREQUENTLY.

RETURNING OFFICER ATTACKED BY MOB

(By F. H. DOBBIN)

The unusual feature of the present political contest in the West Riding of Peterborough has brought out enquiry as to previous elections, how and when held, candidates and for other information, largely of a casual nature. For little interest is taken in the men who flourished in the political arena of the days that are gone, and little remembered unless any one of them exerted himself to do that which is the chief end of all representatives from this riding, "get something for Peterborough."

Party feeling has run much higher than in the present contest. Such misassertion as present candidates made in the Prtss with regard to one another, (or friends making for them which is one and the same thing) are as milk and water to what we have had. In violence and vituperation old campaigns have excelled. The press and fly-sheets have both teemed with statements of the most vitriolic and libellous character. All taken in good part and as a part of the game. A particularly exasperating time, to the local voters, was the election of 1867, the very first after Confederation, when a Toronto lawyer named John Gordon came into the Riding and sought the suffrage. The campaign culminated by an effigy of the Toronto man being hung from a tree at the corner of St. John's church grounds, and out over Hunter St., where the boys of the school and sundry men stoned the figure to flinders on the morning of polling day. Literally, as the kids say, "knocked the stuffing out of the candidate." Still he made a great run and the winner had a close call.

The First Election

As to elections that we may claim to be our own, those of the earliest were only partially so. This part of the district participated as being of the Colborne District, then newly erected—as the term is—from within the boundaries of the old Newcastle District. The Colborne District included what is now the counties of Peterborough and Victoria, then joined for municipal purposes. Afterwards the counties got a divorce, but the first election and one in which the versatility and resourcefulness of the men of Peterborough was shown came on in 1841, the first of the new District elections for members of the Upper Canada House of Assembly. For years this election was famed, as an impartial eye-witness describes the momentuous occasion as "a scene of violence rarely exceeded among these exciting contests in the past, and which under amended election laws, it may be presumed, quite impossible in the future."

The election for the new District was held in Peterborough and had its headquarters in White's Hotel, situated just east of George St. on Sherbrooke St., south side. It is noticed that this hotel was situated contiguous to Day's Brewery, and the hotel was at that time a leading public house of call, and indeed a fashionable resort. In after years (1856) the brewery was burned, and the hotel caught fire from the brewery and ended in smoke and ashes, being at the time unused.

The candidates were Col. Alex. McDonnel, Frederick Ferguson and Dr. John Gilchrist. All men exceedingly prominent in the District and known to everyone. Col. McDonnel had been the guide, philosopher and friend to the Robinson immigrants and Dr. Gilchrist was one of the men who, for sharing in the rebellion of 1837, had spent some time in jail. But that was no dishonor. Mr. Ferguson was of the town and very well known, in fact afterwards a member of the first town council. The first named appeared in the Conservative and the second in the Reform interest.

Might as a Weapon

As the election progressed, it became evident that Dr. Gilchrist would be elected, for the voting was by the open vote method, where each voter came to the booth and declared his intentions. As the polling lasted for at least three days, and only closed up when no more votes appeared a plot was at once formed to break up the election and prevent his legal return. Peterborough numbered amongst its citizens a number of choice spirits ready for any mischief. In fact the place seemed to breed characters generously capabel and willing to do any unpublic service, such as proposed. The conspirators, including several respectable citizens but heated partisans, met in a tavern that stood on the flat space just west of the Otonabee bridge, in fact on the ground now covered by the buildings of the Quaker Oats Co. There would be a choice of taverns, for three were so located. The plan was arranged that a well-known man, who at that time was acting as constable and door keeper of the room in which the poll was going on should be aware of the design. They were to approach in a body; the doorkeeper was to make a show of resistance, and be knocked down with his own consent. In the melee which would follow the poll book was to be seized and destroyed and thus the opposing party would be deprived of the only legal evidence of the election of their candidate.

The room was full of people, among which were the candidates, and their agents when the conspirators stealthily approached. On reaching the room a fierce show of fight was made, and the guardian of the poll-book rolled over as if smitten by a thunderbolt. The books of the check clerks and other papers were speedily seized, but the presence of mind of the returning officer defeated their designs. On the first alarm, he quietly slipped the poll-book beneath and up under the back of his coat, and stood against the wall, well in safety, that the book might not drop down and remained until the shindy had subsided. Whether from accident or otherwise Dr. Gilchrist received a severe blow on the head from a stick from which he speedily recovered.

Plot to Steal Poll-Book.

But so balked of their design some of the more daring and reckless pursued the game still further. The returning officer occupied a room at White's Hotel, and on his going out for the evening to dine with a friend, his room was entered and a valise cut open in the hopes of finding the coveted poll-book within. But Capt. Fraser, the returning officer, had taken the book with him, anticipating some such action, and kept it in his possession, continually until the end of the election. The Chronicle deplores the act of the parties, and notes that the leader of the crew passed away in the year 1866, not in expiation of his crime but in the natural course of events. Dr. Gilchrist was elected and remained the sitting member for four years.

The Contests

Previous to the above there had been two memorable elections for members of the Newcastle District, which embraced Peterborough and territory adjoining, and to the east and west. The first was in 1834, for the Legislative Assembly of Upper Canada. The candidates were Col. McDonnel, John Gilchrist, James Grey Bethune and W. S. Conger, the latter at the time living at Cobourg and in business, but afterwards removing to Peterborough where he proved to be a citizen of great worth to the town. Col. McDonnel was elected.

But the political hatchet was not to remain long buried. Things went wrong and two years afterwards, in 1836, the whole thing had to be fought over again, and from The Chronicle they must have had a whale of a time. The election was held at the hamlet of Sully, on the south shore of Rice Lake, and was the scene of much excitement. Two fresh candidates were inveigled to try a hand at the popular diversion, and the field of four were Henry Ruttan, (inventor of the then famous Ruttan heater), Col. McDonnel, Geo. M. Boswell and Dr. Gilchrist, who seemed, Irishman that he was, ready to throw a hat into the ring at any time.

Steamer Commandeered

So strong was the feeling in Peterborough in favor of the candidates from Peterborough, that a number of leading Conservatives (conservative and reform were not printed with a capital letter in those days) clubbed together and raised a sunken steamer lying on the bed of the Otonabee river near what is now known as Wedlock's, and had her fitted out so as to ply up and down the river for the conveyance of voters. Temporary booths were erected in vicinity of the polling place where refreshment was served, while here and there, at convenient distances the Fret and Independent Electors found whole barrels of whiskey, standing on end, with the heads knocked out, and from which they drank at pleasure. These were evidently "droughty" times, but it must be remembered that the exigency of the occasion was great, the opportunity lavish, the hospitality unbounded and the bibulous wants of the entire District had to be supplied. Of course scenes of violence accompanied the copious libations, but happily no lives were lost. It may be remarked, that aided by the steamboat, the refreshments and a host of versatile friends Col. McDonnel was elected.

Excesses Notorious

Those were the days of open voting. Excesses grew notorious, and afterwards, it was over thirty-five years however, the ballot was adopted. Stringent election laws regulated the proceedings, but brought in a new era, and new schemes for thought and action, in the refinements of stuffing the ballot boxes. Boxes with false bottoms were devised. Others of intricate arrangement and calculated to turn the trick were made and by strategy used. Legal battles have been held and much diversion made over the contentions of fraud and perversion until finally men gave it up and ceased to try and win by chicanery and fraud. Besides, with the stringent laws it grew too risky.

USE SLOAN'S TO WARD OFF PAIN

You can just tell by its healthy, stimulating odor, that it is going to do you good.

IF I only had some Sloan's Liniment!" How often you've said that! And then when the rehumatic twinges subsided—after hours of suffering—you forgot it!

Don't do it again—get a bottle today and keep it handy for possible use to-night! A sudden attack may come on—sciatica, lumbago, sore muscles, backache, stiff joints, neuralgia, the pains and aches resulting from exposure. You'll soon find warmth and relief in Sloan's, the liniment that penetrates without rubbing. Clean, economical. Three sizes—35c., 70c., $1.40. Made in Canada.

FORMER CROWN PRINCE IS VERY MUCH BORED

(Associated Press.)

GENEVA, Feb. 8. — The former Crown Prince Frederick of Germany an enthusiast in winter sports, who formerly visited here yearly, has written a gloomy letter from Holland to one of his former staff officers, now at Davos, regretting he can not come this season.

He writes that is much bored by his life at Wieringen largely because of "the silly restrictions imposed by the Allies," but he hopes he can come next year with his family.

An Aid to Wearing This Season's Fashions

(Helps to Beauty).

Here is a simple, unfailing way to rid the skin of objectionable hairs: With some powdered delatone and water make enough paste to cover the hairy surface, apply and in about 2 minutes rub off, wash the skin and every trace of hair has vanished. This is quite harmless, but to avoid disappointment be sure to get the delatone in an original package.

VIENNA DANCE FEVER REACHES NEW HEIGHTS

"BAD BOYS'" BALL SELLS OUT IN A HURRAY—ANOTHER BIG AFFAIR FOR "SILLY ASSES."

VIENNA, Feb. 8.—The dancing mania here is slowly reaching a climax before Lent puts a theoretical stop to its balls and "redoutes" are proclaimed by every means of advertisement, and each seems to vie with the other in surpassing in absurdity and cost.

Students' corps and various private societies are taking part in the fever. There is a hunters' ball under the name of "ball vom Grunen Kreuz." The ladies must attend in milkmaid costumes, the men in hunting outfits.

But the public subscription balls are the chief events. There is a bad boys' ball, at which the ladies must be dressed in short skirts and sailor hats and the men in knee breeches; this is going to be an immense event and has long since been sold out. The tickets cost originally 200 kronen (more than £8 nominal), but so great has been the demand for them that they now bring 3,000 kronen.

Then comes a ball with the descriptive name of "A Silly Evening With the Masters of the World," which has boldly perverted Karl Marx's trumpet call and taken as its motto "Silly Asses of the World Unite." The ball where it is to be held is to be ornamented with a silly castle, a silly mill, a silly cabaret and a silly restaurant.

There is to be a solemn procession for silly asses and then dancing to the accompaniment of a "silly ass" orchestra, which means an orchestra, playing all the usual dance music with variations, consisting after a certain point of mere increase in brazen noise. A few days ago a great opera redoute was held, the first for more than twenty years. This used to be the culminating point of the old Viennese social season, but now apart from the Diplomatic Corps it is attended mostly by the very new rich. A box in the first tier cost 200,000 kronen (more than £830 nominally).

Most of these balls have a good cause tacked to the end of the program, usually some charity, and all are alike in their dullness. They are attended almost wholly by unattached this is going

WOMEN WOULD EVADE SERVICE ON JURIES

"TOO NERVOUS!" "NOT STRONG-MINDED ENOUGH!" ARE SOME OF THE EXCUSES OFFERED.

(Associated Press.)

LONDON, Feb. 8.—Excuses offered by women who for the first time have just been called to sit as jurors in Old Bailey, the world's most famous criminal court, excited a good deal of laughter in that usually sedate pace.

Twenty-four women were summoned for jury service in criminal cases and mixed juries were formed with, in at least one case, a woman serving as forewoman. The charges included murder, arson and manslaughter.

The women appeared quite as anxious as men to avoid service on the juries.

"I'm too nervous," was the plea of one.

"I'm not strong-minded enough," said aonther. She was excused.

Others pleaded inability to leave housework, shopping, business, care of babies or sought to evade service on the ground of their own illness or that of members of their families.

"I know one thing we women will do," said one jury woman after sitting in the court for a half-hour. "We will make the lawyers wear clean wigs and have better manners."

Others, after their first appearance in the jury-box, made suggestions that women jurors should be compensated for disruption of their household routine and that "light refreshments" should be served during the afternoon court sessions.

Those in the court rooms seemed to regard the spectacle of women telling their true ages, in most cases, without noticeable hesitation, the most surprising part of the novel procedure. One was eighty-three and was excused.

While, in the cases heard during the opening day, the majoroity of the verdicts were "not guilty," litigants, both men and women, and their counsel seemed to be reluctant to have women sit in judgment in their cases. It was noticeable that men defendants in particular sought, through repeated challenges, to prevent their being seated as jurors.

'Men know women can't be hoodwinked and bamboozled so easily—they are too likely to overlook technicalities and go to essentials—that's the reason they don't want us," said one woman who had been challenged and excused.

Women jurors soon will be called to decide libel actions, breach of promise suits, others for false imprisonment, and assault in the London Law Courts and also will make their first appearance as jurors in the Divorce Court.

They have been sitting as jurors in some of the counties in England for some months.

In every Bayer package are directions for Colds, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Earache, Toothache, Lumbago and for Pain. Handy tin boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell larger packages. Made in Canada. Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada), of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

HACKENSACK RIVER NOW GIANT HIGHBALL

Crowd Whistles Dirge as $2,500 Worth of Rum is Mixed With Stream.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—To the alternate strains of the "Doxology" and Chopin's "Funeral March," whistled by the large crowd assembled to witness "the last sad rites," liquors valued at $2,500 were poured into the Hackensack River at Hackensack, N. J., Saturday afternoon. The cases were brought to the river's edge in wheelbarrows by the police and janitors of the County Court House, who opened them and emptied their contents into the stream at the signal of County Prosecutor A. V. Hart, who had charge of the ceremonies.

The liquor was seized recently in a raid on a hotel at Hasbrouck Heights. The owners were arrested on charges of violating the New Jersey Crimes Act, which requires a license for the sale of intoxicants. Gambling machines which had been seized by the sheriff were stacked up and burned at the same time that the liquor found its watery grave.

In compliance with instructions received yesterday from Prohibition Commissioner John F. Kramer in Washington, Charles R. O'Connor, State Prohibition Director, last night asked all permit holders other than wholesale druggists for an inventory of all liquor in their possession as of Feb. 1. The report is to be made in duplicate on blanks issued for this purpose, and the statement must be made under oath. Three days are allowed for the return of the blanks.

Federal Supervising Agent Daniel J. Chapin said yesterday that about three weeks would be reuired for the inventory of the liquors seized by prohibition agents and held in the Knickerbocker Warehouse. This is the first inventory of the confiscated liquors which have an estimated value of about $2,000,000.

WANTS HUSBAND FORCED TO PROVIDE HER SUPPORT.

WINDSOR, Feb. 7.—Charging that her husband had not supported her for twenty-five years, Mrs. Lillian Trombly, 60 years of age, appeared in the Police Court on Saturday seeking the aid of the law to compel him to provide for her. She told Magistrate Gundy she first took proceedings against her husband a quarter of a century ago, when, she said, he deserted her. The Court advised a reconciliation, which Mrs. Thombly asserted was impossible.

FIRE IN BARN OF HOTEL WAS VERY SERIOUS

SEVERAL THOUSAND DOLLARS LOSS OCCASIONED BY FIRE IN REAR OF GRAND HOTEL.

Fire of unknown origin that broke out in the barn of the Grand hotel shortly after twelve o'clock last night caused damage of several thousand dollars, most of which is represented by the heavy los of the Daly Tea Co. in tea stored in the building to be sold in this district, and by the almost total destrucion of two automobiles. Three cars were housed in the wooden barn. One of these, owned by Mr. B. Chesler, was saved, but the car of the proprietor of the hotel, Mr. W. Fisher, was all but destroyed by the flames. Mr. Victor Lebarr's automobile was in the barn and suffered a like fate to the other. Both cars were stripped clean by the flames and the cost of refitting them and repairing them will represent hundreds of dollars. The Daly Tea Co. had several thousand pounds of black, green and mixed tea in the building and the loss to the company estimated by their salesman to-day will run between one and two thousand dollars. The barn was gutted and represents a heavy loss to the hotel.

Tea was ankle deep all over the yard this afternoon and emptied boxes lay all around. The air hung heavy with the aroma of tea and burnt hay. After dinner the salesman who was away when the fire started last night began seling the slightly damaged cases of tea and the yard was filled with people hunting for a respectable box among the hundreds of burnt, scorched and wet packages and while all over the muddy ground ran streams of brown and green tea.

EYE-WITNESS TELLS OF DROWNING RESCUE

PROMPT ACTION OF ARTHUR SAYER MATERIALLY AIDS IN SAVING LITTLE HOYLAND.

An eye witness gives the following version of the rescue of Leslie Hoyland from drowning in the Otonabee Saturday afternoon, a version which gives Arthur Sayer well deserved credit for prompt action resulting in the saving of human life:

Arthur Sayer jumped from the rig he was driving and ran down on the ice at Smith street bridge just as Iris Payne arrived. Then Sayer, holding her hands, Iris walked to the edge of the ice, which broke. With Sayer hanging on to Iris she caught Leslie Hoyland and Sayer pulled them both out on to firm ice.

Credit is due to Arthur Sayer for his presence of mind, for to him and Iris Payne is due the fact that little Hoyland is alive to-day. At the time that Leslie Hoyland was carried into a nearby house no one know that the little Pakenham girl was in the river.

BRITAIN NOT PARTICIPANT NAVAL RACE

SIR PHILIP GIBBS TESTIFIES BEFORE U.S. NAVAL COMMITTEE.—RUSSIA A MENACE.

(Canadian Press).

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 8. — Great Britain will not undertake a race with the United States for sea power, Sir Philip Gibbs, British war correspondent, declared to-day before the House Naval Committee. Great Britain hasn't money, he said, and most Britons do not regard the United States Navy "as a menace."

Sir Philip said that before any agreement for disarmament could be reached by the principal Powers, the Russian question would have to be settled and the Russian people drawn back into the "family of nations."

Representatives of the Russian Soviet Government should by all means be included in any conference to discuss disarmament, he declared. He characterized the Russian Red army as the "greatest military menace in the world," and said that present conditions in Russia were producing great numbers of professional soldiers.

Discussing the future of the British Navy, witness told the committee that the British people did not consider another naval bill to provide a "strong and supreme navy" necessary, because "they realize that Great Britain's chief menace, the German Navy, has been crushed forever."

CANDIDATES PUT UP CLEAN FIGHT

THE WOMEN'S ORGANIZATION DID SPLENDID WORK IN THE CAMPAIGN.

When Mr. G. N. Gordon was seen this morning he was in his office behind a bundle of telegrams and letters which had come in congratulating him upon his success. He told the Examiner that no Government candidate on earth could have won this election. He said Mr. Denne had a strong, personal following, was likeable and that he and Mr. Denne had been warm, personal friends for many years. Mr. Gordon further said that he felt that Mr. Denne appreciated that he hardly had a chance, but being a strong party man, felt that it was his duty to stand up for a Government whose cause he championed.

Mr. Gordon further said that although Mr. Denne's cause was a weak one on account of the unpopularity of the Government, he had come through the campaign with the best regard of friends and political opponents alike.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, according to Mr. Gordon, has a brusque, outspoken manner that has appealed to the imagination of the people, and made him a powerful force in the campaign.

Regarding Mr. McMurray and Mr. Campbell, Mr. Gordon said that they were both good platform men and good canvassers, and that they championed causes which they believed in.

Altogether, Mr. Gordon said that the candidates had treated each other generously and with courtesy, and that he appreciated the contest was one, free from any personal criticism except by a few partizan supporters who did not know any better.

The women's organization Mr. Gordon loudly praised, and said his volunteer organization was extremely complete. In some cases his women supporters went to the wash tub and kept the washing going until the women returned from the polls. In other cases they minded babies in the houses until the women came back, and did everything that was necessary to assist in getting out the vote.

Altogether, Mr. Gordon said that the campaign was a unique one, and none of the candidates came out of it with any discredit to his reputation or standing, and that all had put up a first-class, manly fight.

PHYSICAL VALUE EVIDENCE AGAIN REJECTFD, BOARD

G.T.R. ARBITRATION BOARD REFUSES TO TAKE EVIDENCE OF PHIPPEN.

(Canadian Press)

MONTREAL, Feb. 8.— Again this morning F. H. Phippen, K.C., Counsel for the Grand Trunk tendered evidence as to the physical values of the Grand Trunk and once more the Arbitration Board rejected it under their previous majority decision. Sir Walter Cassels checked Mr. Phippen as soon as he approached the question of values when the railroad counsel replied that he intended to go on until he was stopped, "so as to put it on record that this evidence had been tendered by the Grand Trunk and refused by the Commission." With this he withdrew the witness and proceeded with the emasculated system of enquiry to get general evidence as to the general condition of the Grand Trunk system.

TORONTO, Feb. 8. — Cattle receipts were light and trade steady. Quotations: Butcher steels, choice, $9 to $9.50; butcher cows, medium, $5 to $7; calves, $14 to $16; lambs, $11 to $12; hogs, fed and watered, selects, $15 to $15.25.

Card of Thanks

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBOROUGH.

Ladies and Gentlemen,

Although unsuccessful in the Contest just concluded, I desire to convey mysincere thanks to all those who assisted my Candidature in any way. I went into the Contest to win, and like the other Contestants, would have been pleased to have been Elected as your Representative; yet the Ballot of the People decides the issue; and I am prepared to accept the verdict.

The outcome will not, however, lessen my interest in the City and County, and if I have been of any service in the past in any of their public activities, I will continue to give service where I am very specially interested, and wherever called upon, believing that the success of such organisations will help to keep Peterborough, as I believe it to be, the Very Best City in the Dominion in which to live.

Again thanking all those who worked and voted for me and wished me success,

I beg to remain,

Yours gratefully,

Roland Denne

RECORD ATTENDANCE FOR ANNUAL OPEN BONSPIEL

FIFTY-EIGHT RINKS REGISTERED THIS MORNING AND FIRST GAME STARTED PROMPTLY—USING BOTH CHARLOTTE AND BROCK STREET RINKS.

Peterborough's annual bonspiel, the premier curling event in Midland Ontario, opened this morning with fifty-eight rinks in the register. This is the largest entry list in the history of the local club's open tourney, and only the weather can mar its success. To-day's probabilities, forecasting slightly higher temperature, gave the bonspiel committee some anxiety, but the ice at both the Brock street and Charlotte street rinks was keen and the first round of games for the Morrow Cup ran off smoothly.

The opening ceremonies were brief. George Morrow, chairman of the bonspiel committee, welcomed the visiting rinks, wished them all the best of luck and briefly outlined the series of games for Morrow, Matthews-Blackwell, R. M. Waddell and Peterborough trophies. Fred Bailes of Oshawa drew the names of the rinks from a hat for the draw which was then turned over to the management of John H. Renwick.

Some of the neighboring clubs were largely represented. Lakefield brought five rinks, and Cobourg had four. The Cobourg representation is the largest that club has sent to Peterborough. Lindsay had four clubs, but the veteran, J. D. Flavelle, was unable to accompany his deputation on account of a bereavement of his family. Norwood sent three clubs and Bobcaygeon the same number.

The registration of skips was as follows:

Norwood—T. E. Finlay, J. A. Finlay and W. Wildman.
Keene—J. J. Moore, G. Howson and F. A. Eason.
Oshawa—H. E. Smith, F. L. Henry and L. O. Clifford.
Agincourt Heather—D. C. Thompson.
Bobcaygeon— R. Nicholls, A. E. Bottum, D. Hetherington.
Cobourg—W. LeLany, A. L. Jex, D. W. Jex, C. McCallum.
Fenelon Falls—H. H. McCallum, G. A. Robson.
Grimsby—C. W. F. Carpenter.
Gravenhurst—E. W. Gandrie.
High Park, Toronto—F. T. Lillie.
Hamilton—Peter Smith.
Lakefield—J. C. Strickland, J. W. Ridpath, N. A. Moore, C. S. Tanner, R. C. Strickland.
Locust Hill—F. E. N. Reesor.
Lindsay—C. E. Williams, R. F. Thomas, F. J. Carew, W. Carley.
Markham—J. Malcolm.
Millbrook— R. H. Edmunds, John Steele.
Orillia—Dr. J. N. Harvie.

NOTES.

George Morrow was one of the first to fall in the games for the trophy bearing his own name. Tom Finlay of Norwood put him out this morning.

Thomas of Lindsay needed an extra end to defeat Lou Bowes. The Peterborough skip tied up this game with two singles on the 11th and 12th ends, but failed in the extra.

A final three-end gave John Steele of Millbrook his victory over H. E. Smith of Oshawa.

Frank Carew of Lindsay hung up fives, fours, and threes over A. L. Jex of Cobourg.

LINDSAY JUNIORS ARE NOT DISMAYEY

Lindsay Post: Lindsay juniors are not a bit dejected as a result of the three-goal lead which the Quinte boys registered against them Thursday night. The boys state that the goals were of the flukey brand. One shot which hit the nets and bounded over was counted a goal by the goal umpire. Another goal was unfortunately scored for Belleville by Lindsay, while the third goal was in the nature of a "steal." The boys declare they can overcome this lead on Tuesday night. That's the spirit, boys, and a big crowd will be on hand to see you do it.

CONSTANCE TALMADGE IN LATEST EMERSON-LOOS STORY

"The Perfect Woman" Sets High Water Mark in Comedy Pictures at the Allen Theatre.

Constance Talmadge as Mary Blake in the latest First National Attraction, "THE PERFECT WOMAN," written by John Emerson and Anita Loos, has for a starring vehicle one of the most humorous and entertaining stories ever written for this inimitable comedienne.

The development of the plot, in which Mary finds herself in the home of Jim Stanhope, the man she was determined to vamp, and a thrilling little episode in which four Bolsheviks have a prominent part, combine to blend the humor with the most pleasing kind of suspense.

This picture, which will be shown at the Allen Theatre Wednesday, indicates that the popular taste in motion picture comedy is constantly demanding something light and refreshing without burlesque or slapstick to win laughter and approval.

MAURICE-B ("Lefty") FLYNN IN GOLDWYN PICTURES

DE VALERA IS BACK IN IRELAND AGAIN

His Presence Not Due to Connivance of British Government

DUBLIN, Feb. 8.— Eamon de Valera's presence in Ireland cannot be attributed to any connivance of the British government, declares a leading Sinn Feiner of the moderate group. He expressed the conviction in an interview that the "peace" moves which have been widely discussed the past two months represent nothing but a desire of the government, for propaganda purposes to convince foreign opinion of its good intentions and that they have been thwarted by the unreasonableness of Sinn Fein.

The man interviewed said he had been in touch with the returned "president of the Irish Republic", since de Valera's return from America.

"De Valera's position", re declared, "is by no means that of a dictator, even that of a plenipotentiary. His is a representative office. He must act in accordance with the sentiment of his organization. He is not authorized to negotiate peace on any such terms as have been offered, and if he did, he would be repudiated. Sinn Feiners maintain that Dail Eireann is the only legitimate government in Ireland and will only negotiate as such. The 'permission' of the British premier for Dail Eireann to meet with the exception of such men as the government wan t, is ridiculous. As a matter of fact, Dail Eireann has been meeting secretly all along and issuing orders through its various ministries."

It is known that members of Dail Eireann do not regard the "safe conduct" offered by Mr. Lloyd George as of any value or as adding anything to its existing facilities. It is regarded merely as an invitation for the organization to betray certain of its members—some of them having been unsuccessfully sought by Crown agents for many months

This fairly represents the average Sinn Fein view, current among those who cannot be considered extremists

NEW YORK STOCKS

(United Press)

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Trading in the New York Stock Exchange was listless during the morning following a dull opening. All early transactions were in 100 share lots and the opening changes from Monday's last quotations did not run more than fractional in leading issues South Pac Ex. rights was quoted at 78 1-2 representing a gain of 1-8.

Price declines in sugar affected sugar stocks to-day, American sugar common declining 3 3-8 to 88 with preferred reaching to 103 a 4 point loss. Rumors regarding action on the quarterly dividend to-morrow play a part in the slump.

LONDON'S CHANGE

LONDON, Feb. 8.—Although business interviews have unanimously demonstrated the benefits derivable from the abolition of the excess profits duty, the Stock Exchange shows indifference, which means that the public is not at all enthusiastic over the matter.

The week end accumulation of buying orders was smaller than usual The market became flat after opening expectantly.

The removal of the excess profits duty of sixty per cent. is less beneficial than at first appears, because such profits were in any event unassesable for income tax and now must pay a 30 per cent. income tax, so that the tax is halved instead of abolished.

BIG LIQUOR SEIZURE AT PORT TOWNSEND

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 8. — Two hundred cases of Canadian whiskey valued at $75,000 and a high-powered launch have been seized near Port Townsend by the coastguard cutter Scout, according to a report received here Sunday night.

The seizure followed the capture of two men, the riddling of a launch with bullets and the confiscation of 130 bottles of whiskey near Port Angeles on Juan de Fuca Straits Saturday.

OLD GOSSIP REVIVED.

Stories of Brilliant Reign of Empress Eugenie.

A thousand rare old tit bits of court gossip, harking back to the brilliant days of the Second Empire, have been revived co-incidentally with the passing of Empress Eugenie, easily the most romantic figure in modern European history. Every seasoned "boulevardier" of the French capital is swapping the spicy tales of a bygone generation anent the beautiful and unfortunate queen, whose death has placed half the royal families of the Old World in mourning.

Favorite among the stories centring about the late Empress is the tale of the humble Latin Quarter model, whose fatal resemblance to Eugenie forced upon her the strange alternative of a handsome pension coupled with exile from her beloved Paris or the ignoble life of a prisoner in a gloomy cell at St. Lazare.

One day during the height of the Empress' brilliant reign, when the praise of her beauty, sagacity and goodness was on every tongue, the court gossips made a tremendous and disconcerting discovery. At a public exhibition of the works of an obscure painter a number of portraits of the sovereign, depicted in exceedingly attenuated attire, were found on display. The story spread through France like wildfire. The Empress' friends were struck dumb with dismay. Her political enemies were suffused with irreverential glee.

When the tale reached the ears of Eugenie, she lost no time in vain explanations. With characteristic energy she called in the police.

A hurried inquiry followed and the mystery was cleared up. The offending portraits were likenesses of a humble artist's model whose resemblance to the empress was so marked that her friends had dubbed her "Leonie the Empress."

The police took no half measures. They sent for Mlle. Leonie.

"What would you say to 3,000 francs income yearly?" they asked her.

"More than I ever dreamed of," replied Leonie. "What must I do to get it?"

"Pack up bag and baggage and clear out of Paris—and don't come back!"

"But I love Paris!!"

"Very well, take your choice. Three thousand francs and clear out or the prison of St. Lazare. You look too much like the empress. That is treason!"

Faced with the Imperial ultimatum, the little model, crying bitterly, was forced to accept the lesser of the two evils. She left Paris forever and settled in a country village.

As for the irreverent portraits, the empress bought them up at a price that made the artist a gentleman of leisure for the rest of his life, and had them utterly destroyed. But the ghost of the spicy tale they started haunted the Imperial family closet for years.

Chinese Fighting Crickets.

The Siamese fighting fish is not the only creature whose natural pugnacity is turned to account to satisfy the reprehensible passion of the Celestials for gambling. Crickets are popular throughout all China, not only for their song but for the fighting matches in which they are entered against one another by enthusiastic gamblers who bet large sums of money on the champions of such contests.

OLD-TIMERS ARE QUITE DOUBTFUL.

Wonder What Regulations Can Prevent Oil Wildcatting.

OTTAWA, Feb. 7.—Great curiosity is being expressed here with regard to the new oil regulations soon to be promulgated.

It is undersood that the main reason for withdrawing those previously promulgated was to take measures to prevent "wildcatting."

It is a very difficult thing to do, and old-timers do not believe it can be done. But they are willing to be shown.

JUDGMENT DELAYED IN THE TELEPHONE APPLICATION CASE

DR. M'LEAN, WHO IS PREPARING IT, ON A HOLIDAY.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Feb. 8. — Apparently judgment in the application of the Bell Telephone Company for increased rates will not be issued for some time.

Dr. J. S. McLean, Assistant Chief of the Railway Commission, who presided at the hearing, and is understood to be preparing the judgment, is now on holiday, and may not return to his office for two or three weeks.

Inquiry at the Commission resulted in the statement that he was in good health, but tired out owing to the press of work lately.

GREEK'S PREPARING A NEW OFFENSIVE

TURKISH NATIONALISTS SAY THEY ARE READY TO MEET IT.

(Canadian Press.)

ROME, Feb. 8.—Seventy thousand Greek troops are being organised for a great offensive in Asia Minor, it is said in reports receved here from Smyrna.

The Turkish Nationalists are preparing to meet the offensive, and claim that they will be able to offer stubborn resistance.

FIRE GUTS TORONTO BUILDING: BIG LOSS

BUILDING ON WELLINGTON STREET WAS ENTIRELY DESTROYED THIS MORNING.

(Canadian Press).

TORONTO, Feb. 8. — Fire this morning almost gutted a Wellington Street building occupied by a number of manufacturers' agents. The loss to the building and contents is estimated at two hundred thousand dollars.

CHICAGO GRAIN

(United Press.)

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 8.—The green bug was responsible for the strength exhibited in wheat. The prevalence of this scourge was reported over north and central Texas, and the reports stated that the crop was threatened with destruction. The entire state raised only 15,925,000 bushels of wheat last year, but this was overlooked by shorts and they rushed pell-mell to cover at a time when the market was in a strong technical position because of the super-abundance of shorts.

Tht market started easier n selling of future for foreign accounts and a lack of buying power. Foreign news was generally bearish. London cables told of the British Government selling 4,000,000,000 bushels of Australian wheat to Germany on six months' credit at a price 8 cents under United States wheat. Italy was reported to have more than amply covered her requirements for the next four months. The domestic situation was stronger owing to small receipts and increasing milling demand.

Corn was affected by the upturn in wheat. The market was lower on scattered selling at the opening. The shorts covered later on the bulge in wheat, but when reports of good export sales were circulated there was a big rush by shorts to cover. There was some doubt cast over the size of the export business. Early reports made the totals 180,000 bushels, but a well posted expert broker said that the business did not total over 55,000 bushels late yesterday and to-day.

Cash basis was 1-2 to 2 3-4 cents higher. Domestic shipping demand poor.

Oats worked with other grains, there being no individual feature to the market. Shipping demand continues slow, but receipts also are light. Green bug is also reported to be damaging the winter oat crop.

Provisions were lower. The 20 cent to 25 cent break in hogs caused liquidation. The market failed to respond to the strength in grain.

ENCOURAGING SIGNS OF BUSINESS

The uncertainty of future prices is not going to hamper Mr. P. Black, corner of George and King streets, in giving his patrons full stocks of the newest goods as they come out. Mr. Black will leave to-morrow to visit the cities in the purchase of new goods to keep stocks complete. Mr. Black's way of buying is an assurance that his patrons need not lack confidence in values. The desire to buy at this busy corner store will be just as good and steady as it ever was; and when Mr. Black returns, he will have something worth while to tell them.

NO SCHOOLS TO BE BUILT UNLESS WAGES ARE REDUCED.

NIAGARA FALS, Feb. 7.—According to decision of the Niagara Falls, N.Y., Board of Education, there will be no building done this summer unless wages are substantially reduced to correspond with the reductions in materials. Many new buildings are projected and necessary, but the action of the Board will hold them up for this year.

VOL. XLIX. NO 33 PETERBOROUGH, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1921 PRICE THREE CENTS

NO SABBATH CARS UNTIL NEXT MAY?

SUCH IS THE HINT THROWN OUT BY THE HYDRO—CITY COUNCIL OPPOSED TO RURAL POWER PROPOSITION.

"U.F.O. MEASURE"

People who voted for Sunday street cars at the January elections have been wondering why the delay in instituting a seven day service.

The situation was explained in council last night in a letter from Engineer Gaby of the Hydro-Electric Commision. Mr. Gaby wrote that in the absence of any specific instructions from the City Council the Commission had assumed that the city was not desirous of having Sunday street cars started during the winter months, and that it would not be necessary to arrange for cars to commence running on Sundays before May next.

This matter was sent to the railways Committee, of which Ald. Gainey is chairman.

Rural Power.

Hydro-Electric's proposition that urban users of power be taxed $2 per horse power for all white juice used by their Utilities Commission, to enable Hydo-Electric to extend their lines throughout rural municipalities, came in for considerable adverse criticism.

Ald. Gordon referred to this as a U. F. O. measure and all emphatically lodged their objection to this city contributing to the cost of power for country users.

On motion of Ald. Gainey and Morrison, it was decided to oppose the proposition.

Ald. Gordon—"And the Mayor to send representation to Toronto if advisable."

WINNERS OF THE EXAMINER CUPS

SEVERAL ENTRIES WERE RECEIVED —THE WINNERS.

Some time ago the Examiner announced an award consisting of two silver cups to be made to the first boy and girl born at the beginning of the New Year In each case the notice of birth was to be accompanied by information giving time of birth and the name of the attending physician. Several entries were received and the following have qualified for the awards.

First Award.

Born—At St. Joseph's Hospital on Sunday, January 2nd (at 3.10 p.m.,) 1921 to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hendry, Concession street, south, a daughter.

ENGINEERS TO HOLD MEETING

Next Thursday's meeting of the Engineering Institute will be held in the Board of Trade rooms at 8.00 p.m. The speaker will be Wm. Gore, M.E.I.C., of Toronto, who will give an illustrated address on "Reservoirs, Both for Water Supply and for Power."

It is also expected that Mr. K. H. Smith, M.E.I.C., of Halifax, chief engineer for the Nova Scotia Water Power Commission, will be in the city and will address the meeting.

The guests will be entertained at a supper at the Empress Hotel Grill room before the meeting.

The members are asked to bring their wives to the meeting as it is felt that the women are always much interested in engineering subjects.

All citizens are invited to attend.

A WOMAN FOR THE CABINET

MRS. RALPH SMITH, WHO REFUSED SPEAKERSHIP OF B. C. HOUSE, WANTS A PORTFOLIO.

STARTLING EDITORIAL

(Special to the Examiner)

VANCOUVER, Feb. 9. — Mrs. Ralph Smith, M.P.P., who refused the speakership of the British Columbia Legislature yesterday has signified a desire to be taken into the cabinet. Her wish may be gratified.

The Vancouver Sun, Liberal, this morning has the following startling editorial under the heading "Too Much Mary Ellen."

"Mrs. Ralph Smith is boldly out to get an office for herself even at the cost of splitting the government, bringing the woman vote into ridicule, and delaying the consideration of important legislation. She is no worse than other members who are barking about their claims to jobs.

"The Liberal Party has not been turned over to job hunters. It is bigger than any set of hungry politicians and it will be better for the party to go out of power until it comes back with a renewed representation actually standing for liberal principles, than to remain in power at the price of obtaining support by yielding to demands for office

"The Premier must select and appoint his own cabinet, win, lose or draw."

LOWER PRICES IN THE LOCAL MARKET

DAIRY PRODUCE, INCLUDING EGGS, ON THE TOBOGGAN.

The tendency in the markets this week is downward, and the prices of 1913 are now in sight. Potatoes are selling to-day at $1.15 and $1.25 a bag, and in the country it is stated that they are being sold readily to the buyers.

Vegetables and fruits show few changes. Hides and wools are unchanged, but at an exceedingly low level.

Reports state that the props are about to be knocked from under dairy produce, and prices are due for a drop.

According to one local man who is in touch with the situation, the egg markets are going to pieces. Eggs, he said, to-day could be bought in the country at 45 cents a dozen. One man stated to-day that he had lost $10.00 yesterday on eggs, and expected to lose $8.00 to-day. Egg production has picked up of late, it is said, and this is advanced as the reason for the drop. Fifty cent eggs are now looked for.

Live hogs are down to $13.50 to-day and dressed hogs are selling at $24.00.

TURN IN BUILDING BECOMING APPARENT

Tone of Instructions to Material Sales Agents Indicates Change.

Building construction has turned the point of its darkest depression, according to interpretations of underlying factors in the industry.

Reasons for this conclusion are based upon the changed tone of letters of instruction and policy being sent out to sales representatives by large building material manufacturers, by a turn in volume from commercial to housing construction and the growing consciousness on the part of prospective building investors that basic building material prices have reached shrinking limits under existing producing costs.

AFRICA WINS VICTORY FOR IMPERIALISM

GOVERNMENT LED BY GENERAL SMUTS LEADING AT POLLS AND WORKING MAJORITY SEEMS ASSURED.

SECESSIONIST DEFEAT

(Canadian Associated Press.)

CAPETOWN, S.A., Feb. 9.—Latest returns in the Union of South Africa election give the government party a strong lead and probably a working majority.

Enormous majorities were given the South African party in Durban and Capetown yesterday, while the Labor party suffered a severe reverse in the Rand district. In Capetown the South African party gained two seats, in Durban three, in Rand eight and in East London one.

The victory of the party headed by Premier Smuts is attributed to the fact that the working men voted against the secession issue raised by General Hertzog and did not pay much attention to the sectional issues raised by the Labour leaders.

PRETORIA, South Africa, Feb. 9. —Gen. Smuts, Prime Minister of the Union of South Africa, was elected to the House of Assembly from the district of Pretoria West in the elections held throughout the Union yesterday. Returns received up until an early hour to-day indicated that the South African Party under the leadership of Gen. Smuts had won victory.

In March of last year a general election was held, which resulted in the return to the House of Assembly of 41 members of the South African or Government party, which is mainly composed of the Dutch speaking business and professional men, and other town dwellers; 44 Nationalists, led by General Hertzog, and supported mainly by the rural Boers; 25 Unionists, led by Sir Thomas Smartt, and representing English speaking electors; 21 Laborites and three Independents, who supported the Government. General Smuts' Government was kept in office by the support of the Unionists, as the Government of General Botha was throughout the war.

Nevertheless General Smuts was not satisfied with the political situation, and early last summer an attempt was made to re-unite the two Dutch speaking parties, or find basis for a compromise. A joint congress was held, attended by 600 delegates. A strong feeling in favor of racial reunion was manifested among the rank and file of the Nationalists, and the Dutch Reformed Church gave its influence to the movement for re-union. The Nationalist leaders, however, were opposed to any compromise of their position, and the economic antagonisms between the towns and country accentuated the differences between the two factions. General Hertzog and his principal colleagues made it clear that their programme envisaged Republicanism and secession from the Empire, a prospect that to the Dutch speaking business men means isolation and stagnation. At the same time the representatives of the rural Boers were indifferent to or suspicious of General Smuts' economic polices, which were intended to foster the development of manufacturing and other industries in South Africa.

General Smuts' next move was to issue a manifesto "appealing to all right minded South Africans, irrespective of party or race, to join a new party, which will be strong enough to safeguard the permanent interests of the Union against the disruptive and destructive policy of the Nationalists." Shortly after, in October last, a congress of the South African party was held, but the delegates declined to form a new party, and offered the Unionists and others the prospect of absorption, rather than partnership. When the Unionist convention was held two weeks later, Sir Thomas Smartt called upon his followers to sweep aside all considerations of party, all doubts and all thoughts of bargaining and "do the big things in a big way." Although it was not an easy matter for the Unoinists to efface themselves and abandon honorable and valued associations they decided to cast in their lot with the South African party with an enthusiasm and unanimity which was surprising. The spirit in which the sacrifice was made was evidently inspired by admiration of the role played by the South African Party during the war.

General Smuts, strengthened by the amalgamation, then began to proclaim the danger of the Nationalist policy and its possibilties of civil war. Hertzog answered that when the Nationalists talked of republicanism they were thinking of a remote future. "Neither I nor any Nationalist wants a blood bath," he declared. "It is merely one of Smuts' bogies." The Nationalist leaders then began to tress the economic issues, telling the farmers that bad conditions of the country were due to Smuts and his English friends.

As for the Labor Party, it has apparently confined its attention to economic issues, and shown hostilities to both the other parties. Colonel Cresswell, its leader, had a distinguished war record, and pledged himself to support the constitution. Apparently the Labor Party was convinced that election exigencies had magnified the dangers of the Nationalist policy.

DRURYITE CAUCUS OVER O.T.A. REPORT

TORONTO, Feb. 9. — Supporters of the Drury Government today held a caucus at the Queens' Park to consider the Tolmie minority report on the Ontario Temperance Act Committee which recommends that the defendants in breaches of the O.T.A. cases shall have the right to appeal to the County Judge who shall hear evidence for himself.

Hon. W. E. Raney was present at the caucus to vigorously protest against the suggestion of a county judge rehearing the evidence in these cases.

The Labour men will nearly all support the Tolmie suggestion. The Farmer members, representing "Drury" districts are likely to endrose the stand taken by the Attorney General.

'IT'S ROTTEN,' SAYS SPENCE

DOMINION ALLIANCE LEADER DEPRECATES PROPOSED QUEBEC LIQUOR LEGISLATION.

EXPECTS PASSAGE

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Feb. 9.—"It's rotten," said Rev. Ben Spence of the Dominion Alliance when asked by a representative of the Examiner what he thought about the liquor bill introduced into the Quebec Legislature.

"It is along the lines I forecasted some time ago," he said. "It looks more like permissive legislation than prohibitory legislation. There is no way of improving the liquor business. The only thing to do is to wipe it out. It is a bad business, and you cannot improve a bad business."

"Have you any information as to whether the bill will go through as introduced?"

"Yes. I think it will go through as introduced. The Quebec temperance organization is not strong enough yet to determine the character of the legislation."

"If the referendum carries in Ontario will it not prevent importation from Quebec?" "Oh, yes, but the liquor is there just the same and is a menace."

"Are you in touch with the temperance forces in Quebec?"

"Yes, all the time."

REPORT A BIG SALE OF FISH

To-day is Canada's National Fish Day.

Fish merchants to-day reported a brisk sale of fish for to-day is Canada's National Fish Day. Canadians are supposed to give recognition to the Dominion's great fish industry today by giving fish a prominent place on the dinner and supper menu. Evidently by the heavy sales at some of the stores they have done this and one dealer to-day said that his sale was a record breaker. Red and pink salmon, halibut and white fish were the most favoured fish but he sold many quarts of oysters also. "It was just like a big Friday", the proprietor of the store said.

SIR LOUIS DAVIES "SHY" IN HIS PAY ENVELOPE

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—When the salaries of judges were revised by legislation last session, a curious error was made. By some mistake in drafting, Sir Louis Davies, chief justice of the Supreme Court of Canada, was the only judge in Canada to have no increase. His salary as a judge and his allowance as administrator were lumped together, but the total remuneration remained as before. To make matters worse, Sir Louis was made liable to an income tax of $1,500 per year, and his retiring allowance was reduced by $5,000 per year. There is, however, every likelihood that the error will be repaired by legislation during the coming session. Sir Louis has been on the Supreme Court bench for nearly twenty years.

MANIPULATED SOME VOTERS' NAMES HERE?

J. H. BURNHAM HAS REPORTED IRREGULARTIES IN VOTERS' LIST TO THE ELECTORAL OFFICER.

MANY NAMES OMITTED

Mr. J. H. Burnham to-day received notice as a candidate at the recent election from the Chief Electoral Officer at Ottawa pointing out to him the Act required that he should transmit to the Chief Officer such complaints as are made by people concerning the working of the new Act. Mr. Burnham pointed out that he had received not scores of complaints but complaints involving hundreds of votes that were left off the lists by the simple device apparently adopted by some house to house canvassers and without the knowledge of the candidate, of finding out how the women folk intended to vote and then showing them adroitly that they were on the voters list by producing a typewritten piece of paper bearing their names to that effect. This paper would be bogus and when the time came to vote their names would not be on the lists. This has been reported to the Electoral Officer by Mr. Burnham.

SOCIETY INVESTS IN VICTORY BONDS

MONTHLY MEETING OF THE CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY,

The Children's Aid Society held their monthly meeting yesterday in the Bank of Montreal Chambers, at which were present: Rev. Father Phelan, Mr. John Edgar, Mr. G. W. Powell, Rev. F. E. Malott, Mr. G. H. Popham, Mr. R. H. Parsons, Dr. D. C. King, Mrs. Walsh, Mrs. Kimberley, Mrs. Wright, Mrs. Fanning, Mrs. Gibbs and Mrs. A. Sanderson.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read, followed by the reading of seevral minor reports.

The balance in the bank at present is $1480.61, and Mr. Parsons reported the purchase of $2600 of 1934 Victory Bonds, which were bought at a fraction over 95, and will yield practically 6%.

The report of the Purchasing Committee was as follows:

Turnbull's	$ 4.04
Hall and Son	8.45
H. LeBrun and Co.	9.49
Wm. Asling	3.05
R. Neill, Limited	14.56
Matthews-Blackwell Co.	2.10

Wm. Brown	14.00
J. W. Edwards	12.03
James Juby	24.38
G. W. Powell	6.50
Telephone (Powell)	.15
	$118.63

Sources of Revenue.

Mr. Powell remarked that he had noticed a recent report in the Toronto papers to the effect that the proceeds of the pot captured in a gambling raid had been turned over to the Childrens' Aid Society, and wondered if this would open up a new field of revenue.

Mr. E. A. Peck had asked the Society to consider the case of a little girl (not a ward of the Society) requiring a tonsil and adenoid operation, but it was finally decided to ask Mr. Peck to refer this matter to the Relief Officer and Health Association; and the case of a country family of destitute mental defectives was also referred to the former officer's care.

Information Wanted.

A specimen blank government report was submitted for attention, which requires that information regarding wards of the Society, such as the name, the age, physical or mental defectives, and if ready for placement, be submitted monthly to the government. Mr. Edgar thought that a record of information regarding the parents of the children might be kept, so as to make it more difficult for parents to evade responsibility for their offspring.

A vote of thanks was moved and seconded to Miss E. Morrow for the gift of a knitting machine to the Shelter, and the following donations were acknowledged for January:

A. McDonald Lumber Co., load of wood.

G.W.V.A., Lakefield, cake and sandwiches.

G.A.A. Collegiate, sandwiches.

TACTICS FOR BRINGING ABOUT A GENERAL ELECTION THE FIRST MATTER BEFORE CAUCUS.

WILL ATTEMPT FORCE

(Special to Examiner.)

OTTAWA, Feb. 9. — Opposition tactics for the bringing on of a general election will be one of the first matters considered by their representatives caucus. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King has always held that the mandate of the Government had expired and last session moved an amendment to the address calling for the restoration of responsible government and a representative parliament through an appeal to the people.

There will be a difference this session. In view of the speeches of both Mr. King and Mr. Crerar during the recess ,and in view of the fact that a new party has been formed since the last session, and that a new government has been formed, it will obviously be the duty of both Opposition leaders to use all the tactics in their power for the forcing of a dissolution through the defeat of the government in the House.

Whatever the country's interpretation of the result in Peterboro may be, certain it is that the government looks with disdain upon any suggestion that there should be a general election. It will continue to do business at the old stand until forced by violence to quit.

NEW YORK STOCKS

(United Press.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Rail shares featured the early trading on the stock market to-day. Southern Pacific was taken in large blocks at 80 and fractionally higher. Reading was in demand above 83. Northern Pacific was up 5-8 at 85 1-2, and Newhaven 1-8 at 21 3-8. The Steels were irregular. U. S. Steel was up 1-8 at 82 7-8 and Crucible at 84 showed an equal gain, but Republic was off 1-8 at 66 1-4 and Bethlehem B. lost 1-2 at 56 3-4.

Oils were steady. Sinclair was unchanged at 23 1-2 and Mexican Petroleum showed no change at 159.

Studebaker was up 3-8 at 57 7-8. American Can. at 30 7-8 showed a gain of 3-8. Baldwin was unchanged at 89 1-2. U. S. Rubber at 69 1-4 was off 1-4.

The opening quotations included: U. S. Steel 82 7-8 up 1-8, Crucible 94 up 1-8, Mexican Petroleum 159 unchanged, Amercan T. and T. 99 1-2 off 1-8, Studebaker 57 7-8 up 3-8, Baldwin 89 1-2 unchanged, American Smelting 42 7-8 off 1-8, American Sugar 90 3-4 up 3-4, Goodrich 39 3-8 off 3-8, Northern Pacific 85 1-2 up 5-8, Southern Pacific 80 1-8 up 1-4, Republic Iron and Steel 66 1-4 off 1-8, U. S. Rubber 69 1-4 off 1-4, American Can. 30 7-8 up 3-8, Sinclair 23 1-2 unchanged, Bethlehem B. 56 3-4 off 1-2, Newhaven 21 3-8 up 1-8.

GOVERNMENT DISREGARDS ITS DEFEAT

NOW BELIEVED IN OTTAWA THAT GOVERNMENT WILL NOT ATTEMPT DISSOLUTION UNTIL 1922.

CONSIDERABLE AGITATION

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 9.—The Government, it is stated to-day, has decided to disregard the general interpretation placed upon the West Peterobrough debacle ,and to hang on to power until its constitutional rights have expired in 1922 ,or it is pried loose from office by a defeat on the floor of the house. The only effect which the reevrse will have will be to delay reconstruction of the Cabinet which would have occurred immediately had the result in West Peterborough been different. Tariff revision, it is said, will be proceeded with as though Peterobrough had never given a vote to the Opposition candidates. The Government's decision has been arrived at in spite of advice, editorial and otherwise, tendered on the morning after the disaster. There has been a serious attempt on the part of the Government press to minimize the apparent significance of the Peterborough defeat.

This morning, the Ottawa Journal, probably the staunchest supporter of Premier Meighen and his government in the Dominion, advocates editorially an appeal to the people. The Journal says philosophically that whatever argument may be advanced the Government succeeded in securing less than three thousand votes cast, and that from all indications neither the Government nor its policy was popular in West Peterborough.

All this Premier Meighen and his Government have decided to disregard. They will insist that there cannot be a real election without redistribution. They will declare that the newly constituted party is not responsible for all the by-election losses since 1917, which were six in number. In fact they will point with some pride to the fact that out of five by-elections held under the auspices of Premier Meighen the Government won three and that this is fairly good fishing. That two of the seats won were picked seats and opened for the election of ministers makes no difference. That the two lost were old Conservative seats in the traditionally Conservative province of Ontario is unconsequential. Three out of five is good fishing.

The Government still claims to have a majority of twenty-one, though it is admitted that quite a number of the Government following are chronic absentees. This majority, it is claimed, is a fair working majority, though some members doubt whether it is a good "drinking" majority—that it is sufficient to permit of relay work. The Laurier majority averaged forty-two during the fifteen years of office.

The standing of the House at the opening of the session is estimated as follows:

Government	128
Liberal	83
National Progressive	15
Cross bench	5
Vacancies	4

(Including the dual representation of Hon. Rodolph Lemieux.)

Disinterested pressure urging a general election is being offset by "interested" pressure urging the Government to "stand fast." There are about fifteen ministers drawing down $14,000 a year each and over a hundred members with an annual emolument of $4,000. Many of these will never tread the halls of Parliament again after the next general election. It is, therefore, natural that to them the "clear call" from West Peterborough and East Elgin is but a still small voice, less to them than that of conscience, and as easy to deaden. Parliamentary halls are comfortable and Parliamentary companionshp sweet. Why should they depart from them because of a mistaken interpretation of an election which has no moral at all, and which was lost to the Government because the Conservative forces happened to be divided?

That is about the attitude of those who advice the government to stay out the constitutional term.

TEN PER CENT. OF FISHING VILLAGES ACTUALLY IN WANT

(Canadian Press)

HALIFAX, N. S. Feb. 9.—"Well, I dunno anything about Reverend Miller takin' up a collection for people at Herring Cove, but I heard Father MacKinnin was collectin' money for some Bear Cove people," said Angus MacWilliams of Herring Cove leaning over the counter of Ole Johnston's store on Water street and looking pointedly at the proprietor who formerly lived in Bear Cove. There was a strained silence. Some days later, however, MacWilliams and Johnston met on the street and there was a fight followed by an assault case in the police court which brought to a conclusion the argument arising out of the comparative amount of destitution in two Nova Scotian fishing villages.

The opinion of authorities with respect to the degree of distress existing along the coast of the Province varies, but the general concensus of opinion appears to be that the situation in the homes of fishermen who did not lay by their earnings for the proverbial rainy day, now at hand, is anything but happy. This is more especially true in the district neighboring the towns and industrial centres where the people deserted their nets for the more remunerative pick and shovel in the recent days of the manufacturing boom. Thrown out of their jobs by "shut-downs" and "lay offs" they are now returning to a lean harvest of the deep, and churches are collecting money to supply flour and fuel to those who are really suffering. Fortunately these are comparatively few in number.

"I should say about ten per cent of the population of the fishing villages of Nova Scotia is actually in want of the necessities of life," said Arthur Boutilier for the National Fish Company.

The worst phase of the whole situation is that the time of stress is apparently still in the offing. The prices of fishing supplies have not dropped in equality with the price of fish, and those who buy their fishing gear now will have to pinch themselves with small prospect of recovering on the catch in the spring unless it is a particularly large one.

"The outlook for the fishermen of Nova Scotia generally is bad, and there are dangerous days ahead," said R. H. Williams of the Roberts Simpson Company to the Canadian Press. "However, I don't think there is actually much want among them yet."

Last year fishermen who stayed with their nets did fairly well on the average and these should be able to

THIRTEETH ANNUAL REPORT OF LOCAL FIRE DEPARTMENT

CHIEF GRANGE TOTALS NUMBER OF FIRES IN 1920 AT 200 AND GIVES THEIR CAUSES.

ASKS FOR NEW CAR

Fire Chief George Grange submitted to the City Council last night the thirteenth annual report of the Peterborough Fire Department as follows:

During the year the department responded to two hundred alarms of fire, and in doing so, the apparatus travelled 259 miles, 19,500 feet of standard 2½-inch fire hose were laid, 518 gallons of chemical extinguisher were used and 578 feet of ladders were raised.

The total loss for the year was $31,307.72 divided as follows:' On buildings, $14,386.00, and on contents, $16,921.72. This is the smallest loss since 1915. The per capita loss was about $1.40.

The system of inspection that I started after my appointment was this year extended to the residental section of the city, 1,005 inspections being made in this section. The total number of inspections made were 1,735. The usual school inspections were conducted this year during Safety Week and at each school the Chief delivered a lecture to the children.

Fire Escapes.

In 1918 I advised that 37 buildings be equipped with fire escapes of the type approved of by the Government regulation. Some owners have complied, while others have entirely ignored the request. A number of apartment houses are now occupied in the city and in most cases the only means of exit is by an inside stairway and this is generally located directly over that portion of the basement that contains the heating plant. If fire breaks out in one of these buildings and the stairways become impassable loss of life is almost sure to result. Wooden balconies outside are of no value as fire escapes. The upper stories of garage buildings should never, under any circumstances, be used for living apartments. Some day we are going to experience a fire in one of these buildings that will be accompanied by the loss of many lives. A by-law to control these matters should be enacted.

Restrict Dry Cleaning.

I would again advise that there should be some legislation to prohibit the operation of large dry cleaning establishments in the congested portion of the city. The presence of these places creates a grave menace to the safety of lives and property, especially to the lives of firemen who would be compelled to fight fire in the vicinity of a building containg perhaps seventy-five gallons of gasoline. Gasoline fumes travel a long distance and are very penetrating. The presence in a nearby building of open fire might be sufficient to ignite the fumes. The fire would then travel back to the source of fuel supply and an explosion result. The placing of gasoline in tanks under the earth does not relieve the situation—the gasoline is still used on the surface. The insurance rate is necessarily higher in the vicinity of these places.

All of the apparatus has been kept in a good state of repair, excepting that several pieces need painting and the 28-foot ladder requires to be replaced, the old one being unsafe.

The general health of the department has been good. No serious accident and only one case of serious illness was reported. One member was absent from duty for a period of three months.

During the first six months of the year there was apparent no signs of unrest. During my attendance of the annual convention of Dominion Fire Chiefs my attitude respecting recently enacted legislation for firemen was wrongly reported, and upon my return this was seized on by certain of the men for the purpose of creating trouble. To prevent open revolt on the part of several of the members I was obliged to release three of the men who were apparently quite prominent in the disturbance, claiming that the disturber is always inefficient. The result of the charges made by them was an investigation, the result of which was not favourable to their cause. Since that time, with a few exceptions, the discipline has been good. In a few cases, however, there seems to be an undercurrent of discontent and disappointment. My contention is that the malcontent is interested only in his own conspiracies and is therefore inefficient.

Aid From Police.

The Police Department has rendered valuable aid at fires and I am pleased to have their co-operation. The merchants and manufacturers have taken kindly to any suggestions I had to offer respecting the safeguarding of lives or property.

During the year we had three calls for the pulmotor.

Several times since I became Chief of the department I have advised that two new sub-stations be erected, one in the south and near the manufacturing plants, and the other in East City. Under the present method of operating the double platoon system we are given additional protection, but I wish to strongly urge the erection of the sub-stations.

Two new sliding poles should be placed in the central station, one in the dormitory and the other in the hall-way, directly connecting the upstairs with both apparatus rooms.

I wish also to advise the complete motorization of the department. It is only during a few weeks of an exceptional severe winter that horses would be required. During that period, I believe, a team could be secured for their keep, as many teamsters are unemployed at that season. I estimate that a saving of between six [illegible] dollars could be made annually.

Wants New Car.

A new car should be purchased to be used as a Chief's car. I am extremely anxious that this car should be purchased, owing to the unsafe condition of the Ford. Although the car has the name of "Chief's car" it is used for fire purposes only and often the department responds to calls to small fires with it and the men themselves feel that it is unsafe and inadequate.

It is little short of criminal that public buildings, where people congregate in numbers, are not protected by fire alarm boxes. Boxes should be installed in front of every school and hospital in the city. Think of tiny children and helpless invalids—perhaps your own children and friends—being exposed to the danger of fire or panic, just through lack of protection of this nature. The telephone is not a safe way of communicating an alarm of fire. In the confusion and excitement that invariably attends fire there is apt to be a mistake in either sending or receiving the message. By use of fire alarm boxes this danger is eliminated.

This report embodied a stock sheet showing the amount and value of all supplies and equipment on hand Dec. 31, 1920. Also a table showing the number of alarms received, date of each fire, day of the week, time of day or night, cause of fire, names of both owner and occupant of the property, estimated damaage done by fire, distance the apparatus travelled, number of feet of hose used, number of gallons of chemical extinguisher user, number of feet of ladders raised, how alarms were received (box, telephone or verbal), time alarms were received, time apparatus returned, name of fireman receiving alarm, type of buildings involved, number of telephone calls received at the fire station each month, number of inspections made by the department, number of reports made, number of official letters sent out and a comparative statement of former years.

GUN BATTLE ENDS DANCE; 1 DEAD, 2 SHOT

PISTOL FIGHT IN PARK ROW HALLWAY RESULTS IN ARREST OF 22 MEN DANCERS,

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Jazz bandmen were uncovering their instruments preparatory to the Sunday night dance of the Duane Field Club, at 158 Park Row—once famous as the site of 'Diamond Dan' O'Rourke's saloon—and members of the club—most of them former habitues of Callahan's and the Chatham Club and Jimmy Kelley's — were assembling with their women friends, when revolvers began to crack in the hallway by which the dance hall is reached.

The men in the dance hall, on the third floor, and others who were on their way upstairs, rushed to the street floor and joined in the fight. It had lasted only a moment when two policemen were seen running toward the building. Revolvers were hastily thrown down and the fighters scattered. One man ran across the street and then dropped suddenly on the sidewalk, bleeding from a wound in his breast.

The two policemen—Patrolmen Apt and Ulsamer of the Elizabeth Street Station—blocked the doorway to the dance hall and then sent a call to the Elizabeth Street Station. Reserves arrived and placed under arrest all of the men in the dance hall and others who were found in the Municipal Billiard Academy on the third floor.

Dies Before Ambulance Arrives.

The man who fell was carried into the hallway. He was dead with a bullet in his heart before the ambulances arrived. He was later identified by papers as Michael Dimesci, a seaman.

In the meantime Lieutenant Casey at the Elizabeth Street Station had sent policemen to all of the hospitals in the neighborhood to watch for men with gunshot wounds. Within an hour two men had appeared at different hospitals—a man who described himself as Frank Uale, 28, an undertaker at 6,605 Fourteenth avenue, Brooklyn, at the Broad Street Hospital, and another, who said he was George J. Ballatti, 28, a news dealer, of 91 Baxter street, at the Volunteer Hospital. Uale, who had a wound in his left lung, was left at the hospital a prisoner.

Both of the prisoners told the police that they "just happened to be going by 158 Park Row when the shooting started." They were being questioned late last night by representatives of the District Attorney's office.

No one of the twenty-two men taken in the dance hall and billiard rooms would admit that he knew anything about the shooting, so the police called a patrol wagon and had them all taken to the Elizabeth Street Station. The police say the shooting was due either to gang rivalry or a quarrel over the division of "bootlegging" money.

Sightseers Rush to Fight.

The police are looking into a story that there was a fist fight Saturday night between the billiard room crowd and the members of the Duane Field Club. A chance remark to one of the women who was being brought to a dance or a quarrel between one of the hangers-on of the billiard room and one of the dancers following a "hootch party" might have started the row, the police think.

Chinatown and the neighborhood of Chatham Square, which is close to the dance hall, was crowded when the shooting started. In the crowds were many visitors who were seeing Chinatown celebrate its New Year's. There was a rush in the direction of the fighting and the police had to form lines to keep back the sightseers.

CHARGE WIFE SLEW JEALOUS HUSBAND

NEW YORK, Feb. 8. — George Spade, a machinist, was found dead from the effects of a shot-gun wound, in his home at 48 Garrison street, Newark, where the police arrested his wife, Rose, on a charge of murder. The fingers of the dead man clutched a newspaper clipping, and this, Mrs. Spade told the police, had been the cause of the quarrel between herself and her husband and had resulted in the shooting. She went to a closet and brought forth a shotgun, with which she had killed her husband, according to the police.

Mrs. Spade, 21 years old, asserted that her husband, who was about twice her age, had been jealous and quarrelsome almost from the day of their marriage eighteen months ago. She told this story to the police concerning the clipping found in her husband's hand:

"It was a clipping I had cut from a paper because it contained a recipe for making home-made candy, but the reverse side of it more the picture of a man, though I did not know of the picture. While I was absent my husband searched a bureau, found the recipe, and declared to me when I returned that I was keeping the clipping because of the picture, and he demanded to know who the man was. I protested that I did not know, and assured him I had not before seen the picture."

Mrs. Spade declared she had fired in self-defence.

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 9TH, 1921.

THE FARMERS' PLANS.

The plans of the United Farmers in the development of their political campaign call for candidates not only in the rural constituencies, but in ridings in which the vote is largely urban. How they can continue to confine the selecetion of their candidates to conventions composed only of farmers, as has been their policy, and expect to receive any appreciable share of the urban vote, is something that Secretary J. J. Morrison might find it difficult to answer. The local by-election shows that in ridings like West Peterborough, where the great majority of the voters are city dwellers, a Farmer candidate has little chance of election. If the Agrarian standard-bearer in a fight in which the city vote was split among four other candidates, could not succeed, any attempt to elect a Farmer in a straight fight, with representatives of the two old parties, wold be doomed to failuer. Refusing the urban voters any opportunity of having a voice in the choosing of a candidate, and then asking them ta support a nominee chosen exclusively by farmers, is a policy that will gain no friends for the Agrarian party so far as the cities are concerned. This is one of the lessons taught by the by-election, and its significance should not be missed.

THE LABOUR PARTY.

In seeking to place the blame for the comparatively small vote polled by the Labour candidate in Monday's by-election upon the Examiner, leaders of the Independent Labour Party are wandering far from the real causes of the poor showing of their forces. They should seek nearer home for the reason why Mr. McMurray lost his deposit. If they will set about putting their own house in order they might be able to find that there are influences within their ranks that have driven hundreds of workers away from the Labour organization. And they might discover, too, that the violation of an agreement forms an unstaple foundation for a political campaign. Technically there may have been no formal agreement between the Farmer and Labour forces that Labour would support an U.F.O. candidate in the Dominion arena in return for Farmer supoprt for Mr. Tooms in the last Provincial fight, but certainly there was an understanding at that time, and the Farmers carried out their part of the agreement, only to find Labour unwilling to return the compliment when the time came. The Examiner played no part in the rout of the Labour party on Monday, and the accusation only serves to indicate how little awake are some of the leaders of the party to existing conditions.

THE MOTOR SHOW.

In these columns last evening reference was made to the excellent work done under the auspices of the Peterborough Health Association as shown by the annual report of the District Nurse. The efforts of the Association to improve the health conditions in the city and to help those who are not in a position to secure the care and attention their ill health requires, are now generally recognized by the citizens, and undoubtedly there would be an almost unanimous desire to co-operate in any movement designed to provide the Health Association with the financial backing that its work makes necessary. The Association has not advertised what it has been doing; it is content to be judged upon its record and to rely upon the testimony of those who have come directly into contact with its work. That testimiony has made itself felt throughout the city, until the activities of the Health Association are appreciated by the whole community. Under the circumstances, therefore, the annual motor show this spring, the proceeds of which will go to the splendid cause, should be even more successful than last year's show, for the work of the Association is better known than it was a year ago, and most people will be glad to assist in making the motor show such a splendid success that the Health Association will not have to worry over the financial side of their programme.

A GENERAL ELECTION?

All reports from Ottawa, and the comment in newspapers of varying shades of political opinion, seem to agree that the result of the by-election in West Peterborough means a speedy dissolution of Parliament and an early general election. An early dissolution, voluntary or otherwise, is practically inevitable," one despatch puts it, and this seems to be the opinion of observers generally. Had the Government won the decision, there is no doubt that the Meighen administration would have stuck to its guns, taking the position that the census must be taken and redistribution carried out before an appeal to the country would be justified. Premier Meighen and other Government speakers were emphatic on this point in their addresses during the local campaign. In spite of the huge vote polled against their standard-bearer on Monday, the Government may still adhere to the policy of hanging on, hopeful of steering their craft through the session which opens next week. The tone of the Ottawa comment on the West Peterborough verdict seems to indicate a different development in the situation, but until after the first Government caucus is held speculation as to the policy that will be adopted by Premier Meighen, is merely guess work. The decision of that caucus will be awaited with the keenest of interest by the whole Dominion.

THE PARVENU AND HIS "HONOUR."

During the war and long prior to its outbreak, if there was one thing which astonished the world more than the German's arrogance, it was his credulity. Mark Twain truly said that there could be no upper class in this country so long as the rest of the people declined to consider themselves a lower class. But the German was bluffed by the militarist into considering himself a lower (but never the lowest) class, and even gloried in it. He said: "Count those sixty-four quarterings on the Highly Geborn's coat of arms. You may call him a boor or a bully, but there are sixty-four certificates to his noble birth. This is unanswerable."

It is not unanswerable, if you know anything about geometrical progression. His sixty-four quarterings might mean that his parents had thirty-two each. It might mean, and probably did, that one out of each two of his great-great-grandparents had no coat of arms, for they only needed two quarterings between them. That is why a well-born Frenchman or Englishman exhibits a single device on his shield carried in the Crusades, while the Serene Highness of Pumpernickel displays a patchwork quilt.

There is no trifling in this illustration. It has a tremendous meaning. The German Empire was the parvenu among empires, puffed up with new wealth, materialistic, vicious, arrogant; a thing spawned out of the marriage of incompatibles, or base compatibilities, at Versailles, only fifty years ago. What does it know about honour, about paying its bets when it loses? The French paid the extortionate ransom of the war of 1870 in four years of honourable effort. Noblesse oblige. But the German will never face the reparations—not because he could not under a sane receivership, but because the honour of his ersatz empire is no more valid than the patchwork quarterings on his shield, lacking even the distinction of the bend sinister.

And the more the present condition is considered the more essentially pro-German Mr. Wilson's "fourteen points" and his League of Nations demonstrate themselves. The former, put out ten months before the Armistice, constituted an option at which the German gambler could cover his shorts. The latter was forced upon the Allies largely to save the deflated German Empire. Had the Treaty of Peace with no such addition as the League been summarily concluded in the spring of 1919, as the Allies attempted when Wilson came home for the first time, the pinchbeck German Empire would have been resolved into its constituent parts.

It is not difficult to trace the source of the German's whine. He never intended to pay if he lost. The lack of the French spirituality in his character made the German incapable of facing the possibility of losing. He only bet, as the cheat does, when he thought he was gambling on a certainty, with all the honours in the cards marked for identification. — Wall Street Journal

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Lent commences to-day, and as the Toronto Telegram remarks, the Meighen government has decided to give up West Peterborough.

In spite of the alleged fondness of women to talk, Mrs. Mary Smith has refused to be the Speaker of the British Columbia Legislature.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

The income tax, like Christmas, comes but once a year.

Comon sense may be needed sometimes, but uncommon sense is a better brand.

Probably these men who decorate their offices with wall mottoes do so to keep their eyes off the clock.

A Chicago despatch carries an explanation that women's clothes, though scanty, are warm. That is not the point.

Whether or not you let any grass grow under your feet now, you are sure to have a whole lawn over your head some day.

Beauty may be only skin deep, but it entrances many a man to such an extent that he forgets to keep one hand deep in his money pocket.

The person who declares "I have nothing to say" to the reporter seeking an interview is the same who wants a solid column whenever he or she squeezes into a corner of the public eye.

Women, as a rule, have poor heads for figures. That may be why it is almost impossible for one to figure out her age correctly.—Toronto Telegram.

"Yes, sir," said the soldierly-looking man. "I have spent fifteen years of my life in the service of my country."

"So have I," volunteered the low-browed individual, offering his hand. "What were you in for?"

MADOC MAN FINED.

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 8.— Magistrate Masson and Mr. H. F. Ketcheson yesterday morning held court in two O.T.A. cases from Madoc. Asa Reynolds admitted having liquor in a place other than his dwelling place and was fined two hundred dollars and costs. Norman Johnson charged with selling was remanded a week. The information in these cases was laid by Inspector Collison of North Hastings.

LIQUOR WORTH $20,000 TAKEN

PROVINCIAL POLICE ARE SENT BY PREMIER TASCHEREAU TO CLEAN UP HULL.

HULL, Feb. 9.—Liquor with a retail value of more than $20,000 has been seized in Hull since Saturday morning, the biggest haul being during last night when Provincial officials headed by Mr. J. A. Juneau, who was sent to Hull by Premier Taschereau, visited the home of Oscar Gauthier, Bridge street, and seized 142 cases of whiskey and two barrels containing intoxicating fluids. Raids were also made on the premises of the Hull Wine Importing Company, and those of Joseph Paquin, sufficient material evidence being secured to warrant accusations being laid.

While Mr. Juneau has been sent at the personal order of Premier Taschereau to "clean-up blind pigging" in Hull, he is also directed by the Attorney-General's Department to make exhaustive inquiries into the truth of rumors regarding alleged grafting and other illegal practices on the part of some persons.

Inquire Into Council's Actions.

"I am going to make an investigation into the reason why the City Council called a special meeting to appoint a deputy recorder," he declared.

"It will be remembered that when four cases were taken before the recorder there was an intervention registered by the Hull Citizen's League, but before the service of the intervention could be made the cases were brought before the deputy recorder, and he, not knowing of the legal process being taken, imposed fines of $100 and costs."

The intervention proceedings were taken when four persons were charged in both the Hull Magistrate's Court and the Recorder's Court with having sold liquor. The Quebec laws read that no man can be accused in two different courts on the same day of having committed a crime on one and the same day. The alleged blind piggers were hailed before Magistrate Millar, but on the same day appeared in the Recorder's Court and were fined. It is the contention of the Hull Citizens' League that if the case had been heard befre Magistrate Millar the penalty might have been more severe.

Visit is Sensation.

The activities of the Juneau squad of 20 men has caused a sensation in Hull. They were supposed to have gone to work on Friday night, but owing to poor luck in train connections, did not arrive until it was too late to visit Hull's "blind pigs." It was an unlucky delay as in the meantime some one in Montreal called up a person in Hull and passed the word that the officers were en route to Hull.

Saturday morning, however, a visit to the race track near Gatineau Point netted the officers 54 bottles of whiskey and a number of roulette wheels. They visited the Hull Wine Importing store where a few bottles of whiskey were taken. Joseph Paquin's premises netted a number of cases, but most of the "blind pigs" had been artifically dried, thanks to the message from Montreal.

Liquor from Ottawa.

Mr. Juneau was sent to Hull by Premier Taschereau at the request of the Hull Citizens' League. He brought 20 men with him, but they all returned to Montreal yesterday. Before departing some of the men assisted in the raid at Oscar Gauthier's beer and wine store and were not successful in finding booze. They went to Gauthier's home and in the cellar "stumbled" upon 142 cases and two barrels. On the cases were labels bearing the name of the Estate of L. George, Ottawa, and it is presumed that the whikey was bought in Ottawa and transported to Gauthier's premises in autos.

TO INCREASE THE SIZE OF TOBACCO PACKAGES

Tobacco smokers will welcome the news that the size of some of the standard packages of tobacco have been increased. In some cases where one-fourteenth of a pound was sold for 15 cents the manufacturers have increased the weight to one-twelfth and in one case to one-tenth. While there are reports that the price of cigarettes is due for a fall, local distributors assert that no decrease may be expected for several months.

PRESS COMMENT ON ELECTION

Why Not An Appeal?

Under the caption, "Why Not an Appeal?" the Montreal Gazette, one of the Meighen Government's most influential supporters, urges editorially the advisability of a general election after the supply bill has been proceeded with. The Gazette says, in part:

"The by-elections won by the Government mean merely the retention of seats and indicate no new popular confidence, while the contested seats like East Elgin and West Peterboro have swung to the opposition and weakened to that extent the strength of the Ministry. It happens that at the moment the time is propitious for an election, save that supplies have not been voted.

"The advice we have to give to the Government is to proceed with the supply bill and then permit the electorate to express its preference for parties in order that stable administration and confident policy may be carried on. The situation is now uncertain. The life of the Ministry hangs by a thread and under this circumstance strong and effective administration of affairs is impossible.

"Governments are not constitutionally upset by loss of a by-election or two, but no government can disregard the handwriting, and, above all, no government can gain in the present, nor survive in the future, that does not owe its existence to popular support. If time permitted, a tariff might be introduced, and the government appeal to the country upon it; if more time permitted, parliament might have another session, and, after a redistribution of seats, dissolve the house. In ordinary course, this would be the way of procedure, the way we have hoped would be pursued; but in the circumstances of adverse results from recent by-elections the situation is changed."

A Smashing Defeat.

Halifax Chronicle: "The verdict in West Peterboro is not only a grim disappointment; it is a smashing defeat for the Government and following so closely its dramatic reverse in East Elgin, it may well prove disastrous. At all events, it is unmistakable evidence that Ontario has ceased to be a Conservative stronghold, and the Government has not won popular confidence. The West Peterboro victory, one of the most significant in the history of Canadian politics, is of good omen to Liberals."

Black Eye for Meighen.

Toronto World "The Peterboro by-election is a black eye for the Government. The Government displayed poor judgment in running a second Conservative candidate. Burnham, who was first in the field, could have been returned by acclamation, and he would have given independent support to the Government. However, post mortems are of no avail unless profit is derived from what they disclose. The Government will have to get busy organizing Ontario. East Elgin and West Peterboro were both lost by mismanagement. They are both red lights which Premier Meighen should not disregard."

Free Trade Bogey Ineffective.

Toronto Globe: "West Peterboro has spoken decisively on the issue which precipitated the by-election and upon which the battle mainly was fought. In a voice that can be heard throughout the country it has asked the Meighen Government to resign. . . . . The Government polled a shabby minority of votes in the industrial city of Peterboro, which it hoped to win by parading the free trade bogey and playing on the fears of wage-earners. Not often in the politics of this country has a party in office cut so insignificant a figure in a by-election contest."

Comfort for Mr. King.

Toronto Mail and Empire: "The Liberal candidate, Mr. Gordon, has been elected in West Peterboro. For this success he is indebted to the division of the Conservatives between Mr. Denne and Mr. Burnham. The total vote polled for the two Conservatives was about a thousand greater than the vote polled for the Liberal. It must be cheering to Mr. King to have at last won a seat in an English-speaking riding in one of the numerous by-elections that have been held since he took his place as Liberal leader in the House."

Cannot be Evaded.

Regina Leader: "The election of Mr. G. N. Gordon, the Liberal candidate in the West Peterboro by-election gives the Meighen Government a very plain indication of the growing public consciousness that no Ministry can be permitted to defy Toronto World: "The ePterboro by virtue of an unrepresentative majority. The meaning of the decision in West Peterboro cannot be evaded.."

A Moral Blow.

Vancouver Sun: "Hon. Arthur Meighen brought his administration to West Peterboro for endorsement and support; the answer has been a moral blow to that administration. Canada's greatest, most pressing and most immediate need is the restoration of public confidence in the Federal Government, and by means of a general election alone can public confidence be restored."

A Warning to Meighen.

Quebec, Le Soleil: "The result in Peterboro is chiefly a warning to Mr. Meighen to give up the reins of government of Canada. The strong majority to Mr. Gordon means that the tariff is not in jeopardy. It is a confirmation of the claim always expressed by Mr. Mackenzie King. The present Government is usurping the power against the people's will.

Unspeakable Usurpation.

Le Canada (Montreal): "If the Government persist in administering the affairs of the country after this clear verdict of the people, it will be an unspeakable usurpation without example in our history."

What London Thinks.

London Free Press (Conservative): "Hon. Mackenzie King spared no effort to carry the by-election in order to bolster up his leadership. Outside of Quebec, it is the first riding he has won since he was chosen as the successor of Laurier."

The London Advertiser (Liberal): "If Premier Meighen and his friends cannot see in the West Peterboro pronouncement a demand for immediate general election, it is clear they are either lamentably out of touch with, or are arrogantly indifferent to, public feeling."

PUT CREAM IN NOSE AND STOP CATARRH

Tells How To Open Clogged Nostrils and End Head-Colds.

You feel fine in a few moments. Your cold in head or catarrh will be gone. Your clogged nostrils will open. The air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more dullness, headache; no hawking, snuffling, mucous discharges or dryness; no struggling for breath at night.

Tell your druggist you want a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, and relief comes instantly.

It is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer needs. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable.

GETS 3-YEAR TERM.

A young man named Abel Halliday of Montreal, arrested by G.T.R. Special Officer at Oshawa, on a charge of breaking into a G.T.R. freight car and stealing military colthing to the value of about one hundred and fifty dollars, was tried before Magistrate Hinds and sentenced to three years in the penitentiary. There had been a previous conviction against the offender.

DON'T SUFFER WITH NEURALGIA

Use Soothing Musterole

When those sharp pains go shooting through your head, when your skull seems as if it would split, just rub a little Musterole on your temples and neck. It draws out the inflammation, soothes away the pain, usually giving quick relief.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. Better than a mustard plaster and does not blister.

Many doctors and nurses frankly recommend Musterole for sore throat, bronchitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet—colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia). It is always dependable.

MUSTEROLE WILL NOT BLISTER

WOULD PUT TO DEATH INCURABLY INSANE

SUGGESTION MADE AT STATE ASYLUM VIEWED FAVORABLY BY SOME CONNECTICUT LEGISLATORS.

HARTFORD, Conn., Feb. 9.—A suggestion made at the State Hospital for the Insane at Norwich that hopelessly insane persons be mercifully put to death has found favor with certain members of the joint Committee on Appropriations of the Connecticut Legislature now convening in this city.

Whether or not the plan of officially and deliberately putting chronic maniacs out of misery will come before the General Assembly in the form of a bill is problematical, for Jan. 28 was the time limit for introducing bills for such innovations and it is generally felt the idea would get short shrift from the legislators and the public of this "land of steady habits" which has not yet ratified the Woman Suffrage Amendment and is still asking when does prohibition go into effect.

On an official visit to the Norwich Asylum, Superintendent Franklin S. Wilcox showed the members of the Appropriations Committee an inmate, about 50 years old and a veritable giant in stature, manacled to an iron bed placed in a padded cell some distance from other inmates. So violent and dangerous is the maniac that he has not been unshackled in five years except occasionally when three of the most powerful guards have unchained him to give him a bath.

Superintendent Wilcox told Senator Hall of New Britain and his colleagues on the Appropriations Committee that the patient could never recover his reason and would have to remain fettered to the iron cot until death freed him. It was at this point that several members of the committee agreed that the man would be better dead than alive in the asylum, and suggested a law that would provide that persons found to be hopelessly insane after observation and examination by experts should be put to death as mercifully as possible, presumably by poison.

The advocates of this radical departure from Connecticut custom and viewpoint admitted the objection of the difficulty of selecting and authorizing the proper tribunal, even if it were possible to find any one who would be willing to issue a death warrant for a maniac.

Superintendent Wilcox reported that whereas when he went to Norwich in 1918 there were only 1,177 patients, there are now 1,897, of whom 657 are women, but he attributes the increase to a wider understanding and acceptation of the benefits of insane hospitals rather than to any meterial increment of insanity in the State.

ARTIST LEAPS UNDER AN ELEVATED TRAIN

WILSON C. DEXTER, A MAGAZINE ILLUSTRATOR, COMMITS SUICIDE IN NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Feb 8.—Wilson C. Dexter, an illustrator whose work has been conspicuous in leading magazines for several years, jumped in front of a Sixth Avenue elevated train at the Thirty-third Street station and was dead when this body was extricated.

Mr. Dexter left the Hotel Irving, where he made his Winter home, with Mrs. Dexter and their two children, Harriet, aged 8 and Chase 6, in a taxi-cab between 4 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon. He did not check out, telling the clerk on duty he would return.

Despondency over the departure of his wife and children was the only possible reason friends could ascribe for Dexter's act. He accompanied them to the train late yesterday afternoon, at 11.20 last night a telegram addressed to him arrived at the Hotel Irving. It said:

"Arrived safely. HELEN."

At that hour Mrs. Dexter and the couple's two children evidently were unaware that while they were speeding to home of Mrs. Dexter's father in North Brookfield, Mass., the husband and father had killed himself.

Mrs. Dexter was a Miss Fillebrown In Mr. Dexter's pocket was found a telegram dated on Saturday at North Brookfield, Mass., any saying that the signer, C. L. Fillebrown would arrive in New York on the 4 o'clock train from Boston. Relatives of Mr. Dexter said the signer of the message undoubtedly was Mrs. Dexter's father.

At the Hotel Irving it was learned that Mr. and Mrs. Dexter left the hotel together to meet Mr Fillebrown at the Grand Central Teminal.

Later that night, it was said, Mrs. Dexter returned with her father, reclaimed a note she had left for him in case she missed him and destroyed it. As far as recollection of the attendants served Dexter, did not come back with his wife and his father-in-law.

Alone When He Leaped.

No witness to the mans jump was found except the motor man of the southbound train which struck him, from which fact the authorities concluded that Mrs. Dexter and the children were not with him when he leaped. The fact that he had left the hotel earlier in the day with suitcases and that Mr. Dexter had said he would reeurn led to the suspicion that Mrs. Dexter and the children were leaving the city, very probably to visit her father at North Brookfield. Mr. Fillebrown did not stay at the Irving Saturday night and it was believed at the hotel that he had returned to his home.

Some 2,000 cards a day are made out in connection with what was the Canadian Expeditionary Force, and the distribution of these medals will take place as promptly as receved.

MILLIONS KILLED IN ACTION

Wonderful news! Millions and millions of germs killed in action and thousands and thousands of victims relieved of bronchitis, asthma, coughs and colds. There is great rejoicing in the fact that science has at last invented the world's surest death trap for germs—Buckley's Bronchitis Mixture. With the first dose this remedy gets right down to business, and never ceases in its destructive work until every trace of the disease is completely removed and the victim restored to normal health. Letters from all parts of Canada praising this wonderful mixture are literally pouring into headquarters. Read this letter:—"Years of suffering from that terrible affliction, bronchial asthma, ordered by all medical men to close my business in Montreal and go south to a warmer climate, but I noticed your ad. in the "Montreal Standard" for the above mixture and I said I would give one more trial to health before I leave my native town, and thank the good maker I did. My bronchial tubes are clear, the hacking cough has disappeared, the wheezing cough has ceased as if by magic, and all discomforts have gone since taking your wonderful mixture."—Herbert Corri, 417 McKay Street, Montreal. ENGINEER H. W. MIDDLEMIST REPORTS AGAINST THE ERECTION OF OLD BRIDGE

MATERIAL HAS CONSIDERABLY DETERIORATED AND STRUCTURE NOT LONG ENOUGH TO MEET REQUIREMENTS WHERE NEEDED.

COUNCIL ROUTINE

When the Mayor and his aldermanic colleagues filed into the City Council Chamber last night the room presented a somewhat festive appearance, for each desk was embellished with a minature union jack in silent but colorful welcome to the new member of the House of Commons, Ald. G. N. Gordon.

And Mayor McIntyre took occasion to congratulate his aldermanic colleague on his elevation to the high and honorable position of M. P. for West Peterborough. "He was glad," he said, "to acknowledge the honor reflected on the City Council in one of its member's election to the Federal house."

Ald. Gordon, in making no reply, displayed commendable observance of municipal council ethics, which draws a sharp distinction between municipal and political interests.

Bridge Damages.

Mr. R. R. Hall wrote that he had been instructed by Jas. C. Ellis, of the Peterborough Mattress Co. to act with him in assessing the damages to his property across the river, access to which is blocked by the new Hunter street bride.—Referred to the Special Bridge committee.

A petition by Olive avenue residents for a sewer went to the Board of Works.

Fire Chief Grange's annual and monthly report was sent to the Fire, Water and light committee.

Is Old Bridge Scrap?

In regard to re-erecting the old steel bridge, replaced by the new Hunter street cement structure, Engineer H. W. Middlemist reported adversely. He pointed out that his old bridge was ereced in 1875 and must have considerably deteriorated, and thus every part would need thoroughly going over. He also doubted whether it would comply with the weight specifications of to-day. Then this old steel bridge would not reach across the river at the point suggested, just above the Peterborough Hydraulic Co.'s dam, at London street, consequently considerable new material would be needed to extend its length. This went to the Special Bridge committee.

Mr. Eastwood Re-appointed.

Mr. Vincent Eastwood was re-appointed a member of the Peterborough City Trust. This was on motion of Aldermen Gordon and Hamilton.

Garbage Collection.

The rate for levying of taxes to defray the expense of collection and removal of garbage for 1921 was fixed at 8.10 of a mill, to raise $12,570.77. In this connection, the rate was 9.10 of a mill last year, but the assessment has been now raised and the rate correspondingly reduced.

Pole Rental.

A by-law was passed authorizing the execution of an agreement and grant of leasement with the Hydro-Electric Commission of Ontario. By this agreement the Utilities Commission will charge Hydro-Electric Commission a yearly rental of $3 each for 12 poles erected on city's "mill" property at Auburn, used in transmission of Power to Lakefield. This agreement to endure for three terms of ten years each.

Filtration Plant.

A by-law to authorize borrowing $50,000 for the purpose of buying land and constructing thereon a filtration plant and necessary buildings and apliances carried, but will have to go before the legislature for ratification.

For Nicholls Hospital.

The demand of the Nicholls Hospital Trust for monthly payments of $800 toward the maintenance of Nicholls Hospital went to the Finance committee.

The demand is about twice that of last year, and is accounted for by increased costs in every department, the need of a new X-ray outfit and other accessories.

$6,000 For Roads.

Ald. Phelan and Whitehouse moved that the treasurer be authorized to issue a cheque for $6,000, the city's share of the cost of suburban road work last year.—Carried.

Tenders For Ashes.

On motion by Ald. Jones and Whitehouse the Property committee will invite tenders for the purchase of ashes from the incinerator from March first next.

Attend Convention.

Ald. Jones and Whitehouse moved that the Plumbing Inspector be granted permission to attend a convention of plumbing inspectors at Brampton on February 4th.—Carried.

Condolence.

On motion of Ald. Phelan and Whitehouse a resolution of sympathy will be extended to ex-Alderman Copping in the recent death of his brother.

The Proper Course.

Ald. Gainey and Morrison moved that the question of grants and other incidental expenditures, including applications for salary increases, be referred to the committee of the Whole Council, and not to the Finance committee as heretofore. This carried.

City Management.

On motion of Ald. Crowe and Gordon the clerk will write municipalities in the same class as that of Peterborough, and inquire the cost of their municipal management, with a view to striking a comparison with them as to the cost per capita in maintenance of Peterborough's civic departments, such as the Board of Works, Fire and Police.

There were present: Mayor A. A. McIntyre, Ald. Gainey, Morrison, Crowe, Gordon, Hamilton, Jones, Whitehouse, Hay and Phelan.

SHE NOW WALKS AS WELL AS EVER

MRS. HARPER GAINS 20 POUNDS AND HEALTH IS RESTORED BY TAKING TANLAC.

"When I began taking Tanlac I only weighed one hundred and eight pounds, but I now weigh one hundred and twenty-eight," said Mrs. S. Harper, of 90 Bond street, Toronto, Ont.

"Last year I had a case of influenza that was so bad I thought I was never going to get well. When I finally did get up I was in a terribly run-down condition. I suffered terribly from indigestion after every meal and had frequent attacks of dizziness.

"My feet hurt me so I could hardly walk and I had a hard time getting about. I couldn't sleep and got up every morning feeling all tired out. All my strength seemed to be gradually slipping away from me and I actually fell off from a hundred and forty-six pounds to a hundred and eight.

"But I took Tanlac on the suggestion of a friend and it's just wonderful the way it has relieved me of all my troubles. Two bottles put me in fine condition, but I took two more, just to be sure of clinching the good work. I have gained back twenty pounds of my lost weight, am strong and well, my feet no longer hurt me. I can walk anywhere I want to and do my work with ease and feel like a different person altogether. I think people are foolish to suffer when they can get Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold by the Warne Drug Co., Ltd.

ADVERTISE FOR RECRUITS

LINDSAY, Feb. 7.—At a meeting of the officers of the 45th Regt. plans were completed for the reorganization of the regiment. It was decided to advertise for recruits. Considerable enthusiasm was manifested by the officers was manifested by the officers during the meeting. It is altogether probable that a military camp will be established at Barriefield this summer, although nothing definite has been announced.

GIRL IS KIDNAPPED BY AUTOMOBILE GANG

Miss King Forcibly Taken From House Near White Plains.

(United Press)

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y., Feb. 9.—Miss Anna King was abducted from the house of Mr. and Mrs. Lewi Albohns in Scarsdale at midnight by a gang of armed men travelling in two automobiles, according to a report to the police here to-day. One of the men claimed that the girl was married to a member of the gang.

Other people in the house resisted when the armed men tried to force an entrance and shots were fired. A young woman, daughter of the Albohns, was grazed by a bullet.

Police were informed that the kidnappers threw a blanket around Miss King and carried her to one of the automobiles.

The men ran to the door of Miss King's bedroom and began pounding on it. When she failed to unlock it, they smashed Mr. Albohn's bed and used its fragments as clubs, with which they beat down the door. Miss King was dragged from bed, wrapped in a blanket and carried to an automobile.

Albohn said that he recognized several members of the gang as residents of the neighborhood in which he formerly lived, in the Bronx. He said he believed some of them were drunk. There were, he declared about fourteen men in the party. No description was obtained of the woman who was reported as participating in the affair.

CITY WILL HELP IN SEARCH FOR BODY

Last night Ald. H. Gainey drew council's attention to the fact that, so far as the city is concerned, Mr. G. Pakenham is practically working all alone in his efforts to recover the body of his little daughter, Enid, drowned in the Otonabee Saturday afternoon. He regretted such a lack of official sympathy, and moved, seconded by Ald. Morrison, that either the firemen or police be instructed by His Worship to assist in the search for the body. This carried.

NINE DAYS OVERDUE.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8. — The tank steamer Hewitt, with a crew of 42 men and a cargo of sulphur from Sabine, Texas, for Boston, is now nine days overdue, the Union Sulphur Co., owners of the ship, said here yesterday.

AND NOW FOR THE TAX RATE

ALD. GAINEY SUGGESTS BIG EFFORT AT REDUCTION, BUT SUCH DOES NOT SEEM POSSIBLE.

Ald. Gainey suggested to the City Council last night that the treasurer prepare estimates on tax rates of 30 and 35 mills in preparation for Council's ascertaining just where they stand in regard to this year's requirements, when they could take the treasurer's estimates as a basis for applying the pruning knife in an effort to reduce the rate for 1921.

Seconded by Ald. Morrison, Ald. Gainey moved in this direction.

Ald. Gordon thought the proposition a good one, while others pointed out that this year's requirements will have to be provided for, no matter what the treasurer's sample estimates may be.

The Mayor: There is only one way to reduce the rate—by raising the assessment. We have an increased demand of $33,000 from the Board of Education, and there are also $6,000 voted here to-night for work last year on suburban roads.

Ald. Gainey: Increased assessment last year will care for part of that.

The city is also assessed $30,000 for mothers' pensions.

The motion carried.

HAD BAD COUGH FOR THREE YEARS

The constant hacking, racking, persistent cough that sticks to you in spite of everything you have done to get rid of it, is the kind that is dangerous.

The longer the cough sticks, the more serious menace it becomes to your health.

There is no remedy that will relieve coughs—coughs that won't let go—like Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

It has a healing and soothing action on the air passages, and at the same time acts as a disinfectant of the respiratory organs, destroying the germs that produce serious lung complications.

Mrs. John Miller, Minburn, Alta., writes:—"I had a very bad cough for three years. I went to several doctors and tried different cough medicines, but nothing seemed to help me. One day a friend told me about Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and after using several bottles I became completely relieved. I always keep a bottle in the house, and also recommend it to others.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup has been universally used for over 30 years, and so great has been its success, it is only natural that a great many imitations have been placed on the market. The genuine is put up in a yellow wrapper: 3 pine trees the trade mark; price 35c. and 60c. a bottle; manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

CARRIED INJURED PAL ON TERRIBLE JOURNEY

A Boston University Student Shows Grit After Accident on Mountain Summit.

BOSTON, Feb. 9.—Braving death from exposure and ice-coated precipices while lost at night on Mount Monadnock, N.H., during a week-end trip, Karl H. Robinson, a Boston university freshman, carried Rupert Robinson, a fellow student from the summit to safety after Rupert had been rendered unconscious by a fall.

For many miles Karl Robinson bore his stricken chum on his shoulders. He lost his way during the last hours of the journey and wandered a long distance through the woods. He was about to drop from exhaustion when he heard a dog bark. Guided by the sound he pushed on until he reached a roadway.

Passing automobiles picked up the two students and Rupert Robinson in a delirious condition was rushed to Fitzwilliam, N.H., for medical treatment. He recovered quickly and returned yesterday to the university.

RUM SMUGGLING BY AIR BECOMING SERIOUS PROBLEM

SAULT STE. MARIE PRINCIPAL LANDING FIELD FOR "AIR PIRATES."

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—Stupendous movements of liquor over the Canadian border into middle western cities, are to be the object of special attack by Chicago's prohibition officers.

Spots along the Canadian border which have served as clearing houses for imported whiskey, will be the first objectives. Chief among the cities marked for attention is Sault Ste. Marie, noted on the Michigan border as the main landing field for Canadian airplanes loaded with contraband whiskey.

Aid in suppressing the international rum traffic has been promised to Federal Dry Chief Richardson, by W. F. Raney, Solicitor-General for Ontario. Special operatives from his office will patrol the Canadian side for smugglers, he said. Booze conditions along the Canadian border were characterized as appalling by Mr. Richardson.

"On my return from Detroit where I went to receive special reports from investigators who have been studying the Canadian whiskey problem," Mr. Richardson declared, "I never dreamed the traffic in rum was so stupendous.

"Specially equipped river boats, designed for speed, and huge cargo capacities, airplanes, manned by skilled pilots, and powerfully constructed automobiles, are the chief means for transporting whiskey.

"Many of the boats used are of light draft, permitting them to creep close to the shore. Darkness is no handicap. One of these, seized in Detroit, was valued at $50,000.

Startling Charges.

"The most startling development was 'rum by airplane.' Government investigators told me that huge airplanes, piloted by veterans, and capable of carrying several hundred quarts of whiskey, were used extensively. Flat fields near Sault Ste. Marie were named as the chief landing field for the air giants. Here they are met by trucks.

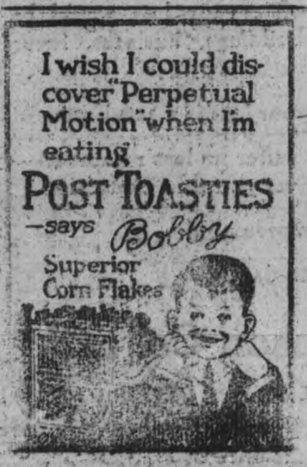
"Different landing places are chosen each night and the time is so arranged that the trucks, equipped with searchlights to help the planes land, are at the appointed spot. The liquor thus smuggled in is rushed several miles into the interior on the trucks, and concealed until it can be sold to bootleggers.

"Another amazing thing to me was the fact that large quantities of the whiskey smuggled in is of American manufacture, shipped to Canada by United States distilleries. It is smuggled back into this country. One of the chief methods employed is to export the whiskey by carload lots, from, say Kentucky to Montreal, via Windsor. Instead, however, of allowing the booze to reach its destination, bootleggers in Windsor unload the shipment and send the freight cars on alone. Later it is brought back to this country."

FOUR ARE ACCUSED OF MURDERING GIRL

QUEBEC, Feb. 8.—The department of the attorney-general has now completed its investigation into one of the most mysterious cases which has ever been placed in the hands of the police officials of this province, and to-day or to-morow four men implicated in the Victoria Park tragedy last July, when Blanche Garneau, a young woman, was assaulted and killed, will be behind the bars at the Quebec jail. The four men are known as Duval, Dube, Cole and Binet.

Their arrest at Sudbury, Ont., Stony Mountain Penitentiary and Montreal was the result of a bar-room acquaintance and conversation of Detective Vallade.



DEATH HERE ENDS MYSTERY

Michigan Man Disappeared 25 Years Ago, After Losing Fortune.

SAGINAW, Mich., Feb. 9.—Identification of a man who dropped dead in New York City two weeks ago as Louis B Sanborn of Saginaw, cleared up a mystery of twenty-five years ago which developed when Sanborn then about 30 years old and a leader in the Methodist Church and civic organizations of his native city, dropped out of sight.

Sanborn was the only son of George Sanborn, a wealthy pioneer lumberman of Saginaw When the father died the son inherited a fortune of $500,000 and became one of the leading figures in Saginaw social and civic life. One day he disappeared and a country-wide search failed to locate him. He left a wife and baby daughter in Saginaw.

Inquiry into his financial affairs disclosed that fortune left by his father had vanished and with it money of several of is friends. Bad investments were said to have caused the losses Sanborn' widow still lives in Michigan. His daughter is the wife of a wealthy Southerner.

YOUNG WOMEN AVOID PAIN

This One Tells How She Was Benefited by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Regina, Sask.—"For two years I suffered from periodic pains and nausea so I was unable to get around. My mother had me take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am much better and able to go about all the time, which I could not do before. I recommend Vegetable Compound to my friends if I know they suffer the same way, and you may publish my letter if it will help any one, as I hope it will."—Miss Z. G. BLACKWELL, 2073 Osler Place, Regina, Sask.

If every girl who suffers as Miss Blackwell did, or from irregularities, painful periods, backache, sideache, dragging down pains, inflammation or ulceration would only give this famous root and herb remedy a trial they would soon find relief from such suffering.

It hardly seems possible that there is a woman in this country who will continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial after all the evidence that is continually being published, proving beyond contradiction that this grand old medicine has relieved more suffering among women than any other medicine in the world.

For special advice women are asked to write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of forty years experience is at your service.

SWITZERLAND LEADS IN CARE OF FORESTS

HAS PRESERVED HER TIMBER SINCE ROMAN TIMES—FIRST LAWS RECORDED IN 1314—ITALY HARD HIT BY WAR.

When the top of Mont Blanc crashed down through the Pourtoud Forest and stopped at the edge of an Italian village after a ten-mile slide, many acres of good forest were destroyed, and the incident called attention to the fact that Switzerland places more value upon her forest crops than upon any other. She is a leader in scientific forestry.

A bulletin of the American Forestry Association made public recently points out that in Roman times some of the forests were protected. Later, Charlemagne put forest officials throughout the country. The first forest ordinance of record was passed in 1904. The city forest of Zurich is famous throughout the world and it has long been said of Switzerland that "she holds her mountains up and her taxes down," because of municipal forests. Organizations interested in the development and conservation of American forests point to Switzerland as an object lesson for the United States. A bill defining a national forest policy will be introduced in this Congress.

"In every 100 square miles in Switzerland, 30 square miles goes to rocks, glaciers and water which make up the country's wonderful scenery," says the bulletin. "Forests come next, with seventeen square miles in every hundred. Good coal is not to be had, so the forests are of the greatest concern to the people.

"The call of war hit the forests of Europe hard. The chain of mountains of which Mont Blanc is one forms the boundary line between France and Italy and it is over this chain of mountains that great armies marched in attempts to conquer the world in earlier days. It was this very history that impressed the importance f forests upon the people and the Governments, particularly in Italy.

"Switzerland is 180 miles from east to west and 130 from north to south. It is the most mountainous country in the world and has one-sixth of its area in forests. Italy had an area about equal to that of the combined areas of New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Connecticut and New Jersey. In this area is a population of about 36,000,000 and only 17.64 per cent. of the area is in forest land. From this it will be seen that, as Italy is an importer of coal and lumber, the war, requiring millions of feet of lumber for trench work, hospitals and barracks, placed a severe strain upon her resources.

"Municipalities and communes of Italy are owners of forest property. Charles Lathrop Pack, President of the American Forestry Association, urges municipal wood lots for towns in the United States. A municipal wood lot would be a handy thing to have around and ready to go to work, he argues, when coal strikes threaten and railroad transportation goes bad. Zurich put her forest to work 600 years ago and that forest has been working steadily ever since.

"Starts along these lines have been made in this country. The State of New York is doing some fine work in encouraging municipal forests. The children of the public schools of Watertown have set out 10,000 trees and Newburg schools are right in line with 2,000 trees to their credit. At Malone a public-owned forest is well under way."

MOONEY TRIAL WITNESS CONFESSES TO PERJURY

NEW PHASE ENTERS FIGHT TO RELEASE SAN FRANCISCO SOCIALIST.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Frank P. Walsh, counsel for Thomas J. Mooney, convicted of murder in San Francisco in connection with the preparedness day bomb explosion in 1916, early to-day telegraphed San Francisco authorities apprising them of an alleged confession by one of the witnesses in the case that he had given perjured testimony at the trial. A special grand jury now is investigating an alleged conspiracy to convict Mooney.

The witness named by Mr. Wash was John McDonald, now a resident of Trenton, N.J., with whom Mr. Walsh had a long conference last night. According to Mr. Walsh, McDonald declared in an affidavit covering thirteen typewritten pages that the case against Mooney was a "frame-up."

"McDonald swore in his confession," Mr. Walsh said, "that he could not identify Mooney as the man he had seen with a suitcase prior to the preparedness day explosion, although he identified Mooney during the trial.

Nine persons were killed in the preparedness day explosion. Mooney was sentenced to death and Billings to life imprisonment. After every appeal from the sentence had failed, President Wilson interceded in Mooney's behalf and the sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

25 FREED BY BLUE LAWS

Court finds it is Illegal to Hear Case on Sunday.

ROCHELLE PARK, N.Y., Feb. 8.—The aid of the old blue laws was invoked to obtain the dismissal of complaints against twenty-five property owners, summoned to court for alleged violation of an ordinance compelling them to remove the snow from their sidewalks. Their counsel contended that it was illegal to hear the case on the Sabbath, and after Justice of the Peace Max Heim had consulted the statute books he agreed and freed the accused men.

All the men live on Rochelle Avenue, the principal street of the town, and all have sidewalks in front of their homes. Chief of Police Paul Heim, brother of the Justice, summoned them to court to-day for failing to remove the snow, as required by the ordinance.

WHISKEY IS FOUND IN CHURCH KITCHEN

REV. J. O. SPRACKLIN'S CHURCH USED BY ALLEGED RUM THIEF.

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 8.—In the Police Court yesterday Chief of Police Pillon, of Sandwich, described the devious windings of the trail which led to the discovery of two cases of stolen rum. Eight bottles were salvaged from the kitchen of the Sandwich Methodist Church, he said. Rev. J. O. L. Spracklin, former license inspector, is pastor of the church.

The bottles had been hidden in the church by Robert De Hatre, who is said to have been concerned in the theft. Chief Pillon said that he traced the liuor to several houses in the course of his search, the trail finally leading to the Sandwich Methodist Church, where De Hatre was found.

The man declared he had gone there to clean up the place, although he was connected with the church in no official capacity. Pillon said he found the eight bottles in the kitchen.

Dec Hatre was fined $50.00 by the Magistrate.

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry

For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal. Easily and cheaply prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It takes but a moment to prepare and really there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a 16-oz. bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, this mixture saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out, and then disappear altogether. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

WRANGEL PREDICTS WAR.

Says Reds Will Drive Through Poland and Roumania.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 8.—The Russian Bolsheviki are unable to maintain themselves without war, declared General Wrangel, the South Russian anti-Bolshevist leader, in a statement here, so they are preparing an attack upon Poland and Roumania, "which they will go through like a shot," he predicted.

"The biggest question in the world to-day is the Russian question," said General Wrangel, "and civilisation is being menaced by the new Bolshevist military propaganda.

"The only thing we ask from the outside world," he added, "is the moral suport and the money which the nations, including America, should give in their own interest. I never received a cent from the French, tht British, or anybody, but conducted my campaigns by selling the grain of the country as we advanced. I lost the Crimea because I had no more munitions and clothing for my men."

Colds Stop Quick.

Breaks up a cold in six hours; nothing gives quicker relief in coughs and colds than Hyomei. Goes right to the spot and kills the germs. Money back if it fails. At druggists.

WON FIRST ON WHEAT

Mr. D. A. Henry, south of Millbrook, received the welcome news he had won the first prize at the Ottawa Winter Fair for his fall wheat. This is an especial honour for Mr. Henry and Cavan township as well, as it was a sweepstake for the whole province, even the north country, which grows wheat as big as barley and as heavy as lead.

BECK FORECASTS BIG DEVELOPMENT FOR RURAL HYDRO

WANTS $250,000 A YEAR FOR RURAL HYDRO LINES.

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Feb. 9. — "If the government should enact legislation, and I dont see why it should hesitate, I hope, with the conferences we are having, that Hydro will receive $250,000 as a yearly grant toward the construction of rural lines, and I believe the government can be induced to make that expenditure."

This was the belief expressed by Sir Adam Beck at the annual banquet of the Ontario Fairs Association, held in the King Edward Hotel.

"If the government grants this money to the Commission for the development of power in the communities it will enable us to build 600 to 700 miles of rural lines per annum. That grant is proper," said he. "Are we going to condemn public ownership?" he asked.

Cooperation was esesntial, he added, and spoke of the government having absolute control of expenditures at the present time.

RAID NEXT DOOR TO POLICE STATION

NEW YORK, Feb. 9. — After he had received reports that betting on races was being conducted next door to the Second Precinct Police Station in Central Avenue, Yonkers, Maurice D. O'Keefe, Commissioner of Safety in Yonkers, yesterday quickly transferred the police captain commanding the precinct and sent a flying squadron of detectives to raid the place.

The explanation of Captain Edward Connolly, commanding the Second Precinct Police, was that the place, apparently a confectionery store, was run by Carl Schlobohm, a mail carrier, who had given no cause for complaint. Schlobohm was arrested on a charge of being a common gambler, and the police said they took possession of a pouch of mail which they said the carrier apparently had taken from mail boxes and was to deliver to the Yonkers post office. Schlobohm was in uniform when the police entered the place.

Twenty-two other men were taken in the raid and charges of bookmaking and gambling are to be made against them in the Yonkers police court. They were arraigned by the magistrate who continued their cases until to-day so that more evidence could be gathered.

The police allege that the place was conducted by Schlobohm and that rooms were fitted up with telephones, betting charts and tables and other parapharnalia used in wagering on the races and other forms of gambling.

"This place was at the very next door to the station house," said Commissioner O'Keefe. "We had no trouble in forcing an entrance. We just walked right in. We went upstairs and found them taking the betting news over the telephone wires. I ordered Captain Connolly, in charge of the police precinct there, transferred to my office, and assigned Capt. John Cahill to take charge of the precinct."

Commissioner O'Keefe was annoyed that a raid was necessary so close to a police station, because there has been much criticism lately of the police Department by William H. Anderson, State Department of the Anti-Saloon League, who lives in Yonkers. Anderson declared that liquor was sold openly in many places in the city, and that anyone interested in the races could place a bet in any one of a score of places.

Combatting this crusade, Commissioner O'Keefe has shifted officers and made other efforts to see that no reports of gambling or liquor selling were dropped without thorough investigation. He has not indicated what his action will be in the case of Capt. Connolly, who has had a good record.

CHICAGO GRAIN

(United Press.)

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—Wheat opened lower to-day and then had a sharp bulge towards mid-session, but much of this advance was wiped out within the next sixty minutes. Thereafter the market acted rather nervously, but every dip uncovered good buying orders and the undertone was one of strength.

There has been a considerable change in sentiment the last day or two and some of the big bear leaders are now talking mildly bullish. The buying to-day again was credited to Livermore, a large eastern short, but shrewd pit observers could see the building up of long lines going on throughout the session by strong interests. Increasing premiums for cash wheat in the face of a lifeless export trade was the basis for much of the buying. Hard and dark northern spring wheat were 1 to 2 cents higher in the local market, while the Kansas City market for cash wheat was 3 cents to 7 cents higher. Local receipts of wheat are less than milling requirements. The milling demand for wheat has broadened with mills seeking spring wheat. Foreigners continued to circulate bear propaganda.

Corn was helped by the strength in wheat. The buying power was not so good but shorts were forced to repeatedly cover because of the bulges in the leading cereal. Locals were bearish and sold on every bulge. The domestic cash demand was poor and it was evident that none of the local shippers could be induced to sell any corn to exporters at the prices they were bidding. Receipts are falling off, but are still of fairly good volume. The Liverpool market was lower.

Oats were also affected by the action of other grains, but there was pressure on every bulge, which made advances hard to maintain. Cash bassi was firmer. Domestic shipping demand was slow but the outlook for increased business is brighter, according to local shippers.

Provisions were weak. Cash interests bought a little at the start, but packers sold later and there was pressure from commission houses.

LAKEFIELD NEWS

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 9.—Miss Alice Maloney is the guest of friends in the village.

Mrs. W. F. Trude, of Buckhorn, is in the village with friends.

Mr. Gordon C. Sutherland, of the Royal Insurance Co., Toronto, was in the village on business on Tuesday.

Mrs. John Kilbourn, of Apsley, was a week-end visitor in the village.

Interested in the Election.

Though Lakefield is in the riding of East Peterborough, there was considerable excitement over the West Peterborough bye-election. Results were eagerly looked for.

Dance Planned.

The firemen held a meeting on Monday evening, which was well attended, and plans for a dance in the Town Hall were discussed. The dance will probably be held on 17th March.

Pleasant Evening.

Miss Melissa Alford was the hostess of the S.O.N.G. Club on Monday evening. The members spent a very pleasant time.

Pancake Social.

The A.Y.P.A. of St. John's Church held a pancake social on Monday evening in the Schoolroom. The affair was very successful, and a neat little sum was netted toward the piano fund.

Hike to Sawer's Creek.

The Wolf Cubs had a hike to Sawer's Creek on Saturday afternoon. There was a good turn-out, and the youngsters had a delightful time.

Entertained Friends.

Rev. and Mrs. A. W. MacKenzie, of The Grove, entertained their friends at a delightful Cinderella dance on Tuesday evening.

SOCIAL EVENING AT ST. GEORGE'S CHURCH

A very successful social was held in the basement of St. George's church on Shrove Tuesday, under the auspices of St. George's Ladies' Guild. The tea began at 5.30 p.m. and the ladies, with the aid of Mr. Jackson, who rendered most efficient help in preparing the indispensable Shrove Tuesday pancakes, provided a very enjoyable repast. The hall was filled to such an extent that quite a number were obliged to stand during the entertainment which followed the tea.

The concert was quite an impromptu performance, but was thoroughly enjoyed. After afew introductory remarks by the Rector, Miss Horsefield sang a solo, Mrs. George Evans being the accompanist. Other soloists were Miss Mabel Scott, Mr. Chambers, Mr. W. Farr and Mr. Soden. Mr. Percy Luther rendered two very humorous recitations and Mr. Hutchison contributed very much to the pleasure of the evening by singing several comic songs. His acting and make-up were very effective and pleased his audience so well that it is hoped he will be heard at St. George's again in the near future.

The ladies who were responsible for the social highly appreciate the encouragement they received last night and wish to thank sincerely those who in any way contributed toward the success of the evening, both those who took part in the concert and those who helped toward the tea.

St. George's is now purchasing a rectory, and last night's proceeds are being devoted to that object. The fact that the first step taken in that direction was so satisfactory is very encouraging at such a critical time in the history of St. George's church.

BOHUNKS ARE PLAYING HOCKEY

The Bohunks ball team which had a victorious ball season have exchanged the ball for a puck and the bat for a hockey stick and on Monday last they journeyed to Campbellford, and met the hockeyists of that thriving town. At night they clashed on the Campbellford ice and although Peterboro fought hard the Trent boys beat them by three goals. The score by periods was First, 3-1 for Campbellford; second period 5-5; and final score 9-6 in favour of the home team. The Bohunks lined up as follows: Goal, Bergoine; defence, Tudhope and Anderson; forwards, Dixon and Smith centre, F. Graham; spare, R. White. A return game will likely be played her soon. Meanwhile the energetic Bohunks are arranging games with Keene and other points.

NO GAMBLING AT FALL FAIRS

FALL FAIRS ASSOCIATION'S ANNUAL REPORT TO MEETING IN TORONTO SHOWS SUCCESSFUL YEAR —PETERBORO REPRESENTED.

TORONTO, Feb. 9. —One of the most successful years for all agricultural societies in Ontario was reported by Mr L. J. C. Bull, President of the Ontario Association of Fall Fairs and Exhibitions, in his Presidential address at the twenty-first annual convention of the association held yesterday in Forester's Hall.

Speaking briefly of the standing field crop competitions, Mr. Bull stated there had been a marked improvement made in the number of societies entering the competitions during the past year. The prize money offered at present he thought inadequate, and urged it be increased.

During the year 1920, it was stated by Superintendent J. Lockie Wilson in presenting his report, there had been 178 societies entered in the field crop competition, which was the largest since 1917. A new competition had been established this year, he said, known as "The Combined Standing Field and Thrashed Grain Competition," prizes for which would be awarded on the basis of the combined score on crops in field and thrashed grain.

Stop Gambling at Fairs.

Mr. Wilson made a strong plea to all the members present to do their utmost to see that all gambling be eliminated at falls fairs as far as possible. The practice he said was becoming each year more frequent.

The question of farm labor was also discussed

Crop Competitions.

Considerable discussion followed Mr. Wilson's paper and many questions relating to the field crop competitions were talked over.

The efficiency of the revised prize lists in the ladies' departments at the fall fairs was the subject of a paper by Miss M. V. Powell of Toronto, and was also discussed by Miss M. Galbraith.

Peterborough is represented by Mr. Robert Grandy, one of the directors of the Peterborough Exhibition Board.

LYCEUM CONCERT AT CONSERVATORY

The concluding number of the Conservatory Lyceum concerts was given in the Conservatory Hall last evening by the Zedeler Quintette and of the four concerts which have been given this year, this was in many respects the most noteworthy and it was a fitting finale to the season of 1920-21. This musical organization is composed of the following artists: Mr. and Mrs. Zedeler, cello and pianist, Mr. Clark, violin, Mr. Innis, viola, Miss Day, soloist and organist. This musical organization is unique in having an ingenious contrived organ forming the fifth part and Miss Day proved to possess besides a splendid voice remarkable ability on the organ. Each of the artists has had an enviable musical career and risen high in the opinion of musicial critics. Through the Lyceum they have given music lovers who would not otherwise hear concerts of the calibre given in the Conservatory Hall last evening, an opportunity that should be appreciated, The Lyceum course this year has been an enjoyable one and much appreciated by those who love music. It is the third season in Peterboro and has overtopped the others. Just to illustrate the high musical standard that has been maintained during the year three artists at least who have performed here this year are now in New York enjoying capacity houses. There are Night McGregor, Scotch baritone, Boris Hambourg and Florence Hardman, the latter two, playing with Sousa's Band.

The concert last night was a big success. Each member was fully appreciated by the capacity hall judging by the generous applause and equally generous encores. The organization both ensemble and in individual parts played with a marvellous harmony and ease. The organ solos were particularly notable. The oboe and bassoon stops gave colour to the parts that would otherwise have been lacking. Among the premier numbers last night were: Sir Edward Edgar's ensemble "Pomp and Circumstance". Weber's overature "Oberon "and the concluding number "Dance of the Hour" from the famous Italian opera "La Gioconda."

DEMAND DISMISSAL OF PARK OFFICIALS

CHARGES OF MALADMINISTRATION IN CONNECTION WITH NIAGARA FALLS PARK.

Canadian Press.

TORONTO, Feb. 9. — The immediate dismissal of J. H. Jackson, superintendent of Queen Victoria, Niagara Falls Park and an investigation into the administration of P. W. Ellis, the chairman of the Park Commission, is demanded in a petition signed by more than 700 residents of Niagara Falls and presented to Premier Drury to-day.

Charges of maladministration against Mr. Ellis and of incompetency against Mr. Jackson, are contained in the letter accompanying the petition which was presented by C. R. Morden.

EVIDENCE THAT GRAND TRUNK IN GOOD CONDITION

COUNSEL CLAIMS COMPARES FAVORABLY WITH ANY FIRST-CLASS RAILWAY.

(Canadian Press.)

MONTREAL, Feb. 9.—Evidence on the up-to-dateness and efficiency of the motive power and freight cars of the Grand Trunk Railway was submitted this morning to the Arbitration Board which will decide the value of the company's shares for the Federal Government by Theodore Curtis, consulting engineer.

Mr. Curtis was called on behalf of the company. In general, Mr. Curtis' evidence was to the effect that the motive power and cars on the Grand Trunk Railway were in first-class condition as compared with other first-class railways, and had proved sufficient for the work of the system, while the locomotives had keen kept up both in power and appearance. He reiterated these views under cross-examination by Pierce Butler, of the counsel for the Government.

BAR ASSOCIATION ENTERS SESSION

WILL CONSIDER APPOINTING COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE B.N.A.

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Feb. 9.—The appointment of a committee to consider the British North America Act and submit a reforming amendment, is one of the questions for consideration at the fifteenth annual meeting of the Ontario Bar Association opening this afternoon. Other suggestios before the Association for discussion are the raising of the status of the Ontario Law School so as to compare favourably with that of McGill, and a move to change the system of awarding the title of King's Counsel.

NEW VICAR IS GIVEN WE COME

CONGREGATIONAL RECEPTION TENDERED REV. DR. AND MRS BLAGRAVE.

Under the auspices of the Church Women's Association, a congregational reception was last night tendered to Rev. Dr. Blagrave, the newly installed vicar of St. John's Church, in the Parish Hall, which was crowded for the occasion. A most hearty welcome was extended to Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Blagrave, and the evening was marked by a feeling of good fellowship and co-operation that augurs well for the success of the new vicar's work at St. John's.

Mr. J. A. Aylmer, one of the wardens, expressed, on behalf of the congregation, their best wishes to Dr. and Mrs. Blagrave, and the former replied to the greetings, after which Dr. G. S. Cameron assured the vicar of St. John's of the whole-hearted support of the congregation. An enjoyable musical programme, that included vocal solos by Miss Agnes Horsfield, Mrs. F. D. Craig, Mr. H. W. Morphet, and Mr. Johnston, and a violin solo by Miss Harrington, was thoroughly appreciated. Mrs. Evans, Miss Harrington, and Mr. R. J. Devey were the accompanists.

At the conclusion of the programme, refreshments were served. The Parish Hall was appropriately decorated by Messrs Turner & Sons for the occasion.

ACCOUNTS MAY SHOW DEFICIT TWO MILLIONS

WILL BE BROUGHT DOWN IN LEGISLATURE ON FRIDAY.

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Feb. 9.—On Friday afternoon the public accounts will be brought down by the Hon. Peter Smith, Provincial Treasurer. It is expected that these will show a deficit of about two million dollars for the past year.

On Tuesday next Mr. Smith will speak on the Budget, and the debate will be started and likely carry along for about ten days.

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION INVESTIGATING NAVAL HISTORY IN ONTARIO READER.

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO. Feb. 9.—The Department of Education may eliminate from its reading books for Ontario Public Schools, the naval history, "Flag and Fleet," by Colonel W. A. Wood, of Quebec City.

This work has been criticised as "both inaccurate and insulting in its view of the part played by the United States Navy in the recent war." It is now under investigation by the Department.

WHEN CANDLES WERE ONLY LIGHTS

In the early days of Bytown tallow candles were the only means of lighting, the moulds used having been brought over by the first settlers.

Mothers must have had a hard time soothing restless babies at night, as candles have an exasperating way of going out when most needed. But, then again, fathers hadn't any big electric light or gas bills to worry over—you made what you used.

Candles were made by two processes, from mutton and ox tallow, cut into pieces and melted in a pan, all membranous matter rising to the surface. The liquid tallow after being strained through a sieve and washed with boiling water, was then dipped or poured into moulds. The tallow candles first made were much inferior as regards illuminating power in comparison to the wax candles manufactured later on.

Cotton Yarn Wicks.

The wicks were made of cotton yarn of uniform thickness and free from any loose threads. Before using they were carefully twisted by hand into spirals, so as to secure an even light. Wicks are now made by machinery with lightning-like rapidity. The dipping process was done by means of a revolving arm, to which the wicks were hung, and then immersed in the dipping trough below, two or three times, until they were requisite thickness.

In the process of moulding a number of pewter moulds of conical shape were used, finely polished inside and fastened by the flat part to a kind of trough, the taper ends projecting downwards. The wick was then passed through the mould and fastened at the top by a piece of wire. The melted tallow was then poured into the trough above and, filling the moulds, was left to solidify. The candles were then drawn out by the end of the wick held by the wire.

What a wonderful change! From the feeble rush-light, the torch, tallow, sperm and wax candles, coal oil, gas, and then, last of all the great white light of electricity, that by the turning of a button a whole room is flooded with light.

Brought From Scotland.

But people lived and loved, suffered and were happy, just as we do today. And the doors were opened wider, and the little candles burned brightly, for pleasure did not come so frequently when distances were great. "The old order changeth giving place to new," but the same old sun and moon that looked down upon, and lighted the ways of our first forefathers in the Garden of Eden is still with us—unchanged.

The candle moulds in the Bytown Historical Museum were brought over by ancestors of the McKellar family, and presented to the Museum by Miss Margaret McKellar, of McKellar Township. A. C.

THE WEATHER

The present mild weather still continues, and the severe cold weather that we are prone to expect in February seems to be as far away as ever. Truly this is a remarkable winter. There has not been one like it since about 1878. One winter about that date the farmers were able to plow (if they so desired) on a few days during each of the winter months. There were several other unusually mild winters immediately after. January this year did not break a record, but it came very near doing so. In hours of bright sunshine it has not been exceeded in late years and but once or twice in 75 years. — W. P.

SINN FEIN SEIZE RAILWAY STATION

(Canadian Press.)

DUBLIN, Feb. 9.—A hundred Sinn Feiners gained control of the Great Northern Railway station in this city last night and held it more than one hour. A train going from Burton Port to Londonderry was derailed by unknown persons, who placed boulders on the track, but there were no casualties. During the evening armed men entered a jewelry store on Wellington Quay and carried off goods valued at three thousand pounds.

POSSESS GOOD HEALTH BY LOOKING AFTER THE BOWELS

A free motion of the bowels, once or twice a day, should be the rule of every one, as half the ills of life are caused by allowing the bowels to get into a constipated condition.

When the bowels are allowed to become constipated, the stomach gets out of order, and the liver does not do its work properly on account of holding back the bile so that it does not pass through the bowels, but is allowed to get into the blood, thus causing a poisoning of the whole system.

If you would escape constipation, sick and bilious headaches, heartburn, floating specks before the eyes, coated tongue, foul breath; the nasty irritating, bleeding itching and protruding piles, you should keep your liver stirred up by the use of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills.

These pills, being purely vegetable, keep your liver working actively, helping it to resume its proper functions, and thereby removing the bile that is circulating in the blood and poisoning the whole system.

Mrs. H. Barrows, Enfield, N. S., writes:—"I was troubled with sick headaches and constipation. One day a friend told me of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. I got two vials, and found they did me a world of good. I therefore have great faith in them."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c. a vial, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

SPORTING NEWS, VIEWS AND GOSSIP

"The Colts" Lakefield Rink, Ranging From 74 to 79 Years, Win An Extra End Game in the Local Bonspiel. :: :: ::

"Youth must be served," is an inexorable axiom of most athletic games. Accepting it as a canon of sport, the Peterborough Bonspiel, now drawing to a close, provided an exception that perhaps proves the rule in the rink of Lakefield ancients, skipped by Roland C. Strickland, whose ages range from 74 to 79 years. The youngest of this unique quartette of patriarchal devotees of the besom and stane is Joe Fortier, who plays second stone, and the oldest is the vice-skip, Levi Payne. J. W. Allen, the lead, and R. C. Strickland, the skip, are not as young as Fortier and not as old as Payne, but all four of them have passed the alloted span of three-score years and ten. However, don't tell any of them that they are in the "sear and yellow leaf" of life.

They came down to the Bonspiel with the other Lakefield rinks without a trace of self-consciousness because of their years, asking no quarter from the freshest and most energetic rinks, and immediately were dubbed "The Colts," in that same irony of the playground, but with a touch of affection instead of derision, that prompts the small boys to nickname the fattest of their companions "slim."

The Strickland Colts, to differentiate them from Jack Strickland's rink, entered the Bonspiel on even terms with the other fifty-seven contestants. They were defeated in the first round of the Morrow Cup competition, but yesterday afternoon they proved their mettle by trimming Jack Moore of Keene by the score of 14 to 13 in an extra end game in the preliminary round of the Matthews-Blackwell Cup series.

PLAYED A MIDNIGHT GAME.

They were three down coming home, but they came through in the pinch and sewed up the game, and in the extra they won out with a single shot. Last night around midnight found them out in the first round, playing their third game of the day at an hour most middle-aged men regard as unseasonable. But "The Colts" were wrapped up in sport, enjoying it and its problems with the zest of the youngest of their competitors. Rollie Strickland and his rink have taken a page out of the philosophy of Ulysses: "How dull it is to pause ,to rest unburnished, not to shine in use." Something like that, at any rate.

Can any Bonspiel in Canada duplicate this rink? The old boys ought to send out a challenge to meet all comers of their age. They are unique in the records of the Peterborough Bonspiel, and although they may not win any of the prizes, they are in the game, like all good curlers, for the love of it.

"The Colts" furnish striking evidence that curling is one of the best games a young man can learn. A few years of hockey and baseball is the limit for the average youth. After that he is relegated to the discard, unless he gravitates to the curling rink. Let him learn that game, and he can follow it, season after season, with the best of companions, until old Father Time gets jealous of his perennial youth, and finally swishes his scythe.

PETERBORO RINKS WIN FROM VISITORS FOR WADDELL TROPHY

TWELVE PRELIMINARY TEST GAMES THIS MORNING RESULTED IN SCORE OF 111 TO 105—BONSPIEL MAY BE WOUND UP TO-NIGHT.

SOME OF THE SCORES

The bonspiel was appreciably shortened this morning by the victory of twelve Peterborough rinks over twelve rinks representing the visiting curlers in the preliminarly test round for the Waddell trophy. The aggregate score was 111 to 105 in favour of the Peterborough rinks, the narrow margin between the totals indicating how closely matched weer these two opposing groups. Had the visitors won Secretary Harry Foote would have had to open a new draw exclusively for the outside rinks, but Peterobrough's win permitted the committee to set aside the Waddell trophy games and to push the three other competitions along as fast as possible. Luck and the weather played hand in hand in this morning's results, and although the Charlotte street ice was greasy this afternoon, Brock street was dry and hard. The curling at the annex will be completed to-night in time to turn the ice over to the City Hockey League.

The results were as follows:

Three good Lindsay rinks were shut out of the Morrow Cup games with one swoop, late yesterday afternoon. They went down fighting side by side on adjoining ices.

On No. 5 Peter Smith of Hamilton, skipping a Peterboro rink he got together, defeated R. A. Thomas by 9 to 8.

On No. 6, Frank Carew lost to Harry McCallum of Fenelon Falls by 9 to 7; and on No. 7, J. W. McDermid of Peterboro, won from Billy Carley by 15 to 18.

These were all first round games, and eliminated the Lindsay rinks from the Morrow competition.

The gallery focussed their interest on the dual between the two young skips, Carew and McCallum. Both of them have been coming regularly to Peterboro's bonspiel. Last year, Frank Carew's rink won the Morrow cup and prizes, defeating W. M. Lang of Peterboro, by 16 to 14, and McCallum was the runner-up for the Waddell trophy losing to J. C. Strickland of Lakfiteld by 10 to 9.

Carew and McCallum fought it out to the last stone. The Fenelon Falls rink got away with a narrow lead of one shot, added a couple of singles to their margin as the game progressed and then bumped into a Carew three end on the tenth. McCallum came back on the eleventh, and sewed it up on the final although Carew had a chance with his last stone. It was a fine exhibition of curling, as the single point ends, with the exception of a three and two, attested.

Local curling Lore has it that Billy Carley has never beaten McDermid in the District Cup games between Lindsay and Peterboro. And "Mac" lived up to this tradition yesterday, winning from "The Moose" without much difficulty.

But the Thomas rink gave Pete Smith of Hamilton a great battle. Smith is a traveller who occasionally visits Peterboro every winter and rarely misses the bonspiel. On this trip he picked Ira Moore as his "vice." W. M. Cruthers second, and N. D. Seaton as lead. The Peterboro boys served him a good brand of curling, and they had to be on their toes against Thomas, whose play was practically as finished as Smith's. The Lindsay rink, however, failed to pull down Smith's lead, losing by one shot.

Two shots with his last stone gave Albert Bottom of Bobcaygeon his 13 to 12 victory over Dr. Harvie of Orillia.

Six point ends were rare. A. M. Kohn of Gravenhurst hung one of them on John Steele of Millbrook.

F. P. Lillie of the High Park Club, Toronto, defeated Jack Fitzgerald by 10 to 9 in one of the extra-end games in the Morrow Cup Competition.

Alex. Kay had 20 to 3 score on G. A. Davison of Unionville after eleven ends. The visitors got two coming home, making the score 20-5. On the 10th and 11th ends Kay slapped two fives on the board cutting a wide margin.

Bonspiel Notes.

Billy Carley, of Lindsay, stopped his club mate, Frank Carew, in the Matthews-Blackwell by 18 to 9. Carley's score included a six, a five and three end. Last night Carley hung a six end on Ray Best's good rink, by way of revenge for his defeat by McDermid, of Peterborough, in the Morrow competition.

With a perfect final shot, W. R. Widdess, skipping for Tom Brightman, won from Thompson of Agincourt by 13-12. Thompson lay shot and was up one on the score. Widdess picked out the Thompson stone and lay two. It was as nice a play as the gallery saw during the entire 'spiel.

Alex. Kay and Walter Oke, alternating as skip and vice, reached the second round in both the major competition. Robson of Fenelon Falls, turned them back in the Matthews-Blackwell by 9-7, after a strenuous battle, and they were immediately sent back to meet McCallum of Fenelon Falls in the Morrow series.

AT THE ALLEN

If you want a fast car ride, and jolly, that'll bring you laughs out in a volley, watch Katrinka when she signals the skipper, then climb on the Toonerville Trolley. No increase in the fares for this joy ride. Funniest car service in the world.

Question—When is a trolley not a trolley?

Answer—When Katrinka is on the platform.

Katrinka has stolen the track. Who stole the trolley pole?

POETING OF THE PERFECT WOMAN.

A breezy story of a perfect woman
Who fell in love with a hating man,
Tried to vamp him into submission
By applying for a steno's postion;
But she was too alarming pretty.

Proving employers will have to beware
Of the perfect woman who would ensnare
A hard working boss with a glance cute and shy,
Just about enough to make an Eskimo sigh.
What could be more amusing?

LET'S GO!

Even a vamp can see a man lose his head.
This little vamp took a wild swing and said:
"He may hate women, and that's a disgrace,
But don't scatter the boy all over the place."
And the poor misled Anarchist took a full count.

A FURIOUS FROLIC.

Relentless parents must relent
One less in the house is much less spent.
She lived with Jimmy for the rest of her life
In his lovely mansion as his wedded wife,
Which is the end of almost any perfect woman.

A SUNBURST OF HUMOR.

At the Allen to-day and to-morrow. Let's go! A furious frolic! Come on the run to see the fun! A sunburst of humor!

CARMEL MEYERS COMING IN NEW SCREEN ROLL

Carmel Myers has a new type of part—for her—in "Beautifully Trimmed," the feature that will be shwn at the Grand Theatre, starting Thursday, for three days.

It is almost a "crook part." In fact, she is a member of an unscrupulous but "classy" gang of swindlers who prey on the credulous newly-rich with fake masterpieces and worthless stocks.

She is a girl who maintains her position in society when her father fails, and who determines to keep that postion at the expense of the smug rich who caused her father's ruin. By a clever arrangement she disposes of the counterfeit "great masters" in a plausible way, and aids in rounding up dupes for the other activities of the group.

When one of her childhood friends, an army aviation ace who has won fame in France, comes around, she decides that he is good game for her bunko art, and proceeds to sell him a picture and load him with bogus stock. The tables turn in a startling way when the swindlers fail and the young officer comes out on top financially.

Irving Cummings is seen as the handsome and talented painter who is expert at imitating the brush work of the masters of the past centuries. Pell Trenton is the clean-minded, clean-limbed American who has dared much overseas, and who returns home read to fight his business battles in the same above-board way that he fought the Boche. George B. Williams is the unscrupulous broker. Alfred Fisher and Victory Bateman play a henpecked newly-rich husband and his domineering wife. Lee Kohlmar is the uncle of the American officer, and Myrtle Reeves is his daughter, who adores her handsome cousin in vain.

The production was directed by Marcel de Sano, a recent Universal discovery.

C.G.E. AND HAMILTONS TO-NIGHT WITH FRED WAGHORNE REFEREE

The City Hockey League play-off—the game the fans have been waiting for—will be played to-night by the C. G. E. Toolroom six and Hamilton's A. A .team. The puck will be faced at 8.30 o'clock by Fred Waghorne of Toronto.

The teams have each won two games and lost one and the battle to-night is to decide a winner for the first half of the schedule. Both clubs will be there with bells, and a big following of supporters. The League has done everything possible to make it a real game, and followers of the City League contests are assured of the biggest quarter's worh of hockey offered here in a long time.

The curlers will finish their games at Brock street Rink late this afternoon, and the ice will not be used before the game.

Season tickets will not be accepted to-night. The admission to all parts of the rink will be twenty-five cents.

MARK STREET CHOIR WAS ENTERTAINED.

At their home on Euclid Avenue last evening Mr. and Mrs. John Kerr entertained the choir of Mark Street Methodist Church. Miss Ruby Kerr, niece of the host and hostess, proved herself a most capable junior hostess, and filled the pleasant hours with games and guesses, which were enjoyed by all. Before the party broke up, dainty refreshments were served, and congratulations offered to Mr. and Mrs. Kerr for the splendid evening's enjoyment. The choir and other friends were highly pleased, and the happy evening closed with the singing of "God be with you till we meet again." Don't forget Mark Street Carnival on Thursday night.

SALVATION ARMY "GREAT CALL CAMPAIGN"

One of the great features of the revival campaign at the Salvation Army, is the stirring up of every unit in the ranks to active service, and not only bombarding the sinner and the backslider from the street corner and the platform, but personally dealing with men and women about their sin and wrong doings is the great stronghold of helping them to decide to live a Christian life, many have come forward to the mercy seat in the past few weeks and confessed themselves sinners, and asked for pardon of the guilty past through Him who died to save the world.

To-night at the Salvation Army Temple there will be a special meeting for soldiers, converts and recruits, the subject for this meeting will be: "Pillars of Caterpillars." Remember the time, 8 p.m.

STREET CAR CAUGHT FIRE ON GEORGE STREET.

Street car No. 31, running on George Street line, narrowly escaped destruction by fire about two o'clock yesterday afternoon. The car was proceeding south, and the motorman, in an effort to avoid a collision with a large truck that was crossing Perry Street, threw on the emergency brakes. Almost immediately the car caught fire. The blaze was soon extinguished, and the car returned to the barns for repairs.

NO INCREASE IN COMPENSATION OF INJURED WORKMEN

HON. WALTER ROLLO DENIES GOVERNMENT HAS THIS IN VIEW.

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Feb. 9.—Hon. Walter Rollo this morning told a deputation from the Ontario builders' exchange that there would not be any attempt during the present session of the Legislature to increase the allowance of 66 2-3 per cent. now made to injured workmen under the provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Act. The Minister of Labor said that was the attitude of the Government on the matter, but he could not be responsible for what private members might suggest. The deputation asked Hon. F. C. Biggs to proceed with all construction work possible to assist in tiding over the present depression in the building trade.

TOWN PLANNING AND HOUSING CONFERENCE APPEALS TO DRURY

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Feb. 9.—Premier Drury was requested this morning to assist the provincial town planning and housing conference, which takes place here on February 17th and 18th, by the publication of the proceedings at the expense of the government. The participation of the Premier and some of his ministers at the conference was also desired.

GORDON MAY SIT MONDAY

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—It is expected that the coming session will see some amendments to the Dominion Elections Act. In a few places, it is intimated, it has been found, through the working of the Act in recent bye-elections, that slight changes are necessary to make it more easily workable, and therefore it is planned to place the necessary changes before the House for approval.

It is expected that the three newly elected members of the Commons will be able to take their places on Monday afternoon when Parliament opens. It is thought that the writ should be through in time to allow the introduction of G. N. Gordon, the new West Peterborough member, on Monday.

WEDDING BELLS

NURSE—BURGESS

A very quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized on February 2nd 1921 at Christ Church, Omemee, when Ida W youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Burgess of Omemee, became the bride of Smithson W. J. Nurse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nurse of Fowler's Corners. The ceremony was performed at 8 a.m. by Rev. Mr. James in the presence of only the immediate family and friends. The bride who looked very pretty in a pretty costume of blue satin, wearing a Hudson Seal coat with hat to match and wearing the gift of the groom a sunburst, entered the church on the arm of her father. The wedding March was played by Miss James of Omemee.

The happy couple left on the morning train amid showers of confetti for Toronto, Buffalo and other points, on their return they will reside at Fowler's Corners.

GOSELIN—COURT

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the Church of The Sacred Heart, Peterboro, when Beatrice Lillian, second daughter of Mr and Mrs. R. C. Court, Lindsay, was joined in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Wilfred Goselin, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Isadore Goselin Peterboro. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. J. OBrien.

The bride entered the church leaning on the arm of her father-in-law, to the strains of Lohengrins' Wedding March She looked charming in a suit of blue serge with seal collar and cuffs and hat of black silk velvet embroidered with gold and carried a bouquet of pink carnations and fern.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Boyd Wilkinson of Toronto, looked handsome in a suit of blue serge with picture hat and carried a bouquet of pink carnations and fern.

The groomsman, Mr. Boyd Wilkinson, supported the groom.

After the ceremony the happy young couple returned to the home of the groom where a dainty breakfast was partaken of and received many beautiful and useful presents.

The out of town guests were Mrs. Court, mother of the bride, and Mrs. S. R. Carew of Lindsay

The groom's gift to the bride was a lavallierre with sapphire setting and to the matron of honor a pennant with pearl setting and to the groomsman a handsome chain watch fob.

The happy couple left on the 3.20 p.m. train for Toronto and points west. On their return they will reside in Peterboro.

OBITUARY

MARY ELIZABETH GORDON

Word has just been received in this city of the death in Regina on January 27, after a short illness of Mary Elizabeth Gordon, a graduate of Nichol's Hospital in 1904 who nursed in this city for many years after graduation, making her home here with Mrs. William Lech, 416 Rubidge street. The late Miss Gordon's home was in Chesterville. She was very well known in Peterboro and a wide circle of friends will regret to hear of her death.

MARY E. WILSON.

The funeral of Mary E. Wilson took place yesterday afternoon at 2.30 from her late residence, 699 Harvey Street, to St. John's Church, and thence to Little Lake Cemetery. A short service was held at the house at two o'clock by Rev. R. C. Blagrave, and service was also held at the church.

The pallbearers were Messrs. J. W. Miller, H. Rush, W. Metheral, C. Wiley, A. E. Dixon, and H. Sherwood.

The late Mrs. Wilson came of Irish stock. Her husband, the late William T. Emmanuel Wilson, was the son of Captain Wilson and Elizabeth Gordon. His father was in the Royal Artillery. His mother was an aunt of General Gordon of Egyptian fame.

During the American War her husband served honourably, and Mrs. Wilson has since been a pensioner of that Government.

Mrs. Wilson was born at Cobourg on 16th January, 1841, and was 80 years of age at the time of her death.

MRS. JOHN LYNCH.

Mrs. Jno. Lynch, a well-known and highly respected resident of this city for something over sixty years, died last evening at her home, 453 Elm Street.

Mrs. Lynch was born in Ireland and came to Canada with her parents when quite young. She resided in and about Cobourg until she was married to Mr. John Lynch, when they moved to Peterborough. Her husband predeceased her some twenty years ago. Surviving members of her family are: J. J. Lynch, Jas. Lynch (druggist), George Lynch of the Post Office, Miss Margaret Lynch, all of this city, and Mrs. W. E. Baker, Lindsay.

The funeral will take place on Friday morning to St. Peter's Cathedral, and from there to St. Peter's Cemetery.

SAYS ANGLO-U.S. RELATION GOOD

BRITISH FOREIGN OFFICE DENIES RUMORS TO CONTRARY.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Feb. 9. —The Foreign Office to-day issued a statement declaring to be without foundation reports published in the United States Tuesday to the effect that an official of the Foreign Office had uttered a warning of the increasing seriousness of Anglo-American relations.

"On the contrary," reads the statement, "the Foreign Office is confident that any questions arising between Great Britain and the United States can and will be settled without difficulty whether with the existing or the succeeding administration."

VOL. XLIX. NO 34 PETERBOROUGH, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1921 PRICE THREE CENTS

S. AFRICA IS KEPT WITHIN THE EMPIRE

SMUTS HAS MAJORITY OF 30 SEATS OVER HERTZOG'S SECESSIONISTS AND 20 OVER COMBINED OPPOSITION.

TIES FOR TWO SEATS

(Canadian Associated Press.)

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Feb. 10.—South Africa has been saved to the British Emupire. The government party, headed by Premier Smuts, which stands for the maintenance of British ties, has rolled up a huge majority at the polls. Smuts has a majority of 30 seats over the Nationalists who favored secession, and of 20 over the combined opposition.

The standing is as follows:

Government party	67
Nationalists	37
Labor	9
Democrats	1
Tied results	2

LONDON, Feb. 10. — The Daily News, discussing the South African election, says that on the clearissue of the loosening of the ties that bind South Africa to the Empire, the people of the Union have made an emphatic declaration of their desire to maintain imperial connection, but the future place of South Africa within the Empire will be made by no one for her. She will define her place for herself and no one of British citizenship is better qualified to guide her in the process than General Smuts. The News adds that it is doubtful whether domestic aaffirs will permit Premier Smuts to attend the imperial conference in London in June.

FOOD PRICES ARE STILL ON DECLINE

THE EGG MARKET IS UNSETTLED. LOWER PRCES COMIING.

A decrease in the cost of living in Great Britain is foreseen through the recent drop in grain quotations. Following the decline in Argentine wehat home-grown grains declined sharply, and the provincial markets weakened. In Northampton and Canterbury wheat fell 15s the quarter, and barley 10s, and in Nottingham wheat and barley dropped 10s. These reductions are counted upon materially to assist in lowering the cost of living, the official figures for which expected to shop a fall of 10 points for January.

Eggs Declining.

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—Big receipts of eggs to-day forced prices down six cents a dozen, wholesale. To-day's receipts were the largest this year. Including yesterday's fall in prices, the Chicago market showed a decline of 11 cents so far this week, with the grade known as ordinary first commanding 30 to 31 cents wholesale.

Down to 31 Cents.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 10. — Wholesale egg prices dropped five cents a dozen here to-day, carrying the price for the first grade down to 31 cents. This was a decline of 24 cents a dozen in two weeks.

Canadian Markets.

The Canadian egg market and dealers are at loss what to do. Prices fluctuate from day to day.

FALSEWORK OFF THE NEW BRIDGE

The removal of the falsework from the main arch of the new Hunter street bridge is progressing rapidly, and it is expected that within two weeks the timber will all be down. The weather has been favourable during the last few days and more than half of the lumber has been removed. A considerable gang of men are engaged in this work. With this rough looking coat of lumber off the bridge has assumed its final appearance, which will be altered only by the completion of the hand rail and the mounting of the lights.

BANDIT SHOT MAN; ESCAPED SUCCESSFULLY

YOUNG HAMILTON THUG HELD UP GARAGE ATTENDANT AND SHOT HIM THROUGH NECK—HIS CONDITION SERIOUS.

BUT HE MAY RECOVER

(Canadian Press.)

HAMILTON, Feb. 10.—Loitering nearby until the place was closed, one of a pair of young bandits held up Benjamin Nunn, an attendant of the Imperial Oil Compay's gasoline station at Main and Catharine Streets last night at nine o'clock, and shot him through the throat with a bullet of heavy calibre.

Without attempting to rifle the cash till, which contained but a dollar or two, mostly in coppers, the bandit joined his companion, who was lurking across the street, and the pair made good their escape by runinng up Catharine Street and disappearing in the alley.

Benjamin Nunn, who is 40 years of age, and resides at 533 Main Street East, was alone at the time. He had just switched off the lights, and was outside disconnecting the feeder hose when the robbery was attempted.

House surgeons of the General Hospital report that Nunn escaped death by a miracle. It was found that the bullet entered his throat directly under the chin, just missed the jugular vein, broke his jaw, grazed the upper spine, and came out at the back of the neck. Nunn lost much blood, however, but his condition, though serious, is said to be not dangerous.

LOCAL ENGINEERS MEETING TO-NIGHT

WELL KNOWN CANADIAN ENGINEERS TO ADDRESS MEETING

PROPOSED QUEBEC LIQUOR CONTOL

Following is a summary of the proposed Quebec liquor legislation:

Doctors' prescriptions are unnecessary.

Spirits may be purchased, by any person, not interdicted from official vendors, one sealed bottle at a time.

Vendors and Commissioners are all salaried Government officials having no profit interest in sales.

Beer not more than 5 per cent. by weight will be sold by the glass by licensed taverns between 9 a.m. and 10 p.m., except on Sundays, legal and religious holidays.

Wine may be sold by hotels, restaurants, and clubs only with meals.

The importation of liquor by private individuals is forbidden.

Special permits may be secured for banquets and other functions at which beer and wine may be served.

Hotels will have two licenses, one for beer, the other for beer and wine at meals.

Beer will also be for sale in grocery stores, the number of which is not specified, in quantities of one bottle upwards.

No one must have anywhere but in his own home any strong drink. Nor must anyone sell any but the Commission. Bootleggers and keepers of houses of ill-fame come under this, and like other offenders are liable to a $1,000 fine on the first offence, and jail on the second.

Sale to persons interdicted, to keepers of houses of ill-fame, to anyone convicted of drunkenness, to anyone put on the "India list" by the Commission, is forbidden.

Penalties run from one to three months in jail and fine from $100 to $1,000 or both.

Writs or certorari, mandamus, and the like are abolished.

PREMIER DEFIES RAILWAY UNIONS

IGNORES THREAT OF GENERAL STRIKE OVER SHOOTING OF IRISH RAILWAYMEN.

(Associated Press.)

LONDON, Feb. 10. — Premier Lloyd-George to-day informed the Locomotive Engineers' and Firmen's Union that its implied threat to bring on a general strike in Great Britain over the shooting of railwaymen at Mallow, Ireland, last month, would not influence the Government in considering the Union's demand for an investigation.

The Union's intimation in a resolution adopted by the executive at Leeds yesterday was that unless the Government granted an inquiry into the Mallow affair by 15th February, and gave a guarantee for the safety of the Union members, a general strike would be called.

The Premier announced that the resolution would be sent to Ireland for an informative purpose by the Government.

MEIGHEN TAKES LOCAL REVERSE AS "ACCIDENT"

DISSOLUTION UNLIKELY AT PRESENT AND PREMIER OPTIMISTIC AND COURAGEOUS AS EVER OVER OUTLOOK.

NOT AT ALL ALARMED

OTTAWA, February 10. — The air is full of rumours of Cabinet reconstruction, involving some resignations and new appointments and before the next edition appears there is likely to be some important news. It will not be the announcement of dissolution and a general election.

Premier Meighen is sustaining his reputation for courage and optimism. He is as light hearted as a boy, and ready to face anything. He is taking the Peterboro result simply as an accident. He does not seem to consider the matter at all alarming.

"If the Liberals had lost Peterboro, it is reported that Mackenzie King would have resigned, and that Mr. Fielding would have taken his place," he says.

OFFICIAL COUNT ON MONDAY NEXT

OFFICIAL RETURNS MADE IN PRESENCE OF WITNESSES.

The official count of the ballots in the recent by-election by Sheriff J. A. Hall, the Returning Officer, will be made on Monday afternoon next, at 2.30 o'clock, in the presence of the election clerk, the candidates or their representatives ,if present, or of at least two electors if they are not present. It is expected that the count will be made from the statements of the deputy returning officers, and will only take about an hour to complete. Most of the ballot boxes are now at the Sheriff's office and everything will be ready for the count on Monday afternoon.

No unexpected developments are looked for from the returning officer's count and it is expected that stories that are rife around the streets of illegal balloting will be disproved in the proceedings.

HEAVY SENTENCE FOR BRUTAL DEED

15 YEARS IMPRISONMENT FOR ATTEMPTED MURDER OF CHILD WITH AXE.

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Feb. 10. — James J. Keenry was sentenced this morning to 15 years' imprisonment for the attempted murder of 8 year old Agnes Cannacher, while drunk.

The prisoner brutally hit the child on the head with an axe to avenge himself on her mother who refused to lend him money after he had squandered his own on drink and gambling.

MUST RETURN TO OLD FORM OF POLITICS

HON. DR. F. S. TOLMIE, MINISTER OF AGRICULTURE, SAYS THAT IS MORAL OF PETERBORO ELECTION.

"ONLY SAFE RECIPE"

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Feb. 10.—According to Hon. Dr. S. F. Tolmie, Minister of Agriculture in the Dominion Government, one plain and important lesson for Canadians, in the West Peterborough election result is the necessity for the two party plan as "about the only safe recipe for securing and maintaining representative government."

Dr. Tolmie points out that as a result of the contest for the West Peterborough seat by five nominees, the winner goes to Ottawa on the strength of 4,097 votes polled for him out of a qualified list of fifteen thousand voters.

"I am looking at that result," said Dr. Tolmie, "not as a member of the Meighen government, nor as a politician. I'm not a politician and never pretended to be one. My own view of good government is government that does its best to supply sound business principles to the conduct of public affairs in the most efficient and economical way, with recognition of all other opportunities for expanding our national business along common sense lines and in fairness to all interests and all classes in the community."

LEGISLATURE OF MANITOBA OPENS

SPEECH FROM THRONE INCLUDES NO PROMISE OF UNEXPECTED LEGISLATION.

(Canadian Press.)

WINNIPEG, Feb. 10.—The first session of the sixteenth Legislature of Manitoba was opened here this afternoon. Sir James Aikens, Lieut.-Governor, read the Speech from the Throne, which made a reference to the interesting political situation, and included no promise of unexpected legislation. There would be further need of housing funds to meet the demands of municipalities, it was forecasted. Child welfare legislation would be sought. Consideraton would be given to the proposed construction of a railroad to the mine fields of Northern Manitoba.

J. B. Bacid, member for Mountain, was re-elected Speaker, and Mrs. R. A. Rogers, member for Winnipeg, took her seat as the first woman elected to the Manitoba Legislature.

WELLAND CANAL WORK PROGRESSES STEADILY

WORK NEXT YEAR UNDER PRIVATE CONTRACT, IT IS UNDERSTOOD.

(Canadian Press.)

ST. CATHARINES, Feb. 10.—The work on the Welland Canal has been progressing steadily this winter. About fourteen hundred men all told are employed on the four sections under operation, and it is understood that more could be taken on.

It is understood that next year the Government will proceed with the work under private contract, when they expect that contracts for more sections of the Ship Canal will be let.

CITY HOCKEY LEAGUE
TWO GAMES FRIDAY NIGHT. ICE PERMITTING

Newton Rowell to Resign Seat in the Federal House

FORMER PRESIDENT OF THE PRIVY COUNCIL STATES HE WILL RESIGN AS SOON AS EXTERNAL AFFAIRS ARE DISPOSED OF.

REPRESENTS DURHAM

(Canadian Press.)

PORT HOPE, Ont., Feb. 10.—Hon. N. W. Rowell, M.P. for the County of Durham, will take his seat in the Commons as a Liberal-Unionist, during the coming session. The former President of the Privy Council, will retain his seat for the itme being and be present in the Commons when matters affecting Canada's external relations are brought up, particularly when questions arise regarding the Assembly of the League of Nations. When these matters are disposed of by the House, Mr. Rowell will tender his resignation. The statement of these intentions is given by the member for Durham in a letter to the officials of the Conservative and Liberal Associations of Durham who brought about his nomination.

At the time of the formation of the Union Government during the war Hon. Newton Wesley Rowell, then leader of the Liberal party in the Ontario Legislature, was taken into the Federal Cabinet as President of the Privy Council. A seat was secured for him at the 1917 elections from Durham County. On the formation of the National Liberal and Conservative government under Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen last July, Hon. Mr. Rowell refused to be sworn into the Cabinet again. Since then rumors that he intended to resign his seat have been in constant circulation, and to-day these are confirmed.

OTTAWA SITUATION IS A DELICATE ONE

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 10.—Dr. Michael Clark, Federal member for Red Deer, passing through here on his way to Ottawa, when asked what he thought of the position of the Government in view of the way in which its majority in the House had been whittled down, said the situation is such a delicate one that he preferred to make no statement at present.

"I am going to be in my place when the House opens and will remain there till the end, though what or when that end will be, I would not like to forecast," he added with a smile.

$379,000 LOSS RESULTED FROM LACK OF POWER

H. O. FISKE, IN ANNUAL REPORT ON UTILITIES COMMISSION, STATES THAT SERVICE HERE IMPROVED.

THE POWER SHORTAGE

According to the report of H. O. Fiske, manager of the Peterborough Utilities Commission, the power demand for 1920 has shown great improvement over that of 1919. The completion of a new line from Healey Falls has added to the efficiency of the service and ony at the low water period last fall did interruptions in the service occur.

Dealing with the power shortage of later September and early October, Mr. Fiske states that the total loss to Peterborough manufacturers and employees amounted to $379,000.

His report is as follows:

The power demand for 1920 has shown great improvement over that of 1919, only in the month of March did we fail to reach the 75 p.c. mark of our previous greatest demand.

On May 24th last the Hydro completed and put into service their new line of about 10,000 h.p. capacity direct from Healey Falls to Peterborough, which has greatly improved our voltage and assurance of freedom fom interruptions. Interruptions of service have been few outside the low water period, which will be referred to later. A severe thunder storm visited this vicinity Septemer 6th, Labor Day. The storm centre was north of Peterborough and some severe surges came over the high tension lines, causing some damage to the appartus in the Auburn power house, which cut off the city's light and power from 9.30 to 10.45 p.m. However, the property of the Commission did not suffer any damage.

Power Shortage.

September 6th a shortage of power was experienced, notwithstanding the fact that the average rain fall for the year had taken place. This shortage became more aggravated until we were compelled to close our factories one day in every five. A deputation visited Ottawa and begged the Premier to allow Buckhorn and Stoney Lake to be drawn upon to the extent of 1/10 of a foot per week for 10 weeks in addition to the existing flow that would add about 200 cu. ft. per second to the stream flow, which at that time was about 1,000 cu. ft. per second. This was denied us on the grounds that a depletion of these reservoirs to the extent of 1 ft. would cause a sure and complete shut down during the witner months. As a matter of fact at the end of the year the flow was from 2500 to 3000 c.f.s. All at once, on October 18th, the situation cleared up and we have been running on full power ever since. The total loss of our manufacturers and wage-earners as compiled by the Manufacturers' Association, are as follows: Loss to employees in wages, $28,000.00. Loss to manufacturers (1) due to cancellation of orders, (2) Revenue losses due to reduced production, (33 Depreciation in stocks due to falling markets, (4) General maintenance and overhead, $351,000.

Frozen Pipes.

Owing to the low temperature during the first three months of the year we had an epidemic of frozen water pipes, and our thawing apparatus was called upon to relieve 282 services.

General Improvement.

A considerable amount of work in general improvement of the system

POULTRY ASSOCIATION IN HEALTHY CONDITION

ANNUAL MEETING LAST NIGHT MARKED BY COMMENDABLE ENTHUSIASM—J. T. C. LANG NEW PRESIDENT.

Evidence that the Peterborough Poultry Association is not dead or dying, but on the contrary is going ahead yearly, was not lacking at the annual meeting held in the Labor Hall last night. There was a large attendance, and every member was enthusiastic about the future of the association. The report of the officers showed a small balance in the bank with funds enough to cover the few outstanding accounts. A retrospect of the recent poultry show was indulged in and the members felt that it was the most successful yet held. Active and financial co-operation of all the members to make the next one equally as successful, if not more so, was asked for by the officers, who expressed their appreciation of the splendid prizes donated for the competitions and of the contributions of money. They also expressed their thanks to the City and County Councils for their interest in the association and the support they gave it in its endeavours to improve the quality and increase the numbers of the better breeds of poultry. The interest taken by rural exhibitors in the recent show the officials took as conclusive evidence that their broadened policy is a popular one. The entries of local breeders have increased five-fold during the last five years.

New Officials.

Last night the following officers were elected for the ensuing year, a vote of thanks being extended to the retiring officials:

Hon. President—J. D. Lundy.

Hon. Directors—G. N. Gordon, M. P.-elect, T. Tooms, M.L.A., E. N. McDonald, M.L.A., J. A. Sexsmith, M.P., County Warden Griffiths and Mayor A. A. McIntyre.

$379,000 LOSS, ETC.

was carried out during the past year. A continuation of the George street clean-up from Charlotte street to the C.P.R. was completed, all wooden poles, electric light and telegraph wires were removed, the C.P.R. having made arrangements with the Independent Telephone Company for cable services through one of their ducts to their uptown office. George street from Murray to McDonnel was also relieved of all wooden poles as well as Charotte street from George to the G.T.R. tracks. A new secondary three-wire system, with the centre at Dublin and Rubidge, was constructed, also a new pole line and circuit from King on Water to the C.P.R. tracks and a complete new power line of 2,000 h.p. capacity run to the Canadian General Electric Company's Works, as well as many smaller pieces of line too numerous to mention. The Canadian General Electric line has already been loaded to 75 p.c. of its capacity. The total amount of copper wire erected was 30,000 lbs. or 15 tons, and 5,850 lbs. of scrap copper was removed from the system. The total number of poles erected fas 256 and the number of old ones done away with and removed was 131. 158 transformers with a capacity of 2,788 k.w. were erected and 19 with a capacity of 108 k.w. were burned out, old age, tree trouble and lightning was the usual cause.

A two ton log waggon was added to our equipment to which was adapted a derick for the purpose of erecting or taking down poles. Twenty poles on Charlotte street were taken down utes each, or at the rate of 40 per day. The same device fully demonstrated it value in raising poles, particularly on icy or slippery streets, the pole at all times being under complete control.

Meter Department.

This department consists of an inspector, meter expert and one linesman and looks after the receiving of new meters, testing, changing and verification and repair of all meters, also the disconnecting of services due to vacancy or for other reasons, and the reconnecting of all services on reoccupation. This feature alone last year amounted to 1,042 disconnections, 1,024 re-connections, or in other words 1,042 families apparently changed their domicile. 233 new services were added to the list, bringing our total number of consumers up to 5,273. 789 meters were adjusted, tested and made ready for Government inspection and fees were paid to the Government amounting to $487.35. This department also looks after the renewal of incandescent street lamps, which during the year amounted to 2,076. A light delivery motor truck is kept busy all the time in this department, covering during the year 5,057 miles.

Street Lighting.

The street lighting system has not been materially changed, except to add a few new lamps as ordered by the City Council. It might be said that we have been considerbly annoyed by having out street lamp bulbs broken, presumably by boys who do not appreciate the seriousness of the loss of service to the public or the cost to the Commission. This has been a difficult mater to deal with, for people generally will not testify against their neighbor's children. The Commission staff will be glad to receive information at any time that would lead to the stopping of this trouble. As a rule when parties become known it is only necessary to inform the parents, who pay for the lamps broken and stop the practice. During the year 4,384 work orders were issued and 345 permits from the Inspection Department received.

I might say in conclusion, that the effective carrying out of the year's work, as partly outlined above, was due in no small degree to the personal interest and loyalty of each member of the staff.

OFFICER'S WIFE SAVED FROM MAD ELEPHANT.

(Cross-Atlantic.)

BOMBAY, Feb. 10.—The wife of an officer of the Viceroy's Bodyguard was attacked by an elephant employed in a hunt. The animal apparently went suddenly mad and seized the lady in its trunk, whereupon her husband struck it across the trunk with a stick.

An elephant's customary method of destroying its victim is by trampling upon him, but this one, infuriated by the blow, placed the lady in its mouth.

An officer standing close by, armed with a rifle, immediately fired. The bullet entered the elephant's eye and pierced the brain, at once killing it. The officer's timely action saved the woman's life.

The incident gave rise to a rumour that Lady Chelmsford, wife of the retiring Viceroy, had been attacked and seriously injured by an elephant.

Even the man who carries chips on both shoulders doesn't necessarily walk upright.

KAISER'S TARIFF WALL PROPOSITION

ONCE PLANNED TO ERECT WALL AGAINST AMERICA, SAYS COUNT WITTE.

(By Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service.)

BERLIN, Feb. 10.—That the Kaiser once planned a European tariff war against America is revealed in the Memoire of Count Witte, the great Russian statesman, shortly to be published here. From an advance copy, the following extract is taken:

"During Wilhelm's first visit to Peterhof in 1897 he sent for me and made a little speech, telling me that in recognition of my merits he would confer on me the order of the Black Eagle, which, he added, was as a rule only given to ruling sovereigns and foreign secretaries.

"On the following day I had another conversation with him. 'America,' he said, 'is getting rich at the expense of Europe. A strong tariff wall must be built up round Europe to prevent America from dumping her products into Europe. European countries must join hands against the American adversary who is becoming dangerous, especially in agricultural products, in order to arrest the development of the U.S.'

"I took the liberty of stating that the interests of European continental countries and those of England were not identical, and that England must be excluded from the planned European union. The Kaiser replied that agriculture was not threatened by England, and that England could not be excluded, it being his desire to keep up the best relations with England. 'The tariff wall must be erected against America only.'

"I then argued that a tariff war against America—with or without England—was not practicable because many European countries would not join in. As regards Russia, I observed that we could only reluctantly share His Majesty's views. Since the War of Independence, relations with the United States had been most cordial, and we had no intention of quarrelling with America.

"I then stated my opinion on the general political situation. I remarked that Europe was like an old worn-out female. 'If a radical change does not take place soon,' I said, 'Europe's dominant position will be lost, and it will be supplanted by the powerful countries across the seas. The time is not distant when our continent will be treated with that kind of condescending respect shown to old age by well-educated people. Before a few centuries are past the greatness of Europe will mean for the inhabitants of this planet no more than the greatness of Rome, the glory of Greece and the power of Carthage mean to us.'

"The Kaiser, who was clearly impressed by my words, asked me what might be done to remedy these conditions. 'Your Majesty,' I said, 'must imagine a Europe which does not waste its blood and wealth in competitive strife, which does not keep millions of soldiers for wars, which is not an armed camp—to be brief, a Europe which is one united political body. Then we may, indeed, be more wealthy, stronger, more cultivated; and Europe, instead of breaking down under her burden, might become the mistress of the world. This can be achieved if we create a firm alliance between Russia, Germany and France. Given a firm union between these countries all other European countries will join this central union and form an all-comprising European federation.' His Majesty listened with great interest and said my views were original and interesting."

BECK PROPOSAL TO TAKE 70 YEARS TO COVER RURAL ONT.

SO SAYS J. R. COOKE, SECRETARY OF LEGISLATIVE HYDRO COMMITTEE.

(Canadian Press).

TORONTO, Feb. 10. — Sir Adam Beck's latest proposal that rural Hydro power should be cheapened by the Province making a grant of a quarter of a million dollars a year with which to pay one-third of the cost of country transmission lines, is pleasing to J. R. Cooke, M.P.P. for North Hastings.

"But it does not go far enough," said Mr. Cooke. "It would not give anything like the relief that the Legislative Committee, of which I was secretary, proposes with 80 per cent. of the cost born by the Province, and it would be a long time before rural Ontario could be all supplied by the Beck method."

Mr. Cooke states that rural Ontario could not be well equipped with transmission lines without thirty-five thousand miles of lines, which would cost about thirty-five millions. Under the Beck proposal, therefore, it would take nearly seventy years to cover those parts of the Province now well settled.

A WOMAN'S RIGHT TO GOOD HEALTH

Most Troubles Afflicting Women Are Due to Poor Blood.

To every woman belongs the right to enjoy a healthy, active life; yet nine out of ten suffer from some form of bloodlessness. That is why one sees on every side pale, thin cheeks, dull eyes and drooping figures — sure signs of headaches, weak backs, aching limbs and uncertain health. All weak women should win the right to be well by refreshing their weary bodies with the new, rich, red blood that promptly transforms them into healthy attractive women. This new, red blood is supplied by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which reaches every organ and every nerve in the body. Through the use of these pills thousands of women have found benefit when suffering from anaemia, indigestion, general weakness and those ailments from which women alone suffer. Among the many women who tell of the good Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done them is Mrs. L. Hicks, Round Hill, N.S., who says: "I became very much run down in health; my blood seemed weak and watery, my strength failed, and I was so easily tired that my work was a burden. I had often read about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and decided to try them, and I can truly say that after using three boxes, I found myself gaining, and under a further use of the pills all my old-time energy and vitality was restored. Out of my own experience I can strongly recommend this medicine."

You can get Dr Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

DEATH SENTENCE FOR A BOW-WOW

LONDON, Feb. 1 (by mail). — Never has the fate of an ordinary little white terrier caused such commotion as surrounded the "trial" and "execution" of Onkie for being a "danger to the public." Onkie had bitten a human being.

Onkie's friends moved heaven and earth to gain a reprieve, and his life hung in the balance for nearly five months. It was on 19th August last year that Onkie received his death warrant in the Police Court. An appeal was made at Surrey Quarter Sessions on 22nd October by C. J. Birch, Surbiton, his owner, in conjunction with the National Canine Defence League, but the sentence was confirmed.

Mr. Birch then wrote to the Queen, Queen Alexandra, and the Prince of Wales, asking them to intervene on the dog's behalf, and a petition for a "reprieve," bearing nearly 13,000 signatures was sent to the Home Secretary, who replied about six weeks ago that he had no jurisdiction.

So, one fatal night, in the presence of an officer of the law, the dog was destroyed at the surgery of a veterinary, being poisoned by an injection. The "execution" did not occupy more than five seconds.

NEXT PILGRIMAGE WAR CEMETERIES

INFORMATION FOR THOSE PLANNING TO VISIT GRAVES IN FRANCE NEXT SUMMER.

By ETHEL C. LONGWORTH
(Special Correspondence Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service.)

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Women in various parts of Canada are writing to the Canadian Women's Red Cross Hostel in London to ask what assistance it can offer them when they come to Europe next summer to visit the graves of husband, son or brother in France or Belgium. The women's Red Cross Hostel, at 20 Princess Gardens, is empty now, for the great pilgrimage to the graves of the Canadian dead will only begin with the warm weather, but preparations are being made to receive in early spring those relatives of Canada's dead who wish to journey to the cemeteries.

All last summer the hostel was full. Its twenty-five beds were at the disposal not only of Canadian women, but of British women whose next of kin had fought in the Canadian army. Only the woman who is making the sad Pilgrimage to a grave in Flanders or in France has the privilege of staying there. To such a woman the doors of the hostel are open wide.

The Red Cross voluntary workers at this beautiful and comfortable home are ready to meet boats arriving from Canada when they have been notified that women pilgrims are en route. Through the hostel all arrangements can be made for the journey to the military cemetery on the continent. Accommodation for the pilgrims is secured at Calais, Boulogne, Amiens and Hasebrouck, through the chain of St. Barnabas hostels, and if the cemetery is situated in a district far from any of these centres, the Red Cross Hostel in London arranges with a Y.M.C.A. hut or a Church Army centre in France to care for the pilgrim.

Even such details as arrangements for the motor car that shall finally carry the traveller to the grave side, are included in the plans made in London.

The hostel's officers are insistent on the fact that Canadian pilgrims should take care to verify the exact situation of the grave they are seeking before they leave Canada. The work done by the Canadian Graves' Commission in France has been great, and many more or less isolated graves are being daily moved to the larger military cemeteries. Therefore Canadian travellers should write shortly before their departure to the Graves' Registration Commission, Ottawa, for details as to the latest location of the grave which they seek. Given such information, the Women's Red Cross Hostel can arrange the journey from London to the cemetery.

Passports secured in Canada should be made out for "France and Belgium via England." Americans on the same sad mission should secure their passports over the same route.

SAYS ACID STOMACH CAUSES INDIGESTION

Excess of Hydrochloric Acid Sours the Food and Forms Gases.

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or rather ferments, the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that Indigestion is caused by Hyper-acidity, meaning there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach, which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten sours in the stomach much like garbage sours in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest, we belch up gas, we eructate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash, or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids, and instead, get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts, and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and drink while it is effervescing, and furthermore, to continue this for a week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys, and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.

CHINESE WOMEN TO DEMAND FREEDOM

Women's Suffrage Association is Organized at Shanghai.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 10.—China, following hard on the peoples of the western world, now has its Chinese Women's Suffrage Association. The platform drafted at the opening meeting by the membership, composed of women educated in the schools of China and abroad, is as follows:

Every woman may have a right to vote. Men and women will have equal protection under the law. Girl slavery shall be prohibited. Women shall have the right to the possession of their property, which shall be registered by name.

Women shall have the right to marray whom they desire. Women shall have equal opportunities for education with men. Women shall have equal vocational opportunities and vocational education with men. Women shall have equal rate of wage with men.

Concubinage shall be prohibited. A single standard shall be maintained for men and women. Widows shall have financial recompense from the state for the care of their children.

When a girl sees a mirror she knows it's time to pause and reflect. —Nashville Tennessean.

BLUE-EYED VILLAIN!

By YSOBEL BARRE
(Staff Correspondent Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service.)

LONDON, Feb. 10.—"Beware of blue eyes, especially deep blue eyes," is a recent warning to London youths and maidens by a French student of human nature, who hides his identity under the initials A. C. D.

"In fact, the more clear and innocent the look the greater the deception of those exceptionally blue eyes. Having this opinion endorsed by others, I do not hesitate to say, 'Beware!' The blue eye so often depicted by the novelist is unfathomable. I have come into contact with several cases where the clear, almost child-like expression has accompanied a downright lie.

"This theory applies not only in marriage but in every case. Without attempting to delineate character, one may safely assume for general application, the blue-eyed people are inclined to be more treacherous, are less likely to be staunch friends, and others."

The "true blue" eyes of the ballad singers are, it seems, not so true as they are sung, and it appears that the song-maker is at variance on this matter with the moralist.

It is something of a shock to find blue-eyed husbands regarded as more faithless than husbands with eyes of other hues, but Mr. Thomas Lumsden, Chief Relieving Officer of Leeds, backs up the opinions of A.C.D. He says that husbands with such eyes are prone to run away from their wives.

Mr. Lumsden, indeed, declares that in the cases of runaway husbands, of which he has had experience, 90 per cent. have had eyes of this apparently dangerous color.

While novelists only speculate on the period when married unhappiness is greatest, Mr. Lumsden has definite data.

"Married unrest," he says, "shows itself between the ages of 30 and 40. Before 30, men are hopeful, or in love, and after 40 either married or resigned."

"As a rule," he adds, "a man only deserts his wife once, and wife desertion is generally most prevalent during times of industrial depression.

"A man sets forth to look for work and forgets to return, especially if his quest has been unsuccessful. Generally, however, if he is successful he returns happy to his wife, especially if his eyes are not blue." Mr. Lumsden's statements have roused a warm controversy on the merits and demerits of blue-eyed husbands.

Dr. Albert Wilson, a psychological expert, does not wholly agree with Mr. Lumsden.

"My experience has been that the dark-eyed man is the more temperamental and fiery," said Dr. Wilson; "but this is nothing new; it is mentioned in Revelations."

"You must have remarked," continued Dr. Wilson, "that Mr. Lumsden bases his theory on his observations of poor people only. The nature of his work does not lead him in contact with the rich, wh are less prone to desert their wives for fear of unpleasant notoriety.

"No such sweeping statement should be made unless the average is taken from a study of about 10,000 cases."

Another doctor put forward the suggestion that should Mr. Lumsden's assertion be correct, the irresponsibility of the blue-eyed husband is derived from his love of adventure.

"Blue-eyed men," he said, "are notoriously the best sailors, soldiers and explorers. The call of adventure probably sounds so loudly that it induces them to throw up home ties.

"Anyway, whatever kind of husband the blue-eyed man makes, I am sure that the brown-eyed girl makes a better husband of a man!

"But in the words of Kipling, 'that is another story.'"

Professor (giving examination) — "Does any question embarrass you?" Bright Student—"Not at all, sir. Not at all. The questions are quite clear. It is the answers that bother me."—Penn State Froth.

BOY CRIMINALS GET SUSPENDED SENTENCE

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 10.—Stan[illegible] Flagler, aged 16 years, pleaded guilty in the Police Court to stealing a bicycle. The machine had been recovered and the boy was let go under bonds.

The two brothers, aged 13 and 15, accused of breaking into the Thomasburg Post Office and getting away with about $130, was tried privately and let go under a year's suspended sentence, his father giving surety for their safety.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

THURSDAY, FEB. 10TH, 1921.

A BUSINESS-LIKE PLAN.

In deciding upon the motion of Ald. Gainey and Morrison that all applications for civic grants, as well as all requests from civic employees for larger salaries, shall be considered by the committee of the Whole Council instead of by the Finance committee as formerly, the city fathers have adopted a business-ike course. These matters, over which there is always more or less difference of opinion, might jus tas well be threshed out before the Whole Council in the first place, for experience has shown that there has generally been a discussion anyway when the report of the Finance committee was presented and the deliberations of the latter committee were in some instances at least a case of wasted energy, for the committee of the Whole has reversed the decision of the Finance committee. Ald. Crowe's suggestion that information eb secured from other cities of the same approximate size as Peterborough in regard to the cost of the municipal management fits in nicely with Ald. Gainey's motion, for with this information available, the Council will be better equipped in dealing with applications for salary increases and other matters of the same kind.

TO FIGHT IT OUT.

Although the first reports from Ottawa following the West Peterborough by-election indicated the possibility of an early appeal to the country and this course was urged upon the Government by many of the newspapers that have consistently supported the present administration, there is little probability of a general election unless the private members when they arrive refuse to endorse the cabinet's decision to "carry on." It is evident that Premier Meighen has decided to ignore the verdict in the local election and to attempt to weather the coming session. Both Liberals and Farmers will press for a speedy dissolution of the House, and as the Government's majority at the present moment is decidedly lean, the session, which opens next week, sholud be one of the most interesting in the history of the Canadian Parliament. The fight will commence early in the session for the opposition may be depended upon to bring in an amendment to the address from the throne calling for a speedy dissolution of the House. The Government's majority is so small as to make an amendment of this nature a very dangerous mater for the Administration.

THAT HYDRO REPORT.

That portion of the report of the special committee of the Ontario Legislature delegated to study the question of a more equitable distribution of Hydro-Electric power, which proposes that urban users of power shall be taxed $2 per horse power for all the power used by their Utilities Commission in order that power transmission lines may be built in the rural sections, will be opposed by the local council, and the decision of the city fathers to show their disapproval of the proposal is the only course they could follow. The plan suggested by the special committee of the Legislature is not only class legislation of the most glaring kind, but, as Sir Adam Beck has pointed out, its adoption would be ruinous to the whole Hydro scheme. Much as urban dwellers sympathize with the desire of their friends in the country to have the benefits of electric power, they see no reason why the cost of transmitting the energy to the rural section should have to be met by the people of the cities and towns. There is neither reason nor justice in the policy advocated by the special committee, and the local council is entirely justified in deciding to oppose the measure and to indicate their opposition by sending a delegation to Toronto if this step be considered advisable.

THE SOUTH AFRICAN RESULT.

South Africa will "carry on" under the Union Jack. The returns from the general elections, although not complete, are sufficient to show that General Smuts will have a safe majority. The verdict will be received by every loyal Canadian, as well as by citizens of the British Empire everywhere, with delight, for it means that the people of South Africa have decided to remain as an integral unit of the Empire rather than to follow General Hertzog in his endeavour to make an independent republic of the country. That was the real question before the electors on Wednesday, although both the leader of the Labour party and General Hertzog, chieftain of the Nationalist group, have endeavoured to camouflage the issue. The defeat of General Smuts and his South African party would have been a calamity not only to the British Empire, but to the people of South Africa, for the return to power of a party whose chief ideal was the separation of the country from the Empire, could have no other consummation ultimately than to cause a renewal of the old struggle between Briton and Boer, with results that would be too terrible to contemplate. A Nationalist victory would have meant disaster to South Africa; the importance, therefore, of the success at the polls of Premier Smuts cannot be exaggerated. The whole Empire will rejoice that South Africa has decided against secession.

GOVERNMENT CHARITY.

Appeal to the Dominion Government for help to combat the starvation in parts of Chian raises a difficult question. How far should governments go in the direction of making national subscriptilons to charity elsewhere? Or what limitations should there be? The emergency in China is stated by creditable people to be a terrible thing. But so is the emergency to-day throughout much of Europe, and throughout much of Asia outside of China. In Austria, in Poland, in Serbia, in Armenia, in India, in Russia, the distress of great numbers of people is known to be harrowing, the lives of millions of children in danger. Recognition of the Dominion Government of responsibility for official aid to the Chinese would mean recognition of responsibility more or less towards every other desperately distressed country. If one why not another? The only distinction could be the comparative extent or gravity of the distress—how much one country was worse off than some other. This would usually entail special government examination, would certainly call for it at a time like the present, when starvation and disease press upon so much of the world; and the problem of the Government would be to determine how much more should be given to one than another, to determine for instance how much more should be given to China than to Armenia, to Poland than to Serbia, to the Ukraine than to Austria, to India than to Constantinople.

In the United States a splendid effort is being made to raise by private subscription a sum of thirty-three million dollars "to save the lives of three and a half million children in Central and Eastern Europe," the money to be disbursed through an organization headed by Mr. Herbert Hoover. This suggests two things. One that if the principle of Government responsibility in Canada for aid to relieve epidemic distress elsewhere is to be accepted, the logical step to take would be to make one definite appropriation of public money, and place it in the hands of a commissioner for distribution among various nations according to his judgment after proper enquiry. The other thing suggested by the American subscription is that perhaps private subscription should usually be relied upon to contribute to foreign emergency. A Government can reasonably argue, if it chooses to do so, somewhat as follows: "Cause for help is stated. Many of our people feel that help should be given. Some doubt it, some are indifferent, some say need enough exists at home for any public money that can be spared for charity. Under the circumstances, and realizing that those who feel that help should be given are free to give it themselves as private individuals, we doubt it we ought to compel the rest to give through their taxes."

A sudden disaster, on a great scale, fire, flood, earthquake, which appeals to the pity of mankind is sometimes a fiting occasion for Government action elsewhere; but a good reason for that may be the immediateness of the call for help. No time may be left for the inevitably slow processes of appeals to private charity. The case is perhaps different with slowly-developing eras and arenas of disease and famine.—Ottawa Journal.

FIND BURGLAR IS A LUNATIC.

Man Caught in Home Nearly Nude Fled From Middletown.

EAST VIEW, Feb. 9.—Officials of the model East View penitentiary discovered to-day that William Schultz, a prisoner who had just arrived there arrayed in a Palm Beach suit, was an escaped lunatic from Middletown Insane Asylum. Schultz, whose relatives live in New Milford, Conn., told one of Warden Warren McClellan's assistant, confidently, that he escaped from the asylum a few days ago and went to Millbrook, N.Y.

There he broke into the country home of I. S. Wheaton and, wearing only an undershirt, secreted himself until found by a caretaker. In court, when given three months for burglary, he told the Judge he was only following the tendency of the times to wear fewer clothes.

"Look about you and you will see the women are wearing their dresses shorter than ever," said Schultz, 'and thinner, too."

The police got a Palm Beach suit for the prisoner and made him put it on when they arrested him.

"What Can You Do?"

One of the first questions asked the man seeking a new position is, "What can you do?". If you say "I can save money", and produce a Merchants Bank Pass Book that shows regular weekly or monthly deposits, you need no other recommendation. The man who saves systematically—knows the value of money—is providing for the future—is ambitious—is using his head as well as his hands—and the Savings Account proves it.

POLICEWOMAN'S WORK IS BEING INVESTIGATED

KITCHENER, Feb. 10.—As the result of criticism on the part of a number of the members of the City Council the Police Commission is investigating the work that has been done since the appointment of Miss E. Shantz as policewoman. Judge Hearn, chairman of the commission, strongly favors the retention of a policewoman, believing that in a city where many girls are employed an officer is required to look after their interests. The aldermen who do not favor the continuance of the expense claim that the constables can perform the duties that have been undertaken by the policewoman. Miss Shantz was appointed about six months ago.

For Winter Weather —a Wrist Radiolite

Convenient for Women too

DID you ever stop to think of the convenience of a wrist watch in winter—how it saves taking your gloves off, unbuttoning your overcoat, your inside coat and then fumbling around to extract a watch from an unfindable pocket?

With an Ingersoll Wrist Radiolite, one movement of your left arm and you can see the time—daylight or pitch darkness.

Genuine radium is used in the substance on the figures and hands to make them sparkle the time in the dark for you. The movement is tested in three positions for a total of six days before it leaves the factory. The strap is strong and good looking. At $6.75 a Wrist Radiolite is money's worth all the way through.

Made in a Canadian factory which last year produced an Ingersoll for every fifty Canadians. Sold by merchants everywhere.

"OLD AGE" IS MERELY A POSE

FAMOUS LONDON SURGEON BLASTS "TOO-OLD-AT-FORTY" MYTH.

(By Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service.)

LONDON, Feb. 10.—The "too-old-at-forty" myth has been finally disposed of by Sir James Cantile, the famous London surgeon, who declares that "old age is merely a pose." He has started a physical culture class for business men of 45 to 75, and as a preliminary step called together 200 elderly pupils for a discussion.

War was declared on "that old-age feeling." Rheumatism was defied and lumbago jeered at by the speakers. The fresh and sturdy instructor of the course, Major Cruden, who, although 69, served as a private at the front, was held up as an example of what any grey-headed man can become.

"Too many of us get thinking we are old and infirm," said Sir James Cantlie. "As men grow older they complain of their rheumatism and lumbago. They say they can't get up in the morning, they can't move, and a lot of other things that are all nonsense. They have lumps on their ears and elsewhere. Have you got them? Then you should not allow yourself to have them. They have deposits of salt.

"Exercise is better for you than spas, baths and other such treatments. Shave a dog and varnish him and he will die in a week. You want to perspire. Many men say they can't perspire, but it is nonsense. I would weigh their undergarments in the morning and again in the evening, and the scales would prove that they can perspire.

"Our grandmothers kept warming-pans, but these are now hanging on walls in our houses. I would say to women, 'Take down that warming-pan and use it. If it leaves a vacant nail hang the teapot on it.' Deafness is caused in old people by damp pillow-cases. Your grandfather wore a nightcap. You call them silly old things, mollycoddles, but nightcaps and warming-pans were wise things."

Professor Simpson deprecated the "too-old-at-forty" cry, and said there was no reason why a man should not be active in body and mind at seventy.

When the arrangement to hold lessons in "physical jerks" every Tuesday had been made, it was suggested that if some man would move the chairs and give a little drill it could be shown that the exercise would not harm even the oldest. A wave of action ran through the room. Bald-headed men swung chairs aside three at a time, while bearded patriarchs began to move the piano. Within a minute twelve elderly men were listening to the "prepare to begin" and "begin" of their 69-years-young instructor. After exercises in their shirt sleeves, to the tune of the piano, men of 50, 60 and 70 walked away with bright eyes, erect heads and elastic steps.

OMEMEE MINSTRELS A HUGE SUCCESS

CROWDED HOUSE GREETED LOCAL TALENT—SWEET MELODY, IRRESISTIBLE COMEDY, ENTRANCING SCENERY.

OMEMEE, Feb. 9.—"Dese bones shall rise again." To those who read these words here they are words and little else, but to those who heard them 'midst the mirth and melody which filled Coronation Hall to overflowing on Friday and Monday nights last, they are a delightful memory. Many of the good folk of "dis one-hoss town dat is good enuf fo' me" have been on tiptoe since before the Christmas festivities, but now they walk on the whole foot, and are satisfied.

Strange Doings.

Strange doings were going on around the hall, and as time went on, the doings went faster and faster, but only the initiated really knew what 'twas all about. The comings and goings of smiling men daubed with paint might have made one say "The new Council soon got to work; they have a contractor already on the job of renovating the hall." Take another look, boss—no mere contractor's men ever hustled and smiled like these men. You miss your guess; have another." Of course, a good many knew that Mike Parsons had something up his sleeve—that's what got the folk on tiptoe.

Then came the big sign in front of the hall. "The Pigeon River Minstrels will put on their show on Friday, 4th of February, at 8 o'clock in Coronation Hall. Plan at Bradley's. Rastus Bones Ruius Moses.—Dey'll oil be dar." The cat was out of the bag. Mike was gathering some of the boys and Bob Johnson and turning them into first-class "Down Souf Niggah Minstrels." But what about the fellows daubed with paint—well, that's another story.

Crowded House.

Then came Friday night and a crowded, curious house. Things looked just the same as usual—only the crowd that "please us if you can look" was absent, which is mostly on the faces of people waiting to get a first look at a professional entertainer, and a look of "Oh, this is going to be something different," took its place. But what was it? The same old curtain with its venetian scene hid the stage. What was behind it? That expectation of something new even kept the lively boys from throwing candies and wrestling over the seats as if they feared that one of those Down Souf Gen'lemen might be a policeman and suddenly step through that Venetian curtain and without ceremony run him off to the little brick building behind Parson's store where everybody who becomes a nuisance really ought to be for a while.

Sweet Melody.

Then melodious sounds were heard behind that same old curtain then up it began to rise—the curtain I mean—and then was revealed the wondrous Pigeon River Minstrels—ranged before almost beautiful scenic effect, depictoring the beautiful home of a slave keeping "Massa" and singing in most melodious harmony "Carry me back to Old Virginia."

Night of Mirth.

That was the beginning of a night of mirth and melody the like of which was never before enjoyed in "Old Omemee".

One dare not say what it was about the whole show that was best— It was all good quids—jokes, stories farce solos—choruses— quartettes. It was just one long evening of mirth melody and laughter, good, clean, honest wholesome entertainment, that helps one to go back to his work with a better heart. Dull care for a time anyway was chased away.

Quite Entrancing

When the curtain rose for the second part of the programme, the mansion with its lights and vines was gone and a scene still more lovely and entrancing took its place—a soft southern moon shining among great magnolia trees laden with bloom. The minstrels now in the garb of workers among the corn and cotton lying on the turf beneath them, singing their sweet plantation melodies. And under the magnolia trees the music and dancing went on until the curtain. The old Venetian curtain—dropped again, and the minstrels were hidden from sight.

Every last person in the audience register in their heart "the best ever and our boys.

The Other Story.

But what about the other story the men daubed with paint—why that is how those beautiful scenes, the mansion and the magnolia trees come to be. They neither happened nor were they imported nor was even an artist imported. One of our own boys who did his best in the trenches, as did a good many others of the minstrels, and is now with his wife holding down a farm near the village is the artist—and a real artist he is. Mr. Bert Hume not only for his skill but for his time and labor so unsparingly given deserves and has the appreciation of the other minstrels and the appreciation and gratitude of a responsive public. And to Mrs. Hume also, who helped very greatly in fitting the minstrels out in wig and costume is the appreciation of the boys and the audience coming.

Will Be Back Again.

The Minstrel Show is now history—But they'll be back again. "Shoo nuff dey's not goni' to be niggas what ain't".

The proceeds of this show, which was put on under the auspices of the Omemee Athletic Association, will be applied on the purchase of a field which has been secured for the use of the village and community for all kinds of athletic sports.

The proceeds Friday night were $255 and on Monday night, $178.

"All aboard fo' ol' Omemee".

TERRIBLE SUFFERING OF EUROPE'S CHILDREN.

(Cross-Atlantic.)

BERLIN, Feb. 10.—Medical statistics show that of 485,000 Berlin children, 23,000 are suffering from tuberculosis; 77,000 suffering from other diseases are practically starving.

The death-rate of children under three months has doubled. The 1920 death-rate of children under five years has increased by 35 per cent. compared with pre-war times.

Similar reports come from Vienna, where 75 per cent. of all children are underfed and suffering from rhachitis and softening of the bones. Of these children, over 50 per cent. suffer from tuberculosis.

Louis Rotenberg, young Toronto violinist, who was interned in Austria during the war, and who is now reported by his teacher, the famous Sevcik, to have developed into an artist with a great future.

BRITISH PREMIER'S NEW GIFT-HOME.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—The Lloyd-George family is now in possession of its new home, Chequers, Buckinghamshire, which has been presented to the nation as a country residence for the Prime Minister by Lord Lee of Fareham.

Chequers is a beautiful, typical English baronial manaion, full of historical associations. The outside of the building is as interesting as the interior. There are lines of trenches which date back to a period before the time of Cromwell. Part of the house was built in 1840, and additions were made in 1565.

The great stone hall, with oak panelling, large oak chests, antique furniture, and portraits of kings and of former owners of the house, is redolent of Tudor days.

Lord Lee of Fareham, whose wife was Miss Ruth Moore, of New York, was British Military Attache with the U. S. Army in Cuba in 1898, and afterwards at the Washington Embassy. He was previously Professor of Strategy and Tactics at the Canadian Royal Military College.

KU KLUX KLAN IN IRELAND

(Special to The Examiner by Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service.)

DUBLIN, Feb. 10.—The Klu Klux Klan has invaded Ireland. It does not call itself Klu Klux, nor has it any relationship to the new Klu Kluxers who have recently organized in the United States and who are now threatening to invade New York City, but it is patterned after the Klu Klux organization which helped put the South in order after the Civil War.

It is an organization of native born Irishmen, who are opposed to the Sinn Fein, and who have decided that the only way to fight fire is by fire. They do not plan a campaign of general terrorism and murder, but they do expect to pick out the Sinn Fein leaders and bring them before the bar of Klu Klux justice.

Your correspondent, whose name must remain a secret because of his pledges in obtaining this story, but who is known to you and for whom you can vouch to your clients and their readers, has finally succeeded in meeting the supreme heads of this new and mysterious Irish organization.

For four days after I reached the Irish city where its headquarters is I sought vainly for an introduction to its head. Then I met a man who knew a man, who, but you know the rest. And I was well known in the city, and my word was good as a newspaper man to almost anyone in position of office or trust.

Two days later I was introduced to a stranger who would arrange for a man to meet me and take me to a rendevous. It was dark when we left. We walked to the centre of the city, where a hooded car pulled up to the curb by our side and my guardian turned me over to two strangers. They beckened me to the back seat where they sat and placed me between them blindfolding me, "as their lives were at stake." We were driven about corners ,up and down the city until all sense of direction I had was lost, when we pulled into a court yard.

The two took me by each arm, helped me from the car, led me across a forcourt, which I could tell as gravel crunched under my feet, then up steps and into a house, where the door had been unchained and unbolted at their signal.

Inside my eyes were unbandaged and I was led through a dimly lighted passage to a closed door where a rapped signal admitted us. Three men addressed as familiars of the holy office were seated there, but instead of being all in somber black, the central figure wore a cowl of emerald green, while those to his right and left were ghostly white, and all wore crimson gloves. Over the breast of the centre figure hung a V-shaped tricolor ribbon, on which was suspended a medal or amulet, the nature of which I did not discover. Before all three on the table were piles of documents, weighted down by small but deadly automatic pistols.

"The gentleman before you," said one of my two guides, "is the president of the Anti-Sinn Fein League of Ireland; on his right is number eleven, a Provincial Centre, and on his left is number twenty-seven, one of the joint secretaries to the Grand Council." I bowed and sat down. The president spoke, "Our precautions may seem to an outsider theatrical but you must remember we have arrayed against us the most powerful group of assassins ever gathered together. The purpose of our organization is manifest in its title, but its organization will ever remain a secret However, it is closely modeled after the Klu Klux Klan of the post bellum days of American reconstruction. We are receiving you and making this statement on authority of the Grand Council because of disquieting rumors in circulation regarding our organization. Our membership is practcally one hundred per cent. Irish born and our constitution bars the admission of any soldier of the Empire during his period of enlistment. I particularly want this made emphatic, for in certain cases the activities of the Anti-Sinn Fein League have been attributed to the military. Possibly the soldiers have acted all unknowingly as our agents, for we have supplied information on which they have proceeded, but they are not members of our organization.

"We refuse to have our country ruled by a set of political bagmen, exalted to power by an organization of assassins. We shall fight terror with counter terror and we shall execute assassins in all cases where the law has been balked of its prey."

"I may tell you," the president continued, "that our organization is not oath bound, except in the cases of a few executive with special duties. Many of our members belong to religious organizations which do not permit membership in organizations of oath-bound secrecy, but we have devised an effective way of preserving our secrecy without oaths.

"We have been existance for two years, but only recently have decided to become active by direct action methods. We have adequate financing; at present our reserve funds representing a tremendous capital and none of our members are dependant on us for their support.

"As to the fires in Cork, which have been attributed to the military, let me recall that our society warned of what would occur unless our orders were complied with. It is to be regreted that loyalists' premises were burned. These losses will be made good, but our orders must be obeyed.

"The Southern States suffered in their day under the insolence of the negro and the malice of the uneducated begger, and here we face similar conditions. A handful of school masters backed by boys and gunmen who seek to speak the voice of Ireland. It shall not be!"

Voice Of The People

Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—Now that the election is over, and we have seen how each candidate has worked, what a large force of helpers each man had, how well they were organised, and how well they all worked together—let us turn our attention toward the work of God. Let us organise a campaign for Christ that will outdistance the political one. Evangelist E. J. Campbell, a former Lindsay boy, will be in the large room over the Royal Bank on Monday evening, 14th February, at 7.30, for the first of a series of meetings in this work. Let everyone who is anxious for the Lord's work come and help His cause along. In the name of God, Church of God Mission, Peterborough. W. H. Crawford.

LITTLE IMPROPRIETY IN THE DANCE HALLS

TORONTO PLACES WELL CONDUCTED, MANAGERS CLAIM—DISCIPLINE ENFORCED STRICTLY.

TORONTO, Feb 10.—Whilst the proprietors of Toronto dancing halls seem unanimous in agreeing with the tenor of Rev. Byron Stauffer's Sunday night sermon to effect that such practices as cheek-to-cheek and head-on-shoulder dancing should not be countenanced in public halls, they are equally unanimous in affirming that as a rule public dances in the city are so well conducted that it would be difficult for any person to find a reasonable ground for complaint.

Impropriety Doesn't Pay.

As the proprietor of one academy put it: "We have found that in order to retain a good clientele ie is absolutely necessary that at all times the reputation of our school should be kept above reproach. It does not pay to permit any customs that are even shady, let alone definitely objectionable, and I believe every dancing teacher is well aware of this I agree with Dr. Stauffer, all right, that these kinds of dancing should be prohibited; but I think I can safely say that as a rule they are already prohibited."

"There is a great deal in the discipline that is enforced," said Prof. J. F. Davis. "If you let your patrons know that you won't stand for any doubtful conduct, you will find that the tone of your hall is kept at a pretty high level."

Fault at Summer Places.

Mr. E. M. Early thought that dancing pavilions at summer resorts are largely responsible for a certain bad name that some people associate with dancing. At these places, he explained, it is not very easy to superintend what goes on, because most of the patrons are transients and are careless of regulations that would be rigidly observed if their future admission depended upon good conduct Mr. Early doubted whether a round of inspection of the large dancing halls in Toronto would reveal anything objectionable.

Toronto's Reputation.

"When any person acts in such a way as Dr. Stauffer intimated some do, by placing cheek-to-cheek with his partner, he is defying the rules of dancing laid down by the National Dancing Association and endorsed by all the leading dancing instructors, declared Mr. B. Nowson. "Such conduct is never condoned in any place that is at all careful of its name, and I am sure it is the exception in Toronto. Why, some of us won't even permit our patrons to talk or chew gum while they are dancing. and there is a very straight line that regulates conduct between the two sexes while on the floor. Toronto has a good name for the high quality of its dancing halls. I don't think you will find any better on this continent," Mr. Newson concluded.

QUAINT EPITAPH OF BRITISH BLACKSMITH.

(Cross-Atlantic.)

LONDON, Feb. 10.—The problem of an epitaph is puzzling the Cheshunt (Hertfordshire) Burial Board. They have been considering whether they can allow the following lines to be inscribed on the tombstone of a deceased blacksmith, Henry Jackson:

"My head and hammer lie reclined;
My bellows, too, have lost their wind,
My fire's extinguished, forge decayed,
And in the dust my vice is laid.
My coal is spent, my iron gone,
Last nail is driven, my work is done."

Jackson had left instructions for this odd epitaph to be placed on his grave. The Board at first decided that they could not permit the inscription, but finally decide dto refer the matter to the Bishop.

IRON POLICEMAN GETS CREDIT FOR ARREST

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Feb. 8.—An iron policeman is given full credit for the arrest here to-day of Frank Gore, a negro, charged with being the driver of an automobilewhich Saturday night struck and killed Waldon Bailey, aged 7, and seriously injured Jack Brewer, 11.

A negro driving a big touring car was seen to speed away from the place of the accident, and over a railway crossingwhere an iron figure with outstretched arms stands a warning to motorists to slow down. When he saw the "policeman" blocking the way the driver jumped from the car and fled. The automobile continued on its wild dash until it brought up against an enbankement beside the railway track's. The driver's hat and overcoat found in the machine, led to his arrest.

Anybody Can Keep a Boat Going with the Current—What Tests the Strength and Stamina Is to Row Upstream

In fair weather a weakling wears a shining face, for his visage reflects the sun; but the strong man keeps on smiling when the day is foul, for the optimism is of his own making and does not come and go according to the weather.

This store is always the same to its patrons—whether the day be busy or slow, the purchase large or small.

The Cressman Co. Ltd.

Lovely Spring Dresses of Woollen Fabrics from $10 to $75

Just arrived and ready for inspection is a wonderful group of the new spring dresses. We were all surprised at the ingenious innovations, the unusual lines and the distinctive little touches in detail and trimming. To tell you too much about them before hand might rob you of some of the pleasure of seeing them yourself. So drop in and look them over and be charmed with them as we were.

Ten dollars sounds like an old-time price for a Dress, and it surely is. We never hoped to see it again. But we have—and here they are in some real smart models. Of course, they are not elaborately trimmed, but they are smartly cut and have just enough ornamentation to satisfy many people. The material is navy blue serge of a very good grade.

From ten dollars the prices go slowly upward to $75. These are more ornamental and some are heavy with embroidery workings, soutache or military braidings and novelty touches and girdles. The flared overskirt is featured and Turkish effects are greatly favored, such as a loose blouse and a tight sash that hangs loose at the side. Metallic embroidery work is also prominent and the straight-line effect prevails in every model.

All of them arrived just recently and are the latest garments from leading makers.

Dressed To-Day

Dress Collars of Organdie, Net, and Georgette. Also Vestees.

"Perrin's" Fine Quality Kid Gloves, in Grey, Brown, White, and Black.

Another Spring Shipment of Women's Cloth Dresses, Suits, and Blouses.

Organdies in 44 inch width: Pink, Orchid, Light Maize, and White. Price $1.75 yard.

A whole New Spring Range of Dress Voiles, in many lovely patterns and colours. Priced at 98c, $1.25, and $1.50 yard. Forty inches wide.

Brown and Art Linen for Ruffles, in 18 inch and 36 inch widths; pure Linen and "Old Bleach" quality. Priced at $1.10 and $1.75 yard.

Spring Suits Already on Our Racks

Navy blue tricotine or smart jersey or the more than ever popular tweed, says the Fashion Expert, will be the most popular fabrics for eary spring wear. The fashions are charming. There are the smartest of new short length box Coats, loose or belted little Coats, with most novel of linings and unusual embroidery, and skirts, which may be short in the American fashion or slightly longer following the new decree of Paris.

Upholstered in Tapestry—

$25 Upholstered Tapestry Chairs at $19.50 Each

These living-room chairs can be had in either arm or rocker style. The frames are solid oak in fumed finish. They are upholstered in good quality tapestry and have spring seats. Genuinely good looking and comfortable chairs and now underpriced.

$30 Arm Chair and Rocker, $24 Each

These have solid oak fumed frames in the William and Mary design. The seats are upholstered in good quality tapestry and the backs are panelled with cane. They will look well in any living-room.

The Fleming Kitchen Cabinet at $50

Regularly It Sells For $95

In many respects this is the finest Cabinet we have on our floor. It is made of three-ply laminated materials (oak and other suitable hardwoods). These woods are treated by a patent cement process, and under heavy hydraulic pressure are sealed together and will neither shrink, check nor split.

The exterior finish is light colored oak and the interior is white enamel. We have only a few of them, and they are really worth very near twice $50 each.

A $72 Buffet for $55

It is of solid quartered oak in the fumed finish and Colonial design. It has a British bevelled plate mirror and the case measures 48 inches.

TABLE TO MATCH

It has a heavy pedestal and a round top that will extend to six feet. The regular price was $54. Sale price, $42.

DINING CHAIRS TO MATCH ABOVE

They have full leather slip seats upholstered in genuine leather. Regular price, $80. Sale price, $59.

A 20% Reduction on All Pictures

Our picture stock is displayed on the walls of our lounge room and there are dozens upon dozens of interesting subjects in handsome frames. Some are originals and some are prints.

$38.50 Golden Oak Buffet, $27.75

It has a British plate mirror, a long linen drawer and two small drawers and cupboard space for dishes.

$148, Eight Piece, Dining-Room Suite at $109

This excellent Suite was marked very low, even at $149. It is solid oak in the fumed finish and the design is the greatly favored Queen Anne pattern.

The Buffet has a shaped British plate mirror, a long linen drawer and two small drawers (one lined); also a cupboard space for dishes. The Chairs are strongly made with full slip seats and are upholstered with Spanish leather. The Table is round shape with pedestal base and extends to six feet.

A $92 Three-Piece Reed Living-Room Suite at $78

It includes an Arm Rocker, Arm Chair and Divan. The seats and backs of all three pieces are upholstered with a good quality handsomely patterned tapestry. The seats are made luxurious with deep springs. The reed is closely woven and in a fumed finish.

$75 China Cabinet at $50

This beautiful Cabinet is made of American black walnut and is Queen Anne design. To appreciate its worth you must see it.

$25 Dressing Tables at $16.75 Each

We have two of these Tables. They are Royal oak in the golden finish and have British bevelled plate glass mirrors, shaped front and one drawer.

FAVOURS SETTLEMENT OF THE PRESENT CHAOS

(Associated Press.)

DUBLIN, Jan. 23.—(By Mail)—There is a great weight of general sentiment throughout the country in favour of any settlement which will end the present chaos. Irish Catholic bishops are foremost among those who are encouraging this sentiment.

Between the most moderate and the most extreme Nationalists there is this one point of agreement, that the decision of the Irish people themselves must be supreme. Submission of their attitude to the electors and the endorsement of that attitude by the country's voters, is the basis on which Sinn Feiners rest their case. They say that endoresment must stand.

There is a considerable section of the populace, however, who believe the time has arrived for a fresh consultation of the people—that a new opportunity should be given for expression of the popular will. The suggestion is made that a formal referendum should be taken as to whether the people still adhere to the uncompromising Republican policy, or are willing to give the new Home Rule act a trial.

Sir Edward Carson, for Ulster, has accepted, but Sinn Fein has refused the Act. In neither case have the people themselves been consulted as to what they think of it.

There is among Sinn Feiners a number who believe that it would be good tactics to accept the act as far as it goes, secure the election of Sinn Feiners to the Southern Parliament and obtain as much control of the Irish government as possible in the same way as they have obtained control of most of the local authorities. They would then use their new position as the basis for a fresh advance.

The argument is heard that de Valera and Arthur Griffith could do more for the cause in executive office than in jail, but that is not the dominant Sinn Fein view—at any rate among the "responsible" leaders of the movement. Hence the suggestion to consult the rank and file.

SWORDS ARE WORN.

VIENNA, Feb. 10.—Swords now are worn by court officers for protection at the order of the president of the Vienna criminal court because of the many attacks upon judges and witnesses recently in court rooms.

ROSSINI MANUSCRIPT FOUND.

(Cross-Atlantic.)

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 1.—(By Mail).—The original manuscript of Rossini's famous opera, "The Barber of Seville," has been found in the archives of the Copenhagen Conservatory of Music.

The find is all the more important because the manuscript contains the original overture which Rossini rejected after the first performance, which was a failure.

Air Transportation

CALGARY, Feb. 10. — Plans to provide transportation from Edmonton to Fort Norman oil fields by dirigible air ships are under way and C. K. Wollam, associated with Captain E. L. Janney, head of the concern which proposes to open up a quick route to the far north, is now in the United States completing arrangements for the delivery of the first "blimp" to be used in trail flights.

Mr. Wollam is convinced after a meteorological survey and of a general search into the conditions prevailing in the north of the absolute feasibility of the scheme and is confident that in a short time a passenger service from Edmonton to Fort Norman and back in thirty hours will be an accomplished fact.

It is proposed that dirigibles capable of carrying 32 passengers shall be used.

STUMPING INDUSTRY

VICTORIA, Feb. 10.—A big boost for clearing of land is expected to follow establishment of a stump-using industry in British Columbia according to provincial officials who have been conferring with R. Crooke a stumping inventor. The industry which Mr. Crooke is establishing uses all the waste of stumps and roots which are usually burned, and thus makes profitable the pulling of stumps.

Small portable mills are being sent to various points in the province. They cut cross sections of roots and stumps. Up to three hundred slabs an inch thick are obtained from each root. The grain is beautiful and takes a good polish. The round slabs are practically unbroken, and are used as seats for chairs and other things. The market price for slabs runs up to six dollars each—or nearly $1,800 for a whole sliced stump.

WAR ON HAIR STYLES.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 10.—A new war has been declared here amid much opposition from the fair sex. The "cootie garages" must go is the edict of a department manager in one of Winnipeg's large stores. He has issued orders that none of the female employes under his jurisdiction will be permitted to wear the "knobs" of hair over the ears which have been in vogue for more than a year. Several young girls who violated the order were promptly sent home.

WILL CARRY SIXTEEN

VANCOUVER, B.C., Feb. 10—A "plane of the Handley-Page type used on their service between London and Paris and Brussels is to be used for passenger and freight service between Peace River Crossing and the new oil field st Fort Norman. Orders have been placed with the English firm by a Vancouver syndicate and early delivery is promised. It is expected that the service will be inaugurated in March.

The airplane will carry sixteen passengers at a speed of 85 miles an hour. The passenger cabin will be enclosed and equipped with comfortable upholstered seats.

LIBRARY EFFICIENCY

VICTORIA, B. C., Feb. 10.—Extraordinary efficiency of the Victoria Public Library is indicated by the report just made public by City Librarian Helen Stewart. Serving a population less than half that of Vancouver, the Victoria Library circulated 333790 volumes during 1920 to Vancouver's 303,500. And Victoria has only 41,334 books compared to Vancouver's 86,343. Cost of administration was $23,117 against Vancouver's $40,500. The report comes at a time when the Vancouver library administration is being made the target of much criticism.

A HOPEFUL SIGN

EDMONTON, Alta., Feb. 9. Another hopeful sign of the downward flight of the high cost of living was the action of the Alberta Jewelers' Association, who authorized a reviser repair price list at their recent annual convention held here.

All repair charges are cut about 20 per cent. in the new list.

MINERALS INCREASE

VICTORIA B.C., Feb. 10.—British Columbia's mineral production for 1920 totalled $20,580,625, which is an increase if $2,284, 312, or seven per cent. over the 1910 total, according to figures made public by the department of mines. Increases were recorded in silver, copper and zinc.

MEMENTO OF KOLCHAK

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb 10.—Henry Bartosiewicz, a young Winnipeg Pole, formerly captain of an American Red Cross train in Siberia, and at one time a member of the 184th Battalion, Canadians, has in his possession a silver money belt and braid from the tunic of Admiral Kolchak, murdered by his own troops in Irkutsk on Feb 11 1920.

MOVE CHURCHES 35 MILES

COQUILTLAM, B. C., Feb. 10.—Attendance having fallen off due to diminishing population, the British Columbia Board of Baptists have ordered that the local church be loaded on scows and moved thirty-five miles down the Fraser river to Kerrisdale.

How You Can Remove Every Trace of Hair

(Toilet Talks)

A stiff paste made with some powdered delatone and water and spread on a hairy surface about 2 minutes will, when removed, take every trace of hair away. The skin should then be washed to free it from the remaining delatone. No harm can result from this treatment, but be sure it is delatone you get and you will not be disappointed. Mix fresh as wanted.

IMPORTANT TRACTOR DEMONSTRATION.

A Two Days' Exemplification of the Advantages of Power Farming.

It will be of live interest to Ry farmers to learn that arrangements have been made to hold a two days' demonstration in Peterborough of the Value of the Fordson Tractor. The proceedings are to be held in the commodous premises of the Duffus Motor Sales, corner of Charlotte and Water streets, on Monday and Tuesday, February 21st and 22nd.

An expert will be in attendance on the above dates who will give a practical explanation of the workings of this Tractor and what it can accomplish.

It is hoped that this two days' Short Course on the Fordson, along with the addresses to be given and the moving pictures to be shown, will attract a large attendance of farmers.

Full particulars will be given next week, when, no doubt, a full invitation will be extended to all interested to be present.

Studebaker
LIGHT-SIX

The Car that sets new standards of smoothness and economy of operation

PERFECT and efficient combustion is obtained in the NEW LIGHT-SIX by the ingenious arrangement of the intake manifold and INTERNAL HOT SPOT—an exclusive Studebaker invention—conceived by Studebaker engineers.

By this new and exclusive construction all gasoline is completely vaporized and used. The mechanical results obtained are a greater volume of vaporized gasoline in each cylinder at the time of explosion and a uniform and complete combustion—these mean economy and great power. The practical results obtained from the NEW LIGHT-SIX motor are a noticeable increase of power, added economy, absence of carbon deposits and freedom from trouble due to seepage of raw gasoline into the lubricating oil in the crank case.

You can have the advantage of this motor's wonderful gasoline economy and the satisfaction of its smoothness of operation only by owning a Studebaker LIGHT-SIX.

We are ready to give you a demonstration and make delivery.

THE PETERBORO CLUB WON BY G. A. DAVISON OF UNIONVILLE

DEFEATED C. E. WILLIAMS, OF LINDSAY, IN THE FINAL GAME OF THE CONSOLATION COMPETITION—DAVISON'S RINK CARRY OF PRIZES ON FIRST VISIT TO PETERBORO.

G. A. Davison and his rink of youngsters from Unionville, a small town west of Markham, won the historic Peterboro cup last night, and the four carving sets given as first prize in the Consolation Competition of the bonspiel.

He defeated C. E. Williams of Lindsay by the score of 9 to 5. The second prizes were silver plated Thermos bottles. The final game was played on the centre ice, where the water was the deepest. The first two players of each rink were youths but husky lads who put the stones up tirelessly. They were all delighted to carry off some of the prizes, and took a lot of encouragement out of their success.

Most of the games were played at the Brock street rink yesterday but the final was reserved for the Charlotte street rink.

The prizes were presented by Tom Brightman, who congratulated both rinks, and expressed the hope that they would be back next year.

Mr. Davison said in reply that he had played against George Morrow in Oshawa last winter and was urged by him to come to the Peterboro bonspiel. "My rink are young fellows. We call them Colts, and I was delighted to see the Lakefield old "Colts" here. It is a great pleasure to see the young and the old men playing together. I am delighted to share the prize with my friend Williams. Our rink was organized only three years ago. Of all our curling we have been at no place where we were so royally and heartily received as in Peterboro; and we are looking forward already to coming back next winter. We wish the Peterboro club every success."

Mr. Williams also testified to the success of the bonspiel, in spite of the mild weather. This is the first game I have ever skipped at a bonspiel outside of Lindsay, and our rink is the only one of the Lindsay club that is taking home prizes. We have enjoyed ourselves immensely and had four games to-day."

Rinks eligible for this competition were those that failed to win a game in the Morrow and Matthews-Black-Blackwell series:

CARMEL MYERS COMING.

IN "BEAUTIFULLY TRIMMED."

Carmel Myers comes to the Grand Theatre to-day for three days, in the third of her pictures for Universal since she returned from the musical comedy stage. While "In Folly's Trail" and "The Gilded Dream," her previous two features, are considered her best work, "Beautifully Trimmed" is said to surpass either of them.

Norine Lawton, the heroine of the story, is a fascinating and unique character. Associated with society swindlers, who dispose of fake masterpieces in oil and worthless oil stock with equal dexterity, she is a girl of the best breeding and with refined sensibilities. A dramatic young painter who counterfeits Corot and the other famous painters, wishes her to marry him. So does a young American whom she has mulcted out of thousands of dollars—and who seems to like it. How the American defeats the swindlers and wins the girl is admirably shown by Director Marcel de Sano, who has produced Marguerite C. Storrs' story with commendable artistry, although it is his first directorial attempt.

The cast of "Beautifully Trimmed" is a notable one. Pell Trenton is Miss Myers' leading man in the role of the aviation ace. Irving Cummings is the painter and George B. Williams, Alfred Fisher, Lee Kohlmar, Myrtle Reeves and Victory Bateman have good parts. Douglas Doty and Marcel de Sano adapted the picture from "The Orchid," a story by Marguerite C. Storrs.

HAMILTONS WIN THE FIRST SECTION OF THE CITY LEAGUE SERIES

C.G.E. BEATEN 6 TO 4 IN A SPECTACULAR CONTEST IN WHICH THE SCORE WAS FOUR TIMES TIED—LOSERS HAD EARLY LEAD.

In a hard fought battle that was in doubt until the last few seconds of play, the Wm. Hamilton Co's team won the championship of the first section of the City league race last night by defeating the C.G.E. outfit 6 goals to 4. The two teams were tied for the leadership and last night's game was a play off which was played in three twenty minute periods instead of the bob-tailed two period games called for by the City League rules. It was one of the most interesting struggles of the season, until the Hamilton team scored their last goal, with 15 seconds to play. Neither team was ever more than a goal in front, and five times was the score tied. C. G. E. led by 2 to 1 at the end of the first period, but the ultimate winners shoved in front 3 to 2 at the close of the second.

In spite of the sticky ice the pace was fast from start to finish, and it was a real article of hockey that the teams dished up all the way. The William Hamilton team earned their victory. Their defence was steady and effective while their forward line back-checked persistently and on the attack showed some flashy combination that brought results. Ganey and Fred Graham and Frank Collins turned in their best games of the season on the forward line for the winners. Ganey Graham was always in his place for a pass and his shooting was deadly, nearly every drive from his stick being dead on the nets. Collins broke up rush after rush with a tantalizing poke check, while Freddy Graham showed all kinds of speed and stick handling ability. Murray was as clever as usual in the nets, and the defence pair, Evans and Lebarr, were always effective. "Micky" Wilson was the most useful of the C.G.E. crew. He bagged three out of their four counters and was going at top speed all the way. Frank Barrie was generally in the lime light and Grover Halpin was good both on the defence and on the attack.

Fred Waghorne, veteran Toronto referee, handled the bell He missed a few off sides but on the whole gave their four counters and was going at even break.

The winners were without the services of Eddie Foley, who was hurt last week, while the C.G.E. were at full strength.

The line-up:

C. G. E. Goal, G. Butcher; defence, Halpin, Helson; centre, A Butcher; right wing, Williams; left wing, Bartley; subs, Barrie nd Rose.

The Canadian General outfit jumped into the lead soon after the face-off when Butcher tore off a nice rush and passed to Williams who registered. Ten minutes of lightning hockey followed with both goals threatened in turn before Hamiltons even d the count, when Collins went up the side and slanted a bullet shot past Butcher for the tieing goal.

Shortly after the C.G.E. flashed in front again, when playing five men against four as a result of penalties, Helson took a pass from the corner, and scored at close range. The figures were unchanged at the end of the period.

The second session was equally fast with honors even for the first few minutes. Butcher and Murray both tore off sensational stops and rush followed rush in spectacular style. Finally Collins camping in front of the C.G.E. nets took a pass from behind and the score was tied again. The score remained at 2-2 until near the end of the second when Ganey Graham put his team in front for the first time by a long shot from the side.

Early in the third period "Micky" Williams evened the count by a nice drive from the boards.

But the C.G.E. rooters had hardly stopped cheering for their success before Hamilton's took the lead again on a lightning combination rush betweeen Freddy and Ganey Graham, which carried the latter inside for a goal at close range. Once more C.G.E. tied the score when Wiliams tapped the rubber past Murray from a scrimmage in front of the Hamilton nets and once more the Graham combination put Hamiltons in the lead again. "Freddie" got away, passed to "Ganey" who returned the rubber as the defence was reached and the left wing player's shot found the top corner of the nets.

With the score 5 to 4 against them C.G.E. threw their defence up in the attack and they were decidedly dangerous in the next few minutes. However they could not beat Murray, and finally in the last minute to play, Fred Graham caught them with their defence half way down the ice, and breaking clear had an open passage to the nets, sliding the rubber past Butcher for the goal that made the game safe. The final bell sounded a few minutes after.

McCALLUM OF FENELON FALLS WON THE MATTHEWS-BLACKWELL TROPHY

DEFEATED STRICKLAND OF LAKEFIELD IN THE FINAL GAME THIS MORNING BY 13 TO 8—BY A STRANGE COINCIDENCE STRICKLAND WON WADDELL TROPHY LAST YEAR FROM McCALLUM, CARRYING IT OFF BY A 10 TO 9 FINAL GAME — THESE RINKS HAUE SETTLED THEIR SCORE.

REVIEW OF THE GAMES

Harry McCallum of Fenelon Falls, won the Matthews-Blackwell silver cup early this morning when he defeated Jack Strickland, of Lakefield, in the final game by the score of 13 to 8. Both rinks emerged successfully from their semi-final round shortly after midnight, and agreed to go through with the concluding game at once. After refreshing themselves at Charlie Cheverill's lunch counter on the top floor of the club, the finalists went out on Number one ice at ten minutes to one, and at half-past two the Matthews-Blackwell competition of the annual bonspiel was decided with the young Fenelon Falls rink in proud possession of the big silver mug and a raft of prizes. The two rinks were as folows:

Fenelon Falls.	Lakefield.
T. F. Vicars	R. Jory
A. J. Gould	Dr. Gibson
M. W. Reeve	D. H. Charlton
H. H. McCallum	J. C. Strickland

Score by ends:

Lakefield. . . . . 201000410000— 8
Fenelon Falls . . . . . 010132002121—13

Presented Prizes.

Harry Foote, secretary of the Bonspiel committee, remained, with about twenty-five other enthusiasts, until the end of the session at 3 a.m. In presenting the handsome Matthews-Blackwell Cup and the Curling Club's first prize of four silver four-piece tea services to the Fenelon Falls rink, Mr. Foote stated that Mr. McCallum and his players had been coming to Peterborough every winter for ten or twelve years without carrying off a trophy. They had always given a good account of themselves and in this year's bonspiel had not only won the Matthews-Blackwell competition but also the prizes for the grand aggregate of victories. Their success was a fine reward for their efforts, and ther devotion to the game, and would doubtless be an incentive to the Fenelon Falls rink as well as to others in the district. Mr. Foote congratulated Mr. McCallum and his rink and also the Lakefield finalists.

Mr. Alex. Kay then presented the second prizes, four cut glass bowls, to J. C. Strickland and his rink. "To be perfectly frank, Jack, I was hoping McCallum would win," he said. "Last year your rink won the Waddell trophy, defeating Harry McCallum by one shot in a 10 to 9 game. Lakefield curlers have distinguished themselves in the last two bonspiels and I only hope you come back next year and win the Morrow cup."

Mr. McCallum and Mr. Strickland both thanked the Bonspiel committee and the Peterborough curlers upon the success of this year's game, and promised to be back next winter.

The Aggregate Prizes.

McCallum's rink won the four silver-plated flashlights presented by the Curling Club and the four boxes of cigars given by the Empress hotel to the rink winning the most games in the bonspiel. McCallum won eight games out of nine played in the two major series during the two days, a splendid record.

The Morrow Cup final game was postponed last night for colder weather. Alex Kay and J. W. McDermid won their semi-final games and will play off as soon as the ice hardens.

The Waddell trophy is to be competed for by the Peterborough rinks that entered the bonspiel. This series was also laid over until the weather man turns on another blast of winter.

Yesterday's game were played in water. Only once in the history of the bonspiel have the conditions been worse. However, the curlers waded into it and without a single sign of peevishness, took it all good naturedly, threw science to the winds and called on the strongest arms to do their prettiest in getting up to the rings. I was no place for weaklings, and many of the draw game experts were leaning against the posts utterly fagged. Fortunately there was little use in sweeping, and the firsts and seconds were relieved of that much labour. But the slugging game was hard on most of them, except young fellows like Jory, of Lakefield, who could reach the rings easily. "When your handling two hundred pound

MORE ROAD SHOWS FOR THE GRAND

THE MANAGEMENT ANNOUNCES A CHANGE OF POLICY—BIG FEATURES.

Commencing Monday, February 21st., there will be a change of policy inaugurated at the Grand Opera House. After this date there will be no regular picture programme shown at the Grand .The theatre will be devoted entirely to travelling road shows and big road show pictures. On all other than open nights the House will be closed. The Trans-Canada Theatres is planning to provide Peterboro with at least three road shows a week. When a feature picture is shown at the Grand the public will know it is a real show. Some of the big picture attractions that will be shown at the Grand in the near future include "The Country Fair" carrying sixteen people, "Way Down East" carrying a sixteen piece orchestra and a carload of scenery, "The Bar Sinister". Commencing next Monday a revival of "The Whip" will be shown at the Grand for five days. The management also announces the return of the "Winnipeg Kiddies."

"CHALLENGE OF LAW," NEW THRILLER, COMING

At the Rgent Theatre, beginning to-day "The Challenge of the Law", a William Fox production will be shown The popular William Russell is the star and E. Lloyd Sheldon wrote the story.

"The Challenge of the Law' is described as a smashing dramatic production, filled to the brim with suspense and heart interest which holds the spectator until the very end.

As a Captain of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, Russell cleans up a fur smuggling exchange singlehanded, pursues a band of desperadoes across the desert, runs down the murderer of his pal, an of course wins the girl he loves.

This picture can be recommended as one of the really worth-while productions of the season, because of the clean and wholesome atmosphere throughout, and because it is a vivid story interestingly told, with plenty of thrills and action.

Helen Ferguson, who appears as Russell's leading woman in this picture, is an actress who combines beauty and winsomeness of manner with marked histrionic talent. She is well and favorably known throughout the country.

NO VAMPIRES IN OFFICE OF THIS FRIGID EMPLOYER

Constance Talmadge as Mary Blake, falls in love with a multi-millionaire, Jim Stanhope. She feels the love surge, and to always be near the shrine of her affections, Mary applies for a position in his office, unaware of the fact that Jimmys hobby is resisting women. He barricaded himself against the charms of the other sex, by employing a character reader who could spot designing young ladies at a half mile. Mary runs headlong into the character expert in seeking the position, and the competent reader of innermost thoughts unceremoniously shows Mary to the door. Mary is wise, however, and went home to adjust her homely disguise——

How she got by the character man on the second trip, and the subsequent development of this entertaining plot will be shown when "The Perfect Woman" is shown at the Allen to-day only.

"THE LADDER OF LIES"

A Rhymed Review
By Russell Holman

Is woman bound to shelter those
She cannot love, but yet holds dear;
To shield their honor from the blows
That come when treachery lurks near;

As pretty Edith Parrish did
When Peter's wife besmirched his name;
Should she have told the lie that hid
From him all hint of Dora's shame?

And by her sacrifice bring scorn
Upon herself, 'til even Blaine,
Who loved her, soon was cruelly torn
With doubts he tried to still, in vain.

And then, at last, a rotter's heart
Turned gold, brought Edith happiness
See Ethel Clayton in this part:

NOTES OF M.-B. GAMES

Jimmy Ridpath of Lakefield pulled his game with Carley of Lindsay out of the fire yesterday afternoon with a fancy last shot. Carley was lying in good position with one stone on the button and the game practically assured. Ridpath seemed to be playing with his last stone to bump out Carley's by a fast one down the centre. Apparently that was what his vice called for, but Ridpath swung off slightly to the right, raised one of his own stones lying in front of the rings through to the centre ring with speed enough to cut out Carley's and win by 13 to 10.

Tom Brightman decided that discretion was the better part of curling in slush and defaulted his game to Jack Strickland so as to concentrate on his game with McDermid in the third round of the Matthews-Blackwell. It helped Strickland along, but the old veteran fell before McDermid by 12 to 7.

The higher they go the harder they fall. That is the worst feature of succeeding too well in two competitions. Smith of Hamilton and Robson of Fenelon Falls were examples of this postulate of curling. They cut a wide swath in both the Morrow and Matthews-Blackwell competitions, but lost when they weer almost in reaching distance of the silverware.

Respect for Carew.

Most of the Curlers have such a high respect for Frank Carew of Lindsay that many of them would lost whnn they were almost in reachphy. That must must been the explanation of W. T. Hall's high satisfaction when he won his game from the young Lindsay skip at Brock street yesterday.

L. O. Clifford's rink made the best showing of the Oshawa contingent. He reached the third round of the Matthews-Blackwell, but Stickland stopped him with a 15 to 6 touch.

Clifford and Carpenter of Grimsby have two of the most popular rinks that come to Peterboro. They are in the game solely for the love of it, and for the associations it affords, and they like to win, not for the prizes at the end of the road but because friendly rivalry and the test of skill are of the essence of the best sport.

NOTES OF MORROW CUP GAMES

The biggest surprise of last night's play was J. W. McDermid's defeat of Ray Best in the Morrow Cup semi-finals. A final five-end turned what seemed to be a hopeless prospect into victory. Best was four up coming home and was lying two. Apparently there was nothing left but to chalk up a win for Best's rink, and to mark him down for the final game. But you can never tell in curling especially when a skip as persistent as McDermid is against you. He bumped out the two Best stones, and lay five, taking the game by one point, and the score of 10 to 9. Both these rinks were exceptionally strong. Ray Best had his reliable District Cup crew, Ross Dobbin, Alex. Archibald and W. D. Campbell, the same four that went into the semi-finals in the bonspiel of two years ago, and then lost both competions from sheer exhaustion.

McDermid has Billy Thompson as vice, J. Wells Fraser second and F. C. Weber lead. In this game there were two blank ends ,and the two rinks each scored in five ends. Best had one three and two two-ends, and was leading by 9 to 5 in the last frame. It was a great game to win.

Kay won the Other.

Alex. Kay's rink won the other Morrow Cup semi-final and because two Peterboro rinks remained for the final play off it was decided to defer it until the weather turned colder. In the fours round he defeated G. A. Robson of Fenelon Falls after an uphill fight by the score of 10 to 9.

Kay had served notice on Peter Smith of Hamilton that Smith's string of victories would be broken when they met.

Smith with his Peterboro rink, including Ira Moore as vice, was running along smoothly in both of the major competitions. But Clifford of Oshawa stopped him first in the Morrow series by 14 to 7, and the long day's work had so worn him out that Smith was forced to retire. Instead of taking the penalty of three points for playing only three men, Kay urged Ira Moore to get another man to fill out the rink. Moore enlisted W. H. Taylor, and in another close game Kay fulfilled his early threat to Smith, winning by another 10 to 9 score. It was an odd circumstance of the final games that more than a few of them resulted with the score showing these two figures.

Coming into the semifinals, Kay was pitched against Robson of Fenelon Falls, who by another quirk of coincidence had defeated him in the Matthews-Blackwell competition by 9 to 7. But Robson in turn lost to Jim Connal. So that Robson and Kay were meeting for the second time when they faced each other in the semi-finals of the Morrow trophy series. Robson had cut a wide swath and was regarded as a strong contender for one trophy or another. But Kay cut off his last chance of getting in the prize row. Robson was leading by 9 to 6 on the tenth end. Kay got two in the next and another brace in the last, making the final score 10 to 9. It was anybody's game right up to the finish. Robson failed to get his last stones up properly with the rink almost wide open. But they were all doing it at times, with this difference that the failure was more conspicuous with the last shots in the semi-final round.

BRILLIANT FORWARD INTERNATIONAL POLO

(Cross-Atlantic.)

LONDON, Feb. 10.—To play practice games against England and America polo teams before the great cup matches, a team is being formed by W. S. Buckmaster. He has secured F. M. Freake, who has not played polo since the war, Lord Rocksavage and that dashing Spanish player, the Duke of Penaranda, who is considered perhaps the most brilliant forward in Europe. Mr. Freake has had considerable experience of international polo, having played for England against America in the 1900 cup contest, in the second test match in 1912, in both the 1909 matches and in the second of the 1913 series at Meadow Brook.

Another team to engage the International sides has been arranged by Major "Rattle" Barrett, who captained the 1914 England team that managed to regain in the cup from America. He will be aided by three of the best soldier players of the day—Lieut.-Col. H. C. S. Ashton, Lieut.-Col. H. G. M. Pleydell-Railston and Major J. P. Harrison.

Between May 7th and June 15th fourteen matches have been arranged at the London polo clubs for the Americans, and a dozen for the England team. The American team will make their London debut in a match at Ranelagh on Saturday, May 7th, and will play in subsequent matches there on May 21st and 25th, June 4th and 15th, the latter date being their final practice match before the test matches proper, the first of which will take place at Hurlingham on Saturday June 18th.

Don't sit around and wait for opportunity to knock at your door. Go and knock on the door of opportunity.

COLONEL BISHOP'S CHOW-CHOW DOGS—Chinese Chow-Chow dogs, according to Chinese history, were in existence 2800 years ago. Chinese royalty petted the Chow-Chow dogs; aristocracy in Europe, it is said, decked them with jewels, and in Northern China they were used to hunt wolves. The picture shows five valuable Chows imported by Colonel Bishop, V.C., to establish a Chow kennel in Toronto. The upper picture shows two pure white puppies, with a red one in the centre named "Sherry." The lower picture shows "Shi-Fam" at the left, claimed by his owner to be the biggest Chow dog in North America. He weighs 55 pounds. The other dog to the right is a black one, colored like "Shi-Fam." Authorities are of the opinion that the Chow dog has been bred from the Esquimaux, or the dogs of Northern Europe. Colonel Bishop claims that the two white puppies are the only two of this color in North America.

HOCKEY

The Duffus' Devils will journey to Campbellford Friday afternoon, to play the Campbellford Bear Cats. The following players are requested to be at 322 Water street at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon.

J. Dwyer, F. Curtain, D. Fuller, L. Anthony M. Williams, T. Prete, V. Anthony and C. W. Coy.

City Hockey League clubs were notified to-day to be in readiness to play the opening games in the second half of the schedule to-morrow night. The game will be payed if ice permits.

The schedule brings Hamilton's and C.G.E. together in the first game, and De Laval and Bankers in the second game.

UNIVERSITIES PREPARE FOR RACE STRUGGLE

(Cross-Atlantic.)

LONDON, Feb. 10.—As the opening of the Oxford University track season is at hand, all eyes are eagerly watching the performances of new men who are likely candidates for representing the Varsity against Cambridge at Queen's Club, London in the great Annual Dual meet which comes in March. G. A. Trowbridge, who last year was a star at Princeton, is a sensation in the English university hurdling world and he is certain of his full Blue and of winning for Oxford this event in the spring meet. Trowbridge made his first impression on British sportsmen when last July he won the British championship in the hurdles while he was still a member of the Princeton team, then in England for a meet against Oxford. England is watching the American hurdler with great interest.

ASPIRIN

Only "Bayer" is Genuine

BAYER

Warning! It's criminal to take a chance on any substitute for genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin," prescribed by physicians for twenty-one years and proved safe by millions. Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting Aspirin at all. In every Bayer package are directions for Colds, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Earache, Toothache, Lumbago and for Pain. Handy tin boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell; larger packages. Made in Canada. Aspirin is the trade marke (registered in Canada), of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

RAILWAY IS HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR LIQUOR OFFENSE

MUST PROTECT PASSENGERS FROM ANY INSULTS AND INJURIES BY OTHERS INTOXICATED.

(Canadian Press).

TORONTO, Feb. 10. — Railway and other carrier companies who fail to protect their passengers from injury and insults of other passengers under the influence of liquor, are liable for damages. This was decided by Chief Justice Mulock and a jury in the assizes here to-day, when the Toronto Railway Company was ordered to pay $2,200 damages, because of injuries sustained by Mrs. Teresa Ryan under the above circumstances.

SPECIALTIES ARE HIGHER ON MART

LOW PRICED OILS ALSO SHOW UPWARD TENDENCY ON WALL STREET.

(United Press).

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Several specialties and low-priced oils, together with copper shares, worked higher during the first hour's trading in the Stock Market to-day.

Famous Players advanced 1⅛ to 61⅛. Large blocks of Anaconda were taken at 40, up 1⅛, while Utah was in demand at 57⅛, up 1 5-8. The Coppers responded to completion of plans for financing 400,000,000 pounds of the metal.

While there was still no speculative public apparent in the market, buying of odd lots continued in great volume. Many brokers and bankers were advising their customers that stocks would be a buy before the end of the month, saying the tendency would be upward in March.

The opening quotations included: U S. Steel 82 5-8, up 1-8; Cuba Cane 23, unchanged; Mexican Pet. 158⅛, up 3-4; Sinclair 23 7-8, unchanged; Republic Iron and Steel 65 7-8, off 1-8; Baltimore and Ohio 34¼, off 1-8; Reading 83½, up 3-4; Baldwin 88 7-8, unchanged; General Asphalt 66 3-4, off 1-8; Crucible 94, up 3-4; Atlantic Gulf 62, off 1¼; Royal Dutch 50¼, off 3-4; Southern Pacific 79 1-8, up 3-8; Bethlehem B 56 3-4, up 1-4; Northern Pacific 84, off ¼; Consolidated Candy 2, off 1-8.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Foreign exchange opened firm to-day, with demand sterling 3.87 3-4; francs .0717; marks .0166; lire .0364; Canadian dollars .8832.

DEMANDS ON CITY FOR ASSISTANCE

SITUATION IN PETERBORO SHOWS LITTLE CHANGE. THE AMOUNT EXPENDED NOT HIGH.

There is no abatement in the city's relief work, according to City Relief Officer F. W. Miller. The need for relief continues, and the cost of this work remains unchanged. Before the end of March over three thousand dollars will have been spent by the relief officers, of which the city will pay one-third and the Provincial and Federal Governments each one-third.

There are daily fluctuattons in the demand for assistance, but week in and week out the situation is little unchanged. Some men whom the city have been assisting have secured work while others have been laid off and had to be assisted. Notwithstanding many rumours, the Relief Officer has discovered few cases of real indigency. The prosperity of the last few years is reflected in the many comfortable homes that a few years ago were destitute of furniture and furnishing. Phonographs supply seasonable music, and altogether, the standard of living of many citizens have been raised to a higher level. Many of the heads of these households are out of work, but they can raise money on their homes and furniture and are in a better position to fight a spell of unemployment than they would have been five years ago.

The city will supply no luxuries to those in need, but it will supply food, clothing and fuel. In some cases, Mr. Miller says the people have by devious means got an odd package of tobacco, but on the whole the man who enters the sanctum of the officer, pleading for assistance, while puffing away at a cigar, pipe or cigarette, has the odds against him of getting any. Mr. Miller is not averse to the use of tobacco, but he contends that the smoker should have bought a loaf of bread instead of a smoking supply. The city is not paying any rent, but landlords are showing a magnanimous heart, and no word has come to the office of any one being turned out, although the landlord can do this with three days' notice, stated the Relief Officer. A deaf ear is turned to all who appear begging for money. There are too many temptations to forget the original relief purnose of the cash, and so nothing but orders are given. The orders are spread around the stores as much as possible. Encounters innumerable has Mr. Miller had with the presumptuous impertinent class of individuals who consider the city treasury was created for their special benefit and their demands of the Relief Officer are limited only by the blue sky. One man was given coal. The next day he came back and wanted to get wood. He was refused.

They want certain kinds of groceries and certain kinds of meat, invariably the best. They cannot be pleased, and they vent all their wrath on the relief dispencer. Mr. Miller, every afternoon, when the demands become heaviest, has innumerable difficult problems to solve. Should he give this person who has been out of work since October and is plainly in need of assistance, more than this other party who never did work steady, and probably never will, and wasted his substance in riotous living, but who is also up against it? He has to draw a line some place, but where to draw it is a problem. His action, whatever it may be, may mean everything to a struggling mother and her family, and Mr. Miller must always consider this aspect of the case.

LABOUR NOMINEE LOST HIS DEPOSIT

Many voters are unaware of the actual number of votes a candidate must poll in order to save his deposit. The folowing extract from the Election Act says:

"The sum so deposited by any candidate shall be returned to him by the Auditor-General in the event of his being elected or of his obtaining a number of votes at least equal to one-half the number of votes polled in favour of a candidate elected; otherwise, except in the case hereinafter provided for, it shall belong to His Majesty for the public uses of Canada. The case provided for is in event of death of the candidate before the close of the polls.

It is therefore clear that the deposit of Thomas J. McMurray, the Labour candidate, is lost, as his total vote was approximately only one-fourth of that polled by the winning candidate, G. N. Gordon.

STEEL MERGER IS HANGING FIRE AS TO MINOR DETAILS

PROTRACTED SESSION OF DIRECTORATE OF DOMINION STEEL WAS HELD YESTERDAY.

(Special to The Examier.)

MONTREAL, Feb. 10.—It is taken for granted in the street that further steps and conferences of the directors may be necessary before the details of the amended British Empire steel merger can be whipped into shape and given to the shareholders. This is generally accepted as the reason why it was not possible to make any official announcement after yesterday's meeting of the Board of the Dominion Steel Corporation, which was one of unusual length.

The declaration of the usual dividend on the company's common stock had a slightly beneficial effect on the stock, which rose a point in the early trading on the local markets.

There was no suggestion heard in the street of any likelihood of the current rate being interrupted, but it was suggested that there has been so much talk of hard times in the steel trade, together with the delay over the merger plans, that some people might have drawn the inference that the rate may have been in danger, which proved to be incorrect.

AT THE EMPIRE

BERNARD DURNING, POPULAR SCREEN IDOL, BEGAN LIFE AS A BANK CLERK

Could Not Resist Lure of the Screen when other Stars were making Weekly Trips to the Bank with New Tires for their Bank Rolls.

Bernard During, star of the Seeds of Vengeance, a Republic Picture, which will be shown at the Empire Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday, was a bank clerk before he became a motion picture actor.

"When I was clerking in a bank," he said recently, "and saw some of the stars who shine in pictures, and some of the shines who star in them too, come down every week to put a new tire on their bank roll, I got the fever.

"Pretty soft, I figured; I will be a movie actor. I will specialize in graceful poses, soft lights, with virtue and violets.

"So I went to it, and got a job at last, just hanging around waiting for something to do. Just as I begun to think I was about as popular as the ventilation of a doughnut, the director approached me by yelling—"Hey, you—come here.'

"Beside him was Percy, the Popular Pet, and the director conveyed the idea to me that as I was a husky I was to have the honor of being beaten up by handsome Harry to make a movie holiday.

"We started. In about a minute I had broken all good resolutions I ever made, the second commandment and the ordinance against loud and boisterous language on the public highway. You see I had forgotten it was a fake, and cut loose with all I knew. The other bird was there too, and when they pried us apart there was no more show that day.

"That was the first of my 'rough stuff,' and I have been a 'rough stuff' hero ever since—overalls and oil-skins rather than pajamas and pink teas.

"Now in my new picture, 'Seeds of Vengeance,' I have the nice little job of whipping the whole Cumberland Valley.

"Pretty soft ,eh? Not with the price of arnica going up."

NEARLY CRAZY WITH ECZEMA

No rest day or night for those who are afflicted with that terrible skin disease, eczema, or as it is often called, salt rheum.

With its unbearable burning, itching and torturing relief is gladly welcomed.

There is no remedy like Burdock Blood Bitters for giving relief to such sufferers; no remedy that has done, or can do more for those who are almost driven to distraction with the terrible torture.

Apply it externally and it takes out the stinging, itching and burning, and promotes a healthy healing.

Take it internally and it gets at the source of the disease in the blood,—for eczema is a blood disease— and drives it out of the system.

Miss L. M. Boutilier, 89 Victoria Road, Halifax, N.S., writes:—"I have suffered for years from eczema. I could not rest day or night. I suffered great agony, and was nearly crazy with the itching and burning. I used all kinds of salves, but nothing seemed to help me. I saw Burdock Blood Bitters advertised, and was advised to try a bottle. I found great relief, and I really cannot recommend it highly enough for what it has done for me."

Burdock Blood Bitters has been on the market for over forty years, and during that time has been manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

DANCE AT THE GROVE SCHOOL

A very enjoyable dance was given by the boys of the Grove School on Tuesday evening Feb. 8th inst.

The large schoolroom was cleared and used for dancing and the Recreation Room with a big fire burning in the grate, made a cosy spot for setting out and serving refershments.

The boys made admirable hosts and looked after the comfort of all present in a very commendable way.

Splendid music was provided The School Orchestra of six pieces which combined with the good floor helped to make the evening such a success.

Among those invited were:—Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Strickland, Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Vipond Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Tate, Mr. Keith Tate, Miss Miriam Tate, Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald, Mr. and Mrs. Max Hamilton, Mr. Kenneth Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Fawcett, Mr. and Mrs. Connell, Mr. and Mrs. E. NEW LAMP BURNS 40 PER CENT. AIR

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U.S. Government and 38 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94 p.c. air and 6 p.c. common kerosene (coal-oil).

The inventor, E. R. Johnson, 24 Craig street west, Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month. (Advt.) 30-13-27-10-2

RETURNS LATE FROM THE NORTH COUNTRY

MR. GORDON MAY NOT GO TO OTTAWA UNTIL NEXT WEEK

Sheriff J. A. Hall has not received the ballot boxes from the north country polling sub-divisions, and for that reason the official result in the West Peterborough by-election may not be available until early next week. For this reason, Mr. G. N. Gordon, M.P. elect, will not go to Ottawa on Monday. He may be sworn in for West Peterborough towards the end of next week.

TANK USED TO CRUSH THE HEAVY SNOWBANKS

(Canadian Press).

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Feb. 10.—Newfoundland yesterday began its fight to beat back its worst snow siege in years, with monumental drifts blocking its gates after a four-day blizzard. Railroad, steamer and highway transportation still was suspended last night, although the storm had ceased.

The first sally from this city against the besieging element was made by a whippet tank captured by Newfoundlanders in the war, which was put to work crunching down snowbanks on Water Street, the city's main thoroughfare.

U.S. SENATE COMMITTEE REPORT FAVORS NAVY EQUAL TO THAT OF ANY POWER.

(Canadian Press.)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 10. — A United States army "at least equal to that of any other power," is advocated in a report of the senate naval committee, filed yesterday in the Senate.
The committee replying to the Borah resolution said: "It is not practical and is not a sound policy to suspend naval construction for a period of six months or at all." It urged completion of the great 1916 naval programme, except that two huge naval aircraft carriers be built in the place of 12 destroyers and six submarines, which have been authorized but not yet contracted for.

CHICAGO GRAIN

(United Press.)
CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—Bullish sentiment in wheat is spreading rapidly and the big advance in the market today was attributed to the broadening of the buying power. The news was not of much importance. The trade is beginning to be attratced by the maintenance of cash wheat premiums in view of the lack of export buying. Hard winter wheat premiums were a half cent better and dark northern spring was higher. Local millers were active buyers and exporters were asking for offers of wheat to cover their short sales.
In view of the competition for cash wheat the short side of March wheat is dangerous and covering of sales by bears gave that delivery a bigger advance than the May. Seaboard reported 100,000 barrels of flour worked for export and 80,000 bushels of Manitoba wheat. Green bug stories pro and con were much in evidence again today. Selling by longs for profits caused a moderate reaction from top prices late in the session.
Corn was higher in sympathy with wheat. The buying was mainly by shorts who were scared by the upturn in wheat, and this, together with the light offerings made the advance easy. The situation is far from a strong one.

RELIGION CRAZED MAN PERPETRATES HORRIBLE DEED

BELIEVING WIFE "POSSESSED OF A DEVIL," MALTREATS HER—SHE MAY DIE.

(Canadian Press.)
KINGSTON, Feb. 10. — One of the most horrible acts ever perpetrated here occurred early yesterday morning, when Robert Roy Valentine, a milkman living at 19 Nelson street, committed maltreatment upon his wife as the result of becoming insane over religion. Valentine was impressed with the idea that his wife was possessed with a devil, and decided that he would relieve her of it. His wife, according to those who have knowledge of the awful affair, say that the young woman was a party to his action.

WELL TO AUGMENT LONDON'S WATER

IECREASE OF HALF MILLION GALLONS IS DAILY EXPECTED FROM HUGE WELL.

(Canadian Press).
LONDON, Ont., Feb. 10.—London's water supply was augmented to the extent of a half million gallons daily by the striking to-day of a deep well estimated by the City Engineer to yield at least that amount. Drilling operations have been carried on for months past in an effort to secure wells sufficient to relieve London's regular summer water shortage. The bringing in of the well will, it is claimed, provide the city with a pure and adequate supply of water at all periods of the year.

Those composing the Board are: Judges Huycke, Peterborough; Hardy, Brantford; Wallace, Woodstock; and Valin, North Bay.

ATTEMPT RECOVERY MANUFACTURERS' TAX

GOVERNMENT TO INSTITUTE TEST SUIT UNDER WAR REVENUE ACT.

(Canadian Press.)
OTTAWA, Feb. 10. — The Dominion Government will attempt to recover from all manufacturers selling direct to the retail trade the amount of the 2% manufacturers' tax which under the war revenue act of 1915, and amendments thereto, they are supposed to collect from their customers at the time of sale.
Many manufacturers have refused to pay this impost since May 19 last, and the government purposes to make a test case of the matter.

FORESEES CONTINUED DROP IN FOOD PRICES

British Food Minister Credits Decline to Western Prairies.

LONDON, Feb 10.—Speaking yesterday with regard to the drop in food prices, Charles A. McCurdy, the Food Minister, declared that the present decline, as far as he could judge, would be likely to continue for a considerable time.
"It is not based on any superfluity of stocks in the hands of retailers or focal conditions in any country," Mr. McCurdy added. "It is a world-wide fall which starts in the great prairies of the northern hemisphere, where the worlds' wheat crop is mainly grown. The results of investigations made by my department show that within the last three months there has been a decrease of more than six per cent in dairy products, over eighth per cent. in provisions, and nearly twenty per cent. in groceries."

CHILDREN HANDED OVER.
KINGSTON, Feb. 10.—The two little boys of W. G. Richardson, a returned soldier, who were kidnapped by their mother and taken to Montreal, arrived here this afternoon in their mother's charge, and were handed over to the Children's Aid Society agent, who transferred them to the father.

WEDDING BELLS

On Wednesday, February 9th the marriage was solemnized, in St. James' Methodist parsonage, of Miss Edna Hatcher and Mr. Stanley Bucknell, both of Peterborough. Rev. J. F. Chapman, B.A., officiated.

FLYNN—CALVERT.
At St. Paul's Presbyterian Manse yesterday afternoon, 9th February, at 1.30, Miss Mildred Calvert was united in marriage to Mr. Thomas Charles Flynn, Rev. Robert Pogue officiating. Both the principals were from Harvey Township, where they will reside.

STEWART—THORN.
A very pretty wedding was solemnized Wednesday at two o'clock in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, when Etta Mae, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Thorn, of Otonabee, was united in marriage to Dalton C. Stewart, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Stewart. The Rev. Mr. McConnachie officiated, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Pogue. The bride was attired in a dress of navy blue charmeuse and georgette with beaver coat and hat to match and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses and sweet peas. During the signing of the register, which was witnessed by Miss Mae Cardwell, of Toronto, and Mr. Gordon Deyell, of Peterborough, Mr. Tattersall played.
After the ceremony the happy couple left on the 3.20 C.P.R. train for points in the States.

WOULD MAKE FOR UNIFORM BUTTER

BILL TO BE INTRODUCED IN ONTARIO LEGISLATURE, SAYS THE MINISTER OF AGRICULTURE.

(Canadian Press).
TORONTO, Feb. 10.—Hon. Manning Doherty told the Agricultural Committee of the Legislature to-day that during the present session he will bring down amendments to the Dairy Standards Act, providing that payment for milk and cream used for manufacturing purposes shall be on the butter-fat basis. In the bill he will also provide a checking-up system for the testing of grades. The Minister said that Canadian cheese had established a great reputation in Great Britain; butter had not as good a reputation because of the lack of uniformity in quality.

GERMANY MAY IGNORE THE ALLIED BILL

BERLIN NEWSPAPER CLAIMS GOVERNMENT TO REFUSE TO PAY TO THE LIMIT AND WOULD CONSIDER REPRISALS "ACT OF WAR."

150,000,000,000 MARKS

(Canadian Press.)

BERLIN, Feb. 11.—The Ministry of Finance has reached the conclusion that the utmost Germany can pay in reparations is one hundred and fifty billion marks, this including all she has so far paid in cash and goods, according to information which the Deutsche Zeitung says it has received from a "special" source. This amount would be paid off in thirty years under the plan outlined by the newspaper's informant, who also is quoted as declaring that the proposal to pay it would be submitted to the authorities in Paris to learn whether the coming London conference on reparations will permit of its consideration along with the Allied proposals adopted at Paris.

The refusal to allow the consideration of the German counter proposal would result in Germany absenting herself from the London conference, the newspaper says it has learned. It adds that Germany would then suggest that the United States be called in as an arbitrator for the purpose of preventing the Entente from adopting measures such as the invasion of the Ruhr district, which, it declares, would be looked upon by Germany as an act of war which would possibly destroy the Versailles Treaty.

Cabinet Shake-up Pending According to Organ of Gov't

OTTAWA JOURNAL, CLOSELY IN TOUCH WITH GOVERNMENT, SAYS SHAKE-UP COMING ALTHOUGH NO OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT YET.

THE OTTAWA SITUATION

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Feb. 11. — The Ottawa Journal, supporting the government, prints the following on the front page this morning:

"The Prime Minister has under consideration the re-organization of the Cabinet. While no official intimation has beeen givn as to the character of the proposed changes, the names of R. J. Manion, Fort William; J. A. Stewart, Perth; and H. H. Stevens, Vancouver Centre, are prominently mentioned as likely to be taken into the Cabinet. All three men are parliamentarians of high ability, young, active and aggressive, and would unquestionably bring strength to the Cabinet. It is reported that there may be more change in Cabinet but of this there is nothing definite.

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, Feb. 11.—Cabinet reconstruction is now regarded in Ottawa as a practical certainty and an announcement may be anticipated at an early date. Three private members who will likely be promoted to the benches are: H. H. Stevens, Centre Vancouver; J. A. Stewart, Lanark; and Dr. Manion, Fort William. All three are in the capital and Mr. Stewart was this morning in lengthy conference with Hon. Dr. Reid, Minister of Railways, who is booked for the Senate, and whom Mr. Stewart is expected to succeed.

While British Columbia is not really entitled to more than one minister, Sir Robert Borden undertook, on the retirement of Hon. Martin Burrell, that the province would retain its double representation and Mr. Stevens is looked upon as a practical certainty in the new reconstruction. He will, it is believed, become Secretary of State in place of the late Right. Hon. A. L. Sifton. Centre Vancouver is looked upon as a safe seat.

It is probable that Dr. Manion will come in without a portfolio for the present, and that he will not be compelled to stand for re-election in Fort William, which is not an entirely safe seat. In the event of Hon. C. J. Doherty, later retiring, Dr. Manion would succeed him.

Considerations of health and pressure of private business may, of course, prevent Mr. Stewart from accepting. His seat, however, is looked upon as about as safe as any in Ontario.

Acceptance of a portfolio automatically debars the recipient from the house until he has secured re-election or for a period of about two months under the new Franchise Act. Therefore, reconstruction will decrease the Government's majority by the number of new ministers created.

It is intimated here, that oppositionists will not be unanimous in the demand for an immediate election following the voting of supply and that if Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King moves an amendment to the address similar to that moved last session, the Progresives will submit a rider calling first for redistribution, so that the western provinces shall secure their just quota of members—an increase, it is estimated of about a score.

DECISION ON "NO POLITICS"

DIRECTORS OF C.N.R. HAVE REACHED DECISION ON AWARD OF CONCILIATION BOARD BUT ARE KEEPING QUIET.

REACHED LAST NIGHT

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Feb. 11.—To-day or to-morrow the Minister of Labor will have the decision of the Board of Directors of the C.N.R. on the award of the Board of Conciliation which enquired into the "no politics order" of the C.N.R. It is understood that the directors reached a decision on the matter last night and that Senator Robertson will be notified some time to-day. The decision is being closely kept by the directors, they having apparently decided that the Department of Labor must get it first.

MEMORIAL WINDOWS.

LINDSAY, Feb. 11.—The ministers of the Bay of Quinte Conference will place a beautiful memorial window in Queen Street Church here in memory of the late Rev. C. H. Coon. TORONTO MAN IS MURDERED

BODY OF ASSYRIAN FOUND NEARLY 24 HOURS AFTER DEED COMMITTED, BY FRIENDS AND POLICE—NO CLUES.

ROBBERY THE MOTIVE

(Canadian Press).

TORONTO, Feb. 11. — With his head swathed in a piece of an old blanket and lying face-downward on a blood-saturated bed in the centre room of the attic of 51 Simcoe Street, the body of Joseph Chattelee, an Assyrian, was discovered by a friend, Sam. Burrow, shortly after 7 o'clock last evening. Burrow immediately ran to the corner and brought P. C. Willis to the scene, and, along with Herman Dodge and Burrow, the officer investigated. When the blanket was removed it was found that Chattelee had been killed by two knife wounds in the head: one in the forehead and the other on the left temple. The knife, in making this wound, had apparently touched the brain. The blanket had been wrapped around the victim's head after the stabbing, as there were no holes in the blanket corresponding to the wounds on Chattelee's head.

Detective headquarters were notified immediately, and Sergeants of Detectives Cronin and Mitchell, accompanied by Detective Sergeants Nursey and McConnell and Detective Waterhouse, proceeded to the Simcoe Street address. The house is a three-storey brick building on the east side of Simcoe Street, between Wellington and Front Streets, and was formerly occupied by the Waiters' and Porters' Club. Investigation showed that the place had apparently been fitted up as a rooming house, but there were no indications that there had been any occupant other than Chattelee for some time past. There were a dozen or more beds in several rooms.

Robbery is believed to have been the motive.

DISARMING FAVORED BY REPUBLICAN

PRESIDENT-ELECT HARDING DECLARES FOR WORLD DISARMAMENT AND NEW ADMINISTRATION LIKELY TO PROPOSE THIS.

LINES TO BE FOLLOWED

(Canadian Press).

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Feb. 11.—"I will do everything that is becoming to bring about the co-operation of the United States in any scheme for world disarmament."

President-elect Warren G. Harding thus summarized his views on international disarmament yesterday.

"I am not prepared at this time to detail the steps to be taken but I unequivocally endorse the idea of bringing about a limitation of armaments or international disarmament in which all nations would play their parts," continued the next United States President.

It can be authoritatively stated that Mr. Harding as President, would welcome an international disarmament congress at which the United States and all the great Powers would be represented, and at which a practical scheme for disarmament would be evolved.

Under the terms of the Naval Appropriations Act of 1916, there is carried an appropriation of $200,000 to pay the salaries and expenses of United States representatives to any world congress on disarmament that would be called. This fund is still available, and would be ready at hand whenever it is required by President Harding for this greatest of all humanitarian enterprises.

Lines to Be Followed.

It is safe to predict that the incoming Republican administration will act to bring about international disarmament early in its career. In doing so the following steps would be taken:

1—Passage of the Knox resolution declaring a state of peace with Germany and Austria.

2—Calling for an international disarmament congress.

3—The President-elect is understood to be fully convinced that now is the psychological moment to launch an attempt at world disarmament, and that the war weary nations of Europe would readily join in carrying that gigantic task to a success.

It is considered highly probable, therefore, that through the State Department, President Harding will sound out the Governments of Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan and make arrangements for opening the disarmament conferences.

There is little doubt in the mind of the President-elect as to the answers of these Governments, as a concrete plan for world disarmament, once suggested, would have such a popular appeal to the peoples of the world that their Governments would practically be forced to co-perate.

ALLIES PROTEST TO AUSTRIA, SAY VIENNA RUMOURS

OVER MOVEMENTS TOWARD FUSION OF GERMANY AND AUSTRIA.

(Canadian Press.)

VIENNA, Feb. 11. — The Entente officials are reported to have sent a formal note to the Austrian government protesting against any movements having for their object the fusion of Austria and Germany. Reprisals are threatened if such movements are carried on, it is said.

DIES AT AGE OF 102; WAS OLDEST HERE

MRS. JOHN GANNON, OF ENNISMORE, ONLY CENTENARIAN KNOWN IN PETERBOROUGH COUNTY—WOULD HAVE BEEN 103 IN MARCH.

WAS A PIONEER

Death claimed the oldest resident of Peterborough county last night in the person of Mrs. John Gannon, of Ennismore township, aged 102 years and eleven months. Mrs. Gannon would have been 103 had she lived till early in March.

Mrs. Gannon so far as is known is the only centenarian in this county. She died in a spotless little white frame house, near Gannon's Narrows, overlooking Buckhorn Bay. This house was originally a log trading post, but has been built over, and when she and her husband first came to the wilds of Ennismore from the then settled country along Lake Ontario in 1840 or 1841, they made their home in this house, which was evacuated by fur traders. The bush was slowly cleared by John Gannon, but his super-human efforts told on him and about 1870 he died, leaving his oldest son, Michael, to manage the farm and provide for his mother.

The eldest son, Michael, died in September last, aged 78 years, and of the large family only three now survive, John who farms the original land, Anna and Ellen at home.

Mrs. Gannon was quite well up to several years ago, but during the last year her memory had all but failed and she had been in bed for many months. She will be buried in St. Martin's cemetery, Ennismore.

The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

ANNUAL MEETING OF ASSOCIATION

King George Home and School Association Elect Officers.

The King George Home and School Association held their annual meeting for the election of officers last evening. Mrs. Stanley Cooper, the retiring president, whose resignation was received with great regret, made a short address, followed by the secretary's report for the work of the last year, a report which proved it to have been a very successful period in every way, and the treasurer's statement showed a substantial balance in the bank at the credit of the association.

The following officers were elected for 1921:

President—Mrs. R. H. Parsons.
1st Vice-President — Mrs. Victor Hamilton.
2nd Vice-President—Mrs. Alfred Perrin.
Secretary—Miss Isabel Morgan.
Treasurer—Mrs. H. Dodds.
Convenor of the Sewing Committee—Mrs. Victor Hamilton.
Convenor of the Visiting Committee—Mrs. G. L. Hay.
Convenor of the Relief Committee—Mrs. Stanley Cooper.
Convenor of the Social Committee—Mrs. A. C. Gray.
Convenor of the Programme Committee—Mrs. A. Perrin.

The ladies otulined a schedule of activities for the incoming year, and their enthusiasm over the successful year just closed, and equally bright prospects for the future, made this meeting a very encouraging gathering.

MORE BY-ELECTIONS AT AN EARLY DATE

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, Feb. 11.— Despite its recent defeats the government will in the near future issue writs for by-elections in Yamaska, Que., and York, N.B. The vacancies were created respectively by the deaths of Oscar Gladu and Col. Harry McLeod. The former is a Liberal seat and the latter a Conservative.

In Yamaska the Liberals have already nominated a candidate, and A. M. Mondou, former Nationalist member, has intimated his intention of running. It is rumored that the government will endorse Mr. Mondou, although it was he who, after the appointment of Mr. Meighen as Prime Minister, is said to have referred to him as the "hangman of Quebec."

GILBERT IS A FREE MAN

ACQUITTED OF THE MURDER OF ROBERT IRONSIDES AT HIS SECOND TRIAL YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

MYSTERY UNSOLVED

(Canadian Press.)

BARRIE, Feb. 11.—After a year's imprisonment and passing through the ordeal of two trials on the charge of murder, Frederick Gilbert, of Orillia, is a free man, a verdict of acquittal being given at 3 o'clock yesterday.

Evidence in the case was concluded at 10.25 on Wednesday night. For the defence the only witnesses to testify were the prisoner and his wife, and their testimony did not occupy half an hour.

Gilbert's statement was that he left the power house with Eli Mincoff, who was working on the same shift, that they went to the boarding-house together, and direct to bed, where the prisoner remained until 7.20, except for a visit to the kitchen to warm some milk for the baby. His wife, who had wakened him to go on this errand, corroborated his evidence on this point.

Asked by his counsel if he had shot Ironsides, the prisoner declared with great earnestness: "I did not. There was no reason in the world why I should, as he and I were the best of friends."

At 9.30 the counsel began addressing the jury. Speaking for nearly an hour, Mr. Tudhope made a very strong appeal on the prisoner's behalf. He devoted much time to a minute analysis of th ante-mortem statement of Ironsides—the only direct evidence of the Crown—pointing out certain inconsistencies, which, he contended, showed that deceaseds mind was not clear at the time of making the deposition. He also held that the Crown had failed to disprove the evidence of Gilbert and his wife.

Mr. McCullough, for the prosecution, spoke 45 minutes, urging mainly that, beyond all question, Ironsides was convinced that Gilbert had fired the fatal shots.

After a very impartial summing up by His Lordship, Mr. Justice Sutherland, the case went to the pury at 12.40, and two hours later came the verdict of "not guilty," which leaves still unsolved the mystery of the murder of Robert Ironsides at Swift Rapids on 5th March, 1920.

FORMER CORINTHIAN CAPTAIN PASSES AWAY IN ENGLAND.

TORONTO, Feb. 11.—Association footballers will be sorry to hear of the sudden death of Mr. W. U. Timmis, the English amateur internation who captained the Corinthian team to Canada in 1911. During the war he held a commission in the Grenadier Guards: he was badly wounded, and had never been the same since. He was taken suddenly ill lwhile refereeing in the Scottish Corinthian January tour. He had played for Corinthians for nearly 20 years.

The deceased was a brother of Major R. A. Timmis of Stanley Barracks.

WILHELM SAYS THAT GERMANY WAS BETRAYED AND THAT GOD IS SCOURGING THE WORLD —"ALL EVIL REVENGES ITSELF HERE ON EARTH."

"I NEVER WISHED WAR"

EDITOR'S NOTE—The following interview with the former Kaiser was obtained and written by Heinrich Petermeyer, former tutor to the sons of Count Oldenburg Bentick, at Amerongen Castle, shortly before the Kaiser removed to Doorn. The interview was accompanied by a written statement by Petermeyer, explaining the circumstances, and stating that he transcribed it from exact notes. Petermeyer is now the Berlin correspondent of several of the leading newspapers of Amsterdam. He is only now released from certain obligations making it possible for him to publish the interview.

BERLIN, Feb. 11.—I am able today to make public for the first time the only interview with former Kaiser Wilhelm since he crossed the German boundary into Holland. The circumstances under which the interview was obtained are given below.

In answer to a question as to why Germany lost the war, the Kaiser said—"We would never have lost the war if my people had remained true to themselves. I always asserted with Martin Luther that 'that if the world were full of devils who would swallow us up, we still would have succeeded if we did not fear for ourselves.' We had already overcome hunger an need despite the fact that America had joined hands with our enemy, Britain. The betrayal of Germany signified her death sentence.

"And notice how God scours the whole world—all evil revenges itself here on earth."

Through the good offices of Count Oldenburg Bentinck, I was invited to Amerongen to be presented personally to the Kaiser by General Von Gontard, Court Marshal.

When I entered the garden I saw the Kaiser marching up and down with the Court Marshal in Military Tempo. The Kaiserin had seated herself in a quiet corner on a bench and sat there alone. "When General Von Gontard clasps his hands then you must hurry over," I was told. When the Court Marshal signalled, I ran over and stood, hat in hand. At the same moment the Kaiserin departed.

The Kaiser was in brown hunting costume with a dark grey cape and wore a small hunting hat with a feather. Suddenly he turned about and viewed me with an eagle glance. I stepped up and as Von Gontard presented me the Kaiser grasped my hand firmly I went in quickly military tempo on the Kaiser's left side. Directly behind us went Von Gontard and listened attentively. The Kaiser said: "Please put on your hat and tell me about your study. You are a Hollander but your father is German."

"He comes from Lippe—Detmold," I replied.

"I always think back to that place with pleasure," said the Kaiser. "In the beginning of my government—in the year of 1888, that's a long time ago—in the months of September, I was there on a through trip—in the next month I visited, as Kaiser and King of the German Empire, my unforgettable friend Frasz Josef, in Vienna.

"The world looked different then than now. When you were still a baby I arrived at Rome Who could then have guessed that the friend would become the enemy of the world? I was sometimes warned and it was not without intention that I showed the Italian Victor Emmanuel in July 1913 my fleet in Kiel."

"How does your Majesty hold it possible that his people have fallen so low"? I asked immediately.

The Kaiser suddenly stopped, threw his cigaret out of his left hand and said harshly: "My people has betrayed itself. It's God, and Me. Already during the war the social democrats (Socialists and Majority Socialists) took care of that. They are chiefly guilty.

"Every German soldier who during the war returned to his wife and children on short leave was systematically worked upon—that is to say spiritually spoiled. So he returned to EXONERATES BLUEBIRDS.

Ornithologist Says Same Always Spend Winter in Massachusetts.

BOSTON, Feb. 10.—Ten Weymouth bluebirds that recently led unofficial weather forecasters to predict the earliest of Springs were entirely innocent of any intent to fool the public, Edward H. Forbush, State ornithologist, said today that some bluebirds spent every Winter in New England, especially in the southern parts and that their presence in seemingly large numbers this year meant only that with the mild weather "they had taken it into their heads to fly about a little."

Wild geese, he said, had been flying north for some time, and might go as far as Maine.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. Feb 10.—The Township Council has been notified by Mrs. Williams of Stamford, that she will enter suit for damages against it for damage done to Angel Cakes and a wedding cake, which, she says were spoiled by hydro-dynamite blasting. It cost her $15 to replace the cakes in St. Catharines. She claims that the township is at fault in allowing the hydro to do such heavy blasting.

FIND MODERN COLLEGE WOMAN BELOW VENUS DE MILO STANDARD

PHIADELPHIA, Feb. 11.—The modern woman college student is far below the physical standard of the Venus de Milo, says Dr. R. Tait McKenzie of the Physical Department of the University of Pennsylvania. The modern American youth, on the contrary, he says, has retained more of the classic Greek beauty of the human form.

"If we compare the typical student of our womens' colleges with the deep-chested, vital type that has come to us through the ropal succession of Venuses like the Venus de Milo, we are apt to become pessimistic over the future of the race," adds Mr. McKenzie. "This may be some explanation of the fact that the native American raace depends for its continuance so largely on imigration."

ONLY INTERVIEW WITH EX-KAISER

his work under false influences and he wasn't a soldier any more. He then sought to work upon his faithful comrades and often succeeded."

It was at this point that the Kaiser made the remark that the "betrayal" of the German people signified their death sentence as quoted above.

"Does that mean the death sentence for ever?"

"Nobody knows that,' the kaiser said. "Only Almighty God can help there. For the near future I don't expect much. The world looks darker every day. It was never so far removed from peace as now. The whole world has denied God—not only my people have denied their God.

"For 26 difficult years I alone led the fight to keep the peace of my folk. Then the sword of peace was struck out of my hand by my best friends.

"I never wished the war. (Ich habe nie den krieg gewollt).'

By this time we have reached the castle bridge. Von Gontard gave me a kindly nudge and I accompanied the Kaiser to the door of the castle. Here the Kaiser shook my hand and said "tell your father it was a pleasure for me to make his son's acquaintance."

PATROLMAN RISKS LIFE TO SAVE FOUR KIDDIES FROM FIRE

BOSTON, Feb. 10—Four children, trapped in a small room, were rescued by patrolman M. E. McCarthy after he had forced his way up a narraw winding staircase through flames and smoke at a tenement fire in the North End last night.

Taking two of the youngsters under his arms and instructing the others to cling to his coat, the policeman guided them to safety.

The blaze which started in a store on the ground floor, imperilled the lives of a dozen families. Police and firemen asisted fifteen persons to the street.

INTERNATIONAL BOXING BOUTS ARE BEING PLANNED FOR MAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—An international tournament, which will bring together the recognized amateur boxing champions of the United States and Great Britian, is being planned for this city early in May.

It is proposed to have the winners of the British Amateur Athletic Association and the American Amateur Athletic Union championship contests, which are scheduled to be held almost simultaneously in London and Boston, compete for International honors, while their titular laurels are still fresh.

An invitation from the officers of the A. A. U., headed by Secretary Fred W. Rubien, has been dispatched to the officials of the British A.A.A., cordially requesting them to designate the winner in each of the eight weight divisions as the British standard-bearers, for a series of bouts against the United States amateur champions, following the national tournament to be held in Boston, April 11-12.

BIG DYE OUTPUT.

Germany Now Exceeding Pre-War Rate.

PARIS Feb. 10.— Germany is now exceeding her pre-war production of coal tar dyes according to the reparations commision and that by the end of the current month will have surpassed any previous monthly production of fine chemicals.

Color dyes produced during January are estimated to have totalled 12,000 tons of 750 tons more than the average monthly output before the war.

The dye markets in Germany are obliged to place about one-quarter of their product at the disposition of the reparations commission. The remainder, however, the experts report is being offered by the dye syndicate in foreign markets at prices which are understood to be considerably lower than those of the British and United States competitors of the syndicate.

CLAIMS HUSBAND SOLD HER TO THEIR BUTCHER

Said Transaction Involved Vacant Lot Worth $500.

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—Marie, 20-year-old wife of Eric Johnson, was sold by her husband to their butcher, Berger Peterson, for a vacant lot valued at $500, she told police here

The transaction was drawn up in legal phraseology by a Chicago attorney, she said.

Police unearthed the alleged "sale" when Johnson in an attempt to retrieve his wife, went to an apartment where he was beaten, police said, by Gus Peterson, the butcher's brother.

The men were arrested for disorder ly conduct.

Johnson told police that his wife had run away from Rockford, Ill., with the two Peterson brothers.

Berger Peterson and Mrs. Johnson were later arrested by police duing a raid on a hotel.

It was then that she told the story that Johnson agreed to relinquish all rights to her for a vacant lot in Rock ford.

All four are in jail.

MILITARY APPOINTMENTS.

The announcement of the appointment of Col. F. O. Hopkins, D.S.O., of Toronto, as the general staff officer of Military District No. 3, with headquarters at Kingston, is another example of the manner in which the military officers of this section of Ontario are apparently slighted by the powers that be when appointments of this kind are being made. Col. Hopkins may be a very excellent officer, and his qualifications for the position he is called upon to fill may be beyond question. Nevertheless, there is a strong feeling that among the many officers from No. 3 military district who served with distinction overseas, there must be a number quite capable of carrying out the duties of general staff officer. Why, then, should it be necessary to go to another military district to secure an officer for this position? For some reason or other this practice has been consistently followed in the matter of appointments in this district and there is difficulty on the part of many people to understand why the procedure should be considered necessary.

THE ANNUAL TALK FEST.

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson in the Legislature the other day waxed indignant because some of the Ontario newspapers had ventured to complain that too much time was wasted in the House in useless talk. This criticism was dragged out every year, Mr. Ferguson complained, and there was no foundation for the charge. The Examiner confesses its inability to agree with the Conservative leader. This Legislature, as the Legislatures which preceded it in office, is given to too many and too long speeches. There is no need of prolonging the debate on the address from the throne, for much of what is said is mere repetition, and a lot of it would be better left unsaid so far as its having any useful effect is concerned. The Provincial Treasurer has announced that he is ready to bring down his budget just as soon as the debate on the address is concluded. That is a hint that the legislators should not ignore, but nevertheless the talk fest drags on day after day and U.F.O., Labour, Liberal and Conservative members, equally guilty in the matter of verbosity, continue to talk long hours on all variety of subjects. The present session promises to be no improvement over previous meetings of the Legisature.

POOR LABOUR SHOWING.

One of the features of the by-election contest in West Peterborough was the poor showing made by the Labour candidate, T. J. McMurray. That an industrial centre like Peterborough, with a big population of toilers organised into trades unions, could only roll up 1,102 votes for the Labour man requires some explanation. The explanation is this, according to information supplied by an Electric City working man. Labour in the city is divided into rival camps—the moderates and radicals or extremists. The latter have been somewhat arrogant in their attitude, and their leaders are men who delight in denouncing the employer of labour as a member of the capitalistic class against whom they wage war. Their influence in the ranks is such that they have succeeded in having candidates nominated at municipal elections whose record and policies are distaste ful to those of the moderate school. They have become inoculated with the Red virus to a certain degree, hence the breach in the ranks of Labour.

The cause of Labour in Canada has lost considerable ground, and public sympathy in Canada owing to the unfortunate Winnipeg revolution of a few years ago, and the Bolshevistic tendencies of some of its leaders. It can never hope to regain what it has lost until the extremists are driven from its ranks.—Lindsay Post.

HARD TO CONVINCE.

Dr. Tolmie, Minister of Agriculture, strongly believes in a return of the old two party system as the only satisfactory means of carrying on Government. There are few members of either of the old poltical parties who will not agree with the Minister. The troube is, however, to convince the Farmers' party of the superior merits of the old system. The Agrarians, with the successes they have already scored at the poles, and sanguine of even greater triumphs in the near future, find no attractions in the two party plan and, so far as they are concerned, they don't care how many groups there may be, as long as their organization, banded together through class consciousness, continues. The old parites may yearn for the good old days when there were only the two parties in the political life of Canada, but the Farmers' party, for the present at least, is here to stay, and there seems no way of convincing them that their organization in so far as the field of politics is concerned, is unnecessary. In the general election, when it comes, we must be prepared to find United Farmer candidates in every rural constituency, especially in Ontario and the Prairie provinces.

JUBILEE YEAR FOR THE SUN LIFE.

Among the annual reports submitted so far this year, one of the most interesting available is that of the Sun Life Assurance Company, which is now celebrating, with pardonable pride, its fiftieth anniversary. Apart altogether from its unique record in insurance annals of Canada of $106,000,000 of new business written up during the past year, a test from the actual figures as furnished by decades shows the remarkable effect of a momentum such as the Sun Life has gained in this country, and indeed in scores of other countries of the world, where it has branched out with results fully as impressive as in the case of Canada, the place of its birth.

Taking the year after its foundation, 1872, it is seen that the income was $48,210, its assets $96,461, and life insurance in force $1,064,340. Eight years later the income had increased to $141,000, the assets to $473,000, and the insurance in force to $3,897,000, roughly three, five and four times as great, respectively The next ten years showed totals that ran far ahead of these "times," for the income was eighteen times that of 1872, the assets twenty-five times, and the insurance force about sixteen times. Twenty years later the income was some 180 times the original, assets nearly four hundred times, and insurance in force over one hundred and forty times that of 1872. Coming down to the year just passed, it is seen that the original amount of income of $48,000 has expanded to $28,751,000, the assets of $96,000 to $114,839,000, and the insurance in force of a little over $1,000,000 is now over $486,000,000.

Nor does the company intend to rest where it stands to-day, with its remarkable records whether they be considered as percentages of growth or as straight totals, for in the annual report for the year 1920 which appears in this issue, the whole tone is of a resolve that the year 1921 shall establish figures and records as yet untouched by this life insurance company, whose financial strength and progress even apart from its relation to insurance constitutes a very real asset to Canada's business position before the world.

Messrs. Hill, Weddell & Co. are the local representatives of the Sun Life.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

No Sunday street cars until May. Well, Peterborough people are used to waiting for cars.

Must be a lot of politicians at Ottawa who are casting longing eyes upon those vacant seats in the Senate. those vacant seats in the Senate.

Any funds the Board of Trade has left in its advertising appropriations should be turned over to Mr. Burnham, who has secured for Peterborough more publicity than the lift-lock ever did.

The moral in the local by-election depends upon the brand of politics you follow.

Up to the present the identity of the one voter in Ennismore who marked a ballot for Mr. Burnham has not been discovered.

Now that the election and the bonspiel are over some Peterborough men will have an opportunity of getting acquainted with their families again.

THE LATEST IN ARMORED CARS.

Because of the numerous attacks by bombs and bullets to which Crown forces in Ireland are being subjected, the authorities have adopted a unique means for protection of Auxiliary Police while on duty. The men travel about in armored cars, which have the appearance of traveling hen coops. The sides of the cars are highly-tempered steel plates, high enough for the men to seek cover, and the entire car is covered with a heavy wire mesh as protection against bombs. The steel plates of the cars are of such strength that steel-jacketed bullets make but a dent in the plates. The photograph

WISE AND OTHERWISE

It is said that under the proposed liquor legislation doctors' prescriptions will not be necessary. Now we may expect to hear of a marked improvement in general health conditions in Quebec.

Stand on a street corner for three minutes and become convinced that most of the women in town bought their winter clothes with the intention of spending the winter in Florida and then were disappointed.

But then what's the use in ridiculing women's clothes, or rather the lack of them, while so many young coons are running about the streets with their trousers at half-most and in many cases higher.

British Columbia's first woman member of the Legislature has refused to accept the position of speaker of the Legislature. But considering the fact that the speaker sits silent while the other members do all the talking it seems quite logical that a woman should refuse such a position

She explains that she has political ambitions, among them a portfolio in the Cabinet, and that speakership would literally shelve her from attaining these. Well, who ever heard of a woman wanting to be shelved Most of them, in fact, become giddier at sixty than they were at sixeeen.

But then as The Toronto Star observes none of the jokesmiths need apply for unemployment relief now that a woman has refused to become a speaker. Every jokesmith, of course likes to have his little joke for every little joke binds him a little more closely to the paper's payroll.

West Peterboro's result appears to please everybody—to hear them tell it. The Liberal candidate won, and that pleases him; the other candidates polled more votes and that pleases them.—Toronto Star.

Prisoner—Let me off, your Worship, I'm down and out.

Magistrate—Down you may be, but not out—six months.

The Beast—You used to say there was something about me you liked.

WOMAN WAITING FOR THE SPIRIT OF SUICIDE TO TALK.

Mrs. Ruth Doran, of Detroit, Other Party in Strange "Pact."

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 11.—"I expect Thomas Lynn Bradford's spirit to return to earth, and if it does, I feel that it will communicate with me first of all."

Mrs. Ruth Doran, 1531 First Street, made this statement to-day. She is the woman with whom Bradford, writer and lecturer, who was found dead in a gas-filled room in his boarding house at 2500 Hudson Avenue, late Saturday night, had discussed spiritualism, and to whom he haid said, "I can prove, in a very simple manner, that the dead can communicate with the living."

A sheet of paper in a typewriter in Bradford's rooms, upon which he had written " . . . and it is through scientific facts that I propose to demonstrate clearly the phenomena of spirits and prove that all the phenomena is outside the domain of super natural," together with other papers showing that Bradford had advertised in the newspapers for "some one interested in spiritualistic science," led to the theory that he had made a pact with someone to demonstrate, by killing himself and sending a message back from the spirit world, that spirits can communicate with the living.

Expects Spirit To Talk.

Mrs. Doran is the "someone" Bradford found through the advertisement.

"The news of his death is a shock to me," she said. "I had no intimation of it, but I am free to say this, that now it has happened, I feel from what he told me, his spirit will come to me first of all."

She said, in reply to a question, that she had received no spirit message yet. She was shown a copy of another portion of the manuscript found in Bradford's typewriter, reading: " . . . purpose of the author to place before the public the phenomena of spiritism in a manner so simple and easy to understand, that not only the well-informed, but the ordinary reader, may read and understand."

She admitted that it indicated Bradford had died with the idea of proving he could send back a message from the spirit world and she reiterated that she expected he would communicate with her, but she denied that there had been any agreement between them to make the demonstration.

"I knew him as 'Professor Flynn,'" she said, "that is the name he gave me. I am a psychic. For years I have been interested, keenly interested in the occult. I found him a very intelligent man to converse with. We were both trying to peer into the beyond. For years it has been an obsession of mine. I have written many articles on the subject.

Some Contradiction.

"Some of Prof. Flynn's doctrine were contradictory. Above everything else he was cynical. He frankly stated that he could not trust women. Sometimes I thought he was a skeptic on spiritualism and again I felt he believed what he taught.

"We talked on a number of subjects, from the Karmic law and it's evolution to psycopathology. I am a psychopathist, I said to him. Then we reverted back to spiritualism. All these subjects from 'second sight' to telepathy, to occultism and psychology have been themes of uttermost interest to me. I felt in meeting him and keeping up our lessons that I was making a step forward in the doctrine as to whether the dead can communicate with the living or not. In any event I am Me. I was his friend. I, his friend, can cause his spirit to come back to earth and it will come to me first of all.

"I believe in what he told me. I was his friend. I am his friend now. I believed in him in life and I will wait and see if there is any spirit manifestation. If there is such a thing as 'spirit communication' I feel that he will make his presence known to me."

Mrs. Doran is a widow. Bradford was author, lecturer and student of Theosophy. He is believed by the police to have deliberately set himself out upon "the great adventure" so he might come back, and prove to a doubting world that there was communication between the living and the dead.

HASTINGS ASKS PROTECTION.

The Hastings County Council has memoralized the Federal Government asking that legislation be passed imposing a duty of $5 per ton on imports of fluorspar, one of Hastings' most important mining industries, which has been almost killed by lack of a permanent market, owing to the low duty of $1.50 on fluorspar entering the United States as against no duty of the U. POST-WAR SURPLUS OF WOMEN IS VERY GREAT 1180 MARRIAGEABLE WOMEN TO EVERY 1,000 MEN NOW.

(By Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service.)

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 11.—Thirty-five million lives were lost directly or indirectly in consequence of the Great War, according to the latest publication of the Copenhagen "Society for the Study of the Social Effects of the War." The excess of women caused by this loss is of paramount social importance.

Taking the age of marriageable women at from 16 to 45 years, there were in 1913 for every thousand men of the same age 1,005 women. In 1919 the quota of marriageable women was 1,180. In Germany, 18 per cent. of marriageable women are doomed to celibacy. This proportion is, however, bound to be exceeded, for among the marriageable men there are many cripples and confirmed invalids, for whom marriage is out of the question.

SMUGGLER TRAPPED WITH $20,000 DRUGS

SLEUTH, DISGUISED AS LONGSHORE MAN, MADE FRIENDS WITH SUSPECT, SWEDISH QUARTERMASTER

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—More evidence that internal drug smugglers are running narcotics into this city was obtained yesterday in the arrest of Frederick Sundloff, a Swedish quartermaster on the steamship Florence Luckenbach, now in repair at the Robins Dry Dock, Brooklyn, the police declared. Detectives made their second capture of $20,000 worth of cocaine and heroin in less than a week.

The first intimation that narcotic runners from abroad were making New York their goal came several days ago when Byron B. Newton, Collector of the Port disclosed that special agents of the Treasury Department investigating baggage examination had come across a drug trail. Both the Collector and Police Headquarters were quick to absolve the customs men from participation in the scheme, the detectives declaring that sailors were the smugglers.

Walked into a Trap.

According to Detectives Boylan and Murphy, Sundoff walked into a carefully worked out police trap, leading the detectives to the 'cache' of cocaine and heroin. The drugs confiscated, they added, were but a part of a great consignment which, apparently by this time was in the hands of peddlers here.

The capture of the quartermaster, the police said, was linked to the arrest of George Connors, a boatswain on the same steamship, who was alleged to have had $20,000 worth of cocaine when he was arrested a week ago at 355 Fifth Avenue Brooklyn. Connors was taken to headquarters, where Dr. Simon personally cross-examined him. His replies caused the suspicion that other members of the crew of the Florence Luckenbach were engaged in the well-paid task of conveying drugs from Germany to America.

Detectives working along the Brooklyn waterfront reported that certain seamen from the vessel made a sailors' rooming house their haunt, and Detective Boylan was assigned to get into this place. He fitted himself out as a longshoreman, bait hook all, and went to lodge there. He found it difficult to become friendly with frequenters of the house, and it was not until Friday that he became chummy with Sundloff.

Detective's "Wealthy Friend."

They talked of ships and the sea, and the skippers they had both sailed under. Through the interest aroused by Boylan's "roasting" of skippers the detective finally got to the point where he spoke of a "wealthy friend who would pay any sum even in the thousands for a supply of cocaine and heroin sufficient to last a year." The "wealthy friend's need" as the detective put it, eventually caused the quartermaster to make an appointment with Boylan to meet in a rooming house at Hamilton Avenue and Hicks street, Brooklyn.

Yesterday the longshoreman and his "friend" appeared on time and so did Sundoff. The "friend" was "Joe" Murphy of headquarters but to the Swedish sailor he was a resplendent being in a glossy silk top hat, snuff-brown gaiters, canary gloves and mal acca cane. Murphy appeared to be afraid of getting some longshoreman's crime on himself but he said he got near enough for the quartermaster to produce seventy-five bottles of alleged cocaine and five pounds of what the narcotic squad said was heroin, all of which bore German stamps.

Commenting on Sundoff's arrest, Dr. Simon said he was certain that his staff faced the job breaking up a smoothly working international system of drug purveyors and he planned to kep a big staff working on the system until it was broken up.

THE EMBARGO ON CANADIAN CATTLE CHAPTER OF WAR

WHAT PASSED AT THE IMPERIAL CONFERENCE IN LONDON IN 1917.

By RIGHT HON. LORD ERNLE, M. V. O.

(Special Correspondence, Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service.)

(Lord Erle, formerly (as Rowland Prothero) president of the Board of Agriculture, explains in the following article his attitude during the war with regard to the embargo on Canadian cattle.)

The question whether Canadian cattle should again be admitted into this country alive as stores is becoming acute. Naturally enough, what passed at the Imperial Conference in the spring of 1917 forms an element in the controversy. Sir George Perley, the High Commissioner for Canada, in a letter to the Press dated December 28, correctly stated that, "at the conference I viewed sympathetically the removal of the embargo after the war." There is, however, a context of time and circumstances from which words cannot be detached without risk of misunderstanding. Silence is no longer necessary, and may become mischievous. I therefore think it necessary to explain the difficulties which were in my mind when I attended the conference.

Even now the British public is scarcely awake to the menacing situation of our food supplies in 1917 and the first half of 1918. In March, 1917, the reserves of our imported supplies of frozen meat were running dangerously low. It was decided to feed the troops for a time from home-grown meat. A large requisition was made on our cattle for the following autumn. Machinery had to be devised and created by the Board of Agriculture and the War Office for securing the supply, and it was this organization which was ultimately taken over by the Food Controller. At the same time we were forced to consider the prospects of civilian meat. The supply of feeding stuffs was shrinking so rapidly that more cattle would have to be slaughtered to provide the requisite weight of beef. What the duration of the war or the interruption of our seaborne supplies might be it was, of course, impossible to forecast. But we calculated that on strict rations the country could hold out for two years. Whether the war was over sooner or not our stock would then have been so reduced in number and recuperative power that our normal output of meat would be very seriously decreased, and for many years to come.

As president of the Board of Agriculture it was my duty to look ahead and prepare, as far as possible, for the threatened emergency. Two alternatives presented themselves. One was to become dependent during the period of recuperation on frozen meat—not for 40 per cent., but for 100 per cent. of our supplies. During the war the great meat-packing firms of South America had acted magnanimously. I do not say that they were not making big profits, or that they were not dependent on our shipping. But on the renewal of their contracts they held us in the hollow of their hands. They could afford to wait: we could not. In time of peace, however, when sheer trade only was at stake, I did not feel so confident in their magnanimity. I doubted whether, if we once surrendered our independence, our cattle-breeders would ever regain their freedom. There was this further consideration. If the war had shown signs of lasting through 1919, we should have had a large additional acreage of corn. Without cattle to turn the straw into manure, the waste would have been immense, and with dwindling supplies of fertilizers, the yield of corn would have decreased and we should have been forced to make larger inroads on the stored-up fertility of valuable pasture. We wanted it in fact, not only meat, but live cattle.

The second alternative was to admit Canadian cattle as stores during the limited number of years of recuperation and to give Canada notice as soon as possible in order that she might make the necessary preparations to meet the need. The proposal would have had obvious advantages for the Dominions. Their interest was, and is, to develop a frozen-meat trade. But they had neither the plant nor the cattle. Pending the establishment of their plant and the increase in their herds, they required a market for their surplus stock. If Great Britain refused to take their stores, they must be sold to the United States and so strengthen the commercial position of their most formidable rivals in their future trade.

Neither alternative was free from objection. But the prospects of our home-grown meat being what they then were, one or the other had to be adopted. Unfortunately it was impossible to explain the necessities of either. National safety forbade a word in defence or extenuation. Having to choose, I chose Canadian cattle. Had I to make the choice again in similar circumstances, I should reach the same decision. I have no doubt that similar considerations were present in the mind of Mr. Long, who as Colonial Secretary, took their chair at the conference.

At the conference the Canadian representatives disclaimed any intention of attacking the policy of exclusion. That, as they said, was a domestic concern with which they did not meddle. What they did attack was the reason alleged for the exclusion. It was the allegation of disease which cast a "stigma" and an "undeserved slur" on their cattle, damaged their reputation, and inflicted a commercial injury. This was the "sore" and the "grievance." With this feeling I sympathised, and still sympathise. No cattle in the world have a cleaner bill of health, or for a longer and more continuous period, than Canadian cattle. I felt that, if our policy of exclusion was to be changed, and at that time I was convinced that it would become necessary, we were exceptionally fortunate in our source of supply. The most formidable danger lay in the importation of cattle into Canada across the frontier from districts less immune from disease. My answer in the House of Commons (June, 1917) reserves this point for consideration by limiting the reference to cattle born and reared in Canada and leaving that country for the first time by direct shipment to a British port.

As the year 1917 advanced the danger of our cattle receded. We came through the war with our herds undiminished. The conditions which I had in mind at the conference have never occurred. Space forbids me to discuss the present question, and I do not think that upon it the expression of my opinion is unnecessary.

NAPOLEON'S SYSTEM FOR ROAD REPAIRING

If we need an object lesson in the importance of road maintenance, we have only to turn our eyes toward France, which has evolved the finest system of keeping up roads in existence. The French maintenance system was installed by the first Napoleon, whose unerring mind realised to the full the importance of good roads, always in good condition. The French system embodies a corps of patrolmen, working constantly on the national roads. These men have each a given length of road under their care, about four miles to the man. Each one is responsible for the condition of his district at all times. They cover their districts every day. The patrolman drives over the road in a two-wheeled cart, carrying a supply of mending materials, sufficient for any ordinary break. Every slightest hole in the surface is patched as soon as it appears. If serious trouble arises from any cause, the patrolman notifies his inspector and the repair gang comes to the rescue.

In France the jobs of highway patrolman are usually given to veterans who have retired from army service. The pay is not large, but the patrolman gets a house with a plot of ground, the whole constituting an honourable livelihood.

Might it not be possible for us to follow a similar line of operation? We have some millions of veterans of our armies. Many thousands of them will be glad to secure a permanent means of livelihood, especially in the open-air.

It may not be without profit to examine briefly the cost of such a national highway maintenance system. Suppose our hard surfaced highway system eventually comprises 300,000 miles. A patrolman with a small motor car to carry his tools and materials could handle ten miles of road, going over his district every day and making any needed repairs. A force of 30,000 patrolmen would cover the entire road system. If we placed the wages of these men at $1,000 per annum, our total expenditure would be $30,000,000. If we double this sum to include the cost of running a car, supplying materials, etc., we have a total of $60,000,000, not at all disproportionate expenditure when we consider the return. We spend far more than this every year in making extensive repairs and doing rebuilding that the patrol system would obviate. It might even be possible to furnish the highway patrolman with a cottage and garden plot, after the French custom, and make the job attractive to men with families.—January MoTor.

RELIEVES PAIN

The Boy

ONE of the best things any mother can do, is to give her children Cocoa every day.

Children as well as their elders need something hot to drink, and Cocoa is the only thing adapted to their youth which at the same time they enjoy. It is not a stimulant, as are other beverages, but is nourishing and invigorating. It strengthens their power of resistance against cold and illness.

Cocoa is recognized by doctors and dietitians as one of the standard foods, and is particularly recommended for growing children. Taken in the form of a beverage at breakfast or lunch, or after school in the afternoon, it is easily digested and the children love it.

Give your children Cowan's Cocoa every day, and it will help them to develop sturdy constitutions which will be the foundation for good health all through life.

Follow the directions on the tin in preparing Cocoa.

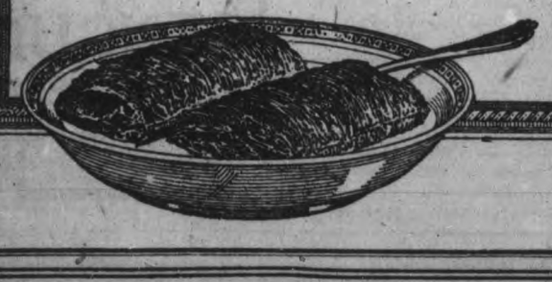
MADE IN CANADA



OFFICIAL HISTORY OF THE DOMINION

ARCHIVISTS UNEARTHING RECORDS OF BYGONE CENTURIES OVERSEAS AND IN OTTAWA.

By E. C. LONGWORTH.
(Special Correspondence, Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service.)

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Delving into the correspondence of two hundred years at the Colonial Office and the records of bygone centuries among the War Office's mass of documents, searching ancient Admiralty dispatches and musty volumes in the British Museum—such is the work that the Government of Canada has given to a little band of scholars in England and in France.

Under the direction of H. P. Bigger, formerly of Belleville, who is known in historical circles from Vancouver to Halifax and throughout the United States, and who bears the resounding title of Canadian Archivist in Europe, the enormous work of transcribing the records of the past is being carried on.

Mr. Biggar and his staff are not only making copies of every hitherto uncopied document in England or in France that relates to Canada's past, but they are searching as well for original documents for the Canadian Archives at Ottawa. Needless to say, the Public Record Office, the British Museum; the Bibliotheque Nationale in Paris, etc., refuse to yield to Canada the precious documents that they possess, but sometimes from some private collection valuable sidelights upon Canadian history find their way to the market.

For instance, the other day Mr. Biggar was able to purchase in Paris a navigator's quaint old map of the mouth of the St. Lawrence River, made about the year 1700. This will find a home in the Canadian Archives at Ottawa.

The Canadian Archives would have liked to purchase a collection of General Wolfe's letters that came to light not long ago. Canada was prepared to pay many hundred pounds for the valuable papers. Unfortunately, however, the owner has decided that his packet is worth 150,000. Rumor has it that he threatens to cut the autographs from the letters to sell them individually, a vandal suggestion that naturally gives uneasy moments to archivists and historians.

So vast is the task upon which Mr. Biggar and his staff are working in London and in Paris that it will be many years before their labors will be over. Mr. Biggar has already devoted fifteen years to the direction of the work. It must be remembered that Canada's original historical records are singularly incomplete, owing to the fact that in the past the capital was several times moved from one city to another, and more than once the parliament buildings with their contents were burned.

The Archives staff in Europe is copying all official papers dealing with New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island before 1841 (those of Quebec and Ontario up to that year have already been copied), and when the whole Dominion has been brought to the 1841 date line, work on the latter papers will begin. Very interesting are the dispatches of the Old Colonial Governors to the Secretary for the Colonies and the drafts of the replies that the Colonial Office made to them.

The fires of the Admiralty offer some curious old letters, copies of which are being made for Canada. Admiral Boscawon's correspondence from his flagship before Louisburg is all to be found there. So is the valuable correspondence of Admiral Knowles, who commanded the fleet at Louisburg between 1747 and 1750. Strangely enough, Knowle's correspondence was hidden for many years from Canadian searchers, because it was filed away under the Admiralty classification of "Jamaica." The Admiral took his fleet south in the winter time, it appears, and his Louisburg dspatches were classified with those he sent from the West Indies.

Those who have read Sir Gilbert Parker's famous Canadian historical novel, "The Seats of the Mighty," will remember that its hero, Capt. Robert Moray, was one of the officers surrendered to the French by Col. George Washington when his British force was defeated at Fort Necessity. Captain Moray spents several years in Quebec as a prisoner and is concerned in a series of dramatic adventures.

One wonders if Sir Gilbert drew his inspiration from a document in the possession of the Public Record Office. For Mr. Biggar can show a manuscript in the handwriting of a certain Robert Stobo, a captain in the British army, who was actually surrendered by Col. Washington, and who spent several years under surveillance in old Quebec. The young officer escaped from the fortress, and after a host of thrilling experiences, arrived at Louisburg where he reported himself to the British admiral. There on the flagship young Stobo wrote for the benefit of the War Office not only the story of his own escape, but all the information he had gathered of the fortifications and garrison of Quebec, information which was later used by General Wolfe.

Capt. Stobo's own quaint account is in the Public Record Office, and a copy of it has gone to the Archives at Ottawa. The original, it happens, is filed in the Leeward Island correspondence and therefore long eluded pursuit by Canadian historians. The flagship betook itself south after leaving Louisburg and bore the gallant officer's report with it. Cross indexing systems, it will be realized, were not known in government offices in the eighteenth century.

One of the most interesting unexpected of the recent finds of the Canadian Archives Department in Europe has been the discovery in the British Museum of the letter books of a certain J. Calcraft, who appears to have been the Cox and Company of his day. Known as the "army agent," he was evidently the banker in whom the British officers in New England and the colonies reposed their financial trust during the years between 1750 and 1760.

Calcraft wrote frequently from London to Loudon, Abercrombie, Webb and their comrades in America—long personal letters full of the gossip of the day. In January, 1759, for instance, he writes a letter to Amherst, commander-in-chief of the forces operating against Canada, to tell him of the great preparations being made for the expedition of General Wolfe, and of the high hopes that England is placing in the success of the campaign.

Very few know or appreciate the vast work for Canada that Mr. Biggar and his staff are carrying on vigorously in the dusty record offices and manuscript rooms of the Old World.
